LETTERS TO BEAR

NORTHEAST TEXAS FART

Just a note to compliment you on Issue 21. It was an excellent issue in every sense of the word. You and your crew put out the finest publication I have ever received, and there are truly no words to express how much I enjoy BEAR and how anxiously I await its arrival.

I was particularly moved by your epilogue to Firehouse #7. I guess all of us who have even one ball of sensitivity have all felt that bitter-sweet sadness which you so eloquently described.

John and Joe Bear's pictorial spread was equally quite moving. Yes, it was very sensual and erotic but so much more than that...the spread has a genuine quality of sincerity about it: two good buddies doing what they both enjoy doing, and doing it together. In all of the porno mags I have seen over the years, I've never been affected by pictures like this before. Your photographer Steve Sutton certainly captured the real essence of man-to-man love with these shots.

Things are still pretty lonely in this ol' northeast Texas town.... 'course, being age 54 doesn't help, I'm sure. Since I didn't make it out until I was 40, 54 doesn't seem that old to me, but I guess it does to everyone else. Oh well, I'm finally out and proud of it.

Thank you for BEAR. It means a hell of a lot to me. Keep on doing just what you are doing because no one does it as good as you and your guys. Y'all take care.

G.S., Palestine, TX

Your comments about John and Joe Bear hit the nail on the head. Any magazine can be nasty. That's the easy part. We want BEAR to be more. Men should be sexy and warm, and both John and Joe Bear have a lot of positive energy. They're warm and inviting-looking. Steve Sutton has done a lot of our photography. He's talented, and works hard to bring that little extra across.

We've had our share of growing pains over the past few months, but we're settling in to our new digs just fine. We've christened the new office and now it feels like home. We heard a rumor that the old firehouse has been turned into a gay artist's studio and sex club. We're glad it's still in the family.

I saw your ad in Bears In Heat. You'll do fine.

THE WITTKE WIRE

A close personal friend of mine tells me that if there is any upside to the current economic woes in the US it's the absolute hunkiness of the majority of men he sees on his bi-weekly visits to the local unemployment office. "Look," he says, "I'm truly sorry that so many construction workers are out of work, but you should see the men I stand in line with when I go to pick up my checks. I've had to run home and beat off because I got so overwhelmed by the beards and the bulges and the tattoos. You should suggest a photospread for that magazine you write for. They could call it 'The Men of Unemployment.'" Consider it suggested, as well as my offer to help recruit.

After my friend told me about his jobless comrades I noticed that there were some changes taking place on magazine covers at my local newsstand. Business magazines like Forbes and Inc. are occasionally breaking out of the mold of featuring CEOs in blue pinstripe suits and power ties. Instead, these white collar big wigs are now being presented in tight, well-worn jeans, flannel or denim shirts with sleeves rolled up and hiking boots.

Although it's just a cynical attempt to look downwardly mobile in sympathy with struggling working stiffs (kind of on par with George Bush asking for a symbolic 10% salary reduction; gee, I'm worried he and Barbara won't be able to make ends meet) perhaps some of us can find pleasure in spunking a load or two all over the tastefully stubbled faces of these often-handsome men who still have their jobs.

Of course, keeping an eye on the other media for hunks of note could easily be a full-time job in itself. When this year's new TV season kicked in, I found myself asking, "Who will be this year's Dan Haggerty? or A?" Well, there hasn't been a whole hell of a lot of new furry meat in the first batch of shows, although there are a couple of prime specimens worth noting. Fortunately, some old favorites have returned in all their hirsute glory.

Keep an eye out for Peter Michael Goetz who plays wacky neighbor Kasurinsky on Linda Lavin's sometimes-very-funny comeback sitcom "Room for Two." With his bald head and salt and pepper beard, Goetz is a likely candidate for TV Daddy of the Year. Although the Kasurinsky character is generally shown wearing a bow tie, one early episode showed him clad in a robe with exposed chest fur that looked delectable. He also has a rather edible looking butt.

Runner-up in the Daddy-stakes could well be Nigel Terry in the probably short-lived "Covington Cross." Terry, the malicious moustachioed bad guy in Derek Jarman's film Edward II, has let the hair grow on his head as well as his face. He cuts a dashing bearded patriarchal figure in "Covington."

If you like your men bulky and bushy, you'll love the Dom DeLuise-esque Fred Applegate on Fox's one-note sitcom "Whoops!" It's sort of a "Gilligan's Island" for the post-nuclear-90s. If you prefer 'em a bit leaner (and with very fuzzy forearms) check out Nestor Serrano on the bizarrely named detective drama "The Hat Squad." Robert Clohessy sports a sort of young Hal Linden look on "Laurie Hill," which many media observers predict will have been canceled by the time you read this.

More likely to be around a while is "Love & War," which features the extremely hairy-chested Michael Nouri in a supporting role. Nouri played Jennifer Beals' love interest in that milestone of '80s film-making, Flashdance and on this show he plays a narcissistic actor. With a chest like that who wouldn't be stuck-up?

John Ritter's latest series "Hearts Afire" features a newcomer worth watching. Billy Bob Thornton plays a character named Billy Bob Davis, a balding and creatively out stubble-faced guy with a sexy Southern accent. In the third episode of the season he was shown wearing a sweatshirt that said "Yummy" across the front. Well, yes. Now let's see him with less sweatshirt.

BOOT LICKING

I'm sure you hear it all the time, and mine will be just another splash in a veritable sea of boot-licking fan letters, but I have to thank you for a truly superior publication. Cover to cover, BEAR possesses an inherent realism and intelligence that sets it apart from other gay magazines, which I find refreshing and exciting.

I love everything about your magazine. The columns by John Dibelka and Chris Wittke are always first rate; Walt Henry's and T.C.'s illustrations make my dick so hard, so fast, I almost faint; and let's face it, BEAR stories aren't just fiction as far as my hand and cock are concerned, they're just pure friction. I was delighted to discover in BEAR 19 that you are all just as sexy and bear-like as your work.

Congratulations on a job well done. I'd like to get away to San Francisco soon, and you can bet I'll drop in for a visit.

M.S.H., Van Nuys, CA
That's what we like to hear. The realism you talked about is my favorite part of coming to work in the morning. BEAR is about real men; a subject that doesn't get the recognition it deserves. The mail we get here at the shop isn't always a "veritable sea of boot-licking," but we know we're on the right track. I'll never forget a letter we got several years back from a guy who said: "For 20 goddamned years I've been grouching because I was a big, hairy, bearded beergut in a world that only wanted skinny hairless surfers. Now I find out that there are guys who want other guys like me. If I'd known this at age 18, it would have changed my entire life." We like being a part of that. And it doesn't exist without you guys out there, and our talented contributors. Come to think of it, the naked men don't hurt none, either.

ORDER-UP

Howdy! I just wanted to let all of you over there in 'Frisco know that I think that you are doing one hell of a job! Issue #21 is one of the best yet, from the colorful cover to the very last page. Mark Sessions: well, what can I say about this fella...whew! This man could eat crackers along with a few other things in my bed anytime! Keep up all of your good work and keep printing those good-looking bears in your rag. Glued to your pages.

L.B., St. Louis, MO

I called Mark Sessions. He'd like to eat biscuits and gravy in your bed, with a side of bacon and lots of grease. He drinks decaf, and asks that you wash the sheets first.

A BUTT REBUTTAL

A couple of years ago I fell in love with a certain bear who assured me, repeatedly and vehemently, that he was HIV negative and put me under heavy pressure to have unsafe sex with him. It hurt to refuse, for I loved the man and wanted to trust him; and it hurt, bitterly, when he broke off the relationship over my refusal. As events turned out, it was as well I did refuse, for he was lying.

Now he is dead. I wouldn't be writing to you about the experience except for the normally thoughtful and sensible John Dibelka's intemperate article There Ought to be a

BY CHRISTOPHER WITTKKE

Jeffrey Meek and Lee Majors co-star in the little-discussed "Raven" on CBS. Majors is more daddy-ish and dorky (and I mean that as a compliment) than "56 Million Man" fans could ever have hoped for.

Surprisingly, the hairiest man on a new series this season isn't even real. He's Wolverine, the crazed superhero star of the Fox network's animated version of Marvel's "X-Men" comic book series. It'll be interesting to see if the artists for the series take the same painstaking efforts to draw in each lock of hair on Wowie's chest, back and arms as the creators of the print version (Incidentally, another comic book hero who is often drawn covered with hair is the vigilante hero of "The Punisher" who's so right wing he has to be a parody).

Luckily, several hot men of note have returned on older series this season. It's always worth taking a gander at "Quantum Leap" in case compact and lightly fuzzy Scott Bakula is forced to occupy the body of a professional wrestler or a woman in a low-cut dress. The round and balding Michael Chiklis returned to his starring role in "The Commish," and is definitely a non-traditional-looking hero.

Fraser Crane, the resident wacky psychiatrist on "Cheers" is looking great with his Elizabethan beard. He also has an incredibly hairy body, which rarely gets exposed on the show. If they're showing reruns of seasons past in your area, look for the episode in which the guys take Fraser snipe hunting. Wait for the scene with the open and torn flannel shirt. It also seems that every time Kelsey Grammar, the actor who plays Crane, appears on a talk show, he brings up body hair as a topic of discussion. I am not making this up.

Friends report that Jonathan Frakes is aging like fine wine as Commander William Riker on "Star Trek: The Next Generation" and that Richard Moll (formerly Bull on "Night Court") is particularly sexy with a full head of hair and beard on the syndicated series version of the movie The Highlander.

If I had to pick the best male chest on a current television series, however, it would go to none of the above. My award winner would be Peter Onorati, Muriel Hemingway's co-star on "Civil Wars." Although it's only occasionally exposed, take my word for it: beneath those buttoned-down shirts lies a chest that is covered in thick, dark fur. Fortunately, Onorati's character Charlie Howell usually rolls up his sleeves to expose forearms like the young Burt Reynolds', and every once in a while he's shown sans shirt. It's definitely worth the wait.

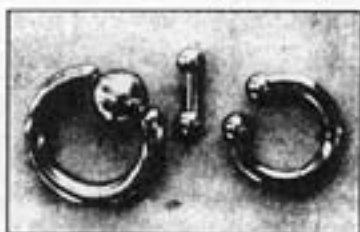

Onorati previously displayed his Italianate beauty on the short-lived and long-lamented "Cop Rock" where he played a despicably corrupt cop (who was almost raped in a prison shower while clad in nothing but a towel and singing a blues number called "You Can't Keep a Good Man Down." I'm not making this up, either). He also played a building superintendent on later episodes of "Kate and Allie." If ABC rebroadcasts the "Civil Wars" episode in which Charlie's parents almost divorce, remember these four words: DO NOT MISS IT.

If you're looking for fur in feature films seek out Alec Baldwin. The sweetly sentimental and subversively homosexual Prelude to a Kiss features several lingering scenes with shots of Alec's incredible chest. The film should transfer nicely to home video. Also, this fall I saw the release of the film version of David Mamet's Glengarry Glen Ross which not only stars Alec Baldwin but also the drooling hairy Ed Harris. It could prove to be the King Kong vs. Godzilla of the hyper-testosterone set.

Also worth mentioning is Cameron Crowe's incredibly hetero film Singles starring Campbell Scott. Was I so distracted by Fuzzy's beauty in Longtime Companion that I failed to notice that Scott has a chest that lands somewhere on the spectrum between Alec Baldwin and the young Sean Connery? It's only flashed on screen for a few fleeting moments in Singles, but I gasped audibly when I saw it. And you know I'm not making that up.

Law in BEAR 19.

I haven't seen Nick Ashton-Hart's article in the San Diego paper so I am obliged to rely on your author's reporting of its contents, but it seems that what has aroused Mr. Dibelka's spleen was Ashton-Hart's taking legal action against a man who had conned him into having unsafe sex.

Mr. Ashton-Hart appears to have behaved badly; if he did indeed contract HIV from the encounter, surely he had other means of redress than the military courts. But the demand that it was he who should be locked up as a danger to the public bears out Grandma's advice that what you write in anger should be seen by no one other than the wastepaper basket. He's not too far from suggesting that anyone who catches HIV does so through criminal negligence or insanity and ought to be locked up. There will be plenty of people, in and out of the military, only too willing to agree with that.

Of course Mr. Dibelka is right in reminding us of our responsibility for our own safety and that it is plain stupid to engage in unsafe sex with anyone. But what about the man who lies about his HIV status in order to coerce someone into having unsafe sex with him? Does the gullibility of his partner absolve him of responsibility for his actions, and make it unthinkable to ask what his motives might be?

Alas, Mr. Dibelka, there are men who, knowing that they are going to die of AIDS, will try to take others with them.

As a follower of BEAR since the first issue, I'm delighted with the way it is fulfilling its early promise. Keep up the good work, and keep on being thought, as well as hard-on, provoking.

R.M., New South Wales, Australia
John Dibelka's column on the Aston-Hart episode is pretty fucking tough. It expresses the fear and frustration a lot of us feel about finding love these days. The bottom line is that it's a scary, dangerous world out there, and you gotta take care of yourself. Sounds like you're doing a good job of it. I don't know if I could have said no to a deal like that. Your determination is a good example that I hope people will read and take seriously.

We can't mediate your feelings against John Dibelka's here. John tells us what he feels, and makes us think on what we're going through, and that's what Bare Pause is all about. Thanks for telling us what you feel. It proves Bare Pause is doing its job.

By the way, I think we have the same Grandma. She's pretty cool, huh?

A CHANGE OF HEART

I have started studying the Bible with the Jehovah's Witnesses. And while I have learned many new things, one that stands most in my mind is that which is stated in Romans, Chapter 1, verses 24 through 27 about "males inflamed in their lust toward one another." And yet there is hope for us: First Corinthians, Chapter 6, verses 6 through 11 tells us that we no

TRUE LOVE AND DADDY TOO

Just thought I would drop a note saying I love your magazine. You guys do a great job putting it together and I can't wait for it to come. I'm not a bear myself: moderately hairy with a moustache, 6'2", 200 lbs., but I love looking at them. Especially men from 35 to 55 with that silver in their beards. The problem is I have a tough time meeting these individuals. I think part of it is that I'm 22 years old and they may feel embarrassed to be seen with me and that I may be too immature. I would like to correspond with some of the men in the personals, but it seems they either want: a) something right away; b) someone older than myself; c) another bear; or
d) two or more of the above. Well, I'm not promiscuous, I can't change my age and I don't consider myself a bear. I just want to write to someone and after a while, who knows? I'm frustrated, but still hoping. Thanks guys, and keep up the good work.

B.C., Gilbert, AZ

I'm glad you're keeping up with BEAR.
It's formative reading for men of all ages.

Thousands and thousands of men read through each issue of BEAR. Your letter supposes that every one of those people is looking for exactly the same thing, and you're not it. That's bullshit. It's too big a world for an attitude like that. Around here we don't think big, hairy bodies necessarily makes you a bear; it's having confidence in yourself and your own masculinity.

Run your own ad, and tell it like it is.
I'm convinced the only thing people really hate is dishonesty. If you have a picture, be it of your penis or your puss, send it in too. It won't be long before you have an older bearded man getting all hot and horny for you.

BUDDY

PHOTOGRAPHY BY STEVE SUTTON

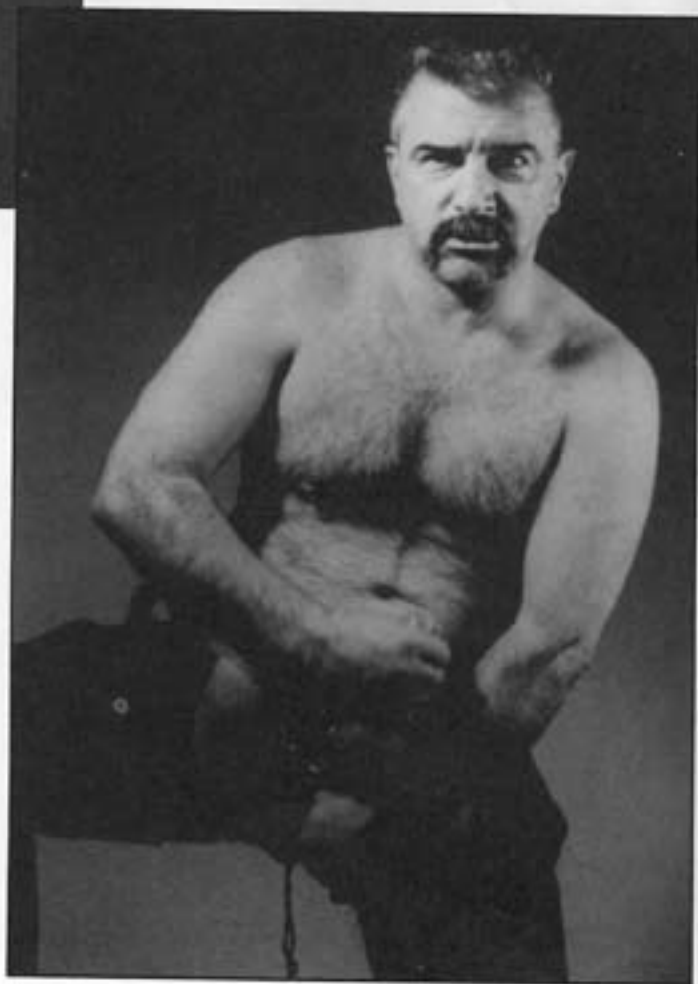

Buddy comes to us from the Midwest. He likes horses, rodeos and a relaxed way of life. At 5' 9" and 185. lbs he has definitely earned his nickname, Big Bear. He says that posing for BEAR has been a long-time fantasy, ever since he realised how much he was into bears. During the photo shoot he invited his friend Alex to join in. You might recognize Alex. He spread his butt for us in issue #20.

Home Cookin'

by T.C.

!WHOA BUNGIE!

The last Home Cookin' involved what can be done with bungee cords. Well, here's another little something I discovered after years of getting cramps in my legs by squatting on a dildo to the point where I couldn't even kick over my bike, my legs were so sore. I thought about this after cutting wood for this winter, and as ya'll can imagine it's pretty hard work; I tend to get hot and sweaty, which in turn makes me very horny. It just happened that I had some rope and bungee cords to tie the wood down for the trek back home, and a dildo I had left in my back pack after a visit with a real hot man from SF.

Here's how it works:

Get into an old pair of Levi's with the crotch ripped out. Put the hooks of two strong bungee cords under each side of the waist band (not through, as the waistband will tend to rip more easily). Put the hooks at the other end of each bungee through a loop at the end of a strong rope which you have tied to a beam or tree limb or whatever will be more than strong enough to hold twice your weight. Lengthen or shorten the rope to whatever height suits you. If you're not sure the cords will be tough enough, just add one or two more. If you use more than one bungee, I found it's best to bind them together to make one and to wear a belt.

PS - Hey, bros, how about some input? I've gotten a lot of mail telling me how much you've liked Home Cookin', and how what you've tried kept your dicks hard and gotten your nut. But I know that there are at least a few of you out there who have come up with obscenely imaginative home-brew gear that the rest of us would like to hear about. How about sharing it? Just outline the general idea and send it to me here at BEAR and I'll show it in a future Home Cookin'. The more twisted or perverted, the better. Just make sure it's physically possible and not injurious!

RUSSIAN NIGHTMARE

By Mark Bromberg

There's one thing I like as much as talkin' a long-haired, wild-eyed Southern boy into bed, and that's talkin' to one of 'em about wrasslin'. A couple of friendly bourbons knocked back at a roadside joint, some Bocephus tune on the jukebox and bam, the boys just go at it, who's really better: Dusty Rhodes or Jim Duggan, talkin' in those deep ball-achin' drawls that sound like honey drippin'.

Now when it comes down to it I'd like to try whittlin' on Hacksaw Duggan's big two-by-four if I ever get the chance. A couple of years back though, I coulda gotten myself into a dicey situation with those good ol' boys at the bar by tellin' 'em that nothin' wore out the zipper on my jeans faster than watchin' that no-good, double-crossin' all-around bad guy, Nikita Koloff.

Man! Two hundred eighty pounds of sweat 'n muscle, a fierce-lookin' handlebar 'stache ridin' the squarest jaw in the free world, with shoulders so big they had separate zip codes, packed onto a six-foot-five skyscraper with deep, brown eyes.

For a while he wrestled as the Russian Nightmare in the NWA, tossin' the prettyboys around and beatin' up the good guys. I'd nearly wear my dick down to nothin' watchin' him use the Russian Sickle to finish off other prime man-eatin' stuff like Magnum TA and Billy Jack Haynes. He was so damn strong he could pick up a 260-pound grizzly like Billy Jack and make him submit with a bearhug.

I followed his career for years, watchin' him wreak havoc with those good-lookin' American bears, and wonder what it would be like to feel him pick me up in that bearhug and make me submit, his huge paws wrapped around my chest.

I could add eight inches to my jeans just thinkin' about hugging his thick neck and shoulders, my dick rubbin' his thick fur and spillin' it all over his twenty-one inch arms.

One weekend I was travellin' by train from Atlanta to Charlotte to see my brother who had tickets for a tractor pull at the Charlotte Coliseum.

I like trains and the way they feel, like a long slow fuck that just won't quit. That real metal-on-metal sound and the rumblin' of the engine get my pole halfway up while I'm just sittin' in the traincar.

About an hour out of Atlanta I made it back to the club car to get a good buzz on some Bud, and to look for any promisin' manmeat. Even if it's just some good time fishin' talk, I can always enjoy those coupla hours on a train lookin' into some friendly furry face with those inviting Southern eyes.

I bought my Bud and looked around. Nothin' but a coupla suit 'n ties, one pretty-boy who smelled like he'd used the perfume pack from a GQ ad all over himself, and me. So I sat down for a minute to think about this worthless bunch, waitin' for my luck to change.

God damn, son, did it ever! Five minutes later I'm suckin' out the last of the Bud when Koloff himself walked through the fuckin' door!

Watchin' him sway with the rhythm of the train as he made his way through the car made my nuts ache. I could feel my dick pushin' at my jeans, ready to pop out and say howdy to the big Russian. And just when he passed me, he turned his huge moustache toward me and growled hello.

Shit, I was gonna explode right there! But he walked on by into the dining car and I watched as his back and massive shoulders shifted weight easily to keep up with the motion of the train.

As soon as I could stuff myself back into my jeans and stand up, I went to get another beer. If I was gonna talk to the Russian Nightmare I was gonna have to get some help, and if Jack Daniels couldn't be here, Bud would push me into it.

The big bear was back before I even got to the bar, 'cause there wasn't a table in the dining car available. Shit, this was gettin' too good.

Koloff and I passed each other, and seein' as how I'm only 5 foot 7 and 150 pounds, he was real polite in not knockin' me over as we crossed paths. Damn, he was a big boy. He looked at me straight on and stepped aside, lettin' me go first, and I mumbled somethin' that I hope sounded like "thanks" to his massive tits.

I watched the man mountain walk really easy-like, not smilin' exactly, as he went up to the bar and got a soda.

I sat down, and so did he, far enough away that indicated he didn't want to be bothered, but not to the end of the car, either.

He pulled out a copy of the Charlotte paper and started to read, while I began to think about lickin' the sweat from his pecs and arms, and feelin' my meat get harder and harder.

I looked over, and the big bear's face was behind the newspaper but that still left plenty of manstuff to dream about. His thighs and crotch were covered in jeans, and spread-eagled, the way guys do when they're thinkin' about somethin'.

He flipped the pages and saw me lookin' at him. He nodded a little, not really lookin', and went back to readin' the damn thing.

I was thinkin' so hard about feelin' my dick in the bear's hairy hole I was gettin' wet. As Nikita slowly turned the pages I caught the flash of a smile - did he see my rock hard cock makin' a tent in my jeans?

Well, it didn't take long to imagine the Russian Nightmare and I were alone in that car as it rocked back and forth.

I sucked at my beer, wonderin' just what he would do if I stood up, unzipped my fly and showed him my drippin' big hard on, askin' if he'd wrassle with me.

The big guy would laugh rough and say, "You don't wrestle Nikita. I tear you apart." Then, gettin' serious, he'd grab a hold of my jeans and yank 'em down around my knees, so I couldn't move.

Shit, I thought, he's gonna tear my head off.

He wasn't smilin' as he reached for me and pulled my shirt over my head, exposing my own hairy chest and belly. But then he pulled the shirt all the way off so that I could see that Nightmare had stood up and was flexin' his furry tits in my face.

"You like that," he'd say, more as a command than a question. Jesus, did I! The huge grizzly was tuggin' at his own jeans now, pullin' hard to get his Levi's over his big, muscled thighs.

The rough jeans had the same effect on Koloff as they had on me. His dick rose straight out and he started to play with it, pinchin' and slappin' it till juice began to glisten on the big head.

I felt so small next to the huge Russian I didn't say a word. I knew I wanted to ride the Nightmare's big rod and feel me inside him too, but he looked like one mean mother. He musta sensed my hesitation. "Huh," he said. "I like you, little man." Cuppin' my balls then he growled, "Come here, comrade."

I could feel his fur brush my back as he lifted me from behind, his dickrod huge and stiff as he sat me on top of it, first rubbin' it in my crack as if he were knockin' hello.

And then with one huge hairy paw wrapped around my chest, he lifted me just enough to get his other paw around the dick and began to work it in. I thought the big dude was gonna split me, it hurt so fuckin' much, but his breath on my neck and the gentle easy way he was holdin' me up let me know that this man wasn't a Nightmare, just a horny friendly bear who wanted some honey.

So I started to rise up to meet him. He began to stroke, slow at first, and with all my weight I pushed back into his muscled belly. His dickfur brushed my ass, his balls were bangin' hard on my asscheeks, and this two hundred eighty pound monster was fuckin' me while I hung in midair!

We were really worked together now. His arms were wrapped around me tight as a cage and I could lean on the fuckin' things for leverage as he slammed into me.

I felt his 'stache on the back of my neck, and then he began to bite at my ears kinda playful but serious, like a bear with a new mate. His dick was really wet now and slid inside me easily.

Every time he stroked, my cock would pop up and down. He looked at the pulsing vein as it jerked, gettin' bigger and bigger. He reached around and grabbed hold of the wet pole and began to stroke it.

He was jerkin' me off at the same time he was pumpin' inside me, like he had two cocks of his own to play with.

I was breathin' wild, almost gaspin' for air, with the grip he had on me, but every time I moved he just grabbed tighter. I kicked out of my jeans tryin' to give the big Russian more, and I thought he was gonna squeeze all the air out of my lungs.

Suddenly he put me down so my feet were touchin' ground again, but he didn't let go of me. Instead he pushed me forward, almost crushin' me with his legs across one of the tables, so I was bent over with my ass high in the air.

He began to grunt, and then shouted somethin' in Russian, as he rubbed us both across the top of the table. My dick exploded from the friction, and I knew the big bear behind me was about to fill my guts with his juice. His hot, sweaty fur was wiping me in man-scent when he shouted and my belly felt his warm load of cum inside it.

He lay on top of me for a minute, exhausted and panting, stroking my back and shoulders. His dick slid out, bigger - even soft - than mine, with a full head, and he stood up, rubbin' his pees with a hairy paw.

Even at my full height I came up only to Nikita's massive shoulders, but it was a perfect height to start lickin' those slabs of muscle with that thick carpet of fur. His tits were hard, so I began to manhandle the tight nipples.

Koloff grinned, a big bearlovin' grin, and began to nuzzle my head and neck first with his big paws, and then his lips and 'stache.

Damn, I thought I'd shoot again just from standin' there smellin' him, but I had another idea.

I began to lick his chest and pits, workin' my tongue into the deep groove where his hair was funky with manscent, workin' my way across his broad pecs. There was more manstuff there to eat than I'd seen on one goddamn man, let alone this friendly bear, and I wanted all two hundred eighty pounds of it.

Koloff laughed, and with one hand he stroked my hair as I worked his chest. The other he put between my legs. His hand felt like a big furry animal down there, and he rubbed it back and forth over my dick knob.

Now I was stickin' straight out, brushin' the jeans he had pulled down exposing his meat and thighs. Drips of juice began to darken the light blue of the faded material.

I took a step closer into him as he massaged my head. His other hand came around and cupped my ass, forcin' my dick to bang up against his meat and up his tight belly. I began to pump now, usin' his belly as a fuckmat, till my eight inches were sore as hell and my balls were achin' from beatin' on his rod.

"I'm crazy to come," I said to him, and he nodded. "Turn around," I breathed, and the huge man obeyed me without a word.

The big Russian bear leaned his weight on those two massive arms as he stood up against the wall. I started to kiss the huge back, licking the shoulders, and rubbin' around his asscrack that looked big enough for two dicks. This was gonna be like fuckin' a grizzly.

Slowly I worked my fingers up his crack, and he moaned real low. His big cheeks spread easy, and I pulled out my fingers, wrapped 'em around my pole, and pushed my way in.

He stiffened up kinda just to make it last a little longer, and then pushed back from the wall to help me get in all the way.

He wiggled his ass around, tryin' to get a good fit, and I wrapped my arms around as much of the damn mountain I could grab onto.

It seemed like the big dude was enjoyin' it, feelin' my eight inches up his ass, a hundred and fifty pounds on his back seemin' light as a feather. I was pushin' and pushin' into the grizzly and he was swayin' back and forth, rockin' with his arms, givin' me a good ride.

Then he fucked with me. Real quick he took his arms from the wall and just stood up straight, six foot five into the air, and wrapped his big arms around my ass, piggyback style.

He was makin' sure I fucked him like he wanted, positioning me inside him, usin' my dick as a buttplug. I had to grab hold of his tits to keep my balance, and I felt like I was dinkin' to the bear's big muscles for my life. His balance was quick and easy as he rubbed me inside him and he was so damn huge my feet left the ground with every stroke.

My balls were achin' from poundin' at his ass and my dick was ready to split wide open, but he wasn't ready to quit yet.

With me holdin' on he backed up to a table so I could get my balance. It slid under my ass like a chair, and then the big bear began to sit on my cock, leavin' just enough room for him to move up and down on it as he wanted. My balls flopped up against his huge thighs, and I saw that the grizzly had one big paw around his own tool and was pumpin' like crazy.

"I gotta come, man," I whispered to him, and he grunted. The bear rocked on top of me faster and faster till I figured my cock was gonna explode and take half of Koloff's belly with it. I put my arms up around his big neck and pulled myself into him, coming in thick, steaming spurts inside him, feeling the slippery juices fill him up.

His own rod, ten inches of blue vein and thick muscle, was ready to spurt, and he was so intent on jerkin' the huge rod that I couldn't pull out, so I rested on his heaving back, feelin' the fur there.

In one arching spasm Koloff's cum landed on his shoulders, glistening in the fur. Then he let me up, turning around so I could lick the white strands off the big man's muscles. He reached down and grabbed me by the balls, placing a big tongue inside my mouth, tasting his own juice there.

Finally, the Russian Nightmare picked me up and, like a dream, gave me a gentle bearhug. I put my legs around his muscled hips and locked my mouth on his, feelin' the warm fur of his enormous torso on mine. It was a dream I'd waited for a long time...

...And when I came back to myself in the club car I had cum in my jeans, a dark stain spreadin' bigger and bigger. Koloff had gone into dinner but I felt that talkin' to him would be a hell of a lot easier now that, in my dreams at least, we'd gotten to know each other so well!

So when I'm out drinkin' and messin' around with some good ol' country dick here in Georgia, and the talk starts runnin' to who really is the best wrassler in the world, I can at least say I've had the same kinda talk over dinner with my friend, Nikita Koloff, 'cause that's just what I did.

And who do you think Nikita ranked number one?

For Better or Worse

The DJ at the bar I work in summed it up for me the other day when I pointed out that he and my bartender buddy Tony and I were the only three people in the place but none of us could hear ourselves think.

"If the music's too loud," he sneered, "you're just too fucking old."

Good thing I knew he was joking. I'm too old for bare-knuckle dentistry on smart mouths, too.

Still, in a way, he was telling the truth. I, my friends, am middle-aged.

I know this because I am now as old as my father was when I stopped thinking of him as God.

I know it because I am starting to reminisce to the kids in cutoff jeans and combat boots I am meeting and serving these days, in the bar.

"When I was your age..." I have said to more than one of these skinny boys with their James Dean jackets and their Barbra Streisand hair, but so far I've managed to stop myself at that, with a shrug. The day I actually tell them what life was like when I was their age I will know I have passed through middle-age and gone directly to senile, probably without passing GO and certainly without collecting any two hundred dollars.

But, dammit, life was different when I was their age.

So was I.

Fifteen years ago I was a stretcher jockey—a hotshot certified Emergency Medical Technician—piloting an ambulance and working in a hospital emergency department.

Later I earned a degree in Medical Laboratory Technique and began spending my days, in one friend's words, "peering into other people's bodily secretions." That ended the day I ran my own Western Blot. I decided that, with a positive antibody status, I'd be better off spending my days someplace other than brightly-lit rooms full of germs. I opted out of medicine.

Or so I thought. It's sort of like riding a bicycle. You get a little rusty and the equipment looks different from what you learned on, but when you have, to you can pedal down the pike with the best of them.

I had to, last night at a party.

My big buddy Bo has a seizure disorder. Epilepsy. The seizures he has are called grand mal, from the French words for "big" and "bad." Lousy name, but it's stuck so far deep in most doctors' memories it'll probably never change.

Grand mal seizures are big. I guess you could say—they're certainly dramatic—but to say they're bad is a judgment I don't like at all. They can be messy, and dangerous if they happen to someone who's driving or operating some kind of tool or some heavy machinery, but in most cases they're probably harder on the people who witness them than they are on the person who's having one.

Mostly, they're dehumanizing. They take everything lovable, predictable, what you might call "normal," about someone we love and hide all that away while his body flops around making very ugly noises and performing biological acts not too often witnessed in public.

Epilepsy can usually be controlled with medication. One thing you don't want to do if you have seizures is go off your prescription drugs. Another is to drink alcohol, especially too much. It also helps if you don't let yourself get overheated.

I knew Bo wasn't taking his meds, though I'm not sure I understand why. When I got to the party he was bombed off his ass and sitting right in front of the fireplace. I sat in the chair standing next to him, feeling kind of ghoulish, but waiting.

It took about five minutes. Tony and I grabbed him when he started convulsing, dragging him out to the middle of the room to keep him from burning his head in the fire or breaking it on the stones of the hearth. After that we let him go and watched to be sure he was breathing okay.

It was no big deal. When he didn't come out of it the way I thought he should I called the paramedics, in spite of the fact that he hates doctors and hospitals. They did a few things differently than I would have, but I'm not certified anymore and the last thing any professional needs in a situation like that is to have some smartass second-guessing him. Or her. I stayed out of the way and watched as Bo got high-quality medical care and the party sort of fizzled.

Afterwards, Bo was embarrassed, and sent me a note saying "Thanks for your help when I spazzed." I told him he should be embarrassed, but only because he ought to take better care of himself, not because he seized. Then I said he was entirely welcome.

I also told him I still love him and anybody who doesn't, didn't anyway and to hell with them. Marriage isn't the only relationship designed to last through sickness and health.

Strangely, though, the single detail about that evening that stays clearest in my memory was something one of the paramedics scrawled on the run sheet—the written record ambulance crews keep of every call they answer.

I don't know if anyone asked or if someone volunteered the information, but Bo, too, is HIV-positive. When I glanced over the shoulder of one paramedic I saw he had scratched "AIDS" in big, ball-point letters across the center of his notes, then underlined and circled it. I was a little bit stunned.

There are valid medical reasons for wanting this information about anyone you treat. There are equally valid moral reasons for giving it to anyone providing your health care. The way it was noted on that run sheet, though, looked like the writer had blown it up out of proportion.

It reminded me with a start that most of the people I see every day still don't know much about AIDS. It's a medical condition some people have. Like with epilepsy, the thing to remember is not to let the condition become more important than the person. Learn as much as you can and treat people as people.

The problem is, a lot of people don't seem to want to learn.

Which is why those kids with the loud music and the wierd pants and the funny hair are on the streets when they feel they need to be, screaming things like, "We're here! We're queer! Get used to it!" and forcing themselves into the faces of folks whose jobs are to help other people, but who seem to ignore most of us altogether.

I don't agree with a lot of ACT-UP's methods, or Queer Nation's, but after reading that run sheet, I've decided I'm glad they're out there. When I was their age I was too fucking polite. Maybe I still am.

But they're not. Life is different these days.

Even though that makes me feel old, I'm glad.

NOV

6-15 November 1992. The Chicago International Film Festival. You've seen the posters. Now see the celluloid. Gay films from all over will be presented, and you should attend the screenings. Then you can gloat about it for the rest of the year: "Saw it. Hated it." It's being put on by the Chicago Film Makers. Call their hotline at (312) 281-8788. You may also write them at 1229 W. Belmont, Chicago, IL 60657.

7 November 1992. San Francisco. Rainbow Invitational Gloves Boxing Tournament. It's their first year doing this. The bouts start 2 p.m. at the Eureka Valley Recreation Center. Awards ceremony later at the Bear Bar on the Castro. You will have already missed the registration deadline by the time you're reading this, but if it's up your alley, go and check it out for next year. Call Jim at (614) 443-4937 or Greg at (415) 255-7361 for direct info.

13-14 November 1992. New York. Leatherfest Weekend and Mr. NY Leather Contest. Big party, many of your favorite vices. Contest takes place that Saturday at The Roxy, 515 W. 18th Street, 6:30 - 11:00. Tickets are $20 at the door. Call the GMSMA People at (212) 727-9878 for the low-down.

13-15 November 1992. West Florida Leather Jamboree. It's a campout in the Florida countryside. Camping, RV's, the usual shit. You know what happens when you wear leather in a Florida jungle. You sweat. And stink. No showers. Sign up quick. (813) 787-4957.

12-13 December 1992. A ski trip in central Michigan. The two arms of the Great Lakes Bears group will converge around your body and take you on a weekend in the snow. Exact site to be determined. You haven't lived until you've seen a 230-pound guy with his skis and poles all fucked up, ass sticking out of the snow, cussing up a storm. You can later buy him a drink in the lodge, and offer to rub his sore muscle. The lift tickets are $30; the condos are $50, the condoms are $0.50. Call (312) 248-7507 for info and updates.

31 December 1992. It's New Year's Eve. Why are you sitting here by yourself reading a dirty magazine? Go out and bang a pot with your neighbor. Read us tomorrow instead. We'll be right here.

7 February 1993. San Francisco. If you can't make it to Sydney for Mardi Gras, hang around San Francisco for the Celestial Krewe de Cuir's Fifth Bal Masqué (that's French for Masked Ball, épece de brut provençal) They're crowning a new King of Leather if you're well for that. Write Celestial Krewe de Cuir, 172 Haight Street #4, SF, CA 94102. Also takes place in N'awlins, only three hours earlier—and for three days hence, knowing them down there. Contact Global Travel Too, 4005 - 24th Street, San Francisco, CA 94114. (415) 647-4304.

Each Thursday at the Lone Star Saloon. Cigar Studs meets to stink up the place. Christ, "The Simpsons" are on too, and you can hardly see the screen. I guess that's a plus for some. The last Thursday of the month is when they really light up and get serious. The Lone Star, in case you haven't memorized this yet, is at 1354 Harrison Street in San Francisco.

Most Saturdays at the Lone Star Saloon. Truth is, God created Earth in five days - on Saturday he held a beer bust. So does the Lone Star. The theme and host will vary, but come check it out. See above for where to go.

Sundays at the Full Moon Sloop, Orlando. They like to have a cookout (oops, I almost typed cock-out) from noon to 7 p.m. After 9, if you have a beard, your second drink will be free. If you're gorgeous, all your drinks will be free, although the bar only buys the second one. 500 N. Orange Blossom Trail in Orlando.

Let Luke know about your event and you will experience great fame and no fortune.

IRS Trust Funds and You

It's getting to be that time of year again. Soon it will be time to go through the previous year and figure out how much extortion money the IRS thinks you owe it.

I've had several discussions with people who don't want to pay taxes. Their reasons range from the philosophical—why should I, as a gay person, pay money to the federal government for a military that discriminates against me and an immigration department that won't let me bring my foreign-born lover into the United States—to simple greed. Then, of course, there are people who believe it is their patriotic duty to pay their taxes and anybody who doesn't should go to jail.

Regardless of one's views on the justice of the tax system, there is little question that gay people get screwed under the current method. Since the feds don't recognize our relationships, we end up paying more than similarly situated heterosexuals do. Is this fair? No. But it's the law. More about that later.

I know some gay couples who claim on their tax form to be married, and who therefore take advantage of the tax breaks afforded to households. Since the IRS does not ask for copies of a marriage certificate, you can probably get away with that indefinitely. But it's illegal, and if you get audited you are looking at trouble. If a couple did that, and got caught, I think it would make a really interesting equal protection case, but I think it would ultimately be a loser.

A more interesting question is the one posed earlier: why should gay people pay taxes to a homophobic federal government? Is this just a little like Jews paying taxes to the Third Reich? Well, not quite: Bush hasn't sent us to the gas chambers yet, although I think Pat Buchanan would like to. A more appropriate analogy is probably whether blacks in the 1940s should have paid taxes to states that required them to sit in the back of the bus.

This, quite simply, is a civil disobedience question. As an attorney, and therefore an officer of the court, I cannot advise anyone to break the law; I can merely tell you what the consequences are if you get caught. I believe I can also tell you that this is an issue over which each person must come to terms with his own conscience.

Civil disobedience has a long and honored history, both in this country and worldwide. One of my greatest heroes of this century, Corrie ten Boom, was a Dutch lady who was sent to a concentration camp for hiding Jews from the Gestapo. Obviously what she did was illegal; that doesn't stop me from admiring her, and in her position I hope I would have the courage to do precisely what she did. Closer to home, the black civil rights movement owes its life to some large scale civil disobedience led by Martin Luther King and his associates.

If your conscience forbids you to pay taxes to support bigots, I'm certainly not going to try to talk you out of it, but neither can I legally offer you aid and comfort. As an attorney, I must advise you that that course of action has the potential to send you to jail and wreak havoc with your financial well being—if you get caught. One of the IRS's dirty little secrets is that the overwhelming majority of people who don't pay their taxes don't get caught. But you can't count on it. And it goes without saying that if you do become a tax rebel, don't tell anyone.

If you decide that you are going to pay your taxes, you have a legal right to arrange your finances in such a way that you pay the least amount possible. The Supreme Court has held that there is no obligation to arrange one's finances for the benefit of the government; if you can get a deduction for something, or otherwise rearrange your life to result in a lower tax liability, go for it.

I've had several people ask me about tax shelters. The theory behind most tax shelters is that control is more important than ownership. In other words, if my roommate goes off to Bermuda with his mother and leaves his car behind, he owns the car but it isn't doing him any good. If I borrow the car, I don't own it but I'm getting the benefit of it. Further, if I should have an accident, he is liable even though I was driving because he owns it.

Likewise, if you have access to money to pay your bills and keep food on the table, it doesn't really matter if you own the money. Many shelters set up a trust fund of one kind or another. The trust officially owns the money, but it is used for the benefit of somebody else. If that somebody else can access the money, does he really care that he doesn't own it? No. And, the benefit of this is that since he doesn't own it, he doesn't have to pay taxes on it.

This is also a really wonderful way to protect relationships from homophobic relatives; if you have a lover and one of you drops dead of a heart attack, if your assets are in trust the relatives can't touch them.

Now, having blown up that balloon, allow me to prick it: if you are a typical wage earner, making, let us say, $25,000 per year, setting up a shelter will be more trouble and expense than it will be worth. I'm going to charge you between $1,000 and $1,500 just to set it up, I'll probably charge another $500 per year to monitor it, and your tax savings aren't going to be that great. Unless you are doing it on principal to keep the IRS from getting your money, you are not doing yourself that big a favor.

The problem with these shelters is that ownership of your salary vests in you when you get your paycheck even if you immediately turn it over to a tax-free trust fund. It doesn't matter how brief a period of time the check is in your hands; you have to pay taxes on it. Therefore, shelters really work best for people who are self-employed, who have some say over the circumstances under which they get compensated, so that the funds can be paid directly into the tax-free trust before they are paid to you. If you own your own small business, a shelter may well work for you. It may also work if you can talk your employer into paying the trust fund rather than you, although the paperwork will have to be crystal clear that the money is not yours but the trust's.

The other problem with these shelters is that as the budget deficit continues to soar, the IRS is looking at them a lot more closely than it did a few years ago. Even though you can legally set one up by yourself, without the assistance of an attorney, I strongly discourage it. If you do it yourself and screw up, you may well have bigger problems than those you started with. If you are seriously considering a shelter it is imperative that you consult a good tax attorney.

Good luck in April.

THE RULES OF THE GAME

- 1. Replying to a BEAR™ Box Number. Write your letter, put it in an envelope and seal it. On this envelope, put the fella's box number IN PENCIL where you'd normally put a stamp. Put this letter along with $1 in a larger envelope and mail to us. That's BEAR, 2215R Market #148, SF, CA 94114. We always forward letters if you've done what's called for here. If you mess up—and particularly if (a) you don't put your note inside another envelope, and/or (b) you don't include a buck—we throw your handiwork away.
- 2. Constructing your ad. When you write out your ad, keep this in mind: talk a bit about yourself and be real clear about the types of folks you'd like to meet through your ad. As much as possible, avoid telling us who you don't want to meet. No "no fats, no feds, no Lithuanians" shit. Be positive. And if you aren't, we edit the shit out of the ad and turn you into more of a Pollyanna than you'd care to be.
- 3. Using the phone. If you're calling someone, keep in mind (a) time zone differences—if you don't know them, look in the front of the White Pages in a phone book; and (b) that the guy on the other end may not be able to or may not want to talk to you at the time of your call.
- 4. Abusing the phone. Don't. Or we'll eliminate them from ads.
- 5. Cost and duration. Personal ads are free if you're a BEAR™ BUDDY for the duration of your sub. Otherwise, they're 25¢/word/issue. Wanna change your ad? Send in $5. Wanna discontinue your ad? Write in and we'll pull it. Regardless of its duration though, you will have to pay to have a pulled ad reinserted.
- 6. Deadline for classifieds. For issue 23, it's November 25, 1992.
- 7. BEAR™ Box Numbers. Available to US subscribers. Free to Bear™ Buddies, including Foreign Buddies. Otherwise, tack on $5 to your ad. We forward mail once a week. A word to the wise: responses to your ad will be greater using your own address versus ours.
- 8. Personal vs. commercial ads. You know as well as I do what a personal ad is and isn't.
- 9. We reserve the right to edit personals. This right is exercised for editorial consistency and for clarity almost exclusively.
- 10. We reserve the right to refuse any ad for any reason whatsoever.

We'd like another portion of the good stuff, please. Together for seven years seeking to include someone else. Dad's 48, 4'5", 250 lbs., works out regularly. First son is 33, 5'10", 200 lbs., swims regularly. Second son must be versatile: Dad tops sexually but insistently, son bottoms. If you want, when you get here you can coax your brother for favors. Son likes body hair—okay with Dad though preference so far is for naked boy backside. We live private lives and aren't into costume or attitude, except for lusty play at home. We're safe and healthy, like to laugh, hope you are the same. Age, race, physical characteristics are important, but depend upon attitude and mix: we'll figure it out when we talk. Please, no hard drugs. Call (718) 397-5495. (33)

LIVE BEAR 2

10 Big Hairy Men

LIVE BEAR was the first film featuring exclusively hirsute men strutting their stuff in front of the camera. Four years later we bring you LIVE BEAR 2—ten men in solo action on a 120 minute video cassette stripping down for our camera, showing us what we want to see and telling us what we want to hear.

These are men who stopped by the BEAR offices and said, "Yeah, I'd like to do a dirty video". Real action by real guys who wanted you, fans of hairy men, to see them naked and to watch them play with themselves. No cover-up sound here either. The grunts, groans and dirty talk are here for your listening pleasure.

A Few Highlights From The Film

•John, a hungry bearded man who ends up deep throating the cameraman's hand.

•Stan, a handsome furry chested Southerner who has perfect aim with his body fluids; tasty.

•Brian, so butt crazed that he takes a bust of Beethoven and shoves it up his ass.

•J. Bradway, the hairy young bear who sucks his own penis then comes in his mouth.

QUEER COUNTRY

Who says you have to be a redneck straight man with a tightly clenched fist (and an even tighter ass) in order to sing the country blues? As hard as it may be to believe—especially given its considerable gay following—country music is conspicuously devoid of openly gay artists.

Then again, maybe it's not quite as hard to believe. Speculation about previously companion-free superstar Randy Travis' proclivities last year sent him sprinting to the hetero wedding alter at lightening speed. More recently, organizers of the Country Music Association awards could not even bear the queer connection of the now-common AIDS awareness ribbons, and persuaded audience members to don green, environmentally conscious ribbons instead.

Although the country music closet continues to overflow, there is at least one cowpoke willing to tell the truth. His name is Doug Stevens. As the leader of the Outband, the Tupelo, Mississippi native warbles such prideful, twangers like "Out In The Country" and "Every Time He Sees Me" at straight and gay bars throughout the US. Musically, Stevens straddles the fence dividing the traditional country/western of Buck Owens and the nouveau-pop of Garth Brooks. His voice has the worldly tone of a man who has been around the block once or twice, and it's set against cool arrangements of steel guitars and hoe-down rhythms.

After growing up in the South, Stevens initially bristled against his rustic environment and took his classically trained voice on the road with an opera company 15 years ago. But last year, after testing HIV-positive, the singer decided to go back to his roots.

"My boyfriend left me, and I thought I could get rid of the pain if I wrote a country/western song about it," he recalls. Before he knew it, Stevens had penned a batch of pro-gay country tunes and formed the Outband, in which all of the members are gay and lesbian.

MUSIC REVIEWS
BY LARRY FLICK

Needless to say the road to the Grand Ole Opry is tough when you're a queer whose set includes a cheeky tune called "Girlfriends." But Stevens refuses to compromise or conform. "k.d. lang gave up trying to change country music," he says, "but she's from Canada. I'm from the culture. I know how these people work.

After we become more known, I'll attempt to hit the big boys in Nashville. The more gay people get rights, the less ground homophobes have to stand on."

Stevens and company will be on the road throughout the fall and winter seasons. Don't miss your opportunity to check them out. You'll be pleasantly surprised.

If you like your music to have more of a rock-'n-roll bite, give "Laughing On Judgement Day" by Thunder a shot. This band, borne out of the Irish pub scene, specializes in slamming, blues-juiced jams that are heavy on raw guitars and whiskey-soaked vocals. The band aims for smarter lyrics than "fuck me hard," though (if truth be told) they are at their best during the raunchy "I'll Be Gone," which doesn't try to be more than a fast 'n loose guitar brawl.

Speaking of rowdy rockers, the Regulators pack a gun-totin', double-barrelled wallop on their self-titled debut album. The guys sing about drinkin' and sweatin' with their buddies and kickin' ass.

Flowery romantics need not apply. Best of the bunch are the racing "Need For Speed" and the rollicking "Let It Ride." Catch these guys live if you can - and bring some rope!

If you're hankering for something a little more familiar, then give R.E.M.'s new "Automatic For The People" a spin. Fans of the band are sure to appreciate the absence of the silly ditties that filled their last two albums. This time, there's more emphasis on introspective lyrics, contagious melodies, and complex musical arrangements. Michael Stipe's distinctive voice is complimented by subtle orchestrations, as well as delicate acoustic strumming. Food for the brain and soul.

Coming next issue is our long-in-progress round-up of cool bars and clubs around the US. These are the kind where real men gather for a good time and some good music. Needless to say, any and all tips are much appreciated. Just write me in care of this publication.

Bastard Out Of Carolina, Dorothy Allison
Dutton, $20.00.

There's a memorable quote from The Eagle's Hotel California:

Some dance to remember,
some dance to forget."

Substitute "read" for "dance" and you get a pretty good scheme for my second favorite recreational activity. Magazines, non-fiction, and wrap-me-up-and-take-me-away fiction are devoured then forgotten. This accounts for 99 percent of my book consumption. The remaining one percent is the difficult stuff—writing which hits home and makes me think. Mark Vonnegut's The Eden Express—a journey into the author's schizophrenic mind—did it; Carolyn Chute's The Beans of Egypt, Maine—a tale of being inescapably poor in the Northeast—did it. I count Dorothy Allison's Bastard Out Of Carolina as a one-percenter.

Like a healthy masochist proudly describing her latest flogging and humiliating experiences, Bone, the young bastard daughter of a dirt-poor cafe waitress, tells us about her step-dad's various incestuous assaults on her, her grandma's pissy stink, her best friend's incineration by fire, her uncles' incarcerations, and all sorts of other less than tasty vignettes accompanying her coming of age as Southern white trash.

Allison lays out a matriarchy, typical of most poor subcultures in Western society. The women know who they are, gain strength from it, and deal honorably with the societal scraps fed to them. The men are rebels with a cause but without a hope, continually caught up in and captured by economic and sociological games played by a seemingly more privileged culture. One senses from Bastard that, without men, these girls' troubles would be over. By example, the one woman who has pulled it all together is Aunt Raylene, a lesbian. If the book were longer, I think we'd discover Bone joining Raylene in her sapphic path.

Dorothy Allison is one of America's finest writers. She's also young, not angry, upfront about her lesbianism, and uncompromisingly honest about the nasty ways she likes to have sex. Bastard Out Of Carolina is her first novel, and one of the best pieces of literature I've come across in years.

Works And Other Smoky George Stories

Perry Brass

Belhue Press, PO Box 1081, Ridgefield, CT 06877
$9.95.

Works, And Other Smoky George Stories is a collection of short dirty stories written by Perry Brass, the poet muse of gay smut.

This book is great one-handed reading. True to Perry Brass' style, the images and eroticizations are very good: you get to almost taste the body parts. He takes dirty short stories into a new and better arena, partly because of his talents as a good poet, and partly by his ballsy, sensuous knowledge of sex. We know he knows how to fuck a man; reading it, you're guaranteed to spunk a load, as our Mr. Wittke so graciously puts it.

Although the short stories are more interesting and are written better than your average dirty-book-with-Tom of Finland-drawing-on-the-cover, they have a few glitches. They are rushed, and therefore a little cursory. I kept wishing Mr. Brass would let us savor a moment. But his stories never really pause to let the reader soak in what's happening. For example, in one short story, the main character gets up from fucking a guy and goes to the bathroom. He comes out to find the guy's head blown off by two hit men. This is exciting, but it doesn't work because we don't get to see what the character thinks about seeing his friend's head shot off. He just moves on, leaving us confused and unsettled. It was the same for the sex scenes. As mentioned, the images were good. But they were very detached. We just watch his characters sleepwalk through bars, snowstorms and some pretty good fucks.

His voice was a problem, too. Like most gay smut, you have to write it in first-person (I sucked his dick, as opposed to he sucked his dick) so you know what's going on, and who's grabbing who. That means the writer has to have different voices for different characters in each story, and they have to be believable. In this case, they weren't always true or consistent. His characters sounded like same New York queens trying to be butch on a cattle ranch.

Maybe I raked this book over the coals a little. If I want to find Hemingway in dirty stories, that's my problem. But Perry Brass is a cut above the rest of the genre. He's doing something good, and even though I know his next effort will be even better, the book still deserves a trip to the bookstore for a copy. It's a solid little volume; a good pressing. It'll withstand much spunking.

Hey! You!!

Are you one of those kind of guys whose dick gets hard at the sound of a Harley & ZZ Top? The smell and feel of greasy Levi's and lived-in leathers?

Does the idea of these things and the men who live it make your nuts ache? Me too! That's why I draw them. I think you'd be interested in the kind of work I do. For three bucks, you'll get my brochures. Ten bucks gets you my fully illustrated catalog. Tell me you're of legal age. Fly me a kite.

Here you go boys. We were able to snare this brown bear for ya. He's 6' 9", and 185 lbs. of grizzly. Having grown up in Arkansas, he has a hard-on for the outdoors. He says one of his fantasies is to take a man out to the woods and get down to some serious fucking by a stream. Rugged men with a good heart and sensitivity are what he's lookin' for. You better be ready for a good poundin' cause he says he likes to get himself into a man's ass.

A SWISS SAFETY AD

"Have you seen this sticker? It's our Swiss National hero, Mr. Wilhelm Tell (a nice piece of furry dude, by the way), with a rubber in his hand and his legendary arbalet in the other. This sticker is creating a national conflict here, as some federal authorities refuse to see the Number One Mr. Switzerland dealing with a gay issue, even if it's the National AIDS protection campaign.

Please keep on providing your readers men the way you do just now. Your magazine is great, first of all because the guys are more than attractive (John Beckman in BEAR 17 and Fred in BEAR 20 are beyond expectation). Also because it helps your European readers improve their English. To all of you guys at Brush Creek Media, friendly greetings from 'Sweet'-zerland!"

Thanks for the sticker—we put it up on the fridge here at the shop.

I never knew a picture of a dick to help out someone's English - you must be reading the articles, too. Good for you.

American Men Under The Blade

A lot of you have been sending us newspaper stories about an Alabama fireman forced to shave his bushy chest hairs. Seems he was going to get fired if he didn't. It got all the way to a federal trial, and the fireman lost.

The Detroit Free Press did a feature not long ago on how out-of-fashion male body hair is. According to them, "...body hair is getting the brush." Michelle Muller, a spokesperson for International Male catalog (the twinkie 'zine that pretends it's selling clothes but is really selling pseudo-Italian boys with smooth pecs and big baskets) is quoted as saying that men who care about their appearance these days shave their chests. It's pretty bad when words like this are coming from America's fashion people. Ms. Muller states she personally doesn't like hairy backs on men: "Poor guys, the ones who look like teddy bears really have it rough, I think."

The bitch needs therapy.

A male model in Dearborn Heights, Michigan says: "I've noticed in most magazines men don't have hair on their chests, unless you see them in BVD commercials—you know, those old jocks who can't play baseball or football anymore—they have tons of hair on their chests." This guy has been shaving his chest for years, because he thinks it's the only way he can get a modeling job.

The Washington Post recently reported: "It seems vanity's latest conquest is the hairy man. Nature's foliage, once the soul of virility, is an unsightly hedge." Ilo, a waxing salon in the District reports that they are definitely waxing more guys. "We're doing backs, shoulders, cheeks, chests, even buttocks." In the same article, Juliette Fellemann, a model editor at GQ, discusses their models' body hair: "If it's dark, thick and overgrown, well, that's pretty gross." This isn't the first time they've got it all wrong out there in Hetero-america.

We all have our opinions and tastes. That's not the problem here. The problem is that the people in charge of style are telling us, over and over, that the way we really are—be it hairy, skinny, fat, smooth or whatever—is wrong. They want us all to weigh the same, have the same strategically placed body hairs and, most importantly, to buy their clothes.

Last night I fell asleep on my best friend's chest. It probably was a little too hairy. His stomach has a little extra bulge to it, and he hasn't been a jock since 1970. But he turns me on more than anyone else I know. Why? Because he's real. It makes me want to send pubes to the editorial offices of GQ, just to shake 'em up, and to let them know I'm not buying their idea of hot and sexy.

If you're not buying it either, just stick with us. We won't let you down.

WHET DREAMS

by J.S. Adams

The still of the humid August night was broken by yet another soaking, albeit brief, rain. Guilty of more damage than good, humidity levels were merely pushed higher. Final raindrops continued their earthward descent off leaves, down tree trunks, onto grass, pulled by gravity to their final destination, seeping into the ground.

Beads of sweat ran in similar patterns from my forehead, arched by my eyebrows, ran along the edge of my beard, toward the corners of my mouth. Thirst was rewarded with a briny taste. I continued to run my tongue across the tip of my moustache and leaned back further in my chair trying to catch the possibility of the faintest breeze. The feeling of coarse facial hair against my tongue, flavored with salty sweat, started my mind wandering...

I eased him back while continuing to work my mouth over the dark pelt covering his chest. Past his nipples, working patterns into the hair and across his stomach. Loosening his belt, I popped the buttons on his jeans, continuing to work through the fur, inching further down to discover hard flesh amidst all that dark fur, to welcome the taste of hot, uncut dick into my mouth...

"Garrett!"

I bolted awake, falling backwards with the chair.

"Garrett, wake up, you screwy asshole!"

Towering above me were Carl and Wayne. At this hour, decent townfolk were heading to bed; Carl and Wayne's waking hours were just beginning. Any pretense I held for a quiet evening had officially ended, shattered to bits.

"Will you look at that!" Wayne joked, drawing Carl's attention to the obvious bulge in my jeans. "I think this boy was having one of those wet dreams. Damn wet, too," he punned mercilessly as he motioned to the puddled remnants of the shower scattered across the front sidewalk.

Ouch! In the weeks after I'd first moved here, I befriended them hoping to enliven my usually staid composure and hopes of survival in this sleepy, Southern town. I now questioned that decision as one of those semi-acceptable sharp turns one sometimes makes in life. And right now, one-half of that ziggurat was laughing his fool ass off at my expense.

"Asshole!" was the best I could muster as the more obliging Carl helped me to my feet.

"Shithead!" Wayne countered.

"Wet-assed fuckhead!" In one fell swoop, my vocabulary had both increased and degenerated.

With a broadening grin, Wayne rejoined, "Cocksucker!"

Did I correctly sense increasing enjoyment in this combat?

Perhaps. "Redneck cracker!"

Suddenly, silence.

A gentleman's unspoken agreement about honoring fine Southern lineage had just been breached. Our civil war of retorts ground to an immediate cease-fire. Wayne and Carl simply stared, first at me and then at each other.

"Yankee shit," Wayne muttered under his breath. Shaking his head, he walked further down the porch. A hollow victory.

"Fuckin' hot tonight!" Wayne expressed to no one in particular as he stopped at the far end of the porch. Pulling a bandana from his back pocket, he lifted his long, peppered beard to wipe his neck. A futile gesture, as the collar and pits of his Georgia Tech tee-shirt were already well patch-marked with sweat.

"Weather like this gets me to thinking about cutting all this off." His dark features were framed by a length of beard I doubt had seen a razor for years, if ever, and thick, uncombed black hair. His urbanized mountain-man features were matched by well-worn boots and oil-stained jeans, and along with his t-shirt, he looked disheveled in a threatening sort of way; a look that I found sexy as all go. Carl was easily his red-bearded counterpart, although white-collar employment dictated a more groomed, trimmed version. Yep, either Wayne or Carl would be welcomed bedmates, but as the new guy in town—and the "Yankee shit," no less—I wasn't too open about searching out the possibilities. A double entendre was ventured now and then, to no avail. My unfortunate slander of a few moments earlier would now only further serve to diminish the remotest chance of discovering the pleasure of these two fine men. Fuck! Wayne was right, I am a shithead. A stupid, horny shithead.

"Fuckin' humid. And this rain ain't helping worth jack neither. Christ, I wish I could get away from work. Ride to someplace more relaxing," he motioned to Carl. "Since you defected and took that pansy-assed desk job, everything is backed up for weeks."

Wayne's conversation rambled into his usual complaints about work and the weather. I listened halfheartedly, my interest twining itself more through his thick drawl than through his words. Damn, I was pure sucker for a deep Southern accent. It only served to make him and Carl even more desirable.

Now totally oblivious to Wayne's diatribe, I started to fantasize further about the possibility of getting it on with him. I wanted to hear that thick accent wrap itself around "Yeah, you suck a mean dick," or "Shit, man, I'm cumming," not wasting its smooth, sexy color on "gear ratios," "bad credit," or "piss-ass humidity."

Suddenly, I became strangely aware of Carl leaning against the porch rail. Leaning and...staring.

"Garrett? Garrett! Hey, jerk!" Wayne exploded, realizing that his meteorological and career tirades had fallen on deaf ears.

Deja vu. In truly embarrassing vaudevillian style, his shouts broke my introspection and helped gravity once more pull the chair out from under me, leaving me flat out on the floor.

"You deserved that! You unbelievably lame son of a bitch!" Wayne burst out amid deep laughter.

"Shut the fuck up and help me out of here!"

But no help was forthcoming as Wayne was now doubled

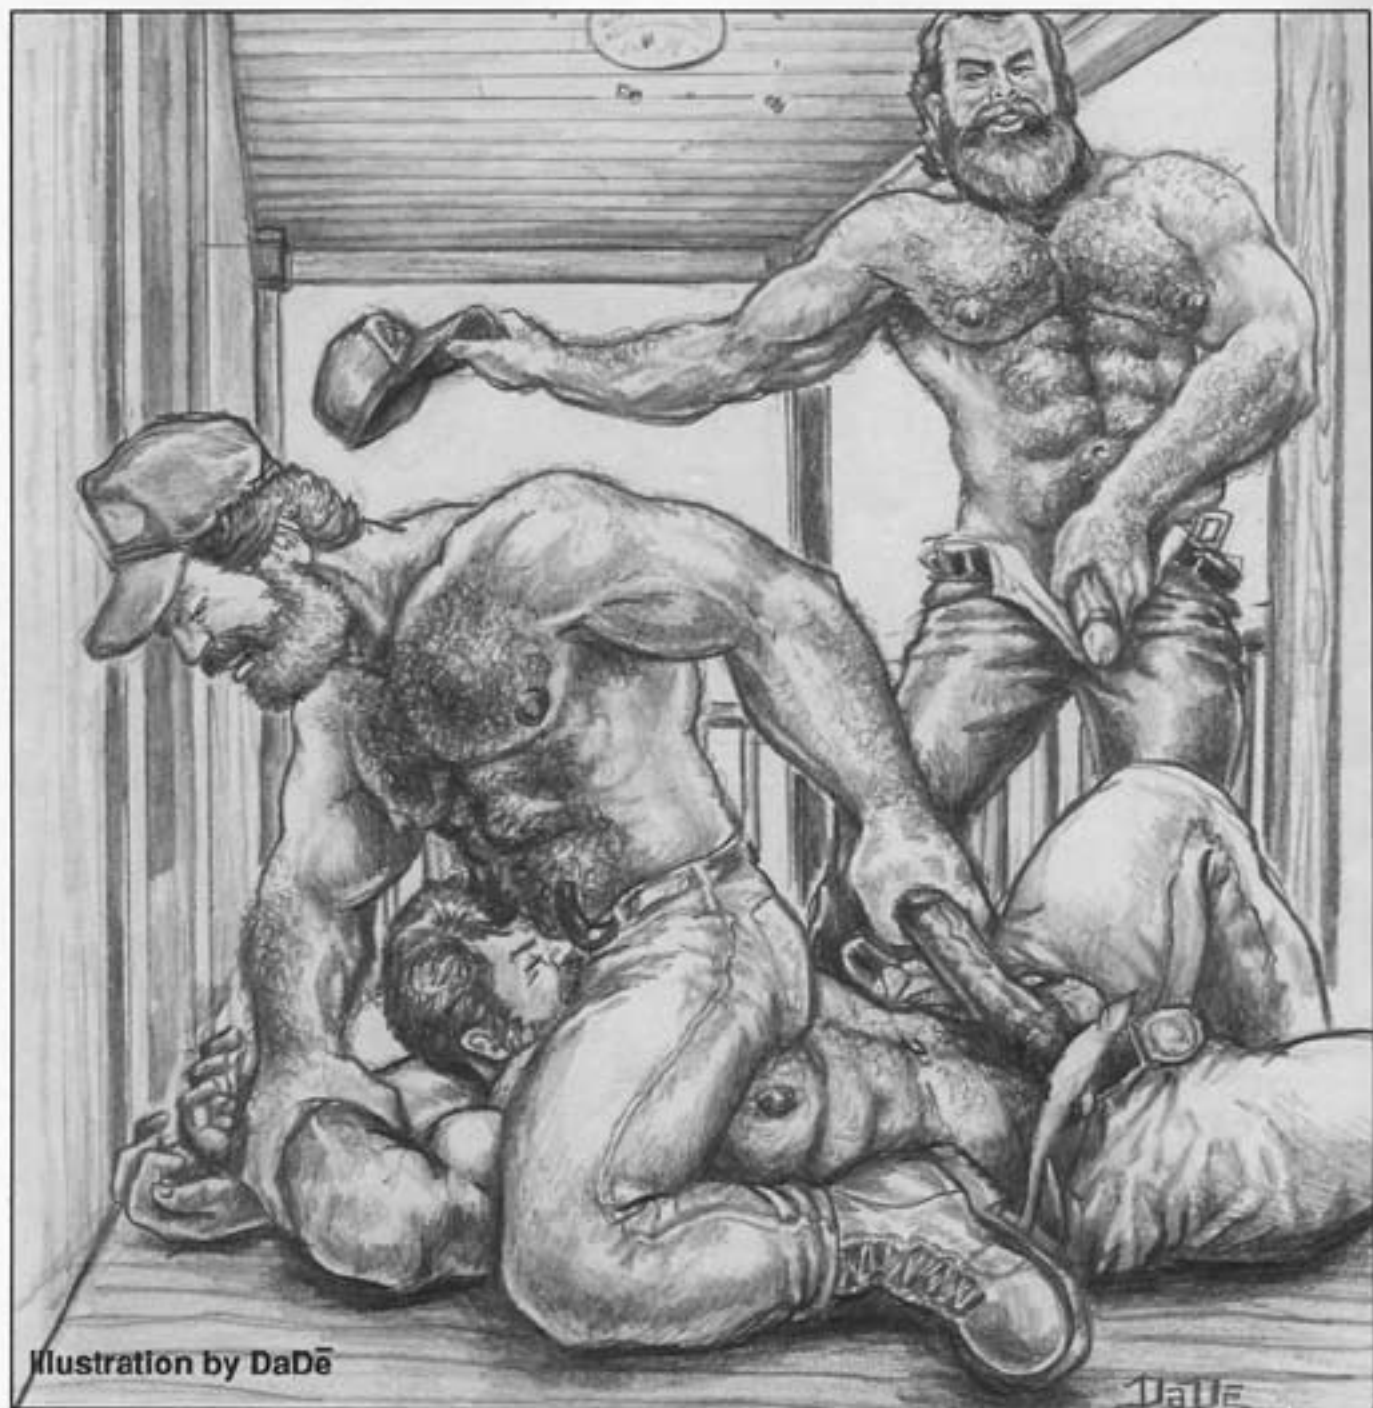

Illustration by DaDe

over, laughing. "Help yourself up." He roared between deep belly laughs.

Instead, it was again Carl who offered a helping hand.

"You self-centered asshole!" In trying to reach out for Carl's outstretched hand while still lambasting Wayne, my reach fell short of Carl's grasp and instead landed just inside his thigh. My palm met the feel of semi-hard dick through well-worn Levi's.

"You sorry excuse of a..." I cut my insult short, abruptly turning to expect a look of either surprise or admonishment from Carl. Instead, I was met with a look that reaches deep within and pulls your soul out through the head of your dick. I squeezed, signaling the North's surrender.

Soon, things I had only imagined were coming into play. Carl was down on top of me, working my tits through my damp shirt and grinding his body against mine. Wayne's laughter faltered as he suddenly realized what was going on before him. Carl backed off my tits only for a moment to loosen my belt and pop my fly open. He pulled himself up a bit, so a more attentive Wayne could now pull my jeans down, tight around my ankles.

Carl got his own jeans open, his cock fully erect from a pelt of coarse dark, red fur, inviting smell and taste. He pulled my arms back above my head and pinned my wrist down to the floor. Shifting his body slightly forward, I willingly took that red bear dick into my mouth. He began fucking my mouth with no signs of sympathy, thrusting his hips forward, working his dick deeper into my throat. The quiet member of the duo was now exercising the extreme. "Taste that dick! Work that Georgia dick deep into your throat!" he ordered. I lifted my head to take his dick further back. I was more than willing to oblige. I wanted Carl's dick deep in my throat, every fucking desirable inch of the way...every musky, tasty inch of that man deep inside my mouth. I wanted him to feel his balls brushing, pushing against my beard as he fucked my mouth.

Below, Wayne wrapped his long beard around my dick and started stroking me, slowly, working his tongue up and down the shaft. The feeling of that thick beard over...around...across the head of my dick...brushing against my balls...along my thighs, got me heavy with pre-cum. "Whoa, best lighten up," Wayne cautioned, "we won't want to lose this one too soon now. Do we, Carl?"

I hoped not! The taste of Carl filling my mouth, the sensation of Wayne jacking me in his beard, I was past losing control. I was in deep and enjoying every moment of it, and most assuredly wanted it to last. Forever! We stopped only momentarily to move inside, to further strop off sweaty clothes and kick shoes aside. What had only been hinted at was now full-blown naked in front of me; I could have shot right then and there. Welcome bedmates? An understatement.

I started working my tongue over Wayne's tight, carpeted stomach and knelt down to take his thick, uncut cock into my mouth. His accent finally purred what I had merely fantasized, "Suck that dick." Shit, yeah! Work that tongue under the foreskin! Carl also took readily to Wayne's directive and lay back, pushing his red-bearded face deep into my crotch. I cupped Wayne's balls in my hand and started squeezing and releasing. Working my mouth down over the head of his cock. This was the taste I had so enjoyed with Carl, the taste of a man, erect and warm, in your mouth. "Yeah, you suck a mean dick." Pulling back, raking my teeth and working my tongue over the slit of his cockhead. "Oh, man, yeah!" Releasing my grip on his balls. "Suck that dick." Creating a rhythm.

"Let's check out that Yankee ass of yours," Wayne purred. This was not one of my Southern drawl fantasies, but before I could respond, Wayne was behind me, working his tongue and furry face deep in my asshole. Carl continued to work my dick and balls with the same wild abandon he exhibited while fucking my face. He mimicked Wayne's lapping perfectly; as Wayne pushed his tongue in and out of my ass, Carl worked his tongue and mouth over my hard cock. "Christ, that feels so fuckin' good." My moans were those they couldn't muster as they refused to pull their mouths away from my chute or dick. "That tongue feels so damn good...in my ass...on my cockhead."

Any previous reserve I held about my Yankee ass was now abandoned. "I want more than your tongue in that ass, Wayne! I want your hard dick up that ass...fucking that wet Yankee ass of mine." Wayne straightened up and pushed against me. "I wanna feel every fucking inch of you inside me." Once again, that feeling surged through me; the remembered feeling of a man pushing his cockhead against my hole, me welcoming him deeper inside me, filling me up. "Damn, it feels good fuckin' you." I tightened my ass, pulling Wayne in deeper. "...feels so damn good being inside you...fuckin' you." I reveled in that indescribable sensation of wiry beard hair rubbing across on my neck and back, brushing over my shoulders. "...watching my fat dick going in and out of that hot, furry butt of yours."

Carl's shorter beard roughly brushed against the head of my cock, back and forth. Over my inner thigh. Over my balls. The continued friction was intense, almost akin to sandpaper, but with Wayne deep inside me, fucking away...it actually felt pleasing, a level of pleasure hidden within what should be painful...a sweet pain.

Wayne coaxed me on, "Want it, huh?" I begged, "Yeah, every last drop out of that fat Georgia dick!" Wayne grabbed my hips, pulling me back on him, giving a final deep thrust. "...every fuckin' drop out of it!" Reestablishing himself as a Southern gentleman, Wayne graciously obliged "...every fuckin' drop!" and shot. I felt his convulsions "Holy shit, man, I'm cumming!" and cum came deep inside me.

"Ain't finished yet!" Wayne let loose a stream of hot piss, filling my ass even fuller. I wanted to hold onto the sensation of Wayne, his cum, his piss, all inside me for longer, but I tightened my ass and forced the liquid out around Wayne's still erect cock. The warm stream running down inside my leg was eagerly lapped up by Carl who was working my dick harder, more vigorously. As the mixture dried, the friction on my cockhead increased...sweet pain.

As my attention drifted from Wayne, I opened my eyes to the sight of Carl stretched out below me, working his own rod with the same intense stroking he was dishing out on me. "Come on,

Carl, work that dick for me!" His rough hands worked both our shafts and heads. "Work it like you're working mine!" His cock was covered in pre-cum, stiff, redder than the hair that surrounded it. Wayne reached around me, grabbed my tits and squeezed his fingers tightly together. The overpowering feelings, Wayne's arms around me, the smells, the feel of Wayne's beard against my back and neck, watching Carl stroke..."Come on, Carl, work that dick for me!" I tightened around Wayne's cock and fiercely shot. "Come on! Shoot for me!" Carl arched back and shot across his furry belly to meet my cum shot down across his chest. "Yeah, shoot for me!"

All three of us collapsed into a pile of fur, sweat, cum, flesh and piss...exhausted. Breathing paced. Pounding hearts slowed to normal. A steady breeze began moving through the room. The heat's strangling hold had broken. Final drops of sweat, piss and cum dripped from hairy bodies. Pulled by gravity to a final destination, the drops seeped into the pile of clothes, the carpet...

"Garrett!"

I bolted awake, falling backwards with the chair.

"Garrett, wake up you screwy asshole!"
