LETTERS TO BEAR

Lapping It All Up

Let me congratulate you on BEAR 25. Barry Bishop is one real turn on. Is he going to be in a video? How can I get other photos of him, especially in color? I would love to suck his entire body for a few days.

Next, whatever became of Bela in issue 10? Is there gonna be more on him? How about videos and getting colored photos? I've shot so much cum over those pages by now that I can hardly recognize him. I do hope that more is available on him. W.M., California

I admire your stamina. Personally, after a few hours of suckin' sweat, my tongue just plain peters out.

We worked on getting Barry in front of a video camera. It hasn't happened yet, but we'll keep trying. As for Bela: If you're too young to remember, he's the hippie with the monstrous sausage that had butts dripping in desire from coast to coast. A few weeks ago I ran into him at the Lone Star and he said he was single for the first time in years.

Get Real!

Do you seriously believe two swamp boys, BEAR 24, will strip in the bayou swamp? There are mosquitoes, ticks, leeches, snakes and toads to make dead meat out of their asses, not to mention really doing turkey on their precious meatballs. Get real! R.G., Indiana

We share your concern for the safety of our models' asses. I was the one who hiked in 3 miles to take those pictures and believe me, that was not a back-drop. They really did it in the swamp. Of course I've always thought that danger adds such a nice element to sex.

A Bottom-Line Bear

I need some clarification because I feel that I pretty much fall between some categories here. I'm a big guy (5'10", 285 lbs.) but I'm not hairy. So what am I? A bear or a cub?

Hairy guys really turn me on like there just aren't words to describe. I'm strictly a top guy and I absolutely freak out at the possibility of being oral to a super hairy guy. The pictures of the guys in the special Cajun issue made me ballistic—particularly the picture of Rindle Bird's forested butt!

Unfortunately for me, I'm pretty much of a Charles Durning/Raymond Burr physical type (without beard/body hair), but I'm a slim, trim person inside, and haven't found anyone who's interested in being orally worshiped and butt-pounded by a 49 year old, big bellied, clean shaven, blue eyed, white haired, smooth-skinned guy. Help me clear up my category so I can place my ad in BEAR.

I sincerely enjoy my subscription and would be totally psyched to meet any one of the three guys mentioned above or anyone like them. Please continue the high quality of the magazine.

W.K., Virginia

Sorry, guy. You won't get a category out of us. We get letters like yours a lot, and our answer is always the same: Don't bother to be anything other than what you are. It's not whether you're a bear or a cub or any other

THE WITKE WIRE

Just because The Wittke Wire sits down here beneath the Letters column doesn't mean we go without our fair share of correspondence. In fact, in the one-year-plus that I've been covering the media for this magazine I've heard from dozens of people with comments and constructive criticism and many helpful suggestions of hot male images to look for. In most cases I've been able to take these suggestions and hunt down the movie/tr/recording/wrestling/etc. stars that you guys tell me about and I'm happy to report that BEAR readers are media sluts of the first order, as obsessive and horny as your faithful correspondent. In fact, given the collective amount of time we've spent gathering and archiving and masturbating to the sexy images of ursine men, it's a wonder any of us gets anything else done at all.

O.W. from New York City and J.H., from I'm not sure where 'cause I lost the envelope, both told me to seek out macho 50s cowboy actor Clint Walker. So I did. I saw him in some silly pseudo-monster movie on TNT and I gotta tell ya, the guys were right. Though Walker only stripped down to a T-shirt in this particular movie, the chest hair that was revealed was delectable. J.H. included a Clint Walker trivia fact that is probably more Drummer than BEAR, but I'm just twisted enough to find it tantalizing: A skiing accident he had resulted in a ski pole stuck in his left pectoral muscle. It required six men to get Walker off the mountain -- after first cutting and removing the length of pole from his chest and fur. No word if the lanky, chisel-faced, hairy, macho dude was given a bullet to bite on or if he just poured some whisky over his matted, hairy chest before the ski patrol did the yanking, or if he groaned in relief and agony as the shaft of the pole was tugged from his hard body. But I'm distracting myself here. Sorry.

J.W. from Pottstown, PA, wrote to remind me about perennial stud

Sam Elliot, a long time favorite. I'll never forget the first time I saw Life-guard. The images on that screen helped me to get through puberty and made me a fan for life. This is not to forget, of course, the naked from the rear (and what a rear) walk away from the cameras that Sam Elliot does in The Legacy, available on video tape. It's a must for those of you with slow-motion buttons.

J.W. also mentioned a couple of morning disk jockeys in his area and it occurred to me that many of the morning jocks of my East Coast city are quite delightful. In fact D.S. (who apparently lives right around the corner from me in Cambridge, MA) sent me a local paper that featured a popular Boston morning jock clad only in his boxers. But the real piece de resistance from D.S. was a full color poster of Norm from This Old House. Norm had never seemed quite so appealing to me back in the Bob Villa days, but now this gorgeous poster adorns my bedroom wall and I have to say, Norm's aged very well.

Speaking of home improvement types, R.B. of Bensalem, PA (do we have a lot of readers from that state or what) has noticed that many of the cable, specialty channels have tool time shows of their very own. R.B. writes, "Have you ever given a look at sexy Tony Kramer? His basket and ass are sometimes on display (he doesn't wear those damn trendy baggy jeans) on The Nashville Network on cable television. The show is called Remodeling and Redecorating. Wow! There's a sexy man to watch. I hate country and western music, but I'm glad the station brings this carpentry show to us. I personally tend to monitor TV stations with the sound turned down and King Missile on the stereo."

K.H. from New Hampshire called to tell me he thought my contributor's photo in BEAR 19 reminded him of porn superstar Glen Steers. I knew I had picked a flattering photo but I didn't realize it was me from another animal, it's how you carry yourself. Just state what you want and stick to it. Chances are people will beat a path to your door.

Bad Bear Taste

In issue 25 you stated in the letters column that Canadian customs is unhappy with your publication. I wouldn't be surprised if more joined the Canadian crusade because of the story "Appalachia."

While I realize the story is pure fantasy, I can not take a story involving a minor in an incestuous relationship lightly. As a teacher, I see far more of this than I care to. As the story became more "erotic," I found it nauseating and unsettling. I opted to remove it from the magazine as it made me angry every time I opened it.

As a subscriber I could hardly call myself narrow-minded or prudish. Nor am I asking for author Taylor Spence's head. I am concerned with the welfare of a child, fictitious or not, and I sincerely hope you carefully edit such stories in the future.

D., Pennsylvania

Thanks for a rational and clear letter about such an emotional topic. Your concerns are important, because there's a lot of abuse and negative incest out there. But "Appalachia" is not about the exploitation of a child, nor is it a story of incestuous abuse.

The story is narrated from the view of a willing participant in the events. It was the musing of an adult gay writer about what it could be like to be 16 years old and living in the hills in a sexual environment. A lot of people can relate to that. If Taylor Spence had written from the viewpoint of an adult molesting a child, you wouldn't have seen it in BEAR.

I'm sorry "Appalachia" was not to your liking. Sex has the potential to bother people more than just about anything else. That's probably why people like it so much more than just about anything else.

BEAR...Not!

I've been a reader of BEAR Magazine since it first appeared on bookstore shelves. You can't realize what a relief it was to finally see a magazine hit the stands that had real men in it, as opposed to the blond, teenage surfer boys that completely dominate today's gay magazines and videos.

Well, things are slowly changing, guys, and this time I'm not keeping my mouth shut on this one. Let's start in the middle: Get it together guys, you're slipping into stereotypeville!

In the beginning, BEAR was just that—a great bear magazine. The men were men, no longer 18 year old bar bunnies, no longer the hairless little flips one sees saturating the pages of so many other publications, and no more personal ads with the "piss in my mouth baby" mentality. Finally, something different for a not so small segment of the gay population. Finally, something for MEN!

Whoops, a few months later, a nipple ring appeared! Next issue, another, and this time a dick ring to boot. Next edition we add a few SM-oriented ads and by the latest edition, we have four nipple rings, a dick ring, several fetish/SM ads and personals that have started to become so kinky and sexually-oriented they could give the old ADVOCATE magazine a run for its money.

What's happening guys....Why are you turning "queer?"

Come on, folks, give us back what we bought your magazine for to begin with: Everyday, masculine, hairy guys from the hills and valleys of Bearville. And don't give me that "we're trying to cater to everyone's tastes" stuff either. There's more than enough SM, leather, fat-boy, body-pierced magazines out there for whoever wants them without you having to put all that stuff in yours. Keep your focus! Don't let guys like Bill and Ted from issue 24 become the exception rather than the norm. We buy your magazine because it focuses on completely non-stereotypical guys. And believe it or not, many of us do consider rings through a dick and nipples a bit in the stereotypical side, let alone the leather crap. If you want a magazine called CASTRO then do it, but if it's gonna remain BEAR, then give us our everyday bears back in full, OK

Call me a hick, or a homophobe, or dimension. In real life I more closely resemble Pere Uhu's lead singer David Thomas crossed with Dick Butkus multiplied times Robin Williams divided by Bono, after discovering that Entenman's Glazed Pop'ems are the perfect break-up food. But thanks for the complement K.H., as well the Bruno video. He also wondered why I haven't mentioned TV personality Mark Harmon and I had to think back to the old days of praying he'd take his shirt off on Flamingo Road and get it on with Morgan Fairchild. That was so much more politically tasteful than endorsing Coors.

Many people from around the globe went into panic state and sent me copies of articles saying that body hair removal for men was just the absolute latest fashion-do. The articles came from GQ (which is apparently some magazine I've never noticed while searching out my latest copy of STEAM Quarterly, the public sex review for gay men), and from local papers picking up on the GQ article. Relax guys, once the mainstream media says something is happening it is most definitely over and done with. GQ saying that everybody is shaving his body is about as statistically accurate as Newsweek saying women over 40 stand a better chance of getting shot by terrorists than finding a husband. We need a Suzan Feladi of our own to write an anti-shaving book called Bearlash. Besides, haven't we all been delighted to notice body and facial hair returning with a vengeance? Did you happen to see former Night Court star John LaRouquette's appearance during the last few months of David Letterman's show? Even wise gay Letterman was forced to mention how the now long-haired and gorgeously bushy-bearded actor resembled Grizzly Adams.

Without a doubt, hands down, The Wittke Wire that elicited the biggest response from readers was the column about professional wrestling. People leapt out at me from dark corners in bars to say things like, "Oh, Arn Anderson, you are so right!" or "I'd lick the skid marks off of Nikita Koloff's wrestling trunks any day of the week," and messages to that effect. It's particularly intriguing to me that right after that column appeared, most of the men I praised from Ted Turner's World Championship Wrestling were fired or jumped ship to the formerly despised World Wrestling Federation (except for Rick Rude and Arn Anderson). They were almost universally replaced by smooth-bodied young'uns who might be interesting in 20 years or so. But wherever Rick Steiner goes, so goes The Wittke Wire, and now it's the WWF for us.

I know I'm not the only one either. C.J. from New York City writes, "Why doesn't the gay community just wake up and realize that Rick Steiner is the absolute perfect image of a man?" Well, exactly, Dutch Mantell was mentioned by lots of readers, among them J.P. from Masfield, Ohio and Hank from Columbia, South Carolina. (Incidentally, Hank told me he was enclosing a photocopy of some Polaroids of himself but I turned the envelope upside down and inside out to no avail. He must've forgot the photos. Damn.) He also mentioned Billy Jack Haynes, Jacques, Raymond Rougeau, and The Italian Stallion. Writes Frank: "I like his bulk and the way his dick sticks out in profile." Uh-huh. J.P. also dug up some of the classic superstars of the old days: Scrap Iron, Bill Ford, Mike Graham and Black Jack Lanza.

I've written for the gay press for years and never enjoyed the amount of direct feedback that I have received since The Wittke Wire started in BEAR. It's good to know that I am not the only one with such obsessions and that if I miss a hot man of note, you guys will let me know. Keep those cards and letters coming.

*You seem to be upset at two things here:
pierced dicks and SM personal ads. I don't know what we can do to help you. Piercings have been in BEAR all along. We go out to shoot masculine hairy men just the way we find 'em, and some of them are piercing their dicks these days.*

As for the SM ads: Relax. If it's not for you, don't do it. But lay off the judgements on other people if they have the smarts to go out and advertise for what they want. That too hasn't changed. Just take a look at BEAR 6 from 1988 and you'll see what I mean.

Ma, He's Cussin' At Us!

Now you have done it. Damn you. Just when I was just about to give up finding a black bear of my own you had to publish issue 25. I've not managed to find my own big black bear, and was about to give up until I saw Steve Williams. You just had to give me hope, didn't you. Damn you.

You got me once before, in issue 23,
and I quivered at the site of Wes' black tall frame and hairy chest. But I cooled off.

You're just really intent on me contin-ing to subscribe, aren't you. Don't get me wrong, hairy white guys are a turn on too
but nothing, AND I DO MEAN NOTH-ING turns me on like a hairy darkskinned black man! And God, don't let him be seasoned (you know, a little salt a pepper hair, over 40)!

I've fantasized about posing for you guys myself. The upcoming trip to San Francisco in October has rekindled that thought. But, alas, because of my somewhat public job and living in the dead right wing conservative Midwest, well, maybe you understand.

Tell Steve Williams he has his choice of a dark alley or my bedroom. Or both. He will be sleeping with me tonight, one way or another.

Black Bear, Ohio

Glad you like it. We're always on the look-out for the right visuals

If you live in the dead right wing conservative Midwest that means you have nothing to worry about posing for us. What would they be doing looking in BEAR? Drop us a nasty photo.

Young-un For The Picking

First, I want to tell you that if it wasn't for your publication I would have never been able to pin down the kind of men I like.

You have really made my coming-out process much easier. I have also made some wonderful friends through your ads.
Thanks a million. You guys are great!

Second, I wanted to tell you what I saw the other day driving home. Since it's been so hot, I thought I was hallucinating because out of nowhere this huge, loud Harley hawk pulled up next to me. I almost shit myself! On this hog was a man out of my deepest fantasy: 6'3", solid build with no shirt on, showing the world his massive chest that was covered in thick salt and pepper hair. He had one of those bad-ass faces with a thick moustache that went over his top lip a little. To top it off he had two days worth of beard growth on his face. He had on a pair of blue jeans with black leather chaps and those black boots with the square toes.

Just as fast as he appeared he disappeared down the road, leaving me with a feeling that now I know what I want. My dream is to find a motorcycle daddy just like him to take me from California to the New York island on the back of his Harley hog. I'd be cruising with my daddy and nothing could touch me.

I'm a young pup of 22 years and a lean cut college puke. Honestly I'm sick of it all. If my motorcycle daddy would come along and claim me I would say: "World, go to hell and fuck society. I'm off on the adventure of a lifetime!"

I would love to see a bad-ass motorcycle daddy straddle a Harley in the pages of BEAR. I hope I'm not the only one who'd want to ride off into the sunset with the man of their dreams.

I have put an ad in BEAR. Maybe a motorcycle daddy will see it and find me.
R.G., New Jersey

Well, kid you're on your way. One day da Harley man gonna come for you. You have to promise to finish your education first. Like learning how to fix bikes and how to read maps at 65 MPH without getting bugs on your teeth. After that, go bury your face in a crotch that's been ridin' a hog all day and you'll know what life-satisfaction means. Happy hunting.

Oh, l'amour, l'amour...

I wanted to drop you a line to let you know your personal ads do work. I met my lover through the ad he placed in your magazine. We met a year ago February, and I moved to Georgetown this February.

Not only did we get together, but we have met and corresponded with many fellow bears throughout the country. And made many new friends.

Please feel free to use our photos and letter. They might give more people a positive incentive to place an ad or to answer
one. All it takes is that first trip to the R.S.

M.A.

mailbox and who knows what can happen!

MA and R.S., Georgetown, SC

With over 700 personal advertisers in BEAR, I defy anyone to say there isn't something for everyone. City bears, country bears, suburban big-bellied bruins and those wanting kink from anything that moves—we got it all. Thanks for reminding us that it all pays off. And keep in touch.

Comfortable Shoes

Since I was 21 I looked for a place where I felt I belonged, where I could be myself. I felt as out of place among the blonde and buffed as I did among the Levi/leather crowd. I was resigned to the fact that the men I was attracted to were few and far between and vice-versa. Having discovered BEAR is like slipping on a pair of old comfortable shoes, they're real and comfortable and make you feel good about yourself.

M.A.P., Philadelphia, PA

Actually that's the same sort of feeling we get around here when we come into work. We may be a little too laid back for our own good, but it's nice to know that in the end, it all comes out in the end, so to speak.

JONATHAN

Jonathan is a compact package at 5'11" and 180 lbs. He's originally an Indiana boy who somehow made his way to the windy city of Chicago. When he's not liftin' weights or ridin' his bike he's probably at home takin' in some jazz. Or, he might just be out there prowlin' around for a sweaty, stocky, furry bear to wrestle with. He says he's sexually open-minded but his favorite thing to do is get down to a lot of plain ole body contact.

by T.C.

Ever been puttin' around town, pulled up to a stop sign, turn your head, and discover someone's having a yard sale? At first glance it looks like the same old shit that the dump wouldn't even pick up, except one thing. Displayed up front and center is a set of those ugly chrome and plastic kitchen chairs you find in run-down old restaurants or cafeterias. Off hand I can't think of anyone who finds them the least bit attractive, let alone have them placed around their table (except for myself). Well if by chance you have the bad taste that I do or come across one, hang on to it. They may be tacky but they are light, durable and sturdy and from the looks of it they'll be hanging around forever. Believe it or not this humble piece of furniture can be transformed into the incredible, handy dandy kitchen aid fuck em chair, and it's fully manual. The motion used is similar to a workout routine so it gives the added illusion of doing something to keep you fit. Here's what you do.

You get your chair. Some of these chairs are made with a hand hole at the top center of the back rest for pulling it out from the table. This works the best and is much easier as you'll see. If the chair has no hand hole pick up some duck tape. I'll explain later on. Get out one of your dildos, preferably one with a flat base like the ones with hanging nuts. Put the nuts through the hand hole, but don't push the entire base through it. The dildo will be pointed straight down the back rest. Now straddle the seat like your going to sit down, tilt the chair back and get yourself into position, ass about even with the dildo. Lift the dildo up and slide it in. Once it's in grab the seat and push forward to shove it all the way in. Then just rock the chair back and forth on its rear legs. Need I say more?

Oh yeah, if your dildo doesn't have a big enough base to it just use a little duct tape to hold it in place. Tape it to the back rest at tip center as close to the edge as possible. Enjoy!

P.S. Here's a real money saving idea for those of you who like me get carried away with grease, oil, etc. and hate the clean up later. Instead of buying some of those expensive rubber, naugahyde sheets drop into your local furniture store and ask them if they would let you have some of the plastic that the furniture is shipped in. It's strong and is usually slipped off so it doesn't have a lot of rips and holes in it. Ask for one that was used on a large piece like a table or something. It usually will cover a king-size bed with no problem.

PHYSICAL ATTRACTION

Story by Bill Blodgett

Illustration by Rick Rische

My company is about to get rid of Victor Murray, who's the V.P. of Sales. Our president found out during a recent golf outing that good old Vic hasn't had any contact at all this year with one of our biggest clients. An inquiry is in progress, uncovering a trail of neglect that's been losing us millions of dollars in sales. Vic's one choice is to quietly retire, or they'll can him.

Suddenly they tell me "George, we want you to be our new V.P. of Sales," and they want to strike while the iron is hot. Today is the Friday before Memorial Day weekend 1980, and they want me to take a physical as soon as possible. I can't imagine why it's necessary, but to double my salary, when they say to jump, I'll ask how high.

Our clinic closes at 7:00 P.M. I spend a miserable hour in a 90° degree blast furnace of a traffic jam, and my car's freon isn't charged for the season yet, and I get there feeling like a dishrag at 6:00. Our normal doctor is gone already, and almost everyone else is packing up for the weekend. It's been arranged for a new doctor to do the physical. His name is Dr. Frank McDonald, and he's not here yet, but the air conditioning feels wonderful, so I vegetate in the waiting room. It's so peaceful that I close my eyes for just a second, and when I make this one little snoring noise, it startles me awake, and I look at my watch. Guess I fell asleep. Now it's almost 6:30 and a gorgeous but overheated man is walking in the front door.

He's lean and sophisticated, about 40, wearing a navy double-breasted jacket, a blue and white striped shirt with a white collar, tan slacks, and a tan tie covered with tiny blue and white emblems. He makes me feel kind of dowdy in my ivy league blue suit. His hair is short salt and pepper, his face is long and angular with a bushy but somehow tidy black moustache and a 40-grit 5-o'clock shadow. He pauses in a sunbeam streaming in the waiting room window. It bounces off his mirrored sunglasses, blinding me. He takes them off and has sparkling eyes more violet blue than Elizabeth Taylor's. He's the kind of man I could look at for hours without blinking. He looks around to find me the only one here and says with a rich velvet bass voice, "Mr. Henderson, I'm Dr. McDonald." I rise and take his hand with my best salesman's smile and say that I'm sorry to make him do this on such short notice, but my company seldom lets the grass grow under its feet. He smiles and his teeth are as white and even as piano keys.

He leads me to the examination room, where he asks me to completely disrobe, including my watch and any jewelry, and put on the gown he hands me. Is he planning to send me through a metal detector at the airport? I get a funny feeling.

"I normally have a nurse do the colonic, but this being a holiday weekend, most of them have already gone." So this beautiful man is going to give me an enema? Maybe this won't be so bad after all. My jacket is off, then the tie, then I'm unbuttoning my shirt, so I can show him the furry brown chest I've always gotten so many compliments over. No interest. He excuses himself, and says he'll be back when I'm ready. Okay, fine.

McDonald comes back when I'm undressed, and has me get up on the table on my stomach with one leg straight out and the other bent as high as possible, pulling the gown away from the golden brown hair coating my backside. He inserts the lubricated tip between my fuzzy cheeks, cool, but pleasant in contrast with the damn hot spell we're having outside, and he squeezes the disposable bottle like he's crushing a beer can.

"Give it five or ten minutes to work," he says, "this door leads to a restroom. Lock both of the doors in there." The other door leads to an adjacent examination room that shares the restroom, but he doubts anyone else is still here to be using it. He also hands me a plastic container to fill with a urine sample. He will be back in a few minutes, and I'm to bring the urine sample back with me.

I go to the restroom and flick on the light switch, which also starts a vent fan. It's tile from floor to ceiling, so the echo is incredible. I clap first, then whistle, having some fun with it. The tile reminds me of my folks' brown speckled ironstone dinnerware. There are brushed steel railings on the wall around the toilet for wheelchair access, and a broad low sink with a gooseneck faucet and handles that curve up so you can operate them with your wrists, and they remind me of Bullwinkle's antlers, rendered in chrome.

The enema is some kind of strange-feeling gel mixture, which I easily dump. I give a respectable urine sample and seal the top of the container. Then it hits me. I've never had to have an enema for a physical before, not even for a rectal exam. I get that funny feeling again.

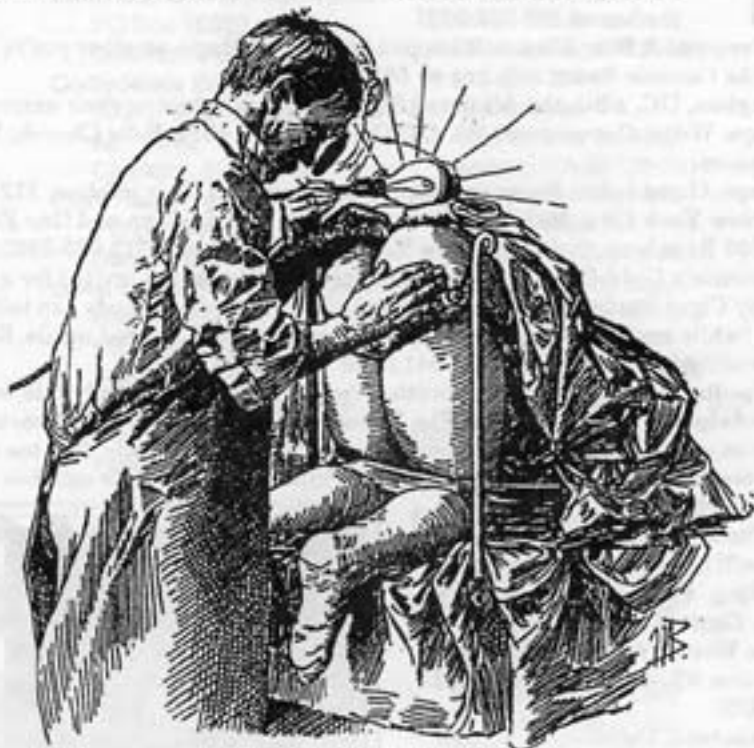

I return to the other room and put the sample on a cart next to the examination table, and spend another ten minutes looking through a ratty six-month-old copy of Popular Vegetable magazine that somebody's baby must have teethered on. Finally, I go over to the chair where my clothes are draped and dip into my pants pocket for my watch, and check the time. It's almost seven p.m.! I hope I don't get locked up in here, and I start to get the creeps. Just then, McDonald opens the door and I about have heart failure. "Sorry to keep you waiting," he says, stroking his moustache a little. "The office manager was just showing me how to set the alarm system. We appear to be the last two here." He's changed his jacket for a white lab coat with his name and picture badge pinned on the front, and a stethoscope around his neck with the head of it stuffed into his breast pocket. He's loosened his tie and the fringe of trimmed black chest hair escapes over the edge of his collar. It looks a lot like the thick, silky hair running down the backs of his hands to his knuckles. My mouth waters, and I suppress thoughts of tearing his clothes off and eating his hairy butt out.

He makes me extend my arms and touch my nose with my eyes closed, etc., etc. He takes my blood pressure, which he says is a little bit high. (No shit, really?) Funny he doesn't mention how fast my heart is beating at the moment. He takes a black thing with a light on it from its holster on the wall, and he looks up my nose, into my ears, down my throat, and puts the thing back in the holster. He ties a rubber strap around my left arm and takes a blood sample, which I hate, and he wipes an alcohol-soaked cotton ball over the puncture and puts a small circle bandage on it. He feels the glands in my neck and I notice his cologne and wonder, smiling to myself, if he put it on just for me. He thumps across my back, and listens with his stethoscope to various places while I breathe deeply. He has me stand and he does the turn-your-head-and-cough routine, and his hands are warm and gentle on my balls. Now we come to the event I've been waiting for, the rectal exam.

I'm a guy who loves to have his butt played with. It doesn't bother me in the least to have a rectal exam, so it's been fun to watch the reactions of the couple of doctors who've given me one. The first was very apologetic, another was so stressed-out that he actually hurt me trying to get it over with quickly, and now I wonder how this guy's going to do it, and what mental gymnastics I'm going to have to perform to keep me from getting a hard-on. His having me take an enema is really making me wonder, but I don't dare to make any direct overtures, even if he is the man of my dreams. He might report back to the President and fuck up my promotion royally.

I pretend to have never had this exam before. He says, "It's high time," and I ask him to tell me the most comfortable position to be in. He pulls out a step built into the side of the table and I laugh and say with all the drawers and knobs and things, it's just like a big Swiss Army knife. He smiles slightly. "Step up here and onto your knees on the table, then hug this pillow against your chest, with your head down," and I comply. Now I'm on this table with my ass stuck up in the air, my hairy balls and dick dangling between my legs, my right side toward him. I definitely never had it done this way before. He puts a rubber glove on his left hand and lubricates his fingers with a tube of KY from the cart. Is he left handed? I try to look innocent and vulnerable. He puts one finger gently into my anus, and asks how I'm doing. I'm okay. This won't take too long, he assures me. I start to turn red from the rush of excitement, and he says if I can relax a little, it'll be easier. I say I'm trying, but I just... "Yes?" he asks, as he presses unexpectedly on my prostate. I let out a loud groan, what do I care, nobody else is around, and he says he's sorry if it's a bit uncomfortable. I start to get that hard-on I'd worried about and he says he needs to go in just a little farther, is that okay? And I answer that it's just that it feels like... (I pretend to be embarrassed) ...it doesn't feel like anything I've ever felt before. I'm sure he's pressing on my prostate now with two fingers up my ass, and he says that, believe it or not, this is a site of pleasure for some men. I say I can't believe that anything would ever feel like this. I now have a complete throbbing, dripping erection just brushing against the hair on my stomach, and he stops just a moment to reach for a glass specimen slide and with his right hand he reaches between my legs and forces my dick downward and pulls on it with all the indifference of a man milking a cow, which is what he's making me feel like. Is this guy Mr. Domination, or what? If he does this to all of his male patients, I bet some guys just freak out right on the spot! It's not like he's masturbating me, because just when he gets enough lubrication to coat the slide, he stops, but by now I'm breathing rapidly and fighting the urge to shove my butt against his left hand. He says, "Okay, we're done," and he lets go of my dick and it thwacks back loudly against my stomach. He asks how I'm doing, and I say it feels so incredibly... good. And he looks at me and says, "Well, since you're tolerating it so well, I'd like to get a semen sample, is that okay?" I look upward and think "Thank you, God," and can barely manage to get out the words, "That's... fine..." and he reaches for a plastic tray and puts it between my legs to collect the sample, and he puts his fingers back into my behind, but this time, I'm not sure if he's got three or four of them in me, but they're hitting me where it counts, over and over and over, and he's milking my cock from behind again, and I start to moan and drool all over that pillow. His hands are working together, pushing, pulling, fucking my ass and pumping away on my slimy meat as I growl and push against that fucking hand, and he keeps pushing as I rock on and off his fingers. I know he's got to have all four in me by now. I bite into the pillow, and this searing heat is traveling from my prostate through my balls and down the shaft of my cock and the spasms start somewhere out in the distance, then get closer. I hear myself snarling. "Fuck me," like an animal, again and again as he does something more painful but wildly pleasurable, and I wonder if he's trying to get all five fingers in, but I don't care, I don't, just keep on, keep on, I'm almost there... and I don't know if I'm thinking it or saying it any more, I'm, I'm... I scream and explode and buck and heave, I spray all over the tray and the table and clamp and clamp around those burning fingers, and shoot and cry and chew the pillow, and shoot until my poor balls are empty, and still I spasm and pant and whimper, until I feel his fingers carefully withdrawing from me, and my ass begs them not to leave, and he gives my aching dick just one last slow squeeze.

He lets go of my dick more gently this time, so there's no thwack. He takes the splattered tray from under me and puts it back on the cart next to the table. I flop over onto my side to face him.

"I'm impressed by your ability to relax." He wins the Academy Award for understatement. He's holding up his gloved left hand and I see that he's making reference to the lubricant covering it up to his wrist. I'm amazed I couldn't tell that he put his whole fist in me. He removes the glove and tosses it into a chrome receptacle with a foot-operated lid, and he scoops up three samples of my semen onto slides and uses an eyedropper to stain each one, tinting it yellowish-brown, but his hands aren't too steady. He notices I'm mopping the sweat from my forehead and he turns to ask if I'm alright. Only then do I see the humongous bulge in his tan pants with the big wet spot running down one side.

"Having a little fun with the patients, are we?" I mock him, poking my finger at his cum-soaked crotch. He turns crimson with the realization that he's gone too far, and his eyes grow wide in terror at his little game being exposed. I swing around to sit up on the table. Ouch! My butt hurts, but in a heavenly kind of way. I get to my feet and say, "Are there any other tests that you need to perform, Doctor?" He starts to babble like an idiot, and I interrupt him. "You're a very talented man. I sure hope you'll think of something else to do." I give him my best salesman's smile again. He looks at me and knows he's been conned. "I, uh... should have some of the results back by tomorrow...yes, can you meet me back here, tomorrow at 8 p.m.?"

"Wouldn't miss it for the world," I say, and I put my arms around him. He responds with a hug, sheepishly grinning, and I start to chew on that fine mustache of his.

I got a clean bill of health that day, and in the ensuing twelve years under my leadership, our company sales have more than doubled. Frank and I recently celebrated our twelfth anniversary. We reenacted that first meeting, only this time I got to play doctor.

The Florida Bear Bust

is getting to be quite a tradition down Orlando way. Hundreds of burly, hairy guys sweating in the Florida sunshine, drinking beer and running loose in a hotel...bodies intertwined in hot, steamy, erotic contests: Bear Cub, Polar Bear and Grizzly Bear. Last October the boys were in their natural element at the Full Moon Saloon, what with all the fucking and cruising going on. You'd be surprised at who all got their legs off the ground last year. They're going for another round this coming October, hosted at the Holiday Inn, and it wouldn't be any good without YOU. Write to the Bears of Central FL, PO Box 647, Orlando, FL 32802 for information, or call 407-240-0814. Rooms are booking fast, so get a move-on, guys.

The poolside judge table at Bear Bust '92. Judges included our publisher Richard Bulger, Art Kelly of the Lone Star and various other dignitaries of the Bear World.

Guys in the hall. Couldn't even get any damn' beer there was so many of 'em.

The Kindness of Southern Gentlemen

Our BEAR 25 cover model, Barry Bishop, held a magazine signing and hugging party in June at the Atlanta Eagle. He was able to raise over $300 for Childkind, an Atlanta pediatric AIDS organization. The next week Barry went on to win the title of 1993 Mr. SE Drummer. He's pictured above with Mark Sessions, BEAR 21 heartthrob.

to any event, and the men were fairly joined at the hip by the time it was over.

Meanwhile, down the street at International Mr. Leather, Brush Creek Media had the best-looking booth in the place. Yes, we're biased. Below (right) we see Matt, all-around cool guy; Steve Stafford your Brush Creek Media Editor-in-Chief; and Steve Gaynes, our new director of marketing who happened to stop by as we took the picture. Just some of the faces behind the dirty minds of BEAR.

For a Two Hour Tour...

The Blue Max Cycle Club of St. Louis went on a rafting trip not long ago. It was supposed to be a two-hour rafting ride on the Mississippi River. But you might be aware of a few flooding problems they've had down that way. Well, the poor guys' boat overshot their landing sight by 20 miles—in just over an hour. We still don't know how they got home.

And That's The Way It Was. Feel the sweet sensation of opportunity burning in your loins? Here's your chance to tell the world about the incredible events your organization is capable of throwing. Send us details and photos of what your club is up to and we'll do our best to cover them here. Any photos must have photographee's names and permission, and phone numbers must be included--Luke Mauerman

"NO SHIT"

Hey Bub:

Burn this letter.

Not now, fenderhead. After you finish it.

I don't like having to write it. I put it off for some weeks and I'm having a hell of a time with it now and I don't want anyone else but you reading it.

I saw this guy I know down at work today between buildings. We used to hang together sometimes, shoot the shit on some breaks, talk about a whole lot of nothing much and watch the day go by.

I miss the talk, sometimes, but I don't miss the butts. Not anymore.

"Hey," he yells at me, "What? You quit smoking?"

"Yeah," I say, "I did."

"Congrats." He takes a drag and blows rings and smiles, like he's really happy for me.

"Thanks," I tell him. "I like it." Had to smile. I do like it. Never thought I would, but I do.

"But it's kind of weird, though, too," I say, "like it's so easy to turn into one of those jerks, they run around saying, 'I quit; so can you.' That's kind of like quitting smoking and getting hooked on running people's lives, instead. Won't catch me pulling that shit."

So we laugh about that, and he tells me, "Thanks. I appreciate that. I hate those people."

And so do I, my friend, and so do you, and that's too bad, because that is exactly what I'm going to do to you now.

You know I never give advice, 'specially to folks who didn't ask. But I'm gonna do that to you, too.

You got to clean up your act.

I love you, man. We're close as men can get. I understand why you do the things you do better than anyone else you know. Bet me. But I can't let you keep thinking it's okay with me if you keep on doing a lot of them.

That last letter of yours really tripped me out. I read all those things you said about doing lines and smoke and all, and I knew just what you meant I mean I remembered, and it scared me for you. I knew how it felt to be where you were when you wrote them, and how I always said those exact same things, like how I had the world nailed down, and how I could handle anything, and how all I needed out of life was another line and a decent fuck or two or three and for everybody who wasn't gonna do that with me to get their shit out of my face.

These days I watch myself, and I watch the folks around me, and I know, I mean I really know I had that story wrong. I never did maintain. Never. On anything- up, down, sideways, inside out. Stuff always takes me down sooner or later, no matter what it is.

And I think that's true for you, too, my man- you just don't know it yet. I'm pretty sure it's true for just about everybody.

Least, everybody I know.

It's all a pipe dream, buddy. Believe it. And it isn't funny anymore.

I mean, if you think it isn't just a little bit fucked up to spend all that cash on whiskey and weed and on acid and crystal and 'shrooms and coke and whatever all else shit you're stuffing your body with when you can't even pay enough to keep your own natural born teeth in your head- well, I think maybe you should.

Meantime, if you think it should be legal to do all this stuff, get your nuts in gear and get things changed so folks can't jerk you around or take you for the farm or bust your ass, or whatever. Just remember, that shit ain't happened yet.

'Cause if you think your big bust was a one-time-only deal, just cruise along the road you're on and see what all comes down. But believe me when I tell you I will not come to visit your butt in the hoosgow next time. I love you, man, and I will love you exactly the same no matter what you do, but I won't ever go in there again, not even for you. Count on it. Sitting in that cage with you, staring at that tat sticking out of your shirt sleeve so I could see where it says "Live Free or Die"- man, that shit made me want to just kill your sorry ass myself, bare-handed.

And if you think using- using anything- makes it easier to get love, or keep it, or understand it, or even understand yourself, you're just plain balls-ass wrong.

But you know, if you think I'm full of shit and meddling where I don't belong, you may very well be right.

Tough titty.

You know, no matter how far out of control I got, nobody ever called me on it. I always wished somebody would, but I never could tell people I loved what I wanted from them. It just didn't seem right, you know? Greedy, or something.

'Sides, I figured if you really loved me, you'd have read my mind. Took me a long time to figure out how I was testing people, trying make them show me they loved me by finally telling me. "No."

So now I am telling you, "No."

I'm not gonna ask you to read my mind anymore. I want you to stop this shit.

Now.

I did it. So can you.

There. I said it. Because I love you and because I think you'll love yourself a lot more clean and because that shit's important to me.

Depends on what you want in life, sure, but nobody sane wants to kick in a gutter.

So- how's that for a downer?

Hope you're doing okay, man. Go ahead and break something and yell at me and burn this, but let me hear from you again real soon.

Bros Forever,
Your Man,
Skeets

Mel Dahl

Fundamentally Wrong

"Dear Mel;

I really like your magazine. But must you take pot shots at fundamentalist Christians as being vicious and disreputable persons? There are a lot of gay friends in fundamentalist churches who also happen to be decent, loving parents. I'm one of them, and I have three kids that I take to a fundamentalist church every Sunday. Many people attend institutions that don't necessarily promote all their preferred philosophies.

There are a lot of married homosexuals in the world who stay married for one reason or another. Often I wonder why there is an attitude among the more overt homosexuals that if everyone isn't just like them, then their homosexuality is invalid and they aren't supporting the cause. Try supporting the cause of homosexuals in a fundamentalist church and see how easy that is. How about a little more of that do unto others mentality, regardless of whether it's in the Torah.

Signed: You've got a fundamentalist friend in Pennsylvania."

Dear Pennsylvania Fundamentalist;

Thanks for your letter. I always appreciate hearing from my readers. I wonder about your signature, though; I would be reluctant to call myself friend to someone unless I had the courage to sign my name to what I told him.

I have never said there aren't any good people in fundamentalist churches. Bad institutions contain good people and vice versa. But, when I write about an institution, it is the institution itself I am writing about, not any specific person who belongs to it. As an institution, fundamentalist are nothing but trouble.

You don't have to tell me that there is a ton of gay closet cases hiding out in fundamentalist churches, or even that many individual fundamentalists can be very nice people if you can get them off certain subjects. But religious intolerance—of which modern day fundamentalism is only the most recent incarnation—has done massive amounts of damage to our world. Just between you and me, pal, it was not the secular humanists that gave us prohibition, the McCarthy red scares, the Ku Klux Klan or the firebombing of seven gay organizations in the last five years. By remaining within fundamentalism you, whether you like it or not, choose to be part of that institution.

You are, of course, absolutely correct that being part of an institution does not mean you endorse everything it does. I'm a member of the American Bar Association even though I can think of half a dozen issues on which I disagree with that organization. You have simply decided that for you, the good you see in fundamentalism outweighs the bad. But please don't expect the rest of the world to overlook the bad when you tell them about your theology.

There is one major difference, however, between my ABA membership and your fundamentalism: the ABA has not been waging a campaign for the last fifteen years to wipe my community off the face of the earth. The ABA has not lobbied state legislatures to take away what few rights I as a gay person have, nor has it actively pursued making my existence as difficult as possible. If and when the day comes that the ABA does any of that, I will fax it my resignation. The thing I find most inexplicable about your position is: how can you remain part of an organization that wants to take away your very existence? Doesn't that bother you just a teensy bit?

Maybe, just maybe, you and others like you will change fundamentalism from within. If you can pull that off, you will have my hearty congratulations and undying gratitude. But I wouldn't hold my breath.

I don't think your homosexuality is invalid merely because you are in the closet. But do your fundamentalist friends know about you? I thought not. How happy can you possibly be, knowing that you have to keep the two most important parts of your life hidden from each other?

If you are happy with your life, then I'm happy for you. I would not be happy with your life, but I don't have to live it. Tell me, have you thought about the repercussions if suddenly it should become common knowledge within your church that you are gay? Have you thought about how you would respond to the censure, the ostracism, the averted eyes you would inevitably face if somehow your secret were to become known? Think about that for a few days, and then write me again. In my time I have helped the healing process for entirely too many gay people whose self esteem and sense of self worth were murdered by so-called loving Christians to have faith in the ability of your church to rise to such an occasion.

There is also a major piece of information you have omitted: your wife. Does she know? If the two of you are still living together, it is far more likely that she will find out than that your church will, if you haven't already told her yourself. Are you prepared for the aftermath of that? She might be very supportive, in which case you should be thankful. On the other hand, she could file for divorce, tell the whole world about your sexuality, kill you financially and try to prevent you from seeing your children again; whether she would succeed would depend in large part on who you got for a judge.

It would be a bad idea for you to consult an attorney to discuss in detail the potential pitfalls you face should your sexuality become public knowledge for reason or another.

Finally, you didn't say how far in the closet you are. Do you have a circle of gay friends that will be supportive of you and help you through any bad times that may come? Do you have someone to talk to if need be? Or have you immersed yourself so completely in fundamentalism that you don't have a backup support system of gay people who won't trash you?

H. L. Mencken once said that we are obligated to respect the other fellow's religion only to the extent that we respect in theory that his wife is beautiful and his children smart. This will sound harsh, but I cannot get too upset about the masses starving in India because I know that it is their irrational religious dogma that keeps them from slaughtering the sacred cows that could end — or at least severely diminish — the famine in that part of the world. I can't get too upset with the hard economic times that have hit Iran because it is irrational religious dogma that keeps the Iranian government from moving into the 20th century. When people choose to cleave to a system that is intellectually bankrupt, a mass of contradictions and irrationalities, and which prevents them from acknowledging the real world, they have no one to blame but themselves for their ensuing misfortunes.

You, my friend, by remaining part of fundamentalism, are setting yourself up for disaster. It may not happen soon, but your religion is a ticking time bomb, and it is only a matter of time until it blows up in your face. When that day comes, I hope you will at least have a circle of friends to hold you and help you through it. Good luck.

MAN TO MAN PERSONALS

RULES OF THE ROAD

1. Dialing BEAR Voicemail. To use MasterCard or Visa, call 1-800-347-BEAR. The Bear Computer will tell you what to do. If you wanna charge it to your home phone instead, dial 1-900-HOT-BEAR. You can record your own personal greeting, answer someone else's, or talk to whoever else is jacking-off on the line.

2. Constructing your ad. When you write out your ad, keep this in mind: talk a bit about yourself and be real clear about the types of folks you'd like to meet through your ad. As much as possible, avoid telling us who you don't want to meet. No "no fats, no ferns, or Lithuanians" shit. Be positive. And if you aren't, we'll edit the fuck out of the ad and turn you into more of a Pollyanna than you'd care to be.

3. Using their home phone. If you're calling someone's house, keep in mind (a) time zone differences—if you don't know them, look in the front of the White Pages in a phone book; and (b) that the guy on the other end may not be able to or may not want to talk to you at the time of your call. Always ask if it's OK to talk.

4. Cost and duration. Personal ads are free if you're a BEAR BUDDY. Otherwise, they're $0.25/word/issue. Wanna change your ad? Send in $5. Wanna discontinue your ad? Write in and we'll pull it. You will have to pay to have a pulled ad put back in.

5. Deadline for classifieds for BEAR 27 is September 15, 1993.

6. BEAR Postal Box Numbers. Available to US subscribers. Free to BEAR Buddies, including Foreign Buddies. Otherwise, add $5 to the total of your ad. A word to the wise: responses to your ad will be much greater using your own address versus ours.

7. Replying to a BEAR Postal Box Number. Write your letter, put it in an envelope and seal it. On this envelope, put the fella's box number IN PENCIL where you'd normally put a stamp. Put this letter along with $1 in a larger envelope and mail it to us. That's BEAR, 2215R Market Street #148, San Francisco, CA 94114. We always forward letters if you've done what's called for here. If you mess up, we either throw your hand-work away or read it ourselves.

8. Personal vs. commercial ads. You know as well as I do what a personal ad is and isn't.

9. We reserve the right to edit personals. This is exercised for editorial consistency and for clarity almost exclusively.

10. We reserve the right to refuse any ad for any reason whatsoever.

11. Changing Your ad: It's cool. But it'll cost you 5 bucks, and must be in writing.

12. Photo ads. We'll run a shot of your face or dick—but only once. Make sure it's a clear, well-lit pic. Your photo must have a signed model release. We're running out of room for them, so they'll be printed first-come, first-served, and you may have to wait a few issues.

WOLF

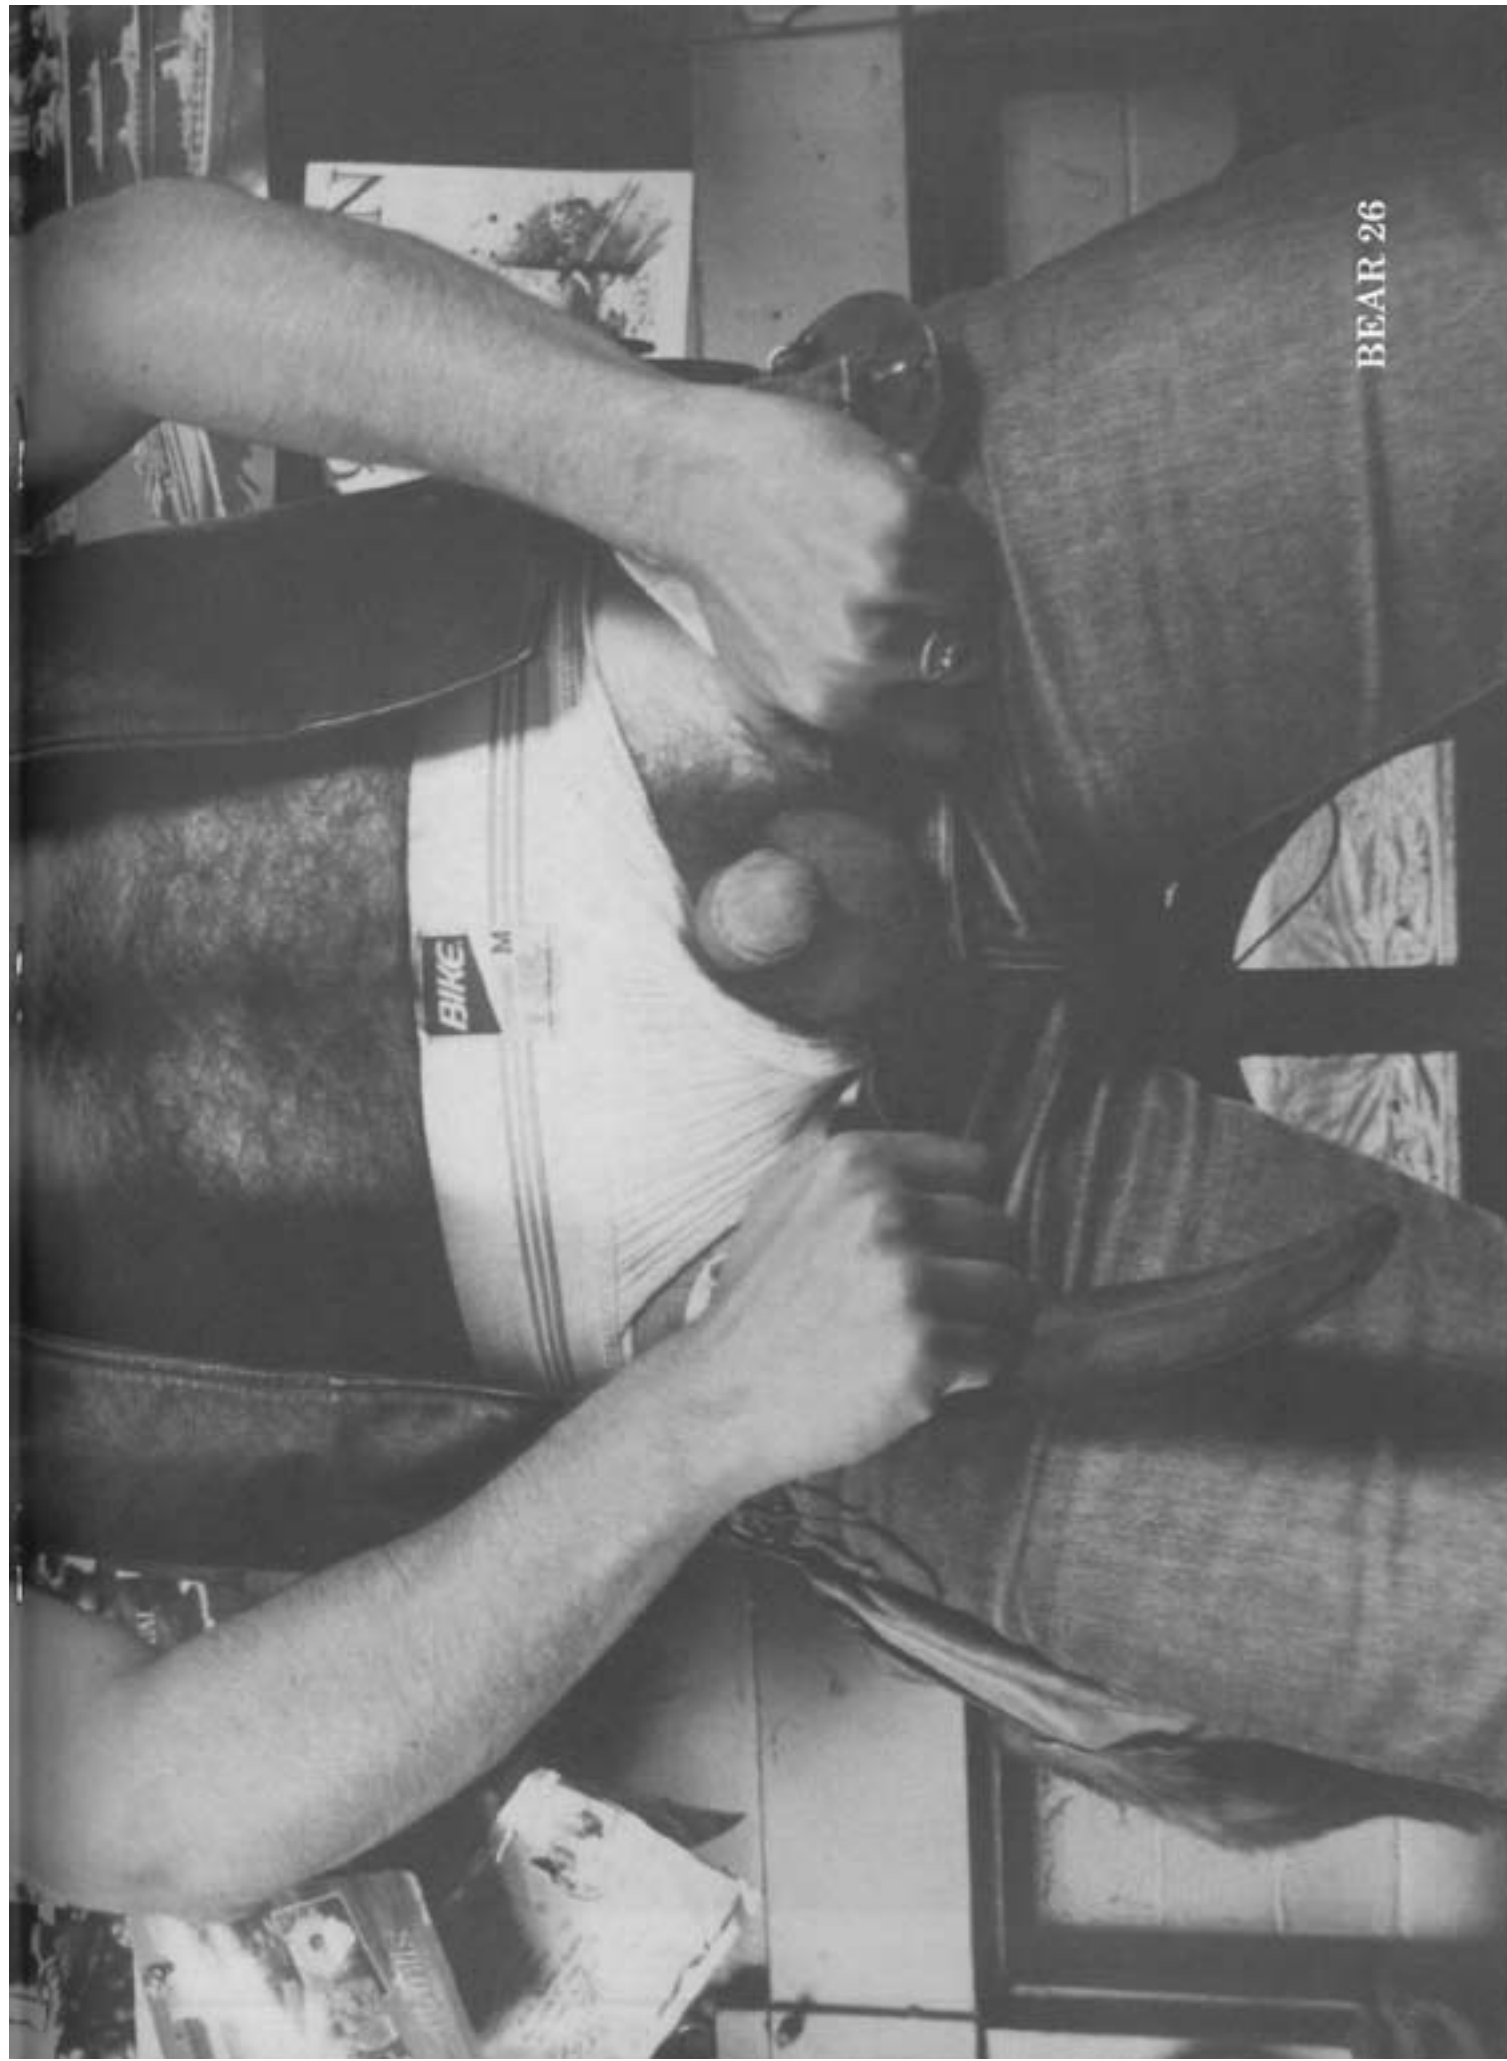

Wolf is a member of the Esselen Indian Tribe of California. He's 6', and 185 lbs. His love of hiking and camping has taken him to some unusual places. Which reminds me of the story he told me about this guy he met on the top of a pyramid in the Yucatan jungle...but you'll have to ask him to tell you the rest of that story. He says he likes muscles, fur and uncut dicks as well as an occasional youngun. He's also lookin' for some qualities in his men like strength, compassion and conviction. To sum it up in his own words, "I'm just a lonely country fuck lookin' for someone to spend some time with."

HI-TECH CONTACTS

(or why we don't take phone numbers anymore)

Once upon a time there was a lonely man. While shopping for light bulbs one evening, he discovered BEAR in the magazine rack. "O-la-la! Naked, hairy men! And there's even addresses and phone numbers too! Toss this in the cart." He went home, got a bone hard, called a number in an ad, met a man, did it, fell in love, and feathered his nest for his new live-in mate.

A year later, another lonely man called that same number from the same ad. "There's no Studly Bear here. This is a pristine Christian god-fearing household. I keep getting calls for this Studly Bear. Where'd you get this number?"

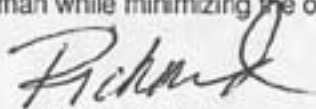

"Uh...a magazine."

"Well I'm gonna get to the bottom of this." And we at BEAR get a call—and pick up the tab for yet another phone number change.

We've asked for status changes in ads and we've verified phone numbers without charge. Still fuck-ups. Our network is just too damn big and our message is too sacred.

We can't publish phone numbers with personal ads anymore. This was not an easy compromise to make, but our legal advisor and our check book cried out for this action. However, with phone sex where it is today, we were able to save person-to-person ad contact. BEAR subscribes to one of the best, state-of-the-art services, and every advertiser, whether he uses it or not, gets a private phone mail box with a pass-code we mail off to you.

I'm a writer and I'll always opt for sending a letter off before using 20th Century technology. We'll continue to print addresses. But with BEAR now having more ads than any male magazine ever, we needed to maximize your ability to contact your fellow man while minimizing the opportunity for mistakes to happen.

Hey! You!!

Are you one of those kind of guys whose dick gets hard at the sound of a Harley & ZZ Top? The smell and feel of greasy levis and lived-in leathers? Does the idea of these things and the men who live it make your nuts ache? Me too! That's why I draw them!

I think you'd be interested in the kind of work I do. For three bucks, you'll get my brochures. Ten bucks gets you my fully illustrated catalog. Tell me you're of legal age. Fly me a kite.

Immune Power

Jon D. Kaiser, MD
St. Martin's Press
$18.95

It's important to stay healthy whether you actually have HIV or not, and finally a book has come along that's like a manual for living and taking care of yourself. It deals with medicines and herbs, and something you don't see enough of: dealing with all the emotions that build up when you have HIV. From page one to the end there's a hundred different things going on in the book. It's like reading a good story. I couldn't wait to turn the page.

The first section of the book is dietary-based. Dr. Kaiser writes everything you need to know about vitamins and supplements. He lists every food, vitamin and herb you need to help build your immune system, and a lot of what you can do to totally ruin your immune system: tobacco, alcohol, caffeine, sugar, salt—technically you can't do any of these and stay healthy. Dr. Kaiser says you're supposed to eat more oats, barley, cracked wheat; you should drink room-temperature liquids and dilute strong juices. Exercise is mandatory too, a half hour a day to sweat it out.

The next part of this book is called Emotional Healing. It talks about attitudes and mental things that happen when you're sick, or when you know you have a virus. You learn to do deep relaxations. He has this one part where he tells you to write a letter to the virus inside you—to tell it what you think about having it living in your body, and what you want to do to it. It's all about positive thinking, becoming strong emotionally, following your heart and being at peace with what's going on inside you.

The last part of the book deals with people that actually have the disease. He gives case studies of these people, then he goes into standard medical theories, AZT treatment and survival rates. It's unbelievable. Different people go through totally different cases, and you get to hear what works for them. A general breakdown of all the diseases connected with AIDS, parasites, fatigue, all that, are listed. This book provides backgrounds of some of the patients as well.

I'm actually going to bring the book to my doctor. It taught me things he may not be aware of. Because of this book I know now that being HIV+ doesn't have to be like having death knocking at your front door anymore. I intend to read the book again and again, absorbing more of it each time.

The Bear Cult

Photography by Chris Nelson, introduction by Edward Lucie-Smith
GMP, Ltd.

$24.99, available through Brush Creek Media

The history of this fine magazine your reading began in 1987 with the concept created by me and the photographic imagery created by my lover at the time, Chris Nelson. For the following three years we supported each other's art, spending virtually all of our waking hours on BEAR® and its many parts.

The Bear Cult is a coffee table picture book containing Chris' photographs of men taken from the first ten issues of BEAR, 1987-1990, the men who roamed the Lone Star Saloon in its early days, and the men who shared their lives with Chris and me. Edward Lucie-Smith, one of the world's foremost art historians and critics, wrote the introduction.

For fans of photographs of hairy, naked men, The Bear Cult is a requisite purchase.

The road home can be a long one, especially when you've strayed far from the roots that fortified your soul and prepared you for the rigors of life. A heady thought, perhaps, but it's the only one that not only applies to everyday life, but also to music. How many times have you watched a musician or songwriter, whose creations seemed to speak to you, or of a special moment in your life, drift into oblivion?

That's exactly what happened to Maria McKee. After the fast, but short-term success as voice behind Los Angeles cow-punk band Lone Justice, the demur singer/songwriter with a big voice found herself in Dublin, Ireland, in search of direction. "I tried all sorts of bits and pieces," she says, "and it led me back to rootsy American rock'n'roll. It was the tug of music that I grew up with."

That ultimately brought Maria back to Los Angeles, where she returned to the studio to record You Gotta Sin To Get Saved for Geffen Records. It is a shimmering set of tunes that deftly combine elements of rock, country, folk and gospel. Wrought with raw emotion and uplifting spirituality, this album showcases some of McKee's most affecting and animated performances to date.

"These new songs are intimate," she says. "It all comes from the gut level, from the rhythm section, which makes it all very sexual. It's hard to explain how it works, but it all comes from instinct."

The company McKee kept for this album, which included the likes of Heartbreaker Benmont Tench, super-producer Don Was and Jon

THE SOUNDS THAT ANIMALS MAKE

MUSIC REVIEWS
BY LARRY FLICK

Auer from the Posies, had its price as she puts it. "It's hard being a woman in a sea of boys," she sighs and snickers. "I felt like I had to wear my telecaster, and act really tough. You know, the whole, my balls clang and I can hang with the best of 'em, thing."

Perhaps the most striking moment on You Gotta Sin To Get Saved comes during the deliciously soulful first single, I'm Gonna Soothe You. Amid a flurry of Motown grooves and whiskey-soaked country guitars, McKee happily draws words of romance and sex that proves that you can go home again. And sometimes returning with a mature, worldly edge can make it all the sweeter.

Moving on to other music, the warm weather appears to have triggered a slew of tasty new grooves and licks. Here's a sprint through some of the more noteworthy releases. Fans of the wildly successful Robert James Waller novel, The Ballads of Madison County, will need to snag a copy of the album of songs bearing the same name. Written and performed by Waller, it takes some of the book's characters and places them within easy-going, acoustic-pop prose. Waller's voice is simple and untrained, giving the material a warm and engaging texture. The album also includes a rendition of the Jimmy Buffet standard Steamer...Peace Together, is a wonderfully relevant, musically satisfying project designed to raise money for the young people of Northern Ireland. Available on Island Records, the album has newly recorded tunes by Peter Gabriel,

Nancy Griffith and Elvis Costello, among others. Don't miss the live performance of Satellite of Love by U2 and Lou Reed. Strange, but lovely... The legendary James Taylor chronicles his 25 year career on an impeccably recorded live album on Columbia Records. With 30 songs laid over two CDs it's everything you imagine and more...is that too soft for ya? Then gird your loins and dive into Faster and Louder: The History of Hardcore Punk, on Rhino Records. So you think Pearl Jam and Nirvana are hard? Ha! You have clearly not heard Holiday in Cambodia by Dead Kennedys or World Up My Ass by Circle Jerks. And how about John Wayne Was A Nazi by The Stains? This is not for the weak of heart. But, boy is it slammin'...On the flipside of the coin, Oleta Adams provides a near-perfect soundtrack to a night of romance and cuddling with Evolution on Mercury Records. The singer/pianist who scored a hit a couple of years ago with Get Here will melt your heart, and maybe open a few buttons and zippers with ballads like I Just Had To Hear Your Voice and Hold Me For Awhile. Buy it for someone you love. And finally, if you like your music as hot and rugged as your men, you can't go wrong with Powertrippin', the third album by The Almighty on Polydor Records. The band spent much of last year touring with Motorhead and Alice Cooper, and writing and slicing, cocksure raves like Possession and Over The Edge. Let 'em work you over: you'll be left in a heaving, satisfied heap. Yum.

SHITS AND GIGGLES

Beyond The Smut

To some people, BEAR Magazine is pretty pictures and nasty ads. Nothing wrong with that—we love 'em too. But for many other men, BEAR is a forum for life-style issues—a lifestyle which encompasses American male values coupled with lust for one's fellow man.

Joe Policarpio just completed his Masters work at the University of Wisconsin and focused much of his study on the "bear phenomenon." Let me tell you, for fans of this magazine, it's a fascinating piece of research. Joe put a lot of thought into the historical, sociological and psychological reasons for our wayward leanings. His slide show, "Naked, Hairy, Homo Smut," has been shown at academic gatherings and his paper is currently being considered for publication by two major university presses.

Joe is making the paper available to readers for $10, and the slide show is yours on video for $20. I recommend it highly to you readers who look beyond the fluff of BEAR.

Joe Policarpio, 1802 Fordem #23, Madison, WI 53704

OK, one more shot of Al....

We all know who he is by now. Yeah, he's cute. We're all in love with Al the actor in Home Improvement. Gary from Kalamazoo had his big chance with Al awhile back at a live show. Here you are, Gary, immortalized for all time with the man of your dreams.

Now, the cool part:

You too can join the Al's Fan Club! That's right. For only $15, you can have your own Al t-shirt, an autographed picture of Al, and a personal letter from the man himself.

We'll pause while you catch your breath.

Feeling better? Here's how to do it. Send your check or money order to Al's Fan Club, PO Box 1642, Hollywood, CA 90078.

Now, the WAY COOL part:

The actor, Richard Karn, has accepted an honorary membership in the New England Bears organization. He responded to them personally with a thank you note. Still, I don't think you'll see him hanging around the Ramrod any time soon.

Having said all this, we're done, guys. That's it. No more mugging this poor man, OK?

Lookin' for some S.C.A.T. and J.O.?

I got your attention, right? And only to talk about Japanese marketing faux pas. Here are two less known examples of Far Eastern marketing, destined to go down in the annals of history:

J.O. Coffee. You can't go 10 feet in Japan without running into gleaming white vending machines, selling everything from hot sake to floral arrangements. Bought this little can for 79¢ at a train station awhile back. And of course J.O. Coffee comes with cream. Do you think we'd disappoint you on something like that?

S.C.A.T.

The Video Game We have RP in San Jose, CA to thank for this one. This company says the intensity is red hot in this new action-adventure thriller. Personally, I'd be a little scared to pick it up.

THE SEVENTIES ARE BACK

Walk around any of the country's cool spots these days and you'll see flair pants, platform shoes and broad leather belts once again. You might not really give a damn to hear this. BEAR's never been into fashion and most people don't have any clothes on in here anyway. But there's a reason why I'm bringing it up: Hair. There was a lot of it in the 1970s. On faces, on chests and especially in the dirty movies. And it seems to be coming back.

International Male, a bastion of hairlessness, is starting to show models with chest hair again. And voices seeking change from the unnaturally smooth and oiled image are starting to ring out from all over. Victoria Mather in London's Daily Mail recently took aim at men who shave it all off. "Should you ever get to grips with a Chippendale Man, he would shoot straight through your hands like a bar of soap." Ideas change slowly, but they do change.

A major shift in style seems to be happening these days. It may be a chance for us to see the razor addicts get off our backs. So sit back and smile because the mainstream models and advertisers are finally catching up to where we've always been.

P.S. Whatever you want to wear during all this makes no difference to us.

Cajun Bears Go To Washington

Sporting a "Fuck Y'all, I'm from Louisiana" t-shirt, Rindle-the-Man-With-America's-Furriest-Butt went and took his place in April's March on Washington, DC. He's pictured here (left) with Mark, one of our Swamp Boys. Both men, in case you forgot, are in BEAR 24, The Cajun Issue. Check 'em out.

A million people made it to the march, and bears from the world over were a big hit wherever they went.

BEAR for 4th Graders

This public service announcement was found in the Tallahassee Democrat this spring. It's funny if you consider how paranoid the north Florida governments are about dirty magazines: picture housewives in the PTA with rocket-launchers aimed at the really good bookstores. Even we wouldn't put the real BEAR® on bookmobile shelves next to Barney, the singing purple dinosaur. But they don't know that.

B.E.A.R.

Be Excited

Fourth-graders: It's BEAR season

Today's a special day — and a special newspaper — for Leon County fourth-graders. It's "Be Excited About Reading" week, when every fourth-grader gets a new book and today's Tallahassee Democrat from the Junior League, as part of its BEAR celebration.

THE BEAR BUTT.

Every once in a while you see something that makes you want to crack a smile, and this clothing store in Cody, Wyoming was a real heart-warmer for us, even though we prefer our bear's butts to be unclothed. What we really admire: that somebody sat their butt down and thought this name up.

A road to someplace I'd rather be.

This photo was found recently in The San Francisco Chronicle. It's a Sports Illustrated ad for Acidus. Looks perfectly appropriate to us, but was apparently banned in Canada. What do they do up there to amuse themselves?

A man and his machine

Few things equal the love of a man for his rig. Looks like this fella's got a first-class combination going on here. So if you see M.R. and his truck runnin' the wilds of Michigan, stop and say hello. You might also get to see what kind of bed he keeps in the back. Along with a few other tasty things.

ANDY

Hi guys! My lover thinks I'd look good in your mag, so we got sleazy one night and took these pictures. We had fun taking these because we took them out at the rest area where we met a little over a year ago. OK, so we're both a little sleazy.

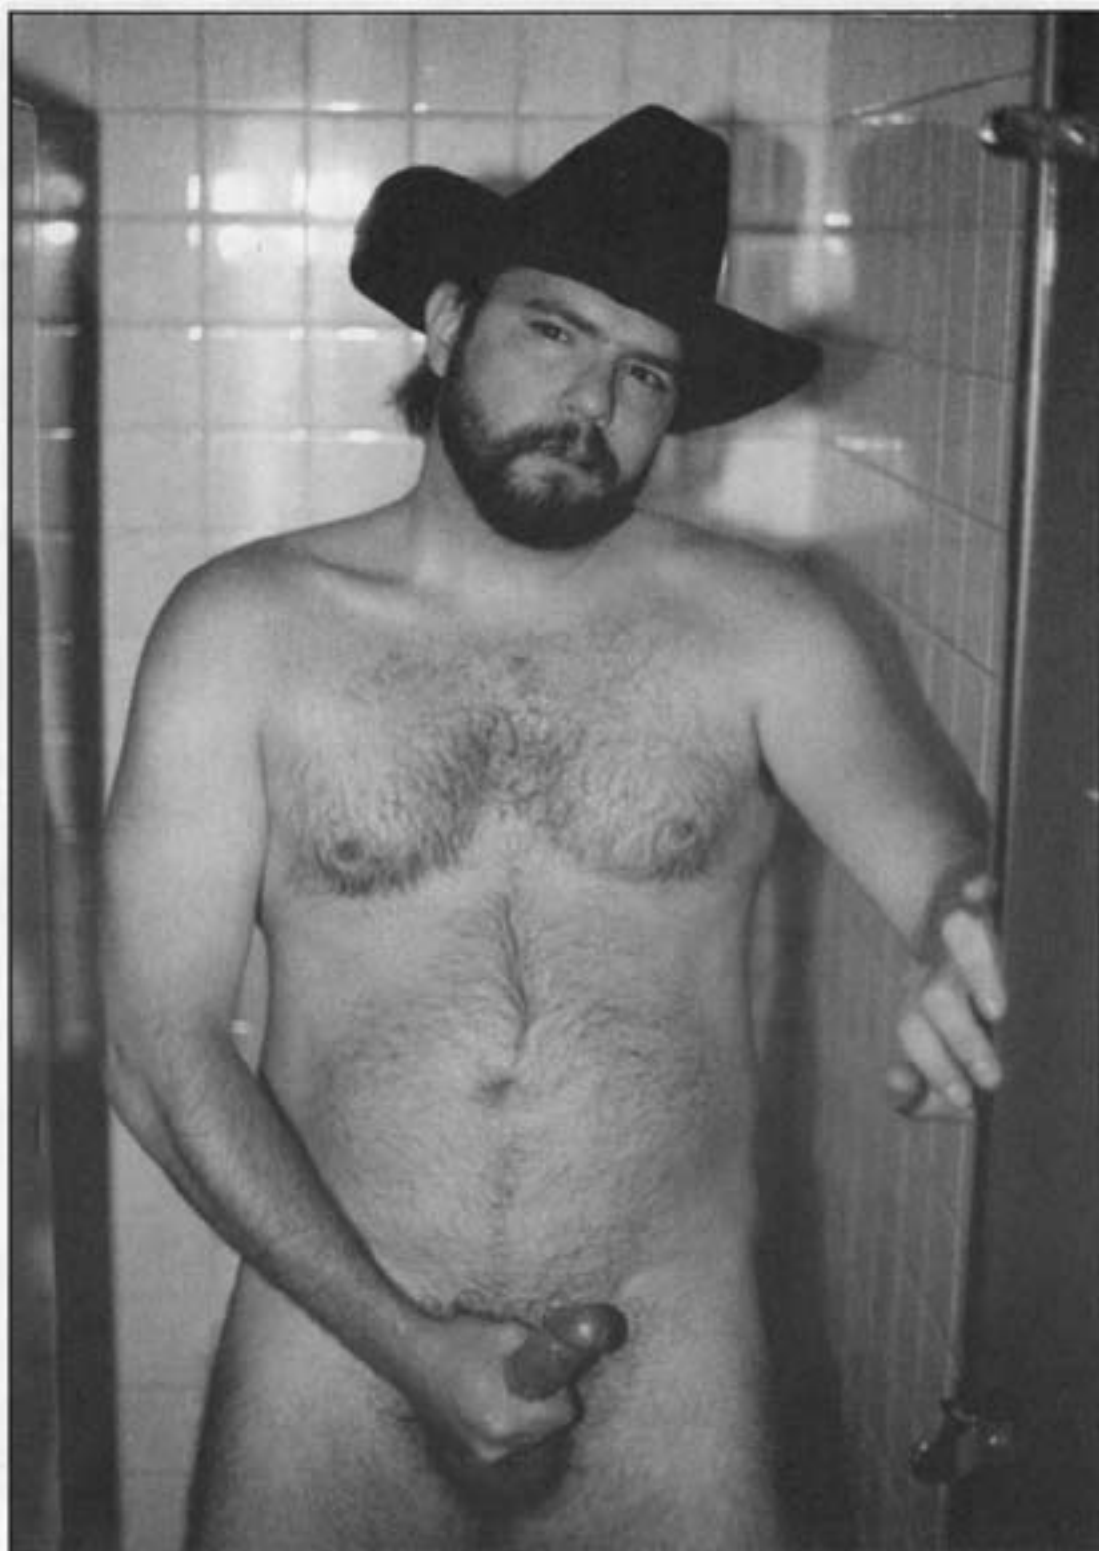

The night we took these there were two other guys, a couple of stalls down, giving each other a blow-job. At first we were kinda reluctant to start snapping pictures, but we got over it. They didn't seem to mind either. A.V. and V.B., Lincoln, NE

It just warms my heart right down to the bone when you guys send in pictures of each other. Andy was kind enough to send in his number as well, so I got on the horn and pulled a few more sleazy details out of him.

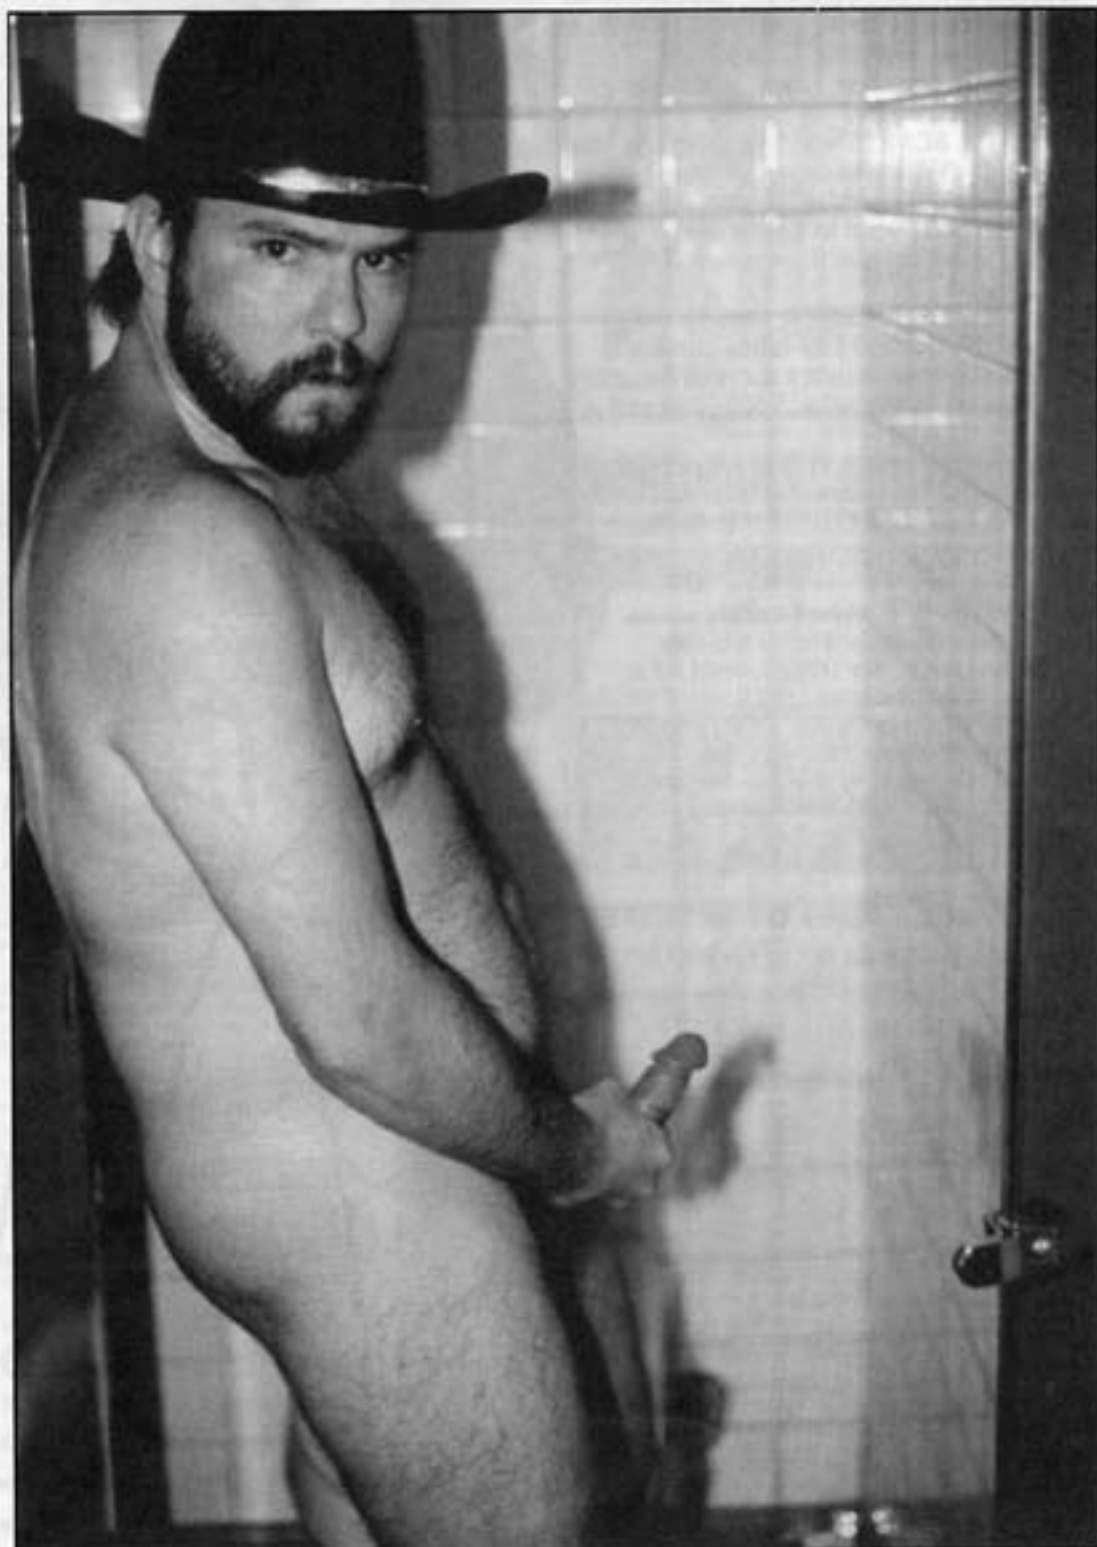

He's originally from Miami, FL. He weighs 200 lbs and stands 5' 10". He said he's attracted to hairy men with a natural masculinity and a good sense of humor. The most unusual place, besides the rest stop, that he's had sex in is the attic of the local bar. As to what he likes to do under the sheets, he says it depends on the mood. It could go anywhere from vanilla to down-right kink.
