LETTERS TO BEAR

Live, from Johannesburg

I was fortunate to find a copy of BEAR at a newly opened gay bookstore in Johannesburg just recently. And I have had a whale of a time studying all the beautiful bear meat you have in the magazine. The issue I was able to acquire was BEAR 17 with John Sprague, Ron Coleman and John Beckman. I was also very interested in some of the personal ads, but am not sure whether any of them will still be accurate. It appears BEAR 17 came out in 1990 or 1991.

Your publication is a great turn-on for me. I must have shot my load all over the place a dozen times this past few days alone. I can't wait to get back to it and read the stories again. I myself am 37 years old, am 6'3", 210 pounds, bearded and am covered with light fur all over my body. I have a 10-inch cock which is always eager to please or be pleased.

What would be the best way to obtain BEAR direct? It seems the local bookstore is unable to oblige me in obtaining further issues. Why, I don't know.

The censorship laws have changed quite dramatically in the last few months with the new government. And there is very little restriction on publications like yours. So there has been a large demand for this type of literature as far as we sexually deprived South Africans are concerned.

JU, South Africa

Literature? Why, thank you. I always just called us cheap meat, but it's nice to know you care. As for the 10-inch dick, we just wanna make sure you ain't trying to use centimeters or anything on us. Send pictures. To scale.

BEAR 17 is way old. But some of the personal ad guys are still with us, married and divorced again.

Censorship laws are a funny thing. We'd noticed that South Africa was a seriously restricted place when it came to the truly tasteful items in life such as buttocks and dripping dicks. Ironically enough, folks're trying to make things a lot harder for us here in the United States. I invite people to check out page 26 of this issue to see what I mean. It's a little scary.

In any case, best of luck in your new direction

The Wittke Wire

As I write this, it's spring and a man's thoughts turn to love. Speaking for myself as a man who sometimes has thoughts, my unrequited love affair with Casey E. (no relation to Sheila), is kaput. Casey E., you will remember from our last issue, is my impossibly gorgeous, former research assistant and intern here at The Wittke Wire.

It seems Casey E. finally got the hint that I thought he was pretty neat (I guess he must've read last issue's column) and never showed up at the Wittke Wire offices again. At first I thought, "Hmm, I wonder if Casey E.'s trying to tell me something?" Then I thought: "Intimacy issues, Casey E.!" And then it finally occurred to me that I should probably be relieved that he vanished before I did something to make myself the object of a sexual harassment suit.

Still, crushes never-meant-to-be can be awfully painful. "That's why they're called crushes," perennial supporting actor Paul Dooley tells his daughter Molly Ringwald in John Hughes' 16 Candles, "because they hurt." This advice doesn't exactly cure Molly of the blues, and it didn't do much for the stiff neck and shoulders and tension headache I got every time I obsessed about whether or not I had laughed too hard at Casey E.'s jokes; or swallowed my own opinions in deference to his once too often; or had somehow convinced myself that "Yes, he does in fact know I'm alive," when it was so darn clear he didn't.

It was all too painful and stress-provoking, so I went to a massage therapist. I took one look at the guy and zing-went-the-strings-of-my-heart. I know what you're thinking: There's no scarier thought than Wittke on the rebound. Well, lemme tell ya, this massage therapist guy looked like a cross between Alan Arkin and Ed Harris and his educated hands played my body like a concertina. I mean, what's not to love? By the time he got to my buttocks I was thinking, "Casey who?"

And also, I was thinking about Ed Harris, who looks so very striking in the coming attractions for this summer's Apollo 13 movie. And Alan Arkin, too, who was so beautifully bearded in The Seven Percent Solution—always worth a video rental. Back in the early '70s, when I was just knee-high to a knucklebone, I used to stare at the newspaper ads for the film of Catch-22. It showed a set of dog tags nestled in the fur-covered sternum area between a pair of delectably suckable nipples. Alan Arkin's nipples. Alan Arkin's chest hair. I was instantly converted to Alan Arkin fandom. And the groundwork for this column was laid in the psyche of the pre-teen version of your humble Wittke Wire reporter.

My thoughts were then suddenly occupied by memories of lots of hot-looking, talented character actors and bit players and all those supporting non-superstars who don't get awarded bonus points and a major head start in their acting careers simply because they're gorgeous-looking. And how these second bananas and Regular Joes as a lover of hairy men. Other than the clogged sewer drain, I think you'll be quite happy.

The Beat Goes On

I will miss the articles by John Dibelka, and wish him well in his future endeavors. Mr. Dibelka, as with many of the writers in BEAR, writes with the assumption the reader is intelligent and interested in something above the groin. Unfortunately this attitude is rare in publications of this genre.

Regarding the models: Nothing wrong with them, but would it not be possible to do an occasional photo-spread on an older man, one in his late 50s? As Chiron Rising has so successfully proved, we might be gray, a touch flabby, but damn it, we are not dead yet! To quote Elf, an artist/writer in Oregon, "As any cattleman will tell you, all beef—even beefcake—is best when properly aged with a bit of marbling." (CR, Issue 34, page 24).

LG, California

We, too, will sorely miss Dibelka's wisdom and inescapable character (by the way, he says "Hi, what do you want? I'm on my way to the beach..."). But such is the way of all things. And you just wait until you wrangle a little with Killer.

He's by no means a new kid on the block. He's quite good, in fact.

Older models: You'll see 'em. We're working our asses off to keep ahead of the style police, and those who try to define for us what's right for BEAR. Nile, in BEAR 32, was, dare I say, not one of our younger features. He's good proof of your theories on maturity—age is a wonderful part of life, a hell of an asset to masculinity and an acceptable form of expression in BEAR.

Paws

I just received BEAR 31, and I'm glad to see that BEAR is in good hands—or paws—under your new ownership. In fact, it seems that the mag has been improved. And that's no mean feat.

I've been a subscriber since 1990, and a great fan of BEAR. This last issue is the first one in memory in which every one of the models popped my cork. Keep up the great work, guys.

MM, Florida

BEAR is in good hands—not paws. You can't type worth shit with paws. Believe me, we've tried @#$%.

Few stores have been left unturned around the shop during the sale transitions. When they lifted the rack under which Your Editor was hiding, it wasn't pretty.

But getting you guys off is the only reason we're here. Keep in touch.

Slammin' the Sausage With a Side o' Stogie

The cover of BEAR 31 is the best I've ever seen! Hell, on my drive home from buying it I had it sitting on the seat beside me. That in itself had me lighting up one of my own stogies and jacking off as I drove my truck down the two-lane back road to home.

Big hunky men have always been the men for me. Give me a fella with a cigar or pipe and I'll give him just what he wants and needs. And if he proudly sports a large, tight beer-belly, all the better. I've been known to shoot a load just sucking off a beer-belly man. To feel the weight of a big man on top of me with my hard dick rubbing that belly, needless to say, gets me shooting a load.

Keep the cigar/pipe men coming! There are a lot of them out there and I hope I'm not the only one who enjoys them.

CJ, Maryland

Like we're gonna fuckin' argue with you here?

By Chris Wittke

stand in the scene, but not in the spotlight, and they help to make the world (at least as it's captured in movies and television) a little bit more honest than it would be if the one-kind-of-beauty fascists had complete control of the images paraded before us.

And then I thought of how true this scenario is in other arenas. One letter I got from a BEAR reader recently mentioned some of my coverage of country-Western music videos. He pointed out that, while the occasional black hat-wearing superstar is in fact pretty hot, it's often the boys in the band—the bearded, burly, furry-forearmed guys cranking the guitars or pounding the skins—who are worth a second look. So I popped on my Nashville Network and damn if it weren't true. Audience shots and narrative videos are studded, so to speak, with fellas who'd look pretty tasty spreading their legs for the pages of this magazine. They're just regular guys who generate an honest heat, because regular guys and honesty are pretty hot.

And speaking of regular guys and heat, last time I mentioned the guy who plays Louis Utz on NBC's Hope & Gloria, and let me tell you, my gut instinct was right on the money. In one recent episode, Louis played Jesus in a church production that required him to run around in, well, a sort of giant diaper. Although I personally have never been one for the infantilism scene (not that there's anything wrong with that), this furry, balding McNugget looked mighty tasty. Just like I told you he would.

And speaking of Seinfeld, I know those of you regular viewers out there have taken note of Elaine's mechanic boyfriend David. (He's the character who steals Jerry's Move and uses it on Elaine and then George tries The Move on his girlfriend only to be told that she feels as if she is being probed by space aliens.) If you're like me, you sat mesmerized staring at your television set in David's shirtless bed-scene, drooling at the thickly developed musculature and the dense carpet of fur. "Why oh why," you probably screamed along with me, "would some heavyweight bodybuilders choose to shave their bodies when they could look as perfect as this?"

Did you also know that the actor who plays David, Patrick Warburton, has also been playing a recurring role on CBS's Dave's World? It's true. Over there, he plays Eric, a rather dim-bulb handy man who's pretty hilarious. Also, the Dave's World wardrobe people keep Warburton in basket-revealing denim, something the Seinfeld people opt not to do.

OK, so to review: In this edition of Wittke Wire we've learned that although cultural ideals of gorgeousness occasionally produce aesthetically pleasing images (and people), it's the Regular Joes who make life (and love) interesting. That's why if you go to see that Mel Gibson kilt movie this summer, you'll spend all your time looking at the men in the background. And waiting for the mooning scene. ☺

Glad you've been known to shoot a load while sucking off a beer-belly man. Have you been known to actually know the beer-belly men you're sucking off? We hope not. Being social is hard on a fella's schedule.

You will see cigars and pipes in BEAR. They're a turn-on for a lot of men, quite a few of whom work here at the shop. Any streaks you see on BEAR pages are probably ash we didn't feel like wiping up.

Sell-Outs

Greetings from the Show Me State. I can't thank you guys enough for finding a few more back copies of BEAR 27. To me, Bill in that issue is the hottest guy you have ever shown. I somehow missed BEAR 27 when it was released—it must have sold out in record time—and had to borrow a friend's.

But now in BEAR 31 you have Scotland. Woof! I'd like to lick his balls for a few millennia. The only thing missing from his spread is a picture of Scotland's dick taken from above. I like to fantasize about 69-ing with a guy, and it's so much easier when you've seen his dick from every angle in the magazine. But believe me, I don't have any problems imagining what it would be like. Let him know he's got one satisfied fan here in St. Louis! He's definitely going to keep me company for a long time.

Also, to Chris Wittke, your column is great! You have a great eye for gorgeous men. Is there any way you can persuade Michael Schruender to do a DaDé poster or shirt featuring Rick Steiner in a compromising position? That would be awesome! Thanks again, guys, for a great magazine. KD, Missouri

We're getting wind (oh...shewz us) that a lot of bookstores sell out of BEAR and don't call us to order more. Don't let that happen. Stand up for your rights! Tell your bookseller to call us 'cause we're real cool, and we'll send them more so you can masturbate, and all will be well with the world.

Newbie

I'm a newly found reader of your magazine; I just purchased BEAR 30. I'm so glad to find out that men like real men, not the young twitty surfer types.

The guy's picture from South Africa in issue 30 is amazing. Holy mackerel, I'm packing my bags! That kind of man only happens in magazines. Unfortunately I'm stuck in Memphis. At least your magazine gets here! Keep up the good work! BF, Tennessee

Men "like that" do happen in magazines, but only 'cause they happen in real life too. We'll send one your way as soon as possible. Should we just leave him on the doorstep if there's no one there to sign for him?

Hey, Guys, Can I Play Too?

I'm not sure what the hell a bear actually is. I am ignorant, but at least I know I am. Maybe you could answer some questions I have. Does a bear have to have facial hair? Does he need to have body hair in order to be classified as a bear? I ain't trying to be cute or smart-assed. I just don't know. As far as I can see, guys who call themselves bears have facial hair, as though it's a prerequisite for being a bear. Most of them are also beefy, husky guys. In other words, they are hot men. Not all of them sport real hairy bodies. Some are kinda smooth. It's that facial hair thing I can't figure out. I've heard one shaven man call himself a bear. A friend of mine said he couldn't be a bear 'cause he didn't have a beard. How much hair is enough? Will a moustache suffice?

And here's another one: Do bears have to be big guys, naturally muscled and all filled out? Can a slender fellow be called a bear if he has facial hair and acts like a man? I just don't fuckin' know and hope you guys can give me some info about the qualifications necessary for being a bear.

I realize attitude counts. But I'll be real honest with you. I have come across great, hunkin' men who act sissy as hell. They call themselves bears and they look like bears. They just act feminine. So is attitude really any part of it? Is being a bear just a sexual thing or a physical thing? Or does it pervade all aspects of a bear's life? Fill me in, guys. I wanna know.

I can sort of figure out what entails at least looking like a bear by looking at the ads and pictures of the dudes in your magazine. But I get thrown off sometimes. I like the kind of guys that pose in your magazine. I guess they all qualify as bears, but when I told a friend of mine that I liked bears and that they didn't seem interested in me, he said it was because I wasn't big enough for them and that I wasn't hairy enough for them. He told me I couldn't be a bear. Needless to say, I was not happy to hear that. I'm sending in a photo, and I'll ask you if I could qualify as a bear or not. RM, North Carolina

Why are you asking? What would you do if I answered that question? There's only two choices—you'd either feel like you're better than others, or worse.

We don't play that shit here.

I've got your picture right here on my desk. You're a fuckin' babe: 6-feet, 200 pounds, muscular, rugged and good-looking. No other definition is required. Read BEAR 'cause you like it.

And tell that friend of yours I said he should lick your hairy ass.

Lust Conquers All

Hey guys, just a short note here to let you know that I received BEAR 31. Thanks a whole lot! I can attest to BEAR's saving qualities. At the time I received my issue, I was down in the dumps, confused about my sexuality and not knowing who or what I was. I was suffering a bit of a bisexual complex, but when I saw that envelope in my postal box, I was overcome with excitement and anxiousness. My mouth began to water (along with a few other choice parts) when I saw Rob on the cover.

I guess BEAR Magazine has set my confusion straight—so to speak. It has reconfirmed my attraction to big, burly, bearded, blue-collar, hairy men. And now I feel no guilt or confusion. Thank you.

BS, British Columbia

It's time to announce to the world: We're out to conquer the planet Earth. Resistance is futile. All will become one with the mighty forces of BEAR. Prepare to be assimilated, dudes.

HERBERT & BARRIE

Herbert (the salt-and-pepper-haired guy) lives in Germany. Barrie (the brown-haired guy) lives in Scotland. These days, Europeans hop back and forth like it's nothing. Herbert and Barrie met in the Canary Islands, Europe's version of Puerto Vallarta, and they've been pals ever since. We shot 'em on one of their frequent San Francisco rendez-vouses.

Herbert works with computers in Frankfurt, and has been known to cruise rest areas on the Autobahn. They can go as fast as they want there, y'know. Likes to eat ass and fuck.

Barrie's a petrol chemist, usually heading off in a helicopter, through storms and fog, to oil-drilling platforms in the North Sea. The drillers work two-week shifts out on the rigs; Barrie likes to catch 'em right when they're at their dirtiest and horniest.

So you can see, together they make a relaxed, fun-loving couple of guys. Enjoy their big, dripping naked bits.

Sorry, Matt

J.S. Adams

Illustration by DaDé/URSUS

Matt is one of those Kentuckians I feel privileged in knowing. A native son who smoothed my move to the Bluegrass State by admonishing my preconceived Yankee notions and myths about Kentucky. A ready smile. Gifted with both wicked humor and a sensual intelligence. The touch of dark skin. Brown eyes that merely hint at the pleasure available to me. Now, again, for the asking. Yet tonight's mutual adventure would have to wait.

"Sorry, Matt. It's got to be some other time. Jack needs a ride back to Louisville tonight." I had taken on the added responsibility of bar-hopping to Lexington with a friend. A friend for whom an overnight stay was out of the question. Translated: I would now drive back home to "last call" and an empty bar in Louisville, frustrated as all shit. With truly felt regrets, I promised Matt a solo return in a week or so. "Promise."

But heading out the front door of Crossings, my vision immediately fell directly across the street to the occupant of a parked car. A pepper-gray beard with black hair, looking at me. Woof! My hormones shot into overload. If this man was heading into the bar, I was ready to about-face and go back inside for him. (Sorry, Matt.)

"Careful, Kev. Station wagon." My sweet dreams were suddenly shattered. "Station wagon," Jack warned again without breaking stride; as if some invisible warning sign had suddenly come alight, flashing atop my vision's car. Obvious Married Man on the Prowl! Proceed With Caution!

With my apologies to Matt still resounding and deadening the primal urge, I now resolved myself to an even more frustrating ride home. I nodded acknowledgment to yet another missed opportunity and headed around the corner to where I had parked. Looking over my shoulder, I noticed the station wagon pull away and head down the adjacent street.

"Scared him," Jack taunted. "Obviously doesn't like bear meat."

The truth in Jack's barb rang true. Too often, my choice for the hometown hunt would himself be more interested in younger, smoother prey. Hence so many road trips to Cincinnati, Indianapolis or Lexington.

"Jerk. Your stupid need to get back home tonight is killing my love life."

"Bet he comes back around," Jack offered in an attempt to salvage his ride back.

"Enough outta you. Shut up and get in...." As I unlocked the door, sure enough, the station wagon passed by us and turned into the lot across the street. He parked and turned off his lights. "OK, you win, cocksucker. Let's go talk to him."

"Naw, this one's your fantasy. Just promise me a rest stop before Simpsonville," Jack grinned, heading back toward the front door of the bar.

"Hey, no promises. This may be quick," I warned as I walked over to find out what was waiting for me.

As I came around the driver's side, my suitor was sitting with his car door open. I stooped to greet him at eye level. Though I may claim poor night-vision, even from across the street I knew this was prime material. One-on-one proved true every quality I had spotted at a distance: pepper-gray beard covering squared jaw, thick dark hair, olive skin. Face-to-face now proved further reward in deep green eyes, a broad smile and rugged hand working cock through worn, black jeans.

"Evening," I began. "Saw you outside the bar. Name's Kevin. Yours?"

"Steve." Words sculpted in the thick, country accent that rural Kentucky affords, broke from his lips. "Where you from?"

"My friend and I are heading back to Louisville. You got a better offer?"

"Don't do three-ways."

"Fine. Just me here. You from Lexington?"

"Yeah."

"Got a place we can go?"

"Nope."

It wasn't hard to realize that conversation would be at a minimum here. I wanted to blow his stealth cover and ask about the wife and kids, but refrained. There were other parts of this man I wanted to blow.

"There's a bookstore on Broadway," he suggested.

"Fraid not." It was my turn to give a blunt negative.

"Back to the bar?" He motioned.

"No." Definitely not, after my apologetic exit. I refused to eat my words in front of Matt. I may be a pig, but I still have some sense of decorum and honor.

"I'm sure we'll think of something. First things first." Steve swung out of the car and stood tall. I was taken aback, having misjudged his height while seated. I mean, this man stood tall. I'm by no means short, but in comparison...this guy was pushing the six-and-a-half foot marker. Double woof! There was definite ursine lineage in the bloodline—one of those rural Kentucky myths verified before me in the flesh. (Sorry, Matt.)

Steve then popped the fly of his jeans, pulled out his piss-hard dick and began to relieve himself between the parked cars. So much for modesty. My own bladder was equally in need of relief, so I, too, answered this spontaneous call of nature.

Just as I had begun to piss out the evening's many rounds of beer, Steve's hand darted into my stream; piss shot across and through his fingers. I turned to grab his dick and was immediately pulled into his grasp, his mouth pressed against mine. So much for minimal discourse; the decision to go elsewhere had just evaporated.

Steve leaned back against his car with legs bent, bringing us to about the same height. Eager hands stroked dicks and squeezed nipples through T-shirt and through flannel. I cupped his beard in my hands and pressed my tongue deep into his mouth. Pushing further, Steve worked my cock inside his open jeans and then maneuvered his own dick into my unbuttoned fly. Pissing continued.

Piss. I flushed on my own excited discovery. Early one morning after a particularly rambunctious night with Matt, I'd left him in bed while I lumbered downstairs to the john. Groggily releasing my night's load, when, from behind, Matt began brushing his beard across my neck and shoulders, reaching around me, squeezing my tits, his hand-on now rising against my ass. His coarse hands moved down through the fur on my stomach to begin stroking my cock. "Man, I can't piss when you do that!" I yawned. "Just keep going," Matt urged and cupped his hand over the head of my dick. His shield reflected the stream back over my shaft and balls, down my thighs and legs. Matt swung me around and knelt down, taking my piss-covered cock into his mouth. Piss continued to flow with Matt savoring each saline drop. The distinct smell. The forbidden taste. The warmth. Mutual excitement discovered.

The feeling of jeans and crotches soaked in piss pushed Steve and me further. Grinding cock harder against cock. Hands wrung the wetness to feed eager mouths. Biting down on fingers and palms coated in the salty taste. Pulling and twisting on dick covered in the briny taste. Steve slipped down to his knees to experience the flavor—the pleasure—firsthand.

Rising ecstasy was put on temporary hold by an approaching racket and laughter coming up the side alley. We froze. Steve then proved he could talk in full sentences when he wanted something; he looked up and whispered, "It's OK, man. Just the final crew from the strip bar up the way—it closed hours ago. They can't see over here. Things should be quiet until Crossings closes. Just keep going."

Looking down into those green eyes, watching his furry face break into a broad grin, he didn't need to coax me into something I already wanted to do. This was one hot man in front of me. Stroking. Licking my dick. "Sure. You keep at it too." I pushed my cock back into that furry face.

Sucking dick. I remember first meeting Matt at a COLTS run in Lexington. He and his roommate, David, had a wake-up call ritual: whoever was up first became responsible for coffee and for rousing the other, be it with buckets of ice water, blaring TVs or sexual favors. David picked me that time. I met Matt by waking him up. My turn.

Ab, yes, the first sight of Matt stretched out on the bed....I thought only about tasting this stranger laid out before me, fur running solid from his dark beard down to his morning hard-on. I knelt down next to the bed and began licking his thigh, up the side, to his chest, and then back along his torso. Hands rubbed the inside of his furry thighs, squeezed his balls. Enough play. Time to get him up. The musky smell of a man in the morning. Inviting taste. Sucking dick. Balls. Shaft. Inching deeper down on his dick with each swallow. Matching each passionate increase in his cock by taking him further into my throat. Moans signaled Matt's approaching orgasm. His load shot across stomach and chest hair. Through my beard. Fur. Broad grins framed by beards. Cam. A morning to remember. Sucking dick.

Steve was yet another man who enjoyed the taste and feel of a man's dick in his mouth. Watching him jack his own meat while kneeling in front of me. Sucking. Steve straightened up and we continued our fevered stroking. Rubbing foreskin and cock. Rough, callused hands. Lapping mouthfuls of saliva into palms. Lubing ever-stiffening dicks. I ran my thumb back and forth over his cockhead. Ran circles on his cockhead.

Wet. With my spit. With his increasing pre-cum.

Steve tipped his head back and let go a low, pleased growl. Overly short on words, he didn't make it quite obvious what he enjoyed. Viewed at this angle and time, there is something innately sexy about the way the neck meets the outline of a beard. There is special power in the vision of a man getting off. Enjoying his body. Enjoying contact with another man. With head thrown back and shoulders to the car roof, Steve arched his body forward. Increasing the grip and rhythm, I reached further into his opened jeans with my free hand. Behind his tightening ballsac. To finger tight ass.

Fucking. There is vital energy in a man's ass. Most evident with the man who enjoys it being played with. Rimmed. Fingered. The energy is most alive with the man who enjoys getting fucked. Hard and long. Pushed back on his shoulders in bed. Ass up in the air. Legs over your shoulders. Looking down. Watching dick push in and out. In and out of eager ass. Consumed in the desire of fucking. The total experience of fucking a man. Locked eyes in knowing stares; he knows you're deep inside of him. He wants you there. The feeling, driving cock into tight ass. The intense shoving. You cum inside this man. He feels your spasms. Cumming inside this man. Your jim worms inside his bowels. Screwing Matt for the first time was such an experience. Come on, buddy! Watching my cock plow into his furry butt. Fuck me! Arms and legs intertwined. Wrapped together in passion. Again. Fucking. Harder!

Steve and I pressed closer, wrapped in strong hugs, feverishly working each other's reddened dicks beyond return. Come on! Work that ass! Burying faces in each other's hair and beards, to muffle moans and clenched-teeth fits of orgasm. Fuck yab! Together, man! Fists, cocks, jeans went wet with cum. Thighs, cocks, asses wet with cum.

I continued nuzzling Steve's beard and neck. Again enjoying the feelings, the pleasure found with another man. I revel in the thick purr of a contented man. Music to my ears. Music out of the soothed beast. Music that hurls me through both reality and fantasy; one place, another place...the pleasure of one man heightened by memories of another. The continued pleasure. Man-to-man. Men-to-men. Again....

"You sure are one slow driver, Kev. I figured you halfway home by now." I bolted—immediately dragged back to the singular reality of the here-and-now. To Matt, standing beside us, a smile on his face.

Shit! I had failed to recognize the pickup truck that had helped shield our parking lot rendezvous. Matt's red Chevy!

Sorry, Matt. ☐

Things To Do

by Luke

21-23 July 1995. Washington state. Experience a weekend of camping and frolic at a private campground at the foot of Mount Si, right on the Snoqualmie River. Your Editor has climbed Mount Si, in the rain, and bitched the whole way. But the scenery there is outstanding. Call Renegade Bears at 206-823-6639 for information (it's someone's house, so behave). Twenty campsites, small fee, much nudity in isolated woods. If the other guys won't suck you off, the mosquitoes probably will. If it's dark. And they can't see what you look like.

5-6 August 1995. Toronto, Canada. Bear Buddies Toronto are having a two-day picnic. Second annual. Toolbox bar by night, Club Toronto by day. Can't beat Canadian men in the sun—they get all red and freckly. Contact BBT, PO Box 926 Stn. E, Toronto, Ontario M4Y 2N9, or call 416-925-XTRA, Box 1-2176.

11-13 August 1995. Portland, Oregon. It's Prowl '95, Portland Cascade Bears' annual party and means of sexpression. Call their infoline at 503-323-6071 to find out how you should carry yourself in their midst. And let us know how much fun you had.

18-20 August 1995. New York. The Bergenfield Bears of New York are havin' a camp-out and want you to bring the baked beans with wieners. Takes place at Valinor Farms in Kintnersville, Pennsylvania. It costs money, but is an AIDS benefit. You can sleep in a bankhouse if tents don't match your bandanna. Contact The Bergenfield Bears Lodge, PO Box 980, New York, NY 10113.

26 August 1995. Boston, Massachusetts. New England Bear Contest. The one that started it all. The contest takes place at the Ramrod, by the Fens on Boylston Street. It's a major party, show and way to give those Bostonians a run for their money. I'll be there, so you can buy me a drink. Call 508-458-0011.

1-4 September 1995. Seattle, Washington. Girth & Mirth Convergence. Big guys and the guys who like 'em big. Takes place at Seattle's Westin Hotel, not a bad place n'tall. Make your own reservations with the hotel, 800-228-3000, or 206-728-1000 from points overseas. All meals buffet-style, so mind you don't get squeezed out. Write for event tickets to G&M Convergence '95, 12023 64th South, Seattle, WA 98178.

15-17 September 1995. Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. The Red Earth Bears are havin' a to-do, the Indian Summer Bearade '95. Face a Beard, Belly, Butt & Box Contest and stay in a hotel with others wanting sex. Contact Ray at 405-672-4024, Alan at 405-528-7839 or John at 405-557-1169. It's their houses; be considerate.

24 September 1995. San Francisco, California. Folsom Street Fair. Probably one of the biggest, nastiest street fairs on the continent. About 200,000 people in leather. One wanders, is nasty, tries to eat vegetarian phad Thai without spilling it down the back of the collared/leashed individual in front of one in the crowd.

29 September-1 October 1995. Denver, Colorado. Front Range Bears do their big thing, the OctobearFest 1995. It's become one of the big events of the year. Picnic in the mountains, buffet, Front Range Bear contest, bar-b-que and bearhug party (sex). Call FRB at 303-331-2705, or write PO Box 101433, Denver, CO 80250.

1-31 October 1995. Earth, Sol System, Western Spiral Arm, Milky Way Galaxy. Apparently it's Gay History Month. Play Trivial Pursuit and pick brown all the time. (Or is it yellow?)

19-22 October 1995. Orlando, Florida. The Florida Bear Bust. This is one of the year's biggest and best things to do. You'll see lots of men made famous by their beauty; others will be discovered, and booze and sex will flow. Bob Graves and his incredible Full Moon Saloon will be the host and venue, respectively. Just don't let Bob drive you anywhere, he's a fuckin' maniac behind the wheel. Write the Bears of Central Florida, PO Box 647, Orlando, FL 32802.

We actually got out of the house a little since you last saw us. The weekend of April 15, while the rest of the country was home doing their tax returns, a contingent from BEAR Magazine went to Seattle to make as many people nervous as we could.

The Northwest Bears' Spring Thaw Weekend took place. Guys dropped by from Cascade Bears in Portland, BC Bears in Vancouver, and from all points around the Northwest. The Spring Thaw's becoming a great way to shake off the winter blues so prevalent in the Pacific Northwest. Sun shines for the first time in months. Guys expose hairy body parts. Life becomes worth living again. You really shoulda been there.

BEAR Publisher Bear-Dog Hoffman, marketing guru Leif Wauters and some guy named Lake hit the scene to get grass-roots and to case the joint for our upcoming Northwest issue of BEAR. It worked. We met several guys willing to drop their drawers and wag their dicks for us (and you).

Spag's Bar, one of the old classic taverns of Seattle's Capitol Hill, was packed. Apparently the previous owner happened by to see a line of people waiting to get in—something never before seen in the bar's 30-year history.

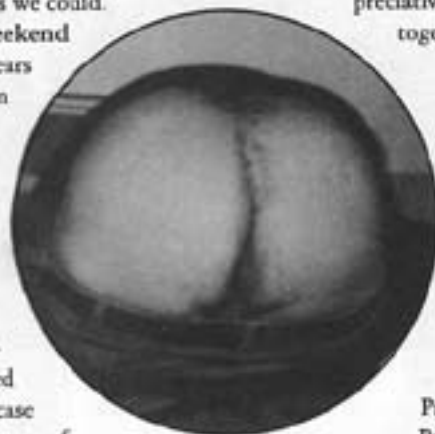

Uncharacteristically good weather let us all take a boat cruise on Lake Washington. They had a great deal of alcohol, and some pretty good pasta. When we passed Bill Gates' house under construction, the damn boat just about tipped over with all the guys hanging on the rail to take pictures.

A special thanks goes to Alex of Spag's for his patience, and for letting us do a naked photoshoot in his bar so early in the morning.

It All Comes Out In The End

by TW George

And to Steve of the Gaslight Inn—a breathtaking Victorian bed and breakfast where we stayed as his guests.

It was memorable to meet so many handsome men who are so appreciative of each other, of a nice weekend and getting together to grab each other in bars. Thanks, guys!

Bear Pride '95 happened Memorial Day Weekend in Chicago. It coincided with International Mr. Leather, and Track 2, the queer square-dancing convention. So there were guys everywhere, looking all kinds of ways. The leather fringe was especially cool.

These events have basic patterns to them, designed to maximize your mingling time and minimize your responsibility time. The bear folks in Chicago did an excellent job organizing and handling the participants in Bear Pride '95.

People like to make fun of the Executive Plaza hotel where the event was housed; their elevators oft leave you hanging between life and death. But you know how these guys are. All the more chances to meet and grope.

A bar night at Gentry's on Rush Street found the place so packed it was almost scary—depending on who it was you were thrust up against. Your author got to watch people fondle a penis in flagrant violation of Chicago city code. Don't tell.

We asked some guy named Tim Martin if he wanted to be in BEAR. He blushed and never got back to us.

The annual Chicago event has two highlights: the picnic in Lincoln Park which did not get rained out this year and of which below there is a delightful picture. This year they had it catered, and the food was pretty good. Lots of straight people stopped by to see what the hell was going on.

The other big event was the search for hunks o' the year. They were selected at the big contest thing. A Full Moon Saloon bartender from Orlando, Ed Blaisdell, won Cub and all-around Mr. Bear. Remember Dury from our Texas Issue last spring? He won Mr. Grizzly. Clark Buffkin of Minneapolis won Polar Bear. Twenty-one guys tried out for the contest. We've never gone for beauty pageants ourselves. But to see all these guys strutting their stuff with all the cheering and woofing going on was good. B

This is JCT from New Hampster.

He loves cars, and likes to be seen around New England being cool, hunky and cute. So honk and wave. But—be aware that his mom often borrows his cars. Make sure it's him before you start flagging an LOL (little-old-lady) for a BJ and JO.

The Big Up-And-Comings...

If you don't get around very much, you still have the chance to maximize your out-time at the following bear-related events. There are lots more, but these are the annual "Big Kahunas" we want everyone to keep in mind:

- Bear Rendezvous, President's Weekend, San Francisco
- Bear Pride, Memorial Day Weekend, Chicago
- Octobearfest, late October, Denver
- Orlando Bear Bust, late October, Orlando

MY ARM HURTS LIKE A SON OF A BITCH

by Killer

My arm hurts as I write this. I got a new tat yesterday. Inside right forearm, a Ka-Bar. Ouch. But write I must. Guess this is the part about suffering for art or some bullshit. For those of you who don't know, a Ka-Bar is a particular kind of knife. There's a reason I got a knife. I like 'em. They're useful. They come in handy. There is also a certain eroticism to them for me.

Now I can't be anything but direct in some things: My roommate and good buddy John died about three weeks back. And so, I've been doing a lot of cutting lately, whittling things away, refining, honing. Y'see, it's time to move.

I looked after John as best I could and he kept getting sicker and sicker. He'd have done the same for me. It wasn't much of a pain in the ass, but it was just that from time to time. And he made me promise I'd move in with my man Crusher when he died. In order to keep that promise, I'll be leaving San Francisco and moving to the Midwest, some 2,000 miles away.

It is much to the horror of friends in San Francisco that I discuss quite calmly my move. The Midwest remains to many flyover territory; come on, none of this is news. Simply put, I don't like San Francisco.

I'm tired of every substrata of urban life being called a community. I'm tired of references to the leather community, the bear community, the drag community, the transgender community, the fisting community, the prostitute community, ad nauseum. The last time I noticed everyone being pigeon-holed to death in a similar manner was when I was in high school.

I've always been independent. Don't like people to tell me what to do, how to act, what to think, what to feel, what opinions to prize. I've had guys here ridicule me for working on my truck, for an occasional hunting or camping trip, for my passion for football and for my lack of interest in referring to another man as her, she, sister or thing. I am not your girlfriend.

I'm tired of the bullshit controversies that pop up in this town. For example, last year during the Folsom Street Fair, there was much uppityness about people showing up nude. It is an adult-themed street fair, mind you; since many of the bars in that part of town are leather-oriented, attendees dress accordingly. But I got lost amid all the shit that got stirred up when folks started talking about how the fair was gonna have its license revoked if people showed up nude, as they have been doing increasingly in recent years.

Those who wished to attend nude had many hissy fits. "It's censorship!" they cried. "The human body is a beautiful thing! How dare they! The law says I can be nude as long as I'm not behaving in a lewd or lascivious manner. What about my right to go nude?!"

The moment I start seeing these people shopping nude in the frozen food section of my local Safeway I might start respecting their argument. Until then, I wish they'd quit whining.

I'm tired of GLAAD telling me what to think. The current controversy surrounds the new Mel Gibson historical drama, Braveheart, and its portrayal of some gay characters. Seems that Edward II is portrayed as an ill-tempered, vain, effeminate faggot. Shit, boys, get your history right—that's what Eddie-boy was. If I don't want to see a Mel Gibson movie, it won't be because he's a "homophobe," it'll be because he's dull. Shut the fuck up and go listen to your Donna Summer records. There's no denying Gibson has made some homophobic remarks. So has Summer. She hasn't recanted. She's still worshipped. Her tunes are enshrined in "gay culture."

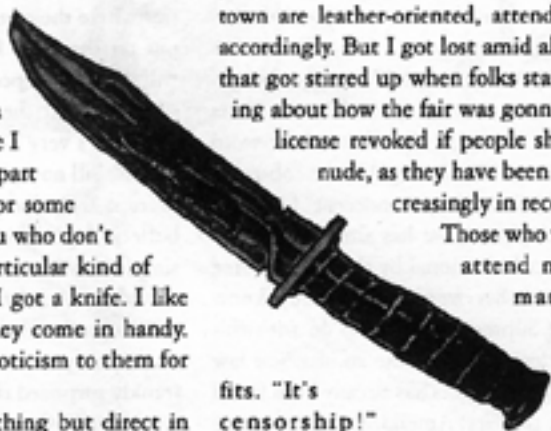

I'm tired of people believing that just because I love men, I'm supposed to vote Democratic, be pro-choice, pro-woman, anti-military, despise the NRA, advocate needle-exchange programs for the prevention of AIDS, attack Christians, support Affirmative Action, oppose anti-immigrant legislation (at least here in California), and support the environment. I'm tired of others laboring under the pretense that just because I love men, I am required to think it's OK to have anonymous sex in public restrooms, that I am genetically predisposed to shrieking "fabulous" at every turn while wearing women's clothing, that I engage in social kissing, and that I will go out of my way to spend the rest of my life listening to dance music played inordinately loud. While some of the above are indeed indicative of my personal positions, I evaluated them on their own merits.

There are many who believe San Francisco is the Promised Land. What concerns me is that the obsession with youth, unrealistic expectations of beauty, superficiality and culture of bitchiness here gets translated to the rest of the country. Folks get so wound up in becoming labels, they forget they're human beings. That frightens me because I believe it tends to engender isolation. Diversity is a wondrous thing, but not at the expense of unity.

Maybe five days after John died, my friend Rand offered a tarot reading. The card that was indicative of things to come was the ace of swords. I was already planning on my new ink, even down to the design, but when the card hit the table, Rand said, "There's your tattoo." It made a wonderful symbol for transition, power, and cutting away all the shit to find out what really matters. Being with John when he died really matters. Making a life with my man really matters. Having such a totem fit on my right arm seemed all the more appropriate.

I'm well-aware that wherever I go, there will always be assumptions about me. I'll blast away at those, too. If Crusher and me get shot at for walking down a street holding hands, fine. I have all the rights every other American has until someone informs me otherwise and to my face. That's the kind of activism I enjoy because it relates directly to simply living a life. And that's exactly where San Francisco loses me. I do not have a lifestyle. I have a life.

And now I better get outta Dodge. ☐

Dirty Pictures

I'm not sure who it was that said that the free market is the ultimate democracy because what the public wants, sells; and what the public doesn't want, goes belly up.

Quite obviously, the public likes computer porn. According to Time magazine, in a 6-month period, American computer users downloaded 450,620 pornographic images 6,432,297 times. In the democracy that is the free market, computer porn has the votes to be around a long, long time.

But there are those who think that they should decide what other people may see. Having failed, in the free market of ideas, to persuade others not to look at naughty pictures, they would impose by force of law their views on other people.

With the usual excuses—children need to be protected from this sort of thing, it is an offense to public morals, blah blah blah—the professional busybodies are once more preparing to try to keep what they consider pornographic out of cyberspace.

Under current law, it is already illegal to use computers to transmit child pornography. Very conservative areas, like Memphis and Salt Lake City, have also used existing obscenity laws to bring criminal charges, with mixed results, against people who send obscenity through the Internet. As it is now, the same rules apply to computers that apply to videos: No kids, don't transmit it to certain states, and beyond that, it is up to a jury to decide if they think a certain picture is obscene.

But this is not enough from those called by God to save us from dirty pictures. There is presently pending in Congress a bill that would make it a crime, punishable by up to two years in jail and a $100,000 fine, to transmit "obscene, lewd, lascivious, filthy or indecent images" via computer.

First, the bad news: People who transmit sex on the Internet have no idea what some jury in Sheepshir, Wyoming, is going to consider "obscene, lewd, lascivious, filthy or indecent." Neither do they have any way of knowing in advance that their pictures may end up in Sheepshir, Wyoming; once a picture has been transmitted, there is no controlling where it goes or who will download it. Thus, as a practical matter, the only way to be sure that you are not going to be faced with a $100,000 fine and two years in jail is to avoid sex on the Internet altogether.

Now, the good news: This horrid bill is actually an amendment to another bill that as of this writing, doesn't have the votes it needs to pass, although that may change. But the news is even better: The dummies who wrote it copied almost word-for-word from a law making it illegal to use "obscene, lewd, lascivious, filthy or indecent" language on the telephone that has already been declared unconstitutional by the US Supreme Court. In other words, we already know what the Supreme Court will do with this law if it does pass, because an identical law governing telephones has already been found to violate the First Amendment. Is it asking too much for Congress not to waste tax dollars by passing laws that everyone knows in advance will be thrown out?

However, in order for a case to get to the Supreme Court, somebody is going to have to be charged under the new law, and if that somebody is you, dear reader, I promise you a long, expensive and difficult fight before the case gets there. The government just loves to take someone who lives in California and get them indicted in Tupelo, Mississippi, so they have the expense and inconvenience of having to litigate half way across the country before a jury much more conservative than they'd face at home.

We'd hoped the Clinton administration would be more supportive of civil liberties in this area than the Reagan and Bush justice departments; unfortunately, on this issue, Janet Reno has basically turned into Ed Meese. The Clinton justice department has, in fact, gone to great lengths to harass pornographers, including appealing a case to the Supreme Court where the lower courts had held that a defendant could not be prosecuted for obscenity unless he knew that the material was obscene. The Supreme Court gave civil libertarians a partial victory on that one, voiding the conviction and holding that the statute implied a requirement of knowledge.

That case raises another interesting question for those who use the Internet to send porn: Are you within the law if you do not know, or cannot reasonably know, that the photos will end up in a conservative area that will consider them obscene? That issue never really arose before the computer age since prosecutions then were limited to use of the mails, and obviously anybody who sends a magazine to Arkansas or North Carolina knows where it is headed. But the same is not true with computers where the original sender has very little ability to control where the transmission is sent once it is put on the Net. I think ultimately courts will decide that people can't be held responsible for what they can't control. But as of yet there's very little law on this point.

The bill now pending in Congress would exempt from liability people who run the bulletin boards, on the grounds that they simply can not police all of their users. It would instead direct prosecution at people who actually send the stuff out. Given the reactionary nature of the censors, I am frankly surprised that we got that much; the tendency of Congress in the past has been to make criminals out of everybody in sight and then leave it up to the courts to declare the law unconstitutionally over-broad. Maybe someone finally tipped them off that these laws actually get reviewed by the courts.

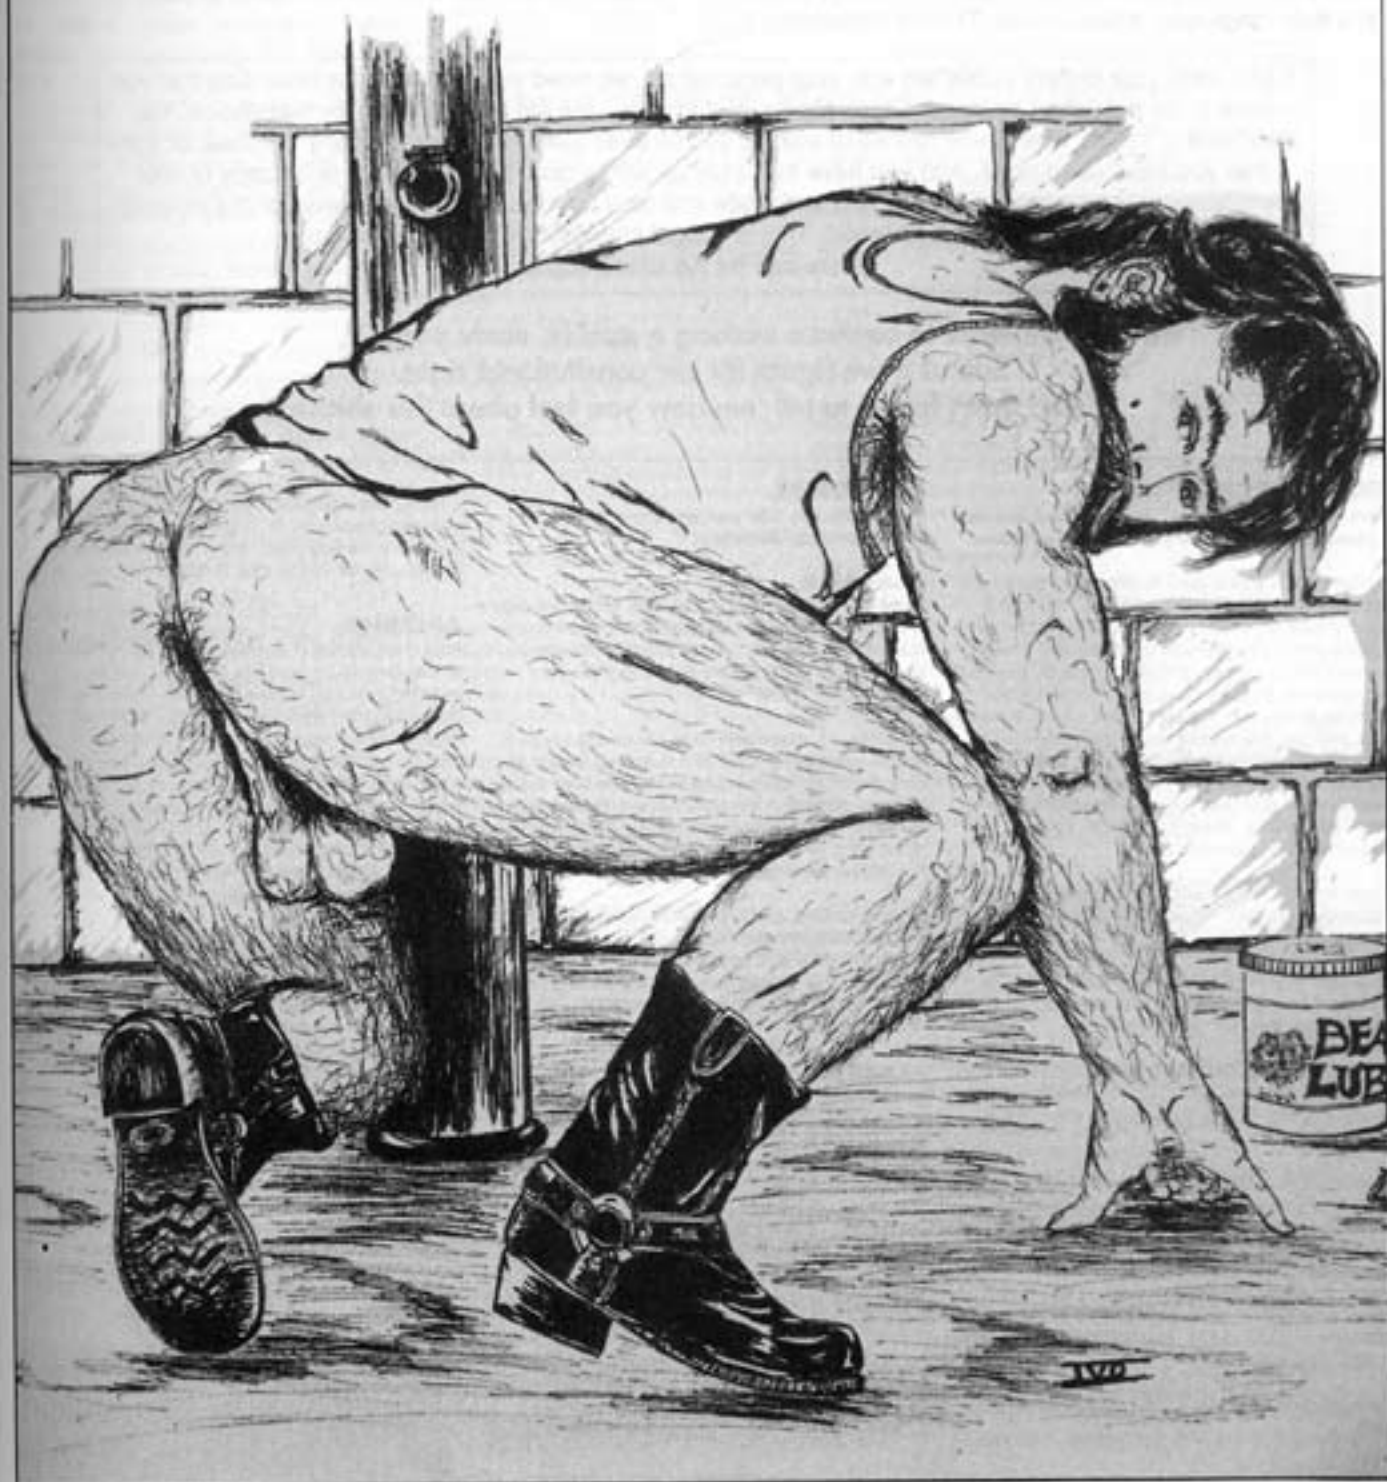

There is no provision in the law that would make it illegal to receive dirty pictures; it is only those who send them out that would be targeted. If we should be thankful that only half of those whom Congress could go after would actually be at risk with this bill.

Hovering above all this, is the technological reality that the Internet is different in that it is much harder to police than other forms of communication. By its nature it does not lend itself to interference by busybodies. Therefore, Congress is quite simply limited in its options as to how much interference with the free market it can run. While not immune from Congressional meddling, neither was the Internet created with Congressional meddling in mind.

So for now, play safe, enjoy yourselves, and keep an eye out for future developments. **Ⓜ

OK, Guys, Listen Up

Maybe you've noticed: The United States is starting to become a real conservative place. Battles are being staged every damn place you look, from abortion to gun control to gay rights. You know what I mean if you've turned on a television any time in the last five years.

Some pissy US senators banded together late one night and decided to get in our faces—they pushed a law through that says publishers of smut must follow strict paperwork guidelines for anyone to have a picture in a dirty magazine, naked or not. They're pretending to protect minors, but what they're actually doing is trying to give us a hard time.

Imagine. Us. We've got such good taste, too....

First thing is chill, dude. If you're naked in BEAR, you're fine. I don't want you to worry about it. You're not breaking any laws.

It's just that we've got new orders to follow, and we need your help to keep BEAR what it's always been: a viable, tasteful sampling of masculine choices.

If you want your picture published with your personal ad, we need you to send us a letter. Say that you want to be published by Brush Creek Media, and that you are old enough to make that choice. You also have to tell us what stage names or aliases you've ever used in the past, for any purpose; or state that you have used none. And you have to supply us with a clear photograph or photocopy of your identification—something with both your birth date and face on it, like a driver's license or the personal data pages of a passport. This is a legal change, and it's real important.

There can be no exceptions.

We want to continue making a quality, nasty product.
Sue us if we figure it's our consitutional right.
And don't forget to tell 'em how you feel about this shit.

1-800-347-BEAR with MC/Visa ($1.98/min.)1-900-HOT-BEAR billed to your phone ($1.98/min.)*HOW THIS AD SHIT WORKS

1. Dialing BEAR Voicemail. To use your credit card, call 1-800-347-BEAR. To charge the call to your phone, dial 1-900-HOT-BEAR. You can record your own personal greeting, answer someone else's, or talk to whoever else is jacking-off on the line.

Mailboxes have 4 or 5 digits.
To collect your voicemail messages: At the main menu, hit the star key. This takes you to your mailbox. Always press keys slowly and firmly. If you get stuck, the star key takes you to the main menu. If you're on a dirty bulletin board, leave your area code so guys know where on the planet you are.

2. Constructing your ad. Talk a bit about yourself and be real clear about the types of folks you'd like to meet through your ad. As much as possible, avoid telling us who you don't want to meet. No negativity. It doesn't work.

3. Names. We can't print just Occupant or Boxholder. You must use at least your initials, or a nickname your postal carrier knows.

4. Cost and duration. Personal ads are free if you're a BEAR Buddy. Otherwise, they're 25¢/word/issue. Wanna change your ad? Send in $5. Wanna discontinue your ad? Write in and we'll pull it. You will have to pay to have a pulled ad put back in, though.

5. Deadline for BEAR 34 classifieds is July 14, 1995.

6. BEAR Postal Box Numbers. For US subscribers. Free to BEAR Buddies. Otherwise, add $5 to your ad. A word to the wise: Your own address will get you more responses.

7. Replying to a BEAR Postal Box Number: Write your letter, put it in an envelope and seal it. On this envelope, put the fellow's box number IN PENCIL where you'd normally put a stamp. Put this letter along with $1 in a larger envelope and mail it to us.

8. Personal vs. commercial ads. You know what a personal ad is and what isn't.

9. We reserve the right to edit personals for editorial consistency and clarity. We reserve the right to refuse any ad.

10. Changing your ad: It's cool. But it'll cost you 5 bucks, and must be in writing.

11. Photo ads. We'll run a shot of your face or dick—but only once. Your photo must have a signed model release with a photocopy of your picture ID. Each photo sent to BEAR must be signed with your name and address on the back. They're printed first-come, first-served, so you may have to wait a few issues.

JIM COLEMAN

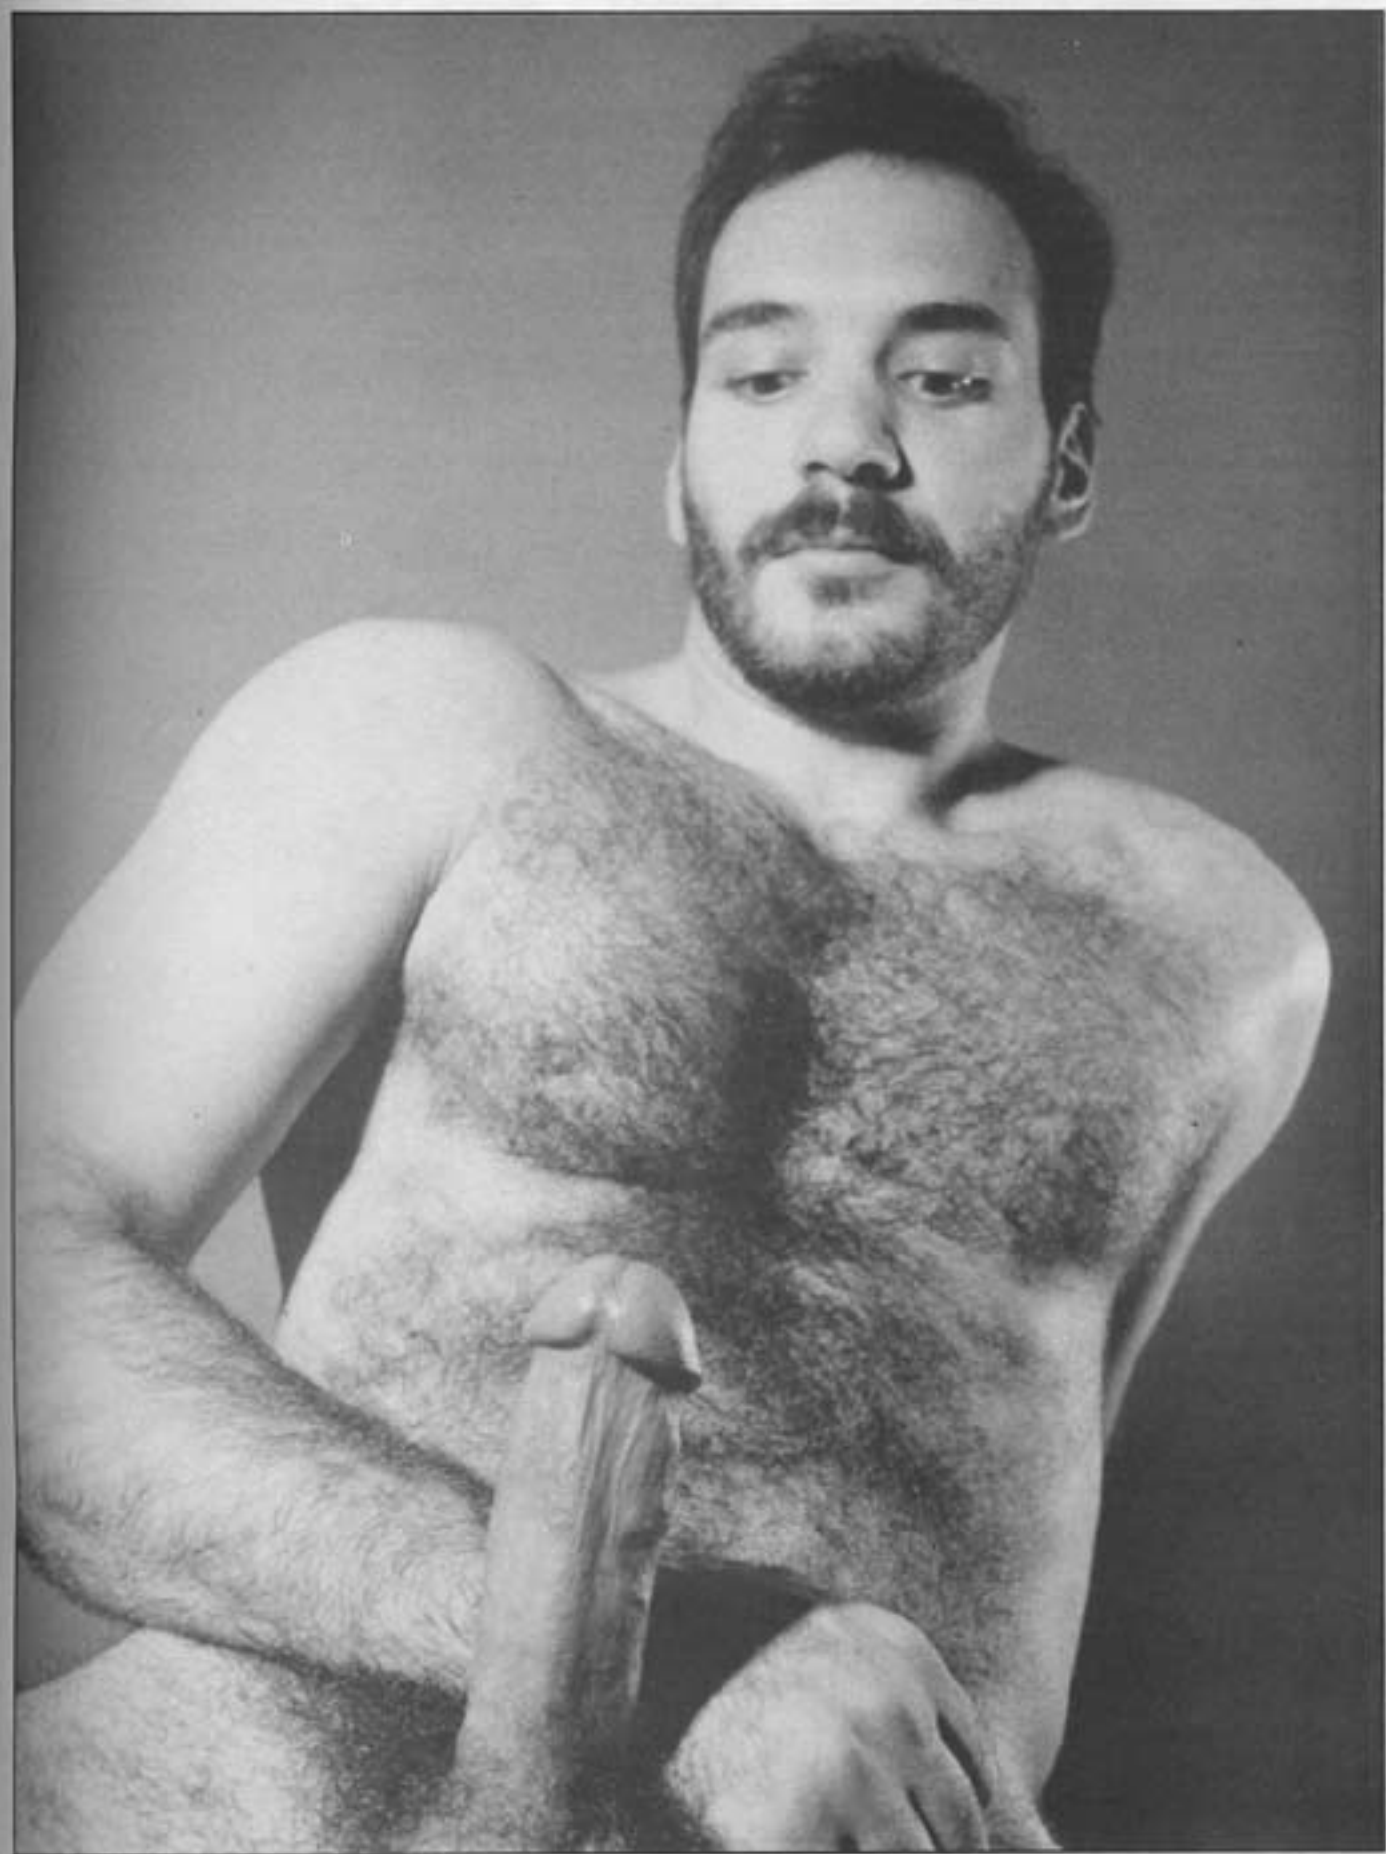

He cums four times a day. Just to let you know what you've got on your hands with this guy.

Jim's an upstate New Yorker who knows the value of friendship, honesty and masculinity. With his 6'2" frame, he's more than enough to throw you up against the wall and fuck you deep. One of his main coming-out experiences was his Air Force years in Spain. Every bar had a back room, and he had the looks to fit right in and try it all out. Nowadays you can catch him in Toronto and New York City, making the world a better place for the horny. The hottest place he's had sex? A beach in Greece, on a night lit by a full moon.

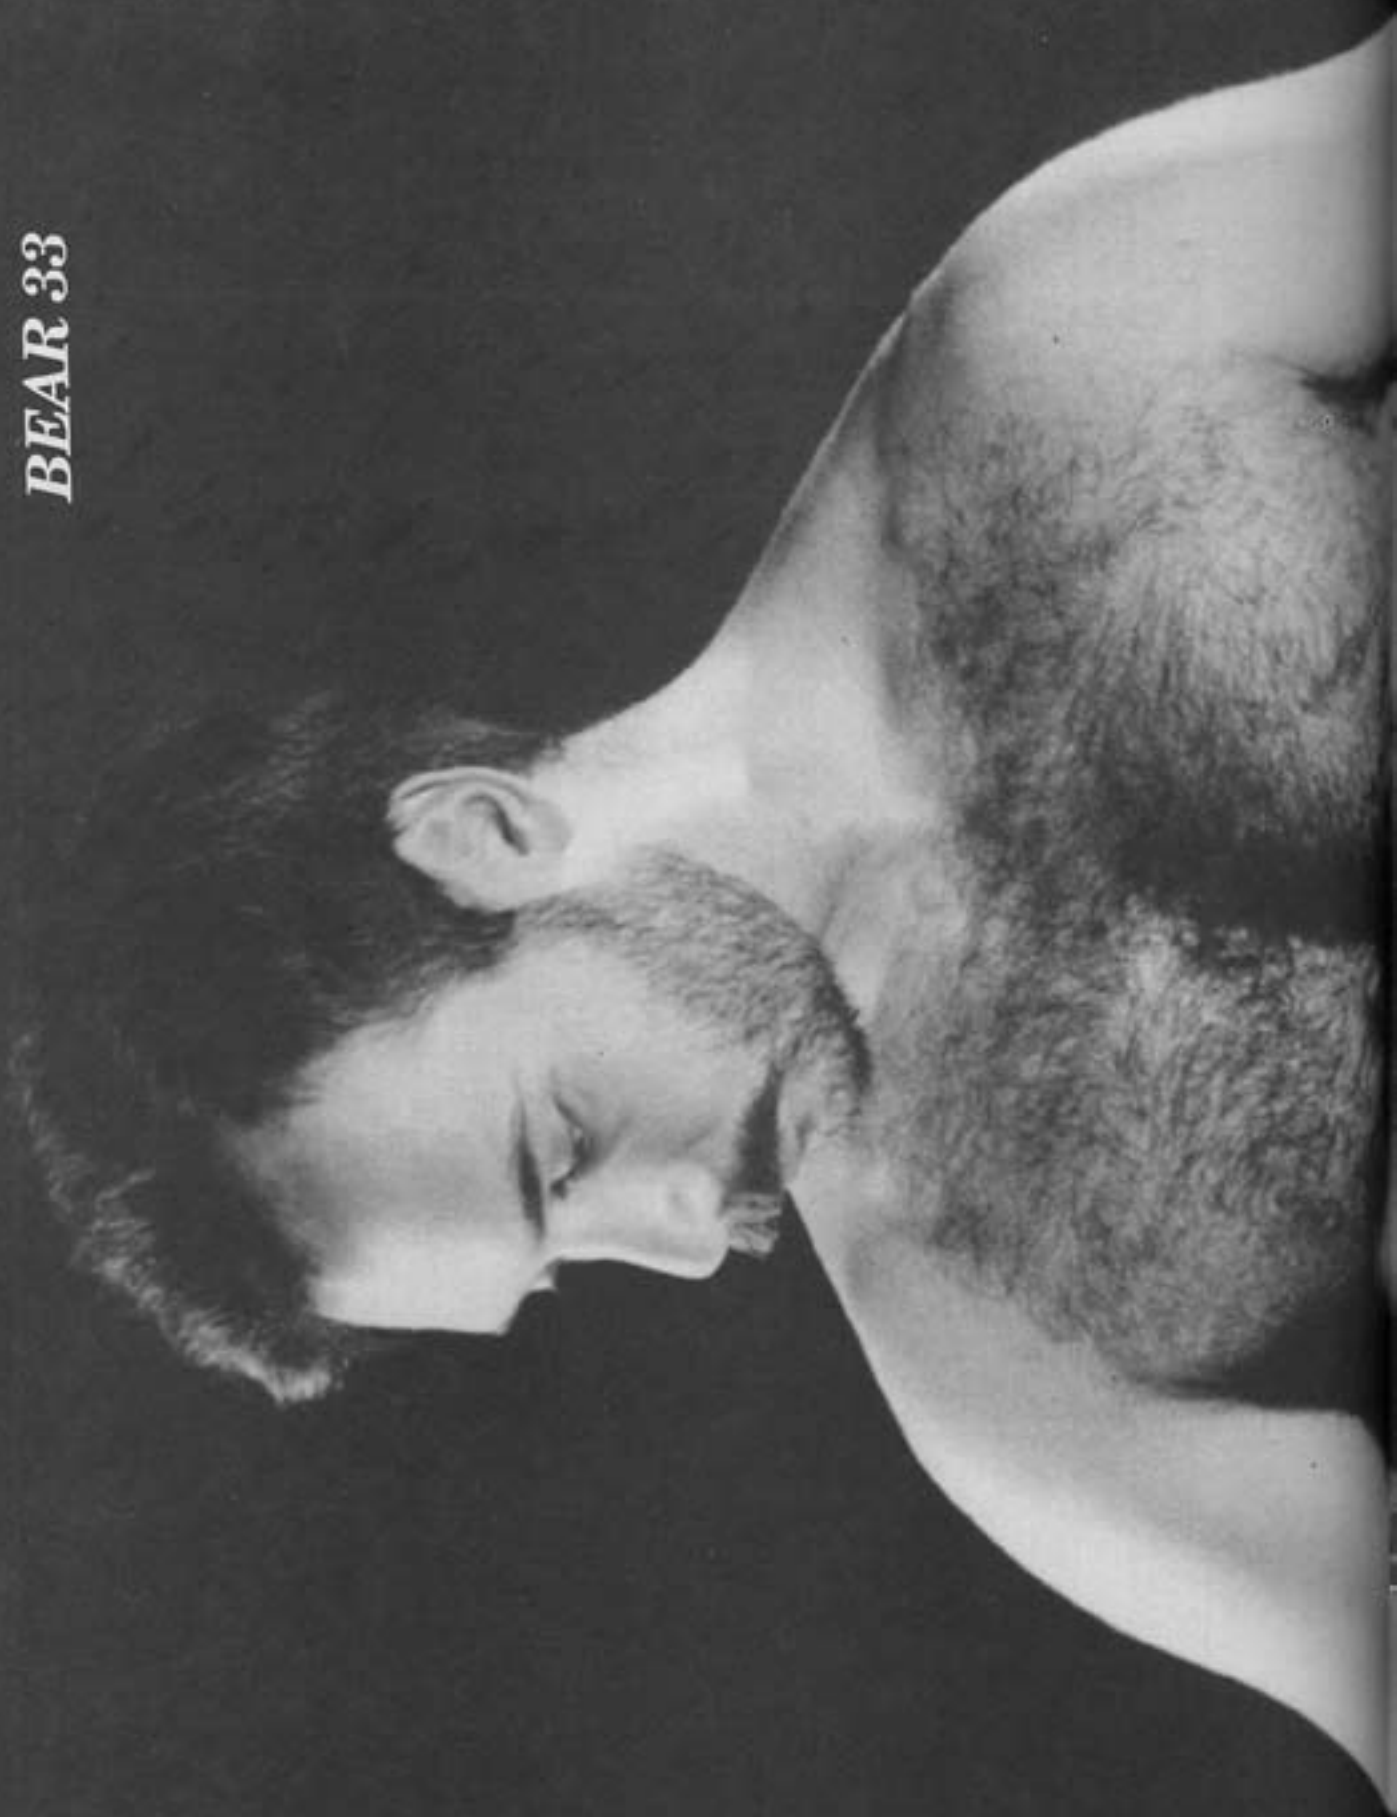

But don't think that sex is all he's got going on. Jim's a smart guy with a lot on his mind. Hopefully he'll put something on your mind, too.

Get Your Dick Out.

BEAR models come from the same place you did. They were in bed, whacking off, looking at this very mag. And suddenly, they started to get an idea....

Chances are you've got your dick out right now. Nice to see the real you there, fella.

If the idea of people looking at you naked makes your hole twitch, we want you. Send us pictures. You might become famous, and get all the sex you want.

The following information is necessary for all people photographed in BEAR.

Complete this form and send it with your photographs, along with a photocopy of your picture ID. Put your name, signature and phone number on the back of every gawd-damn picture you send us. We don't have time to match pricks as much as we want.

Voicemail Tips

Our BEAR Voicemail system is designed to give you immediate access to new friends, true love, or just a real good fuck. It works. Here are a few suggestions to speed your chances of success:

- Press buttons slowly and firmly.
- If you think you made the wrong choice, hit the star key to get back to the Main Menu.
- Messages stay in the system for two weeks.
- Use Option 3 to set up another mailbox, or to leave your phone number on the Bulletin Board. Always use area codes to catch guys in your neighborhood.

If You Have a BEAR Ad

When dialing in for the first time, you must already have your passcode from us. Once at the Voicemail Main Menu, immediately hit the star key to collect your mail. You do not need to set up a new voicemail box (Option 3). We've already done that for you.

Fuckin' Around

We're gonna leave this one in here, even though you're probably sick of it. We can just hope at least some of it soaks in. Below are the safe-sex basics for staying alive in the Angry '90s. Read them and follow them.

1. Sucking dick is one of those Risk Management deals. HIV has been found in pre-cum, and people have contracted AIDS just from sucking dick. Know that. But also know that not everyone who sucks dick gets AIDS. You have to decide. If it came with, say, a 15 percent chance of infection, would you still do it? Don't take cum in you. Don't suck cock with bleeding gums or pizza burns on the roof of your mouth.
2. Butt-fucking should be done with a condom. Without one, the opening of your dick smears right up against tissues that transmit the virus. That's how straight men get AIDS from women. Taking a dick up your butt without a condom, even for a minute, goes under the heading of A Really Bad Idea. Your shit-chute's a sponge for viruses. In fact, your body actually wants to pull viruses into your bloodstream so it can learn more about them. HIV's a Rubik's Cube that your warm, fuzzy little body'll never learn to crack. So when fucking, make sure you're using a latex rubber (not an animal-product condom). Oil-based lubes such as Vaseline, Crisco, Wesson or hand lotion'll melt a regular rubber. Use a water-based lube. They now sell polyurethane condoms that can be used with oil, but they haven't yet been officially rated for blocking HIV.
3. If you're camming inside someone with a rubber on, do a final safety check before you shoot. Make sure the hummer's on tight and in one piece. Afterward, back out carefully while holding the rubber tight at the base of your dick shaft. Wash your dick and pubes before taking the condom off.
4. Eating butt is a lot like sucking cock. The risk is there, but is not absolute. Shit can contain the virus, in various strengths, depending on your partner's health. There again, you have to decide. Blood and tiny scrapes will be present—tasty, but perhaps dangerous.
5. Fist with gloves on. Your hand can get scraped in ways you won't necessarily see or feel.
6. Cum has the highest concentration of HIV. So let him shoot on the furniture instead of in your eyes, across your buttocks or on your peeling hang nails.
7. Don't force the other guy to take care of you. Sorry, dude. It's your job.
8. People fib. Protect yourself anyway.
9. Getting shit-faced makes lots of things sound like real good ideas that maybe aren't. Keep sex and drugs in separate bedrooms (rock-n-roll, though, is always cool).
10. Whether you're HIV-positive or not, have you decided you're going to stay healthy? It's kind of easy to fall into the "we're all going to get sick eventually" shit-hole. Lemme tell you something: You get what you settle for. So take care of yourself out there.

- If a guy gets in touch with you, write back. Even if it's just to say "no thanks," he deserves to know you got his message.
- BEAR ads aren't a marketing base. If you think your new hair-growth system is worth selling to the world, do it someplace else. Leave our advertisers alone.
- Prisons aren't a good place to send money, or pictures of your hairy ass. By all means, correspond and make friends. But know the potential for trouble to you as well as to the guy on the inside.

On the Other Side of

Woodstock

Just a quick note and 'roid from a Manchester fella named Rick, taken during Woodstock Weekend last summer. Bearville is in New York—upstate. Yeah, somehow we didn't think Bearville is on the Lexington Avenue Subway Line. Rick says he anxiously awaits each issue of BEAR. Well we all do, really.

Werewolf's Afoot

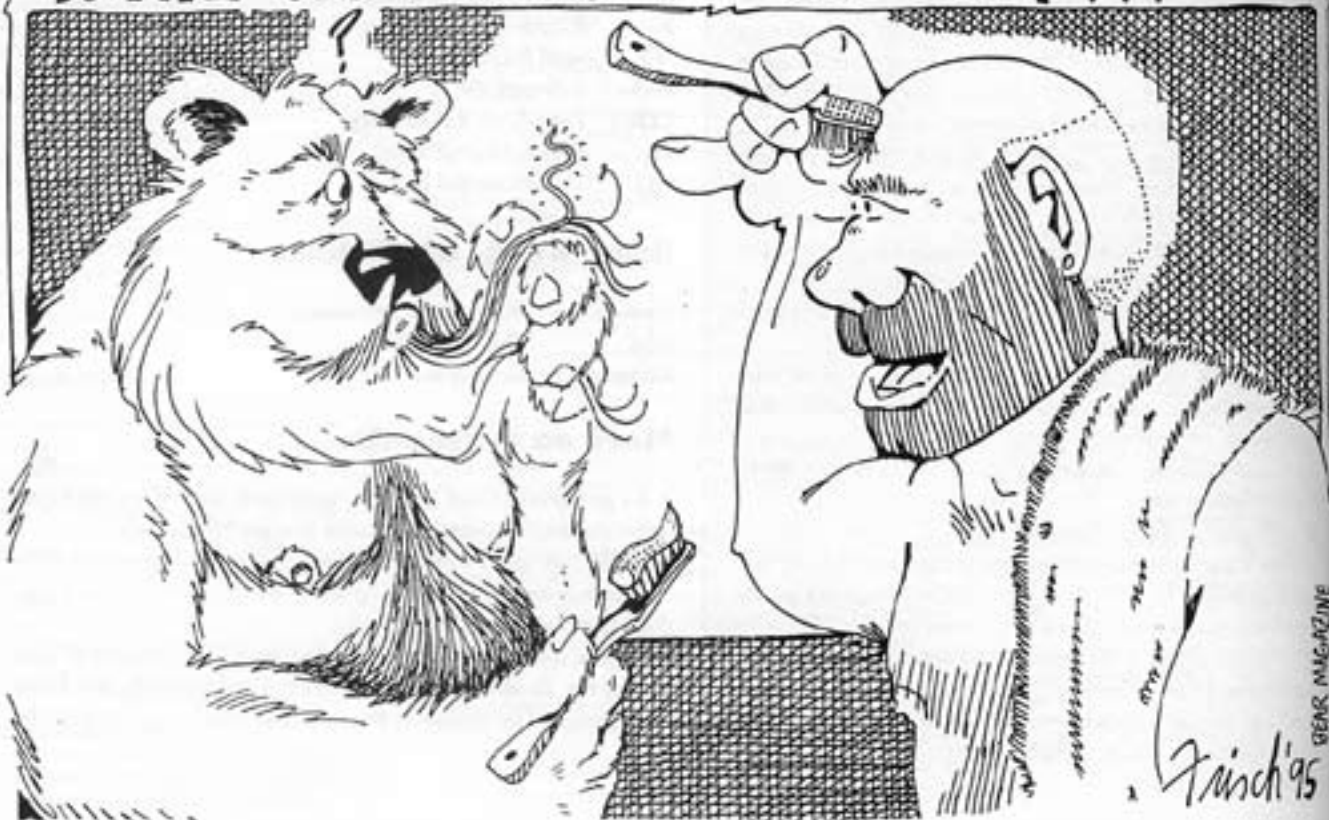

Can't go far in any health discussion before genetic research comes into the picture. They're figuring out genes for everything these days. So it is with body hair. They're close to isolating the hair gene, and think they can control baldness.

Apparently there's one single family in Mexico with some funky gene that creates head-to-toe body hair. Not like Cousin It; more like a werewolf. Inch-long hair grows all over their faces, from forehead to eyelids to chin. Geneticists have been pokin' at 'em for a few years, trying to see if their gene can help stop baldness, probably 'cause so many scientists are bald and can't get laid.

So it's fair to say that some day we can probably go to the Gene Store and get some nucleic acid to give us big dicks, hairy backs, and at least a semi-tolerance to Zima™, the refreshing alcohol beverage.

You can't get away with butthole browsing in BEAR without a good moral question thrown at you from time to time. So here goes: If we all got body hair made to order, who would we find to pick on out there?

Bear History Project

A lot of people are into this thing they call the Bear Movement. We'll set aside for a moment the notion that the term sounds scatological and instead concentrate on this big, steamy pile of information: The Bear History Project. Headed by Professor Les Wright of Mount Ida College outside Boston (who's a damn fine specimen of hairy sexiness himself), the BHP seeks to record and study major happenings and publications these past few years. You know, things of interest to the big and hairy. To people who go "woof" a lot.

Sound like someone with too much time on his hands? Hardly. Professor Wright is busier than a one-legged man at a butt-kicking contest. His belief is that a lot of people don't keep their archives of dirty mags. Just read an old skin magazine from the 1970s and you'll see all kinds of interesting things that are gone, probably forever. People, styles, ideas, poppers, bath houses and philosophies. We lose glimpses into our particular, peculiar past. That's where BHP comes in. They're keeping a veritable suppository of magazines, newsletters, personal essays and video interviews unique to the bear thing. The collection is slated to be housed at a major East Coast university. Add to it. Write BHP, PO Box 1427, Brookline Inn., Boston, MA 02146.

Quit Kiltin' Around...

You know that naked Scottish guy on page 7 hereabouts? This is how he actually showed up to the photoshoot over at Harry's house in San Francisco. He complained that Harry's dog "kapt tryin' ta lark at me private parts," plus, we couldn't handle the idea of showing you a naked man in a dress. So we ditched it. And the night I called him in Aberdeen to interview him about the shoot, he promised he actually had hags in the fridge and was about to eat some. So use this as your cultural interlude in BEAR. The Medicine Cards

A Tarot

By Jamie Sams, David Carson and Angela C. Werneke

Published by Bear & Co., Santa Fe, NM

$29.95

What is a bear? Many times I have heard this question asked. Some times in jest, sometimes in earnest. The problem is that an attempt is being made to classify individuals by what they look like, their weight, age and degree of body/facial hair. The fact is that when BEAR first came on the scene, it had far less to do with appearances than it did with what, from within, was shining through to the outside—the Homo-sapien in touch with the animal spirit from which his strength came. It was about tapping the root of masculinity which really starts somewhere more primal, more basic, more real than the bars, the clubs, the "look."

A man is or isn't a bear based on where his spirit is. To find if this is where you are, pick up the Medicine Cards by Jamie Sams and David Carson, with beautiful illustrations by Angela C. Werneke.

Beyond bears, the Medicine Cards hold the spiritual teachings of 44 different mammals, birds, fish and reptiles, each in its own way speaking to something within each of us that it represents. In the guide book that accompanies the cards are details to healing oneself, finding strength in one's daily travails or along the path of life, and laying out in the traditional manner cards to live your life by. But don't be deterred, these cards are part of a new generation of divination tools that speak directly to the heart of who we are with messages of love, leaving behind the layers upon layers of symbology that, in the past, would more than deter those looking within from digging too deep. The Medicine Cards provide guidance by bear, wolf, and hummingbird through understanding which of the animal spirits within us need to be tapped.

We are humans, nothing more or less. We are not bears. Nor are we wolves or hummingbirds, but that does not mean some of the qualities they use in the wild to survive cannot be adopted in the world of men. The strength of character we envy in bears (or cubs for that matter) is something left from our days in the wild, rolling in the grass and fighting for our places in the salmon run, not in the size of our stomachs or the length of our beards. The Medicine Cards cut to the quick and offer us the tools to remember who we are and find strength in it. The spirit is stronger than the flesh, honor that. Pick up the Medicine Cards and use them. Trust them. The answer to "What is a bear?" is not just "Anyone who wants to say he is." Some of us are wolves or hummingbirds, we just think we look like bears.

Everybody does it. Nobody talks about it. It's America's shame, the reason for our planetary moral decline.

Slamming the Spam. Five-knuckle shuffle. Chokin' the chicken. Bearing off. Don't you dare use that word masturbation. You'll go straight to hell, blinded with hot pokers before you even get there.

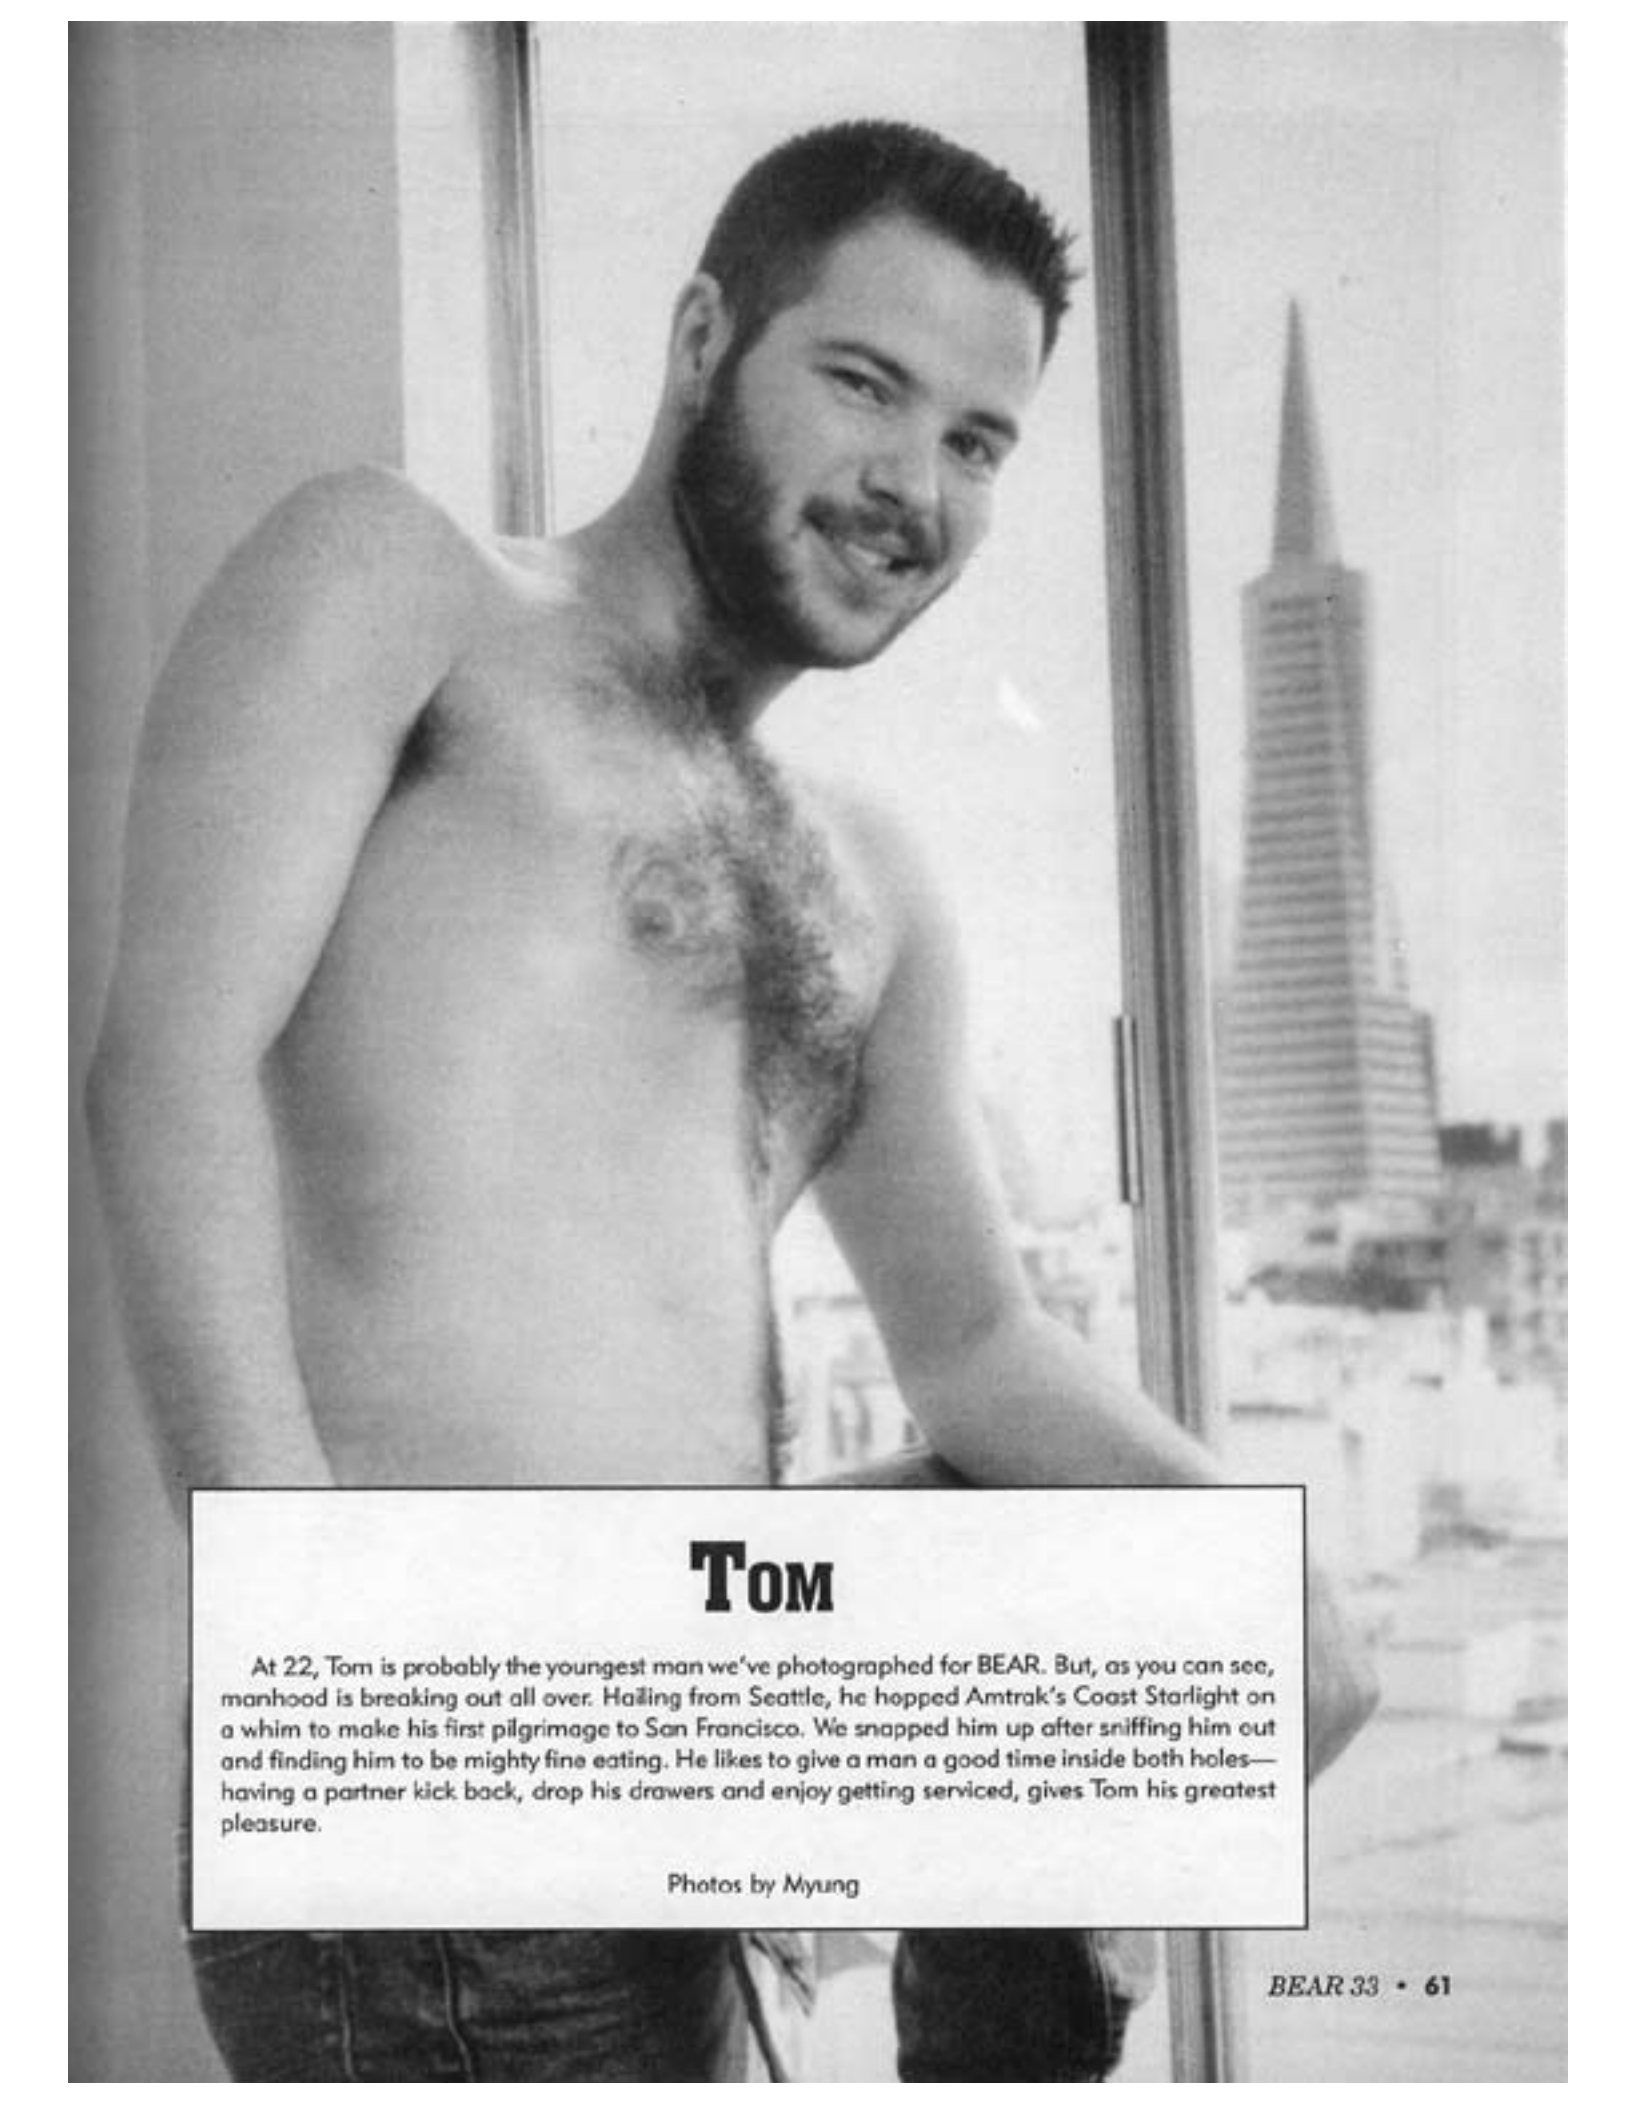

Celebrate The Self has been around for quite a while. Think of it as a masturbation manual. For real. It's filled with stories, letters, questions, quotations and other cool suggestions. It's the perfect bedside companion for those who don't always want to deal with another human being just to get off.

Edited by Allen Erich and Harold Litten, it's a professionally done, full-sized, two-color, 20-page son-of-a-bitchin' way to feel good about yourself, and about your sexuality. It's a true pleasure to read this newsletter. You read the words of scores of other men who aren't ashamed to add a little fun and imagination to their solo-sex lives. They let you feel connected by way of this secret little shame everyone shares. And you learn valuable stuff while you're at it.

Do it! No one will know.

Tom

At 22, Tom is probably the youngest man we've photographed for BEAR. But, as you can see, manhood is breaking out all over. Hailing from Seattle, he hopped Amtrak's Coast Starlight on a whim to make his first pilgrimage to San Francisco. We snapped him up after sniffing him out and finding him to be mighty fine eating. He likes to give a man a good time inside both holes—having a partner kick back, drop his drawers and enjoy getting serviced, gives Tom his greatest pleasure.

Rusty's

By Wayne Daniels
Illustration by KENT

I only took a moment for my eyes to become accustomed to the darkness of the bar. I'd never been there but I sure as hell had heard about it. Rusty's was notorious for catering to the raunchiest, hairiest men around. Tommy had told me to look for Rusty himself. Said he'd make me feel right to home. Making my way to the bar, I ordered a draft from the bartender-from-heaven. He was about 6'3", and mammoth in proportion. If he was any indication of what I would encounter this evening, I was prepared to spend my entire weekend right here at Rusty's.

"Yer new here, ain't ya buddy?" he drawled. "Least I don't remember seein' ya before. And I'd remember seein' the likes a you."

Taking that as a compliment, I tried to be as friendly as possible.

"Yeah, this is my first time here. I heard about it from Tommy. Said to say hello to Rusty if I seen him."

"Well, no shit? How the hell is ol' Tommy boy? We ain't seen him fer weeks. Oh yeah, I'm Rusty, by the way. An' you are..."

sprung me; Tommy's brother's on his way to spring him tonight. After what Tommy bragged about this place, I made a beeline."

"Well, well, well. So you's a cocksucker. If yer as good as Tommy, we'll be havin' us a fine ol' evenin' around here tonight. Sorry to hear about yer troubles, but with Tommy around, I imagine that two weeks wasn't too awful. That boy an' I go way back. Wish I'da known he was in trouble. I'da got him outta there. He's sure seen to my needs of-ten enough. I'da been glad to help."

"Well, I expect Tommy'll be around before you know it," I replied.

"Once you finish that brewski, you might care to visit our little boys' room and git acquainted with the boys. It's still early, but Ted and Joe are here and I expect a few o' the others will be right along. There's word out that the RuffRiders may be on a run and headed this way too, so stick around if you got the time." He smiled a devilish grin and moved down the bar to serve his other patrons. While I downed my beer, I overheard Rusty murmuring to the guys at the end of the bar and felt them focus their gaze on said anything about this! I was taking all this in, my heart pounding a little. Cautiously I headed into the dark, narrow space behind the wall. The smells there were strongest, and in the gloom, I spotted a small footstool placed at the glory hole. I slowly sat down on it and peered through the hole, into the empty bathroom.

Someone came into the men's room. Behind the gaping hole, I watched him saunter over to the urinal. Keeping his back to me, I could only hear the sounds of his jeans popping open and a long, strong stream of piss hosing the back of the urinal. As he stepped away from the urinal, I saw his enormous uncut cock dribbling the last of its salty payload onto the floor. Without bothering to shake it off or put it away he moved over toward my wall to take his place at the glory hole. I reached through the opening to take hold of his meat.

Raising the tumescent dick toward my mouth, I reached out my tongue and lapped gingerly at the large glob of piss and precum hanging off the wad of skin dangling at the tip. As I watched, the huge organ began to throb and grow, the head swelling and inching its way out of its sheath of wrinkled skin, exposing the gaping pisshole to my hungry gaze. Before he knew what hit him, his dork was buried deep in my throat, and my nose was snarfling around the bush spilling out of his jeans.

I worked his dick and watched his hands wrap around his balls and the base of his dick. Suddenly, two more large, callused hands reached around him from behind and unfastened his belt and the top button of his Levi's. The pants dropped to his ankles with a jangle of change and keys. He wasn't wearing underwear. Everything I could see through the hole was covered with thick, brown curly hair. The big new hands reached around again to squeeze and heft the gigantic hairy balls hanging loosely underneath the fat dick sliding in and out of my mouth. Those hands gently caressed my cheeks and played around my lips as I hungrily sucked

The john was small, dark and smelled strongly of piss and jizz.

"Vic, Tommy and I been sharin' a room at the county lockup for two weeks.

"Fuck, man....what did he do?"

"We both got busted at the Langley County Fairgrounds for suckin' dick behind the ferris wheel. For some reason, the arresting officer was offended when we didn't care to oblige him with a head job. Problem was, we couldn't find his dick. We was in lockup that whole two weeks before we was allowed a call. That gave us plenty of time to get to know each other better. My maw me. Downing the last of my beer, I slid off the stool, dropped a couple of bucks on the bar and sauntered in the direction of the "little boys' room," as Rusty had put it. I exchanged a friendly nod with the boys at the bar and continued on my way.

The john was small, dark and smelled strongly of piss and jizz. There was a toilet in one corner, a sink in the other and a urinal on the wall between the two. Across from them was a partition with a large hole cut into it. I couldn't believe it—Tommy never the cock being fed so generously to me. Carefully, the hands pushed my face away from my meal. Slapping me with the thick hairy boner in his hand, the new stranger roughly turned the man I'd been sucking around, allowing me to feast my eyes on probably the hairiest ass I'd ever seen. It was as furry as what I'd been able to see of his chest and smelled wonderfully of sweat and man. Again the helping hands came into view, kneading the large, round, hairy mounds before me, spreading the cheeks wide to allow a perfect view of the rosy, puckered, winking hole glistening between them. As he pushed it out at me, the lips grew swollen and red, begging me to slide my tongue into the dark recess. Clamping my mouth around the pouting lips, I swirled my tongue around the outer ring of pulsing flesh, lapping crazily at the tufts of hair surrounding the creamy hole, then slipping my tongue as deep into the gaping asshole as I could. I heard a grunt as he shivered with ecstasy, slamming his hairy ass against the partition, giving me maximum access to his greedy hole.

After I'd gotten him wet and open, his buddy again tugged him around, shoving his long, hard tool through the hole in front of me. He was so worked up, his cock was hard as a rubber bar, throbbing with each heartbeat and bouncing up and down, slapping the abused partition with each pulse and sending strings of precum flying through the air where they were happily caught by my anxious tongue.

With a howl of pleasure, his buddy sank his throbbing bone to the hilt up the man's well-prepared chute, forcing another gob of clear goo to pour from the huge, gaping piss-hole in the man's engorged penis. The foreskin was folded back beneath the head, just begging to be sucked and chewed.

Taking the enraged organ in my fist, I stroked it slowly, milking more juice from the tip, licking and lapping as it poured onto my greedy tongue. I pulled the skin up and over the head, chewing, sucking and licking like a calf at its mama, while his buddy slammed in and out of his stinking hole. I could see his white knuckles gripping the edge of the glory hole as the whole thing rocked with the steady thrusts of the man bucking into him from behind.

"Goddammit Joe. Slam it to me. Fuck, this is good! This cocksucker's makin' me crazy. I'm gonna shoot if you guys don't stop.

Unnnh unnnh unnnh....deeper....deeper! Oh fuck, don't stop don't stop don't stop...Goddamm I'm gonna blow! Oooof oooof oooof...."

I wasn't about to miss this, so I let his dick flop out of my mouth. It was hard as stone and bouncing with every thrust. I cupped his balls in my hand, feeling them knot up close to the base of his shaft. Swirling my hand around his balls, I took the bottom of his foreskin, pulled it back behind the livid, purple head and worked it between my fingers. He was whimpering and snarling at the same time. I watched as the head grew larger and larger, darker and darker. The fleshy bulb grew taught and shiny, the piss-hole gaping in a silent scream. A large clod of thick, white spunk popped from the opening and began to drool its way toward the floor when suddenly, a long white rope of sperm flew from his dick's mouth, followed by jet after jet of jizz. It showered my hair, face and tongue. I slowly stroked the heaving prick, coaxing several more spurts of viscous semen from his pumping balls. I then suddenly swallowed the entire length of the guy's spent organ, rubbing my cum-doused face in the heaving, hairy bush at its base, licking the balls as they relaxed and dropped into the soft hairy sac below.

Then, just as suddenly, the newcomer pulled out of my guy's steaming hole, shoved him aside and began stroking his load through the glory hole onto my face and shirt. On the third spurt, I enclosed the swollen mushroom between my lips and, swirling my tongue just under the head, milked the remainder of his load from his knotted balls, allowing the bulk of his sperm to pour from my lips and splatter my thighs and boots.

Both men staggered backward against the wall, catching their breath as I wiped my sleeve across my mouth, my eyes grinning at them in appreciation. Suddenly, Rusty was standing behind the wall with me, unzipping his camouflage pants and rustling around in his curly red bush for his own thick, uncult organ.

"Oh you ain't finished yet, Vic ol' man. Not by a long shot. Six more fellers just walked in and a string of Harleys just pulled into the lot. We's gonna be feedin' ya for a long time yet. Are ya up to it?"

I answered with an "Ummmm hmmm." Of course I couldn't talk with my mouth full. I have better manners than that. ☺

It feels like the gods of rock-n-roll have finally begun to answer our prayers. After several years of venting on the dearth of guitar-minded gays in music, we are rejoicing in what is apparently a small but growing wave of young men and women forging a sound brashly dubbed "queercore."

Among the leaders of this brigade is Extra Fancy, a Los Angeles quartet that successfully combines jarring sonic aggression with simplistic melodies that are contagious and decidedly pop-driven. The band is scoring attention from clubgoers and college radio programmers with its sterling 7-inch single, "You Look Like A Movie Star, Honey," which is available on Diablo Musica (213-663-7500). The central figure of Extra Fancy is openly-gay singer Brian Grillo, an endlessly compelling performer, whose ability to pour raw emotion is a little rattling at first. In the end, you may never accept manufactured angst again. Need a lesson in harmony? Learn from Extra Fancy, a band comprised of hetero players who are comfy enough in their sexuality to allow Grillo to write from the heart without interference.

Morel

Coming from a more rhythmically diverse perspective is Richard Morel, who fronts a quartet baring his surname. The Spring, Maryland-headquartered act has begun to make inroads among alternative-rock radio tastemakers in the Baltimore area with Peterbilt Angel (Outsider Music, 301-585-1245). Unlike Extra Fancy, Morel's music often tends to be dark and broody, with Richard weaving tales and apparent memories that sting with an honesty that many can connect with. Atmosphere is key, and Richard Morel's voice serves as a guiding light through the depth and intensity of tunes such as "Daddy's Car," "The Stoning of Steven" and "Brian." Grab the opportunity to experience this band in every way possible.

THE SOUNDS THAT ANIMALS MAKE

As you are plumbing through the racks of your favorite local shop, you should also have a listen to Pile UP, the latest album by Pansy Division on Lookout Records (510-841-9042). After mining through untapped ground with two previous albums, Deflowered and Undressed, this San Francisco rock band could easily be viewed as the architects of queercore with its special brand of two-minute power-pop that is often sexually blunt and humorous. They gained national interest last year as the opening act on Green Day's tour, and are already working on new material. Be ready.

In fairness, not all gay-fronted dance music is devoid of the groin-pulling energy that rockers require. Longtime hi-NRG belter (and way hot hunk) Paul Parker never fails to deliver a healthy dose of machismo amid the flurry of flashy beats and synthesizers at the core of his records. For proof, check out Destiny, the San Francisco native's first full-length album in roughly five years. His voice is as strong as ever, and he has a field-day with twitchy covers of rock-radio staples including Chris Isaak's "Wicked Game" and the Doors' "Riders of the Storm." Parker's own material is far better, though, as evident on the album's title cut and on "In My Wildest Dreams." Destiny can be found on import via British Klone Records, though a stateside label deal is imminent. Hit your local dance specialty shop for this one.

Elsewhere in the world of music: If folk-edged country music à la Mary Chapin Carpenter is your cup of tea, look no further than Kim Richey's exquisite eponymous debut on Mercury Records. Blessed with a rich voice that naturally creaks with the kind of teary emotion that many of her Nashville counterparts strain to achieve, this Kentucky native smartly keeps her lyrics meticulously pruned to warm understatement that allows the listener to make each song a personal experience. Armed with equally nimble guitar talent that neatly swerves in and out of acoustic territory, Richey has the potential to be an everywoman artist that you will be hearing plenty of in the coming months.

Finally, Soul Asylum returns with Let Your Dim Light Shine, which has the creative muscle to become one of the best all-around rock releases of '95. Singer/songwriter Dave Pirner has found the perfect point between the pop success of the band's breakthrough hit, "Runaway Train," and the more confrontational punk that longtime underground fans have come to love. Songs like the set's first single, "Misery," have plenty of lyrical and guitar bite, though the wicked hook is necessarily prominent. You will be chanting the bitter phrase "frustrated incorporated" like a twisted mantra by the song's end. A brilliant effort that demands immediate attention. D

DANNY

He's a San Francisco 40-year-old with a twinkle in his eye and a big, hard dick. I know several guys who've admitted a strange fascination with Danny. He's just so damn open. He lights up when he talks, and has an almost sexual aura about him.

He grew up in southwest Washington state. Says he knew he'd love men when he was 6 years old. A beefy friend of the family took him for a ride on a big, red Harley—just hefted Danny up onto his lap, zipped him into his jacket and they roared out onto the beach. He still remembers the details, and feeling the masculine strength around him.

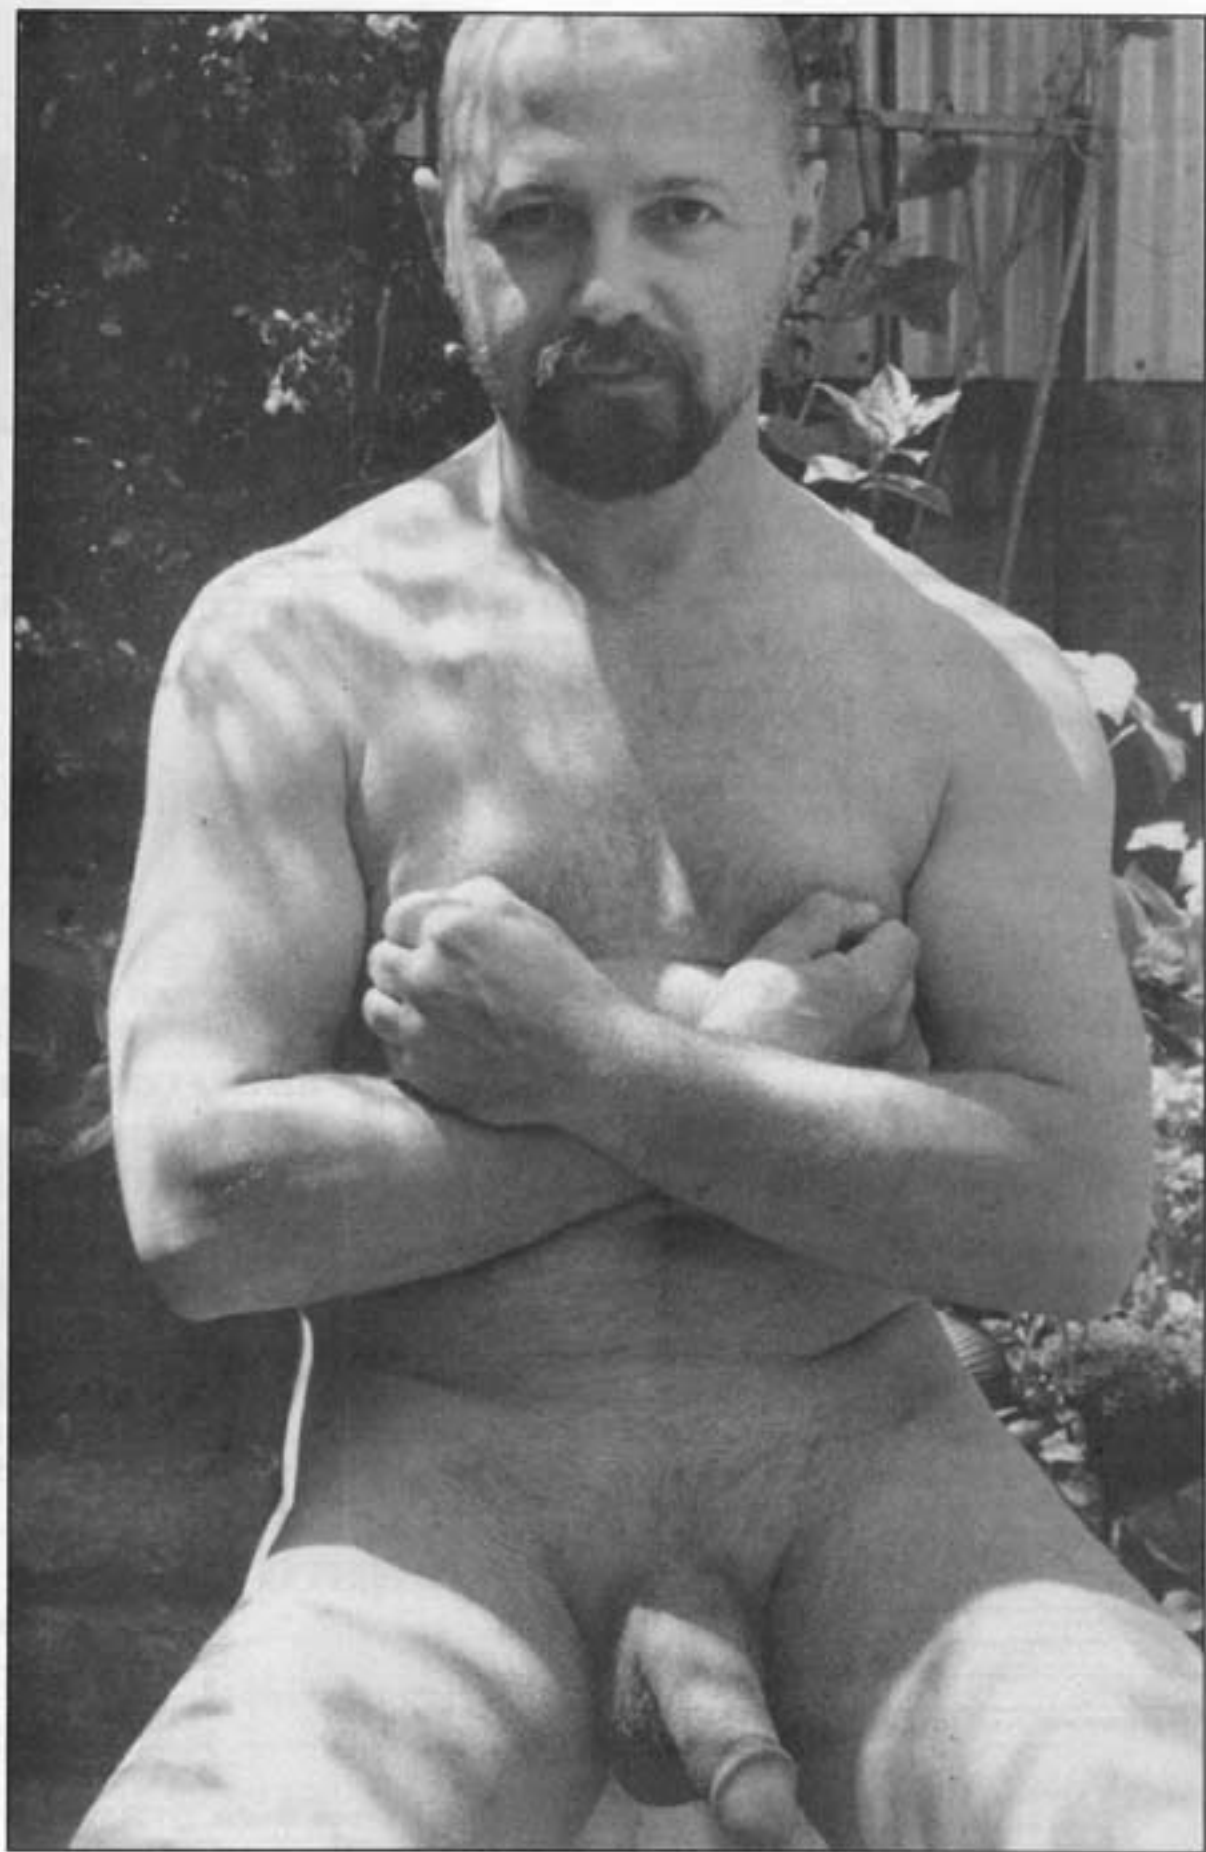

But don't think Danny's a wimp. He's into rough, physical sex, and'll do anything from licking to punching. With a smile, don'tcha know...
