LETTERS TO BEAR

Hey, guys. This here's our Pacific Northwest issue. This issue's gonna focus on Oregon, Washington, Idaho and maybe a little bit of British Columbia, Canada. So that means we got a few items that aren't on the regular menu, and a few standbys have been kicked off to make more room for dick.

It wasn't such a bad experience, making that trip up to Seattle during the Northwest Bear's Spring Thaw. We had to root out some bare butt. What a job, huh? The hospitality was unequalled. We're still licking Steve's boots—he's the owner of Seattle's incredible Gaslight Inn. He gave us a place to stay and didn't even gripe about the dirty sheets. And thanks to the guys at Spag's, the Cuff and the Eagle; Northwest Bears, Cascade Bears, BC Bears and The Seattle Leather Mercantile... By the way, did anyone lose a gray sock with blue trim? Get in touch with us.

So sitchyself back, fix yerself a triple-mocha grande nonfat with hazelnut and get into some funky Pacific Northwest sex.

BEAR goes KKKrazy

As a gay white reader with friends of many races and cultures, I was shocked and saddened to find, in the illustration on page 20 of BEAR 32, a character sporting two tattoos: one of a swastika in a skull, the other of the words "white power."

Shocked at first because I have been an avid reader of your magazine since BEAR 19 and had never seen anything like this before. Ever since I was introduced to BEAR (by a black friend, incidentally), I've been impressed by the mentality surround-

The Wittke Wire

I've fucking had it with that Tom Selleck regardless of how much I used to adore him. A long time ago, pre-Magnum, P.I., I even belonged to the Tom Selleck Fan Club. Members got a photocopied newsletter with other members' poems about Tom and drawings of Tom, and messages from Tom passed along to us by the fan club president (an "average housewife," if memory serves) who assured us regularly that Tom was a great guy, real down-to-earth, just the best! Tom was "good people!!" There were lots of exclamation points in the newsletter!!!

Yeah, well, fuck Tom Selleck!!!!

I know what you're thinking. "Wittke seems kinda miffed." Exactly. In an August '95 edition of TV Guide, Tom Selleck gives an interview to writer Mary Murphy that's prominently featured on the magazine's cover with headlines proclaiming that Tommy Boy was battling "vicious rumors," among other things.

In the body of the interview, we are treated to all sorts of politically progressive thoughts of Mr. Moustache's as well as his dealing with the oh-my-god-what-could-be-worse? "vicious" rumor that Tom Selleck is big old hemo. He tells TV Guide: "I couldn't care less whether people who are gay would like me to be gay," says Selleck. "This is not going to happen. I am as proud of my sexual preference as anybody else is. And if a gay person finds it insulting to have to stay in the closet, I find this just as insulting. It isn't antigay to say you are heterosexual."

OK. So what Tom Selleck is trying to tell us here is that the circulation of unsubstantiated rumors about your sex life is equivalent to being forced to live duplicitously by a culture that completely devalues you and often works to eradicate all traces of your existence and the existence of people like you.

And the article goes on: "There is fire in Selleck's eyes as he continues. 'I didn't care about my career. I cared about who I was as a man, and I have a wife and a kid, and I am not going to spit on my wife and falsify that commitment. What is implied if you're married and gay? You've got two lives. I mean, that's crazy.'"

Tom also holds forth on how tough it is to be a hardline conservative in Hollywood. "He firmly believes that TV executives should exercise strong control in the programming of sex and violence on television. He was a supporter of George Bush's first presidential campaign. He also donated money to 1992 Republican challenger Pat Buchanan.... Being on the wrong side of the political tracks in Hollywood, he believes, can cost an actor work. 'Hollywood is so intolerant of other points of view,' says Selleck. 'They feel if you disagree with them you're evil. And if that costs me work, I'm proud of it.'"

Let's see, in 1992 Tom Selleck actively supported and ing the BEAR culture. I perceived it as a be-who-you-are attitude, with little pretension or prejudging. The intolerance suggested by that symbol and that phrase runs contrary to what I perceive as the ideal BEAR attitude.

Yet I'm saddened, too. As gay people, we must be aware of our oppression and our oppressors. We must know that the groups who stand behind those symbols harbor no love for gays and lesbians whatsoever. Their use in an illustration in your magazine sends out confusing, conflicting signals. For me, a gay, white supremacist is no less a conflict of interest than the gay fundamentalist you wrote about a few issues back.

I don't sense that the attitudes represented by these two tattoos are prevalent in the BEAR culture, but I'm disturbed by the fact that they should be represented at all. This certainly has caused me to re-evaluate my participation. It definitely has caused me to decide to no longer purchase your magazine.

Name and Address Withheld, Wisconsin

Why? Because BEAR is a white supremacist magazine? Because BEAR espouses a neo-Nazi agenda? You know neither is true.

Look at the illustration again. It's of a hairy, beefy, rural person about to take an enema-dildo up his shitty asshole, ostensibly to get fucked.

By a homo. A real one. Friend of TC's. He lives in LA.

True: A swastika and the words "white power" are strong, potentially hateful images, but they are also keys to heavy sexual fantasies for some guys. Some guys get off on hair or feet or foreskin, others are turned on by age, ethnicity, or dick size. And some guys find power sexy and absolute power absolutely irresistible.

Among the guys who eroticize power, authority, or evil, Nazi images are not uncommon. Military and police images, uniforms, gear and fantasies are very common, and considered by some to be related to the Nazi fantasy. Discussion of the imagery and its meaning seems endless—and will not be pursued at this time in BEAR—but you can not discuss away what is sexy or what is sexual. The discussion of Nazi fantasies and evil-authority sex has been gobbling up mass quantities of bandwidth on the gl-asb list on the Internet for the past month, with a wide range of opinions being expressed by a tremendous number of Net Surfers. When the idea is played out there, it will reappear somewhere else. Now it has flared very, very briefly in BEAR.

The truth is that we apparently made a mistake in judging that our readers really have, as this letter writer suggested, a "be-who-you-are attitude" and "little prejudging." We were wrong with regard to at least a few of you. We learned something about a segment of our readership, something about the limits some readers would put on "who-you-are," helped fund Pat Buchanan. Buchanan was the least-tolerant of the incredibly intolerant Republican National Convention speechmakers, a man whose viciously anti-gay, anti-minority and anti-artistic expression hate-mongering monologue is believed by many on both sides of the political spectrum to have cost Bush the re-election. And Selleck calls Hollywood intolerant of different points of view? It reads to me more like intolerance of intolerance.

So I'm over caring about how beautiful Tom Selleck's densely fur-covered chest is; how classically handsome his face is. I'm glad that he cares about who he is "as a man" (whatever the fuck that means), and that when he looks in the mirror he likes who he sees. Although, frankly, I'd be really surprised if he even gets a reflection.

For a refreshing antidote to Tom Selleck's he-man huffing and puffing you need look no further than the "Sex and Sexuality" issue of The Advocate (August 22, 1995). It's the one with that handsome, smiling Patrick Stewart on the cover. Stewart reminds me more and more every day of my balding and hairy-chested new boyfriend Arby, the massage therapist (but that, too, is another story). Promoting his performance in the movie-version of Paul Rudnick's laugh-a-second play Jeffrey, Stewart talks with fabulous lesbian writer Donna Minkowitz about the rumors that he is gay, and it couldn't be more different than whiny Tom Selleck's response.

"I wondered if this could be in any way connected with my work in Jeffrey," Stewart says. "Maybe there is something that is observable, that I am unaware of, that people are reacting to. If there is, I can only say that I feel very good about it.... [S]o far as I'm aware, I'm conventionally a heterosexual male. And yet I find something quite flattering in these suggestions of others that I'm something else."

It turns out Stewart's warm and empathetic, too, comfortable with himself and unthreatened by other people's perceptions of him. I've also always liked Quantum Leap's Scott Bakula, who gives an interview in the same issue of The Advocate promoting his role in Clive Barker's Lord of Illusions. He says: "I don't draw a line between women who are attracted to me, and men who are attracted to me. I can't control how people respond to me. I just try to be honest and do my work."

Bakula is much more handsome than Tom Selleck and with a furry chest that's at least as nice. He's also a much better actor, and, like Patrick Stewart, has a beautifully strong voice that's completely devoid of that annoying nasal quality Tom Selleck uses whenever he tries to "act." So what I'm wondering now is, how do I join the Patrick Stewart and Scott Bakula fan clubs? ☺ and the point at which their "prejudging" kicks in. We will not forget what we have learned, and we can apologize for any discomfort we caused anyone. But we still intend to be reaching for edges and pushing limits, trying new things and genuinely exploring the lives you and we actually live. Sometimes that will obviously surprise some of you, or offend you. Don't run away when that happens. Instead, tell us where it hurts. We aren't willing to get into the censorship business, but we are willing to try to keep BEAR responsive to you.

As the letter writer said, this was the first offense he had come across in BEAR, having been with us since the first 1992 issue. If we happen to push a "bad" button for you every 15th issue or so, maybe the best response is to see that that page, idea, picture or whatever is for someone else, and still tell us what you didn't (or did) like.

Don't Stand So Close to Me...

After just purchasing BEAR 32 I had to write to tell you how great your magazine is. I have been purchasing BEAR for quite a while, but this issue was really great!

It's good to find a magazine featuring big, handsome, hairy men who smoke, like you did in BEAR 31. Cigars are a turn-on, but for me even cigarettes are hot.

From what you showed, coverman Jim Coleman in BEAR 33 is going to be unbelievable. I can hardly wait to see the whole thing when it goes on sale.

Finally, I know you guys enjoy hearing about true BEAR experiences: I'm an eighth grade teacher. One year, during parent-student-teacher conferences, when one of the kids arrived with his dad, and I completely lost my composure. I couldn't even remember my own name. He was tall, handsome, thick black moustache, full beard, wide thick bushy eyebrows, hairy everywhere and he had on a T-shirt with a pack of Marlboros in the pocket. But what really caused me to lose my composure was that he was wearing a BEAR cap. Needless to say, I found it necessary to have several conferences with him during the times his son was in my class.

JC, Virginia

Smoking and drinking are hazardous to your health. So's making a move on a student's father in a crowded room. And we hope you'll do all these things and more for a long time to come. Nice work, man!

Peeking Out the Closet Door

OK, guys, enough is enough. How many orgasms do you think one man can handle, anyway? I have only recently discovered your magazine and I'm hooked!

I never knew that guys that looked like your models could feel the same way I do. I've always been attracted to big bearded men, but was naive enough to think there weren't any out there for me. I'm a middle-aged, mistakenly married father, at the point of insanity. I feel like a sponge that needs all the masculine soaking I can get. Things are looking better for me due to you guys and to men like Duty in BEAR 29. What a man, and what assets! My dick was sore for a week. If he happens to read this, he should know that he was part of a lot of fantasies that helped me get through from day to day.

One day, when I get the balls (have pretty good-sized ones, by the way), I will do what's right and encircle myself with big, hairy men and be like a kid in a candy shop. I'm waiting with baited tongue for your next issue. BEAR, don't ever stop being BEAR!

DK, Virginia

Carpe-fuckin'-diem, dude—seize the day. I promised myself I wouldn't preach, but you're only gonna get one shot at this, so do something with it! Get in your car, go up to Remington's Bar in Washington, DC, to suck someone's dick. Then write and tell me every smell, taste, fear, thrill you got along the way.

I think it was Mae West who said the thing about the regret for not having done something is far greater than the regret of having done something wrong.

End of preaching. Enjoy what we have to offer here, and make it all count for something.

Slick and Glossy

Thanks for bringing a fine magazine like BEAR to print. But why has your publication not caught up to the photo quality of other magazines like Penthouse or Hustler? It would be great to bring crisp, detailed, color photography to BEAR. Especially as so many subjects are outside in natural sunlight.

Your covers are great—how about the inside? This would certainly put an edge and bring BEAR well above the competition. I'll wait to see all of that great, hairy flesh in living color.

PE, Massachusetts

Well, I hate to say it, but you'll probably be waiting a long time to see a full-color BEAR.

We ain't black-and-white 'cause we're cheap. We're easy, but we ain't cheap. We like the look and feel of B&W on soft, matte paper. Some have called the paper stock "cheap newsprint." Trust me. It isn't.

I wasn't aware that BEAR had any competition. It's a work in progress, an exploration of masculine images. And to us, there's something inherently masculine in the grays and grit of black-and-white-photography.

You'll see changes in style. You'll see a continued increase in quality, clarity and form. But color is a long way off for us.

South Georgia

Had to write. Where do you find these hot, hairy men? From what I see in the personals and on the Internet, most of the hunky guys are in California and New York. We have 'em here in South Georgia, but they're all married to fish. They can be had, but most will not swap spit. Personally, I like a hot bearded man sticking his tongue down my throat among other things. You've had so many hunks in BEAR lately, my dick's raw. I can't help pulling my pud over Dominick, your BEAR 32 centerfold. Sure would like to burrow in his furry den.

GH, Georgia

Well you might be startled to hear that hardly anybody in places like San Francisco actually starts life here. They come from places like South Georgia. So there you are. Set yourself up on Interstate 20 with a BEAR bumper sticker (only $3) and don't let 'em leave the fuckin' state.

As for the straight ones, we're starving for breeders here in San Francisco. You can let those slip through. Send a couple our way. We're running out of fellas to make nervous here.

Excess Within Control

Just a note to say BEAR 32 was superb. Especially the spreads on Phil, Dominick, Mike and Nile. I can't wait to see Jim Coleman, BEAR 33 cover. He's hot, hunky, nice hair, sweet body and nice cock. Especially since I haven't had any beef in six months. Hope Jim's photographer can control himself during the photoshoot. Would be hard for me to control myself if I were in his place!

JP, Arkansas

You will have already gotten a chance to see all of Jim Coleman's spread by the time BEAR 34 comes out. It's part of the magic of publishing on-time. Still freaks the bejesus out of us, I can tell you.

Our photographers do excellent work. And we won't go into too much detail about their secret ways. But know that when there's a job to be done, they never leave their posts.

Let 'Er Rip!

I've enjoyed BEAR since picking up a copy of issue 20. The first sight of BEAR 20 coverman Fred in his boxers had me hooked. I love big men in their underwear, and love to paw them off, piece by piece as I blow them. I don't care if it's Jockey's or boxers, I like to rip them to shreds as I pump them dry.

I think you should do a pictorial of a hunky, hairy man ripping off his underwear while masturbating. I do it all the time, and it's a hell of a lot of fun. I know each new issue of BEAR will cost me at least one pair of undershorts, but it'll be worth it.

By the way, BEAR 32 cover Dominick is goddamn hot. He cost me two pairs of briefs!

TS, Rhode Island

Oh, man, sorry about the underwear. You should submit a claim to our new accounting department; just make sure you fill out a check-request form. And sign your name properly at the bottom.

In a business like this, you get to see the array of stuff that floats a guy's boat. Or rips a guy's shorts. Bet you're never short of rags to dust off your VCR. Why don't ya cum on a few and send 'em our way? B

TOM

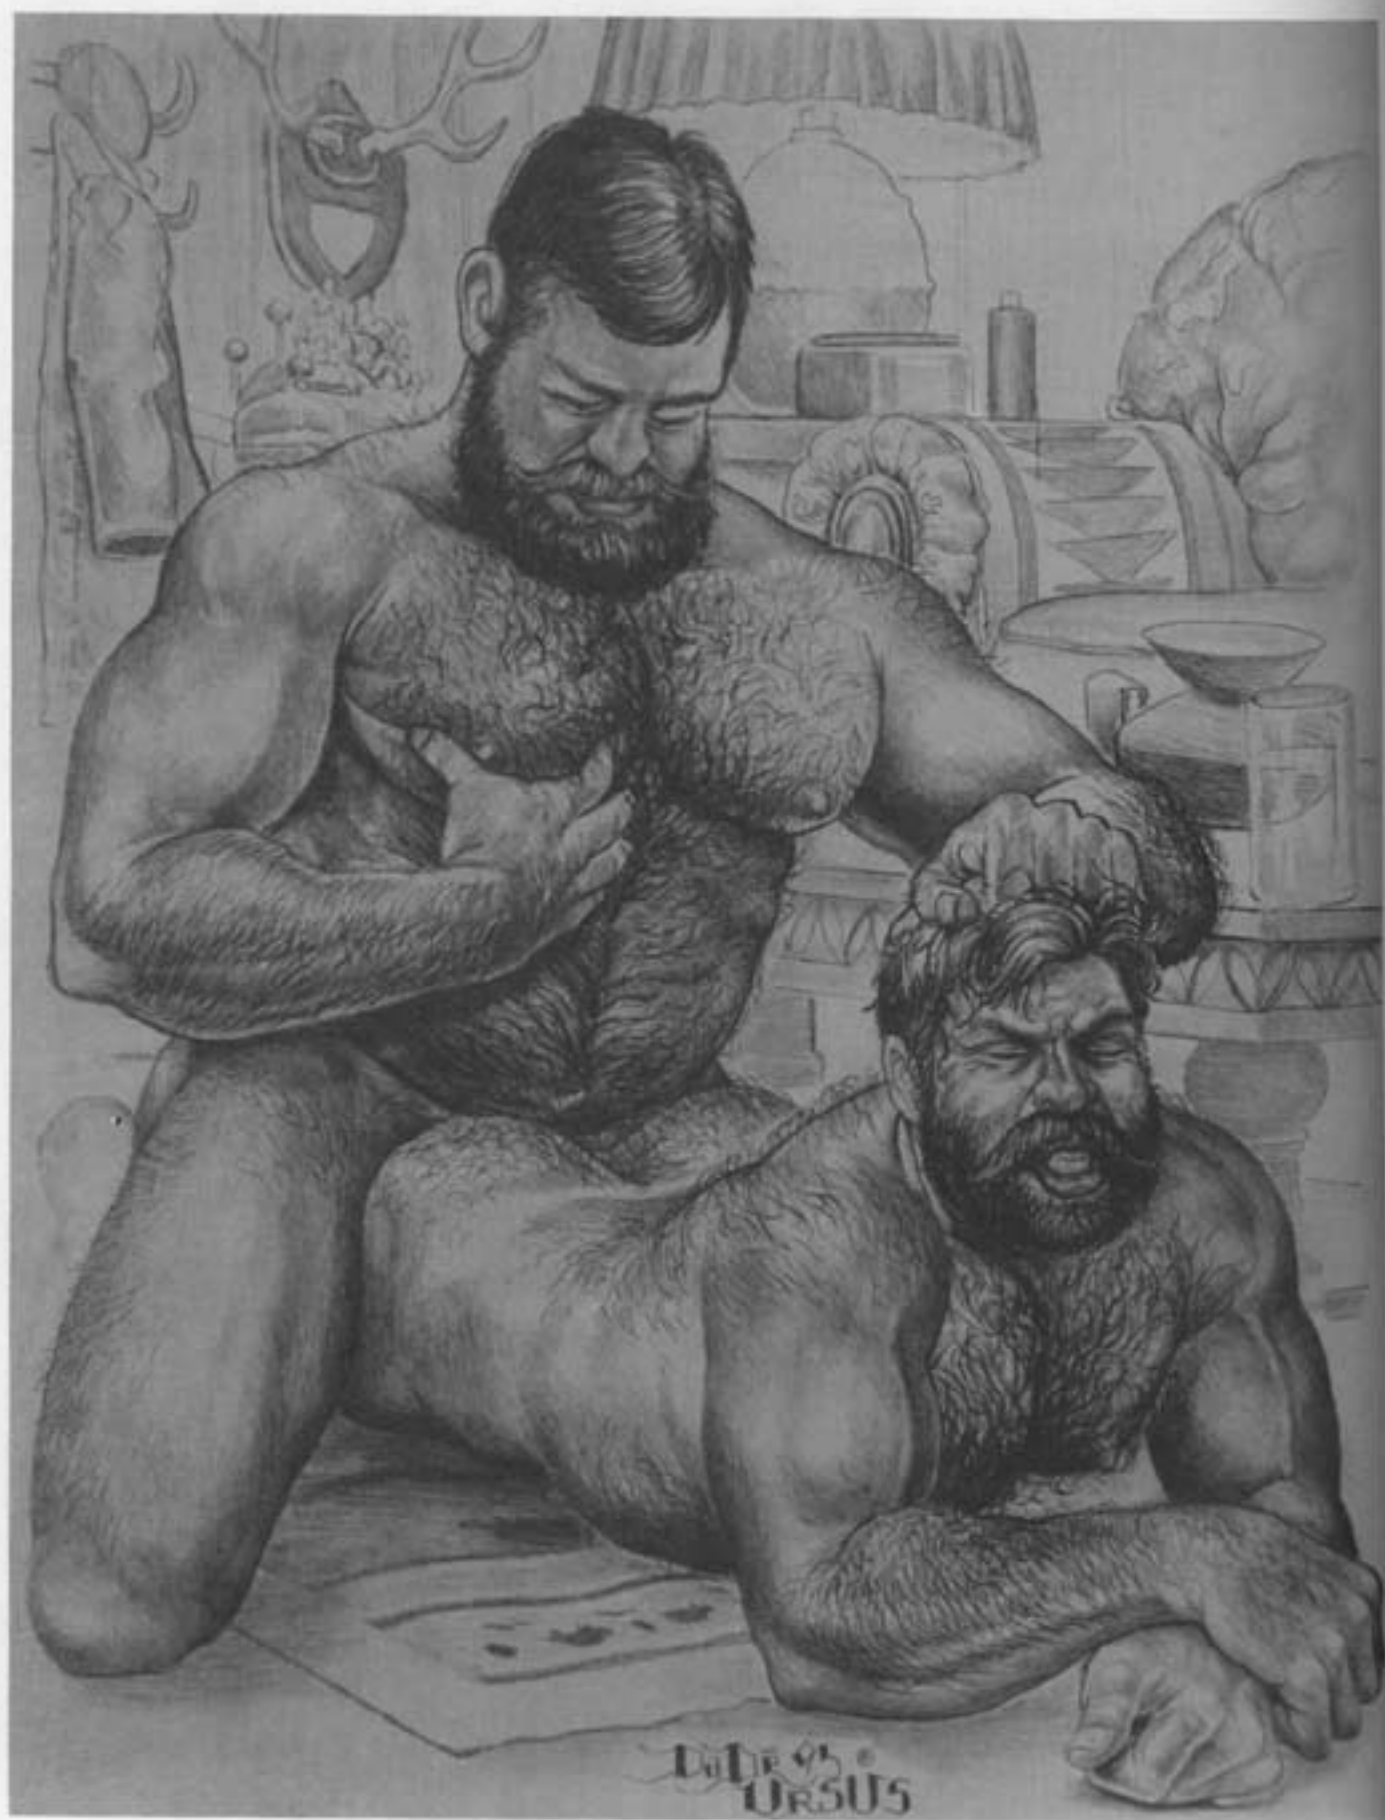

He looks good, stripped naked and lying around in the woods. Tom's one of those guys that belongs outdoors. That's a common trait for Northwesterners, and it suits Tom just fine.

He's a sheet-metal worker from Portland. You can tell from his body he's used to lugging metal around. He works hard and plays hard. Goes for beards, redheads and likes to lick 'em all over. He's even got a personal ad here, under Oregon. So check him out and tell us what you think.

When I talk to hunters and hikers, I get the impression you city guys don't think we backwoods guys ever get it on. Well, let me tell you: When a mountain man drops his pants, his cock is every inch as big and hard as on any wimpy beach bum.

Good one-handed magazines are harder to get up here in the Cascades, but they're not harder to come by. Every miner I know up here is an expert in right-hand pleasure. We have to take care of ourselves.

An example of the hunks we see up here (when we get to see anyone else at all) was the federal park ranger that visited me a couple weeks ago. He was the first human I'd seen for three weeks. He came riding through my part of the hills checking deer populations.

Night was falling, and the opening winds of a storm bent the trees overhead when he halloosed my cabin. I invited him in, in accordance with Western hospitality. He put his horse in the shed and walked toward my cabin.

Big hunk. Two hundred pounds if he weighed an ounce, and so tall, he'd have to duck his head to get in my cabin door. He wore the green field uniform of the rangers, and it looked kinda new. I wondered if the big guy was a rookie.

He came walking from the shed with a big smile—and didn't notice a deep mud hole. A coating of leaves disguised it, and before I could warn him, he went in up to his knee and fell over. "Damn!" he growled, pulling himself out a mud-soaked mess.

"Oh, shit," I called out. "Sorry about that. You're a fuckin' mess now. Tell you what: Gimme the pants and the boots, and I'll toss 'em in my washtub while you go wash yourself off in the creek." A small creek of icy water ran right by my cabin. "Better get a move on," I added. "Looks like a storm's about to hit."

He yanked open his pants, and I tried not to stare—never can tell how straitlaced one of these chaps will be. He wore a jockstrap. Guess the rangers have to do some athletic riding and hiking in a day. The pouch bulged with a big package. Hairy legs, too.

He tossed his muddy pants up to me. "Much obliged," he called, then walked off to the creek.

I went back into the cabin and emptied the pockets of his pants. Keys, a few coins. And rubbers. My ranger carried rubbers? My dick got hard.

I tossed his pants into my washtub, poured in some water and a little soap, but before I did any scrubbing, he appeared in the doorway. "I'm right sorry about that," I said. "Ought to have said something."

"Not to worry," he said. "Accidents happen." I glanced down. The man had a hard-on. It jutted out the pouch of his jock like he hid his gun in his underwear. Curly hairs stuck through it like porcupine quills.

"Like that one, eh?" I said, eyeing his big cock.

He blushed. "Ah, that," he muttered. "Don't know what I was thinkin'...."

"Thinkin' about sex?"

He blushed again. "Well, you know how it is. The gait of the horse sometimes gets to a man. I can't tell you how dumb I feel, a federal park ranger, standing here without my pants—"

"And with a hard dick."

"Yes ... with a hard dick."

I smiled. "You got nothin' to be embarrassed about. We're all men here. And you are all-man, all right. You really got a big one. How big is that thing?"

He blushed again. "I dunno. Nine, 10 inches, something like that."

I reached for my pants. "I've got 10 inches, and I know, 'cause I measured. Let's use mine as a measuring stick." He didn't say anything as I pulled my pants open.

I don't need to tell you, the conversation got me hard already, so when I fetched it out, mine was long and throbbing like his. I moved closer, and at first he edged away.

He was fighting a battle inside. He moved away a little more, then stopped. I got close enough that our dicks almost touched through the mesh pouch of his jockstrap.

He still wavered, so I reached out and grasped the big bulge. He gasped.

"Oh, that's a big one," I murmured and squeezed a little to give him a sharp jolt of pleasure. He gasped again.

In a second, a warm hand groped my cock as well. "So's yours," he said in a slight croak.

At that point, I knew he wasn't a missionary, so with a hot look, I brought my face close to his, and our lips met in a crooked, open-jawed kiss. Yes, he was a good one. In seconds, I heard him panting, and his kiss grew bolder, his hand on my cock stronger, and his willpower weaker.

I smelled the hot aroma of male. It came from under his arms, and I smelled it all the way from his crotch.

And the taste. His kiss tasted of cigarettes, jerky, and something else. Soon we jacked each other off like madmen, but after a minute or two, I broke the kiss. "No, hold on," I gasped. "Let's enjoy this all the way."

"Right." We stepped back from each other, pulling off clothes. He had the advantage on me, naked from the waist down, but my pants soon dropped to my knees. Watching the big ranger strip was a hell of a pleasure.

He took off his hat and laid it on a table, then he unbuttoned his green jacket.

He wore a tan ranger shirt underneath. That came off, then his white T-shirt. I licked my lips. Only his jockstrap remained.

"You're a hairy one, all right," I grunted. He was like a grizzly, so hairy, I could barely see skin. "What's your name?"

"Call me Chuck," he said.

"Well, Chuck, you are one hunk of man, lemme tell you that." Chuck was an ape, all right. With a muscular Northwest build, he looked powerful and energetic. I licked my lips again.

Chuck weighed about 225, all muscle. He looked more like a prehistoric caveman than a modern park ranger. His hulky proportions looked even more massive, padded with masses of coarse hair.

I had the purest of intentions, I really did. I was about to drop to my knees to demonstrate my respect for the federal government and the park rangers by yanking down his jock-strap and sucking his big pecker, but—and never in my wildest wet-dreams had I thought of this—that big, husky ranger lowered himself to the floor first!

I looked down in shock, but he had the expression of a religious fanatic. He swallowed my already-naked dong before I could react. A blowjob! A blowjob from a tall, husky park ranger!

He swallowed my dick down to the root, and his tonsils ringed around my cockhead like teasing fingers. The sight of that big man sucking my cock was more than I could stand. I meant no disrespect, but I grabbed his head and face-fucked him like he was the last mouth on earth.

He got to me, oh fuck, did he get to me! The pleasure built up, and as the first thunder roared outside my cabin, I exploded in him like an avalanche down a mountain canyon.

"Ah, yeah, suck me, ranger," I gasped, out of my mind. "Suck that big cock!" And he did. He liked it. Gulp every drop I had. Moaned in a sort of daze.

When it was all over, and he backed off, I chucked him lightly under the chin. "You didn't have a hard-on from ridin' your horse, now, did you?"

The storm raged outside my cabin, but we were sweating inside. He smiled, a few dribbles of my jism dripping from his lips. "No, I got it when I saw the bulge in the front of your pants."

That got me. It turned out the nasty ranger had a route he took every few weeks through the mountains, visiting the cabins of miners and backwoodsmen—and sucking every one. "Ah, and such a big one as you!" I marveled. "I woulda been proud to—"

"The night's not over yet," he said. We kissed again, and I got a shot of my own jism into my mouth. Suddenly I recognized the taste from the first kiss.

When we broke, I murmured, "You sucked somebody just before you got here? I tasted it on your first kiss."

"Naw. That was my own." The horny ranger showed me how he could double up and suck his own cock. He did that to himself just before he came in range of my cabin.

"I liked it," I said. "Made me drunk." With that, I spun him around and pushed him against my rough wood table. "Fuck, man, your back is as hairy as your crotch!"

"I take a bath in hair tonic," he grunted, and we both laughed. He was ready. Turning him back around, I took him in a hot, open-mouthed kiss, and together we sank to the floor. He rolled over and crouched with his legs open. His hairy buttocks looked like two coconuts still in the hairy husks.

I couldn't stand it. Fondling the soft thatch over his buns, I maneuvered behind him and stuck a finger up his crack, feeling the firm muscles of his butt on either side. The coarse brown thatch of his asscheeks was almost as seductive as the hard muscles underneath.

He relaxed, and the dark ravine of his butt opened to show me his asshole, a grotesque whirlpool of greasy, swirling hairs. The hole itself was pink, wrinkled, and winking as he tensed and relaxed it. That sight sent jolts of lust through me.

As I touched my broiling tongue against the soft flesh of Chuck's passage, he let out a long, low whisper of high-mountain pleasure. "Unnnnnnnnnnnh!" I licked around the circumference of the little red mouth, encouraging it to loosen up. I got to the ranger: His breathing grew labored and his gorgeous anatomy tensed with expectation.

"Agh, fuck!" Chuck breathed. "That's perfect. It feels so goooooood!" With my face fully between Chuck's meaty globes, I could hardly breathe—I slurped away, but the steamy cloud between his legs was hard to handle.

Chuck was tensing up into a rapture of wild sexuality, his masculine earthiness turning me on even more. I reached under him—Chuck's saddlehorn was as hard as the carbine in the rifle-scabbard, and Chuck's nuts hung down like some of the stalactites in my mine.

Finally, I decided he was more than ready. I rared up and poised behind him, my tongue hanging out. Mounting a man is one of the most exciting parts of fucking. In that moment, the man under you gives up every masculine power, and the pride inside practically busts out through your chest.

It busts out sweeter through your cock, of course, but that takes a little bit more effort. Nothing is more of a turn-on than to crawl onto some shaggy mountain man crouched and surrendered to you. It always makes me so fucking horny, I leak precum from my piss-slit like beer running out of an overturned can.

I placed both hands on Chuck's hairy shoulders as I climbed up, then I reached down to guide my cock for the insertion. Chuck's squared-off, muscular butt cushioned my thighs like two leather pillows, and when I felt in the crack for his asshole, my finger almost got lost in all the hair.

Ready, aim, fire! I grunted as my cock kissed his ass. Torment is another part of man-sex. When a man's cock-head charges into his buddy's guts, it swells his ass-ring out to maximum size, and when that aperture is stretched tight, the fuckee knows he's been mastered. But the pain is a pleasure.

First of all, don't move there. Don't even think of driving there with California license plates on your car—they hate that. Pacific Northwesters know they have something special in their part of the country, and will fight like hell to keep it. Their populations, property values and traffic have doubled around them in the last eight years. So they'll be wary of strangers.

The weather sucks. This much you've heard. Throughout western Washington, Oregon and British Columbia, you go from October to April with hardly any sun at all. Just low, gray clouds. Day...after day... By some miracle of cosmic intervention, they get a two-week break of sunny weather and 65-degree days in February. No one knows why. But people go ape-shit, and dance out the doors of their office buildings. Then...slam! You're back under it. Showers off and on well into July.

The Pacific Northwest offers some of the highest mountain ranges in North America. Idaho and the eastern sections of the coastal states are desert-like, with broad agricultural areas, whereas the western slopes are moist and luscious and densely populated—much like our copy editor's crotch.

Native Americans play a big part in Northwest life. Many reservations exist; small nations with names like Puyallup, Mukilteo and dozens more. Indian art is everywhere, and the native cultures are woven into life here more equitably and comfortably than in most of the US.

The people up that way are easy-going and co-dependent. Store clerks smile and say, "Have a nice day!"—and they mean it, which is pretty fuckin' scary. Pacific Northwest men often sport beards. Lots of cowboy boots and pickup trucks, but not hitting you over the head like in the American South.

Pacific Northwesters are real plugged in to the environmental thing. Guys wearing leather have been known to get a little grief—not for their lifestyle, but for being so insensitive to animals. You don't wanna know what happens if you ask to have your coffee in a styrofoam cup.

Vancouver, British Columbia, is the biggest city in the Northwest. And it's a hyper, international conglomeration, steeped in British heritage. It's surrounded by mountains and waterways. Vancouver's West End, where most of the guys we know live, is claimed to be the most densely populated stretch of land north of the Rio Grande. Stanley Park is a huge recreation area just at the end of the city complete with a zoo, aquarium and all kinds of nasty things going on in the bushes. Davie Street is the place to go if you want to get laid and have fun with friends.

Seattle's the next biggest city in the region. They call it America's best-kept secret. Good coffee, grunge rock and lots of recreational boating abound. Mountains, too. If you don't work at Boeing or Microsoft—what was your name again? Seattle and its closest neighbor, Tacoma, duked it out to be the reigning power of the Oregon Territory a hundred years ago. The railroad was slated to go to Tacoma—so Seattle legalized prostitution. Damned if that ol' railroad didn't hang a right and head straight into Seattle in 1893. Tacoma never recovered from that blow. And Seattle's been gloating ever since.

Capitol Hill, also known as the Swish Alps, is the place to be if you're a Seattle queer. Cruise the Broadway Market, hang out and get drunk at Spag's. Or the Cuff.

A vote to make "Louie Louie/oh oh/we gotta go/yeah yeah yeah yeah" the Washington State official anthem only narrowly lost on a state ballot. It's the only one that gets played anyway at yacht races and football games.

Portland sits on the Columbia River. No, it's not on the ocean like everyone says. They don't have sales tax in Oregon, so do your shopping there. Portland has the cool distinction of being the only major US metropolis that allows its police department people to wear beards. So they do. Much to the delight of the citizens and your publishing staff.

Two-term Portland ex-mayor Bud Clark sports a long beard and posed in the nude for a nationwide art poster campaign. Most still believe that's how he won his elections. Oregon's current governor, John Kitzhaber, has a nice moustache and furry chest, and is always dressed in jeans and cowboy boots.

Stark Street and the southwestern area are good places to go if you're looking for hairy trouble in Portland. Bars where you might find the huskier/hairier set include the Dirty Duck, the Eagle and the Crow. They're into ornithids, I guess.

Timber and gold rushes put the Pacific Northwest on the map. That meant an influx of loggers, miners and all kinds of butch, hairy men. Their descendants are still around, and can be had if you know how.

We won't tell. ☺

Pretty sexy fella, ain't he? Grew up in Nebraska, and has been in Seattle now for about two-and-a-half years. Likes it better, 'cause of all the mountains and waterways. He asserts that the people in the Northwest are friendly. But with that smile of his, he probably gets treated good wherever he goes.

He's a bartender, art photographer and can be seen sweating atop his bicycle on Seattle's Burke-Gilman trail. If you see him, flag him down. Maybe he'll do you.

It Takes A Long Pull To Get There

by Killer

My recent cross-country drive was quite an adventure. I came smack up against curious local customs and my own big-city snootiness.

I wasn't about to make the trip solo so I enlisted the aid of my pal Bird who is far more experienced in the long haul. Before we started out, Bird said, "I'm good at the part where the highway is long and straight and boring, but don't get me near the mountains." Consequently, I drove us out of California.

Our first stop was Winnemucca. I'd never been in Nevada past Reno before and was stunned at the lush grass on the steep hills. The population seemed especially concentrated in the cities and towns with hardly any houses in the country. I thought many times of stopping the bobtail there and setting up a homestead, but my love for Crusher kept me pressing on.

We pulled over at the first hotel that advertised truck parking. There was one room left at the inn: the Jacuzzi suite. I thought it a little pricey, but Bird went ape-shit at the prospect of watching cable TV from a two-man tub filled with swirling hot water while a microwave awaited with freshly thawed delicacies from the Ralph's grocery store next door.

Suitably refreshed, we returned to the road. The plan was to hump through Elko (though we did stop briefly to get a shot of the Lesbo Real Estate office), get lunch in West Wendover, go through Utah as fast as we fucking could (which, during rush hour in Salt Lake City, was no mean feat considering that I was battling an urge to go make salt angels in the Great Salt Lake desert) and put ourselves just over the border into Wyoming, in a town called Evanston.

It was in Evanston that I came face-to-face with myself. Bird and I got there shortly after 9 o'clock and both of us needed supper pretty bad. The hotel clerk recommended an Italian place a block and a half away. Once there and seated, Bird and I ordered damn near everything on the menu; Bird was particularly set on a Caesar salad. We were both surprised when our waitress brought a large salad bowl to the table, tossed the greens and mixed the seven ingredients necessary for the dressing and dressed the salad immediately before serving us.

"I didn't expect to find that here," said Bird and I agreed, suddenly exposing a bit of small-mindedness. That was the telling moment: I had lived in a big city for a long time and didn't expect to find the elaborate ritual of Caesar salad preparation far from a place thought cosmopolitan. It reminded me that people can and do enjoy the classics just about anywhere, and that I should shut my mouth and quit looking so surprised.

The other moment that defined Evanston was a sign above a store: ARTILLERY • FIREWORKS • LIQUOR. I like the combination.

The Flaming Gorge area of Wyoming is incredible. Almost always, there are cliffs and chasms and snow-covered mountains in sight. We discussed driving up to Yellowstone for an overnigher, but our schedule wouldn't allow for it; we began planning to meet there next spring.

Onward we drove, stopping at Little America (which had the most high-class bathrooms; I'll never forget the experience of having my own marble-lined, completely enclosed, private stall complete with its own speaker from which some woman sang, "Feels like talking to an angel," while I pinched a loaf), crossing the Continental Divide (and I didn't know you got to do that twice), ogling buttes, watching thunderstorms rise up out of the prairie and, in general, being stunned at the expanse of country that we had never seen before.

We rolled into Ogallala, Nebraska, that night. I called Crusher later to make sure that he'd be home when we got there the next day. Nebraska hurt, though the truckers were by far the best-looking along the drive. Never before in my life have I seen such a flat expanse of land. Even in California, in the Central Valley, you can see mountains on either side of you. It was in Nebraska that the long haul seemed to get even longer; the more ground we covered, the more it seemed like we stayed in one place, like some bad French proverb. We sang along with Ren and Stimpy on the boombox and improvised a game of hide-and-seek in the cab of the truck. I couldn't find Bird. In this way my sanity was spared, although Bird took a picture of me with my face contorted in a hideous grin to remind me of how close I came to crossing the line.

Conquering the highway in Nebraska (as well as many cornfields in the neighboring states) brought me to Crusher. As it turned out, Bird was there for moral support: I had driven the entire distance. Crusher knew what kind of mood I'd be in when I arrived; he had many bottles of sarsaparilla on hand. I kissed him hard and wrestled him to the ground. Observing us, Bird asked, "So you two know each other?"

Now, it's damn near predictable that every journey is going to have its point of enlightenment, and I have to get serious. This country is an amazing place, and I'm talking about the land itself and its people. The scenery blew my imagination, and the people pleasantly tweaked my sensibilities. Given the current political climate, I do not doubt the tough times ahead throughout this country. After having seen much of what this country has to offer, I'm all the more appalled at how much the current crop of politicians seems compelled to destroy it in the name of industry. Neither do I doubt the strength and ferocity with which they will be vanquished. **Ⓢ

HOW ADS WORK

1. BEAR Voicemail. To use your credit card, call 1-800-347-BEAR. To charge the call to your phone, dial 1-900-HOT-BEAR. Record your own personal greeting, answer someone else's, or talk to whoever else is jacking-off on the line. Mailboxes have 4 or 5 digits. To collect your voicemail messages: At the main menu, hit the star key. This takes you to your mailbox. If you're on a dirty bulletin board, leave your area code so guys know where on the planet you are.

2. Constructing your ad. Talk about yourself and be real clear as to who you'd like to meet. Avoid negativity shit, like "no fats, feds or Lithuanians." It doesn't work, and we'll probably change it anyway.

3. Names. We can't print Occupant or Boxholder. You must use at least your initials, or a name your postal carrier knows.

4. Cost and duration. Personal ads are free if you're a BEAR Buddy. Otherwise, they're 25¢/word/issue. Wanna change your ad? Send in $5. Wanna discontinue your ad? Write in and we'll pull it. You will have to pay to have a pulled ad put back in, though.

5. Deadline for BEAR 35 classifieds is Sept. 25, 1995.

6. BEAR Postal Box Numbers. For US subscribers. Free to BEAR Buddies. Otherwise, add $5 to your ad. A word to the wise: Your own address will get you more responses.

7. Replying to a BEAR Postal Box Number: Write your letter, put it in an envelope and seal it. On this envelope, put the fella's box number IN PENCIL, where the stamp goes. Put this letter along with $1 in a larger envelope and mail it to us.

8. Personal vs. commercial ads. You know what a personal ad is and what isn't.

9. We reserve the right to edit personals for editorial consistency and clarity. We reserve right to refuse an ad.

10. Changing your ad: It's cool, but it'll cost you 5 bucks, and must be in writing.

11. Photo ads. We'll run a shot of your face or dick—but only once. Your photo must have a signed model release with a photocopy of your picture ID. Each photo sent to BEAR must be signed with your name and address on the back. They're printed first-come, first-served, so you may have to wait a few issues.

RANDY

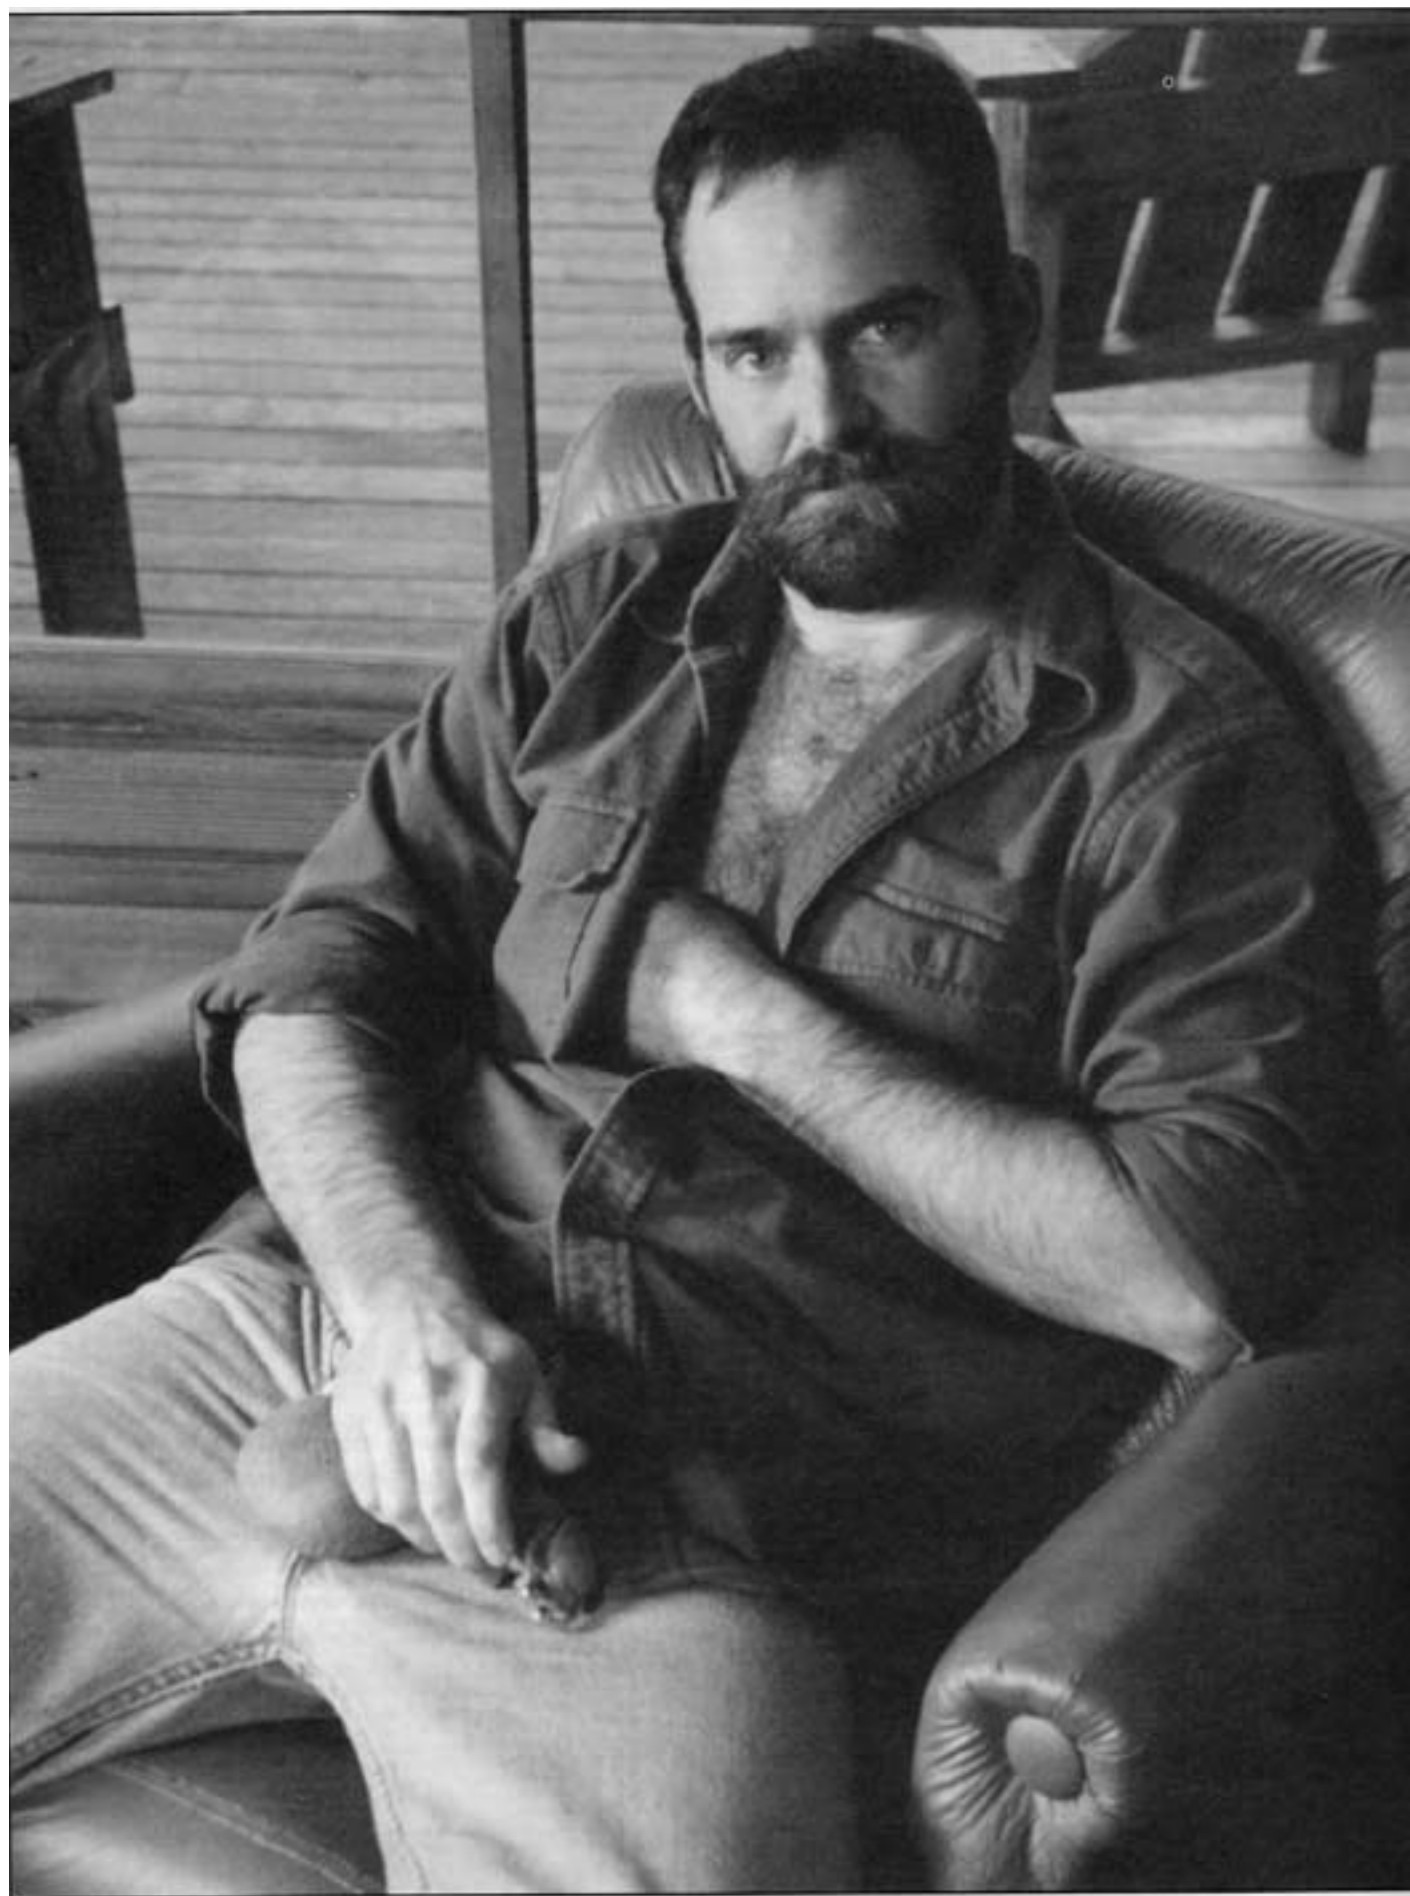

He's got it all. Randy's brilliant, artistic and successful. He lives alone in a cabin on a river in the Sky Valley area outside Skykomish, Washington. It's some of the most beautiful country in the world. And it's all in Randy's backyard.

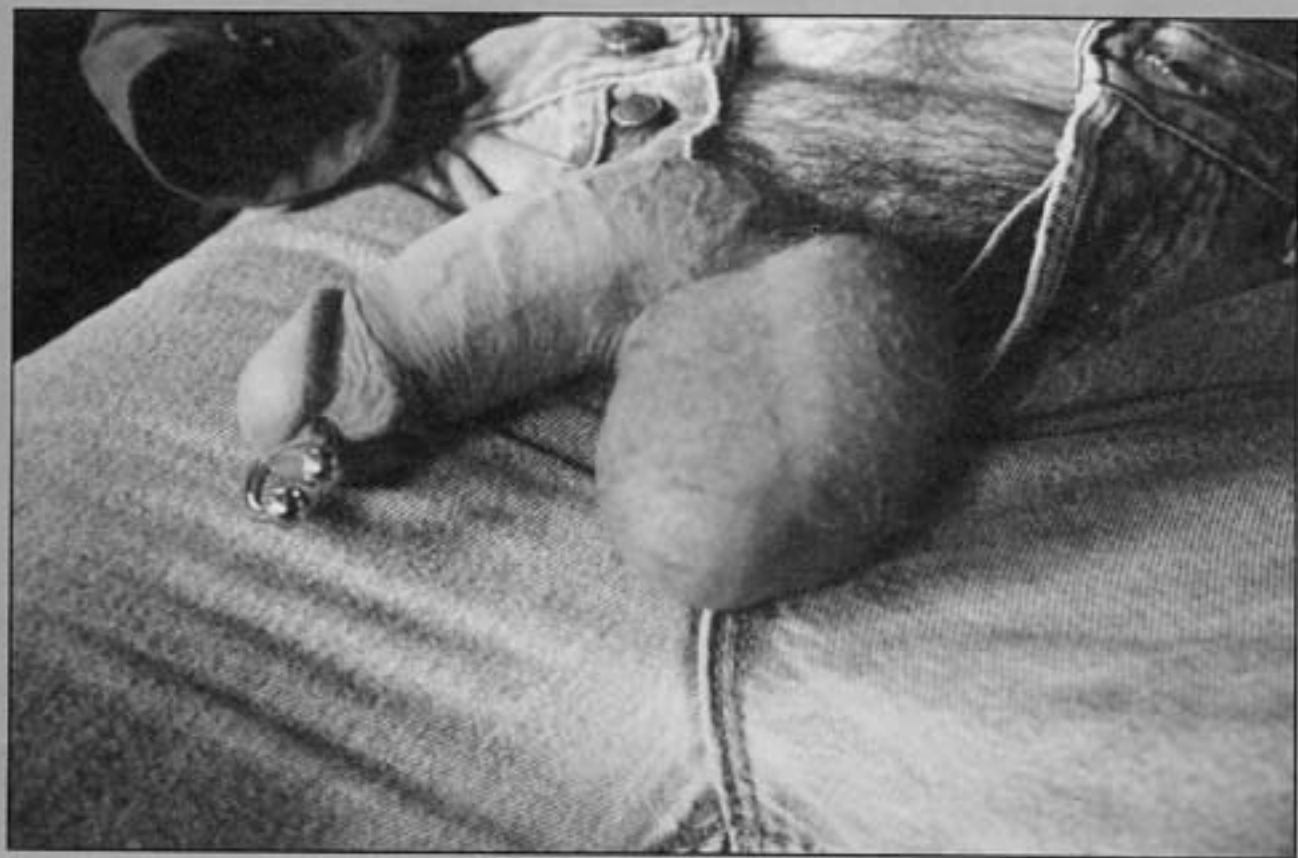

He's self-employed in motion picture animation. So he works at home in the woods, calling the shots for his work.

Don't go thinking he's lonely, though. He gets plenty of company out his way. He's real approachable and easy to talk to. He cuddles. And fucks. He's even done some way kinky stuff in his day. But it's all a part of his life. He's glad to be who he is.

And we're glad he agreed to share himself with you.

Get Your Dick Out.

BEAR models come from the same place you did. They were in bed, whacking off, looking at this very mag. And suddenly, they started to get an idea.... Chances are you've got your dick out right now. Nice to see the real you there, fella.

If the idea of people looking at you naked makes your hole twitch, we want you. Send us pictures. You might become famous, and get all the sex you want.

The following information is necessary for all people photographed in BEAR.

Complete this form and send it with your photograph, along with a photocopy of your picture ID. Put your name, signature and phone number on the back of every gawd-damn picture you send us. We don't have time to play pin the prick on the Pokie from Okie.

Voicemail Tips

Our BEARVoicemail system is designed to give you immediate access to new friends, true love, or just a real good fuck. It works. Here are a few suggestions to speed your chances of success:

- Press buttons slowly and firmly.
- If you think you made the wrong choice, hit the star key to get back to the Main Menu.
- Messages stay in the system for two weeks.
- Use Option 3 to set up another mailbox, or to leave your phone number on the Bulletin Board. Always use area codes to catch guys in your neighborhood.

If You Have a BEAR Ad

When dialing in for the first time, you must already have your passcode from us. Once at the Voicemail Main Menu, immediately hit the star key to collect your mail. You do not need to set up a new voicemail box (Option 3). We've already done that for you.

In The Lurch

Can't get far in this world before you run into Lurch (we don't know his last name), the San Francisco comedian/event emcee who looks like a Hell's Angel person on a really bad day but who's really a sweetheart. Now look what he's gotten himself into: a West Coast TV commercial for Foster Farms chickens.

"What?" you roar. "Chicken in BEAR?"

Yeah, only he plays a mean mother-fuckin' tattoo artist and he gets to get real gruff on TV. None of us took him seriously. But you should fly to the West Coast and watch commercials with us.

Fuckin' Around

We're gonna leave this one in here, even though you're probably sick of it. We can just hope at least some of it soaks in.

Below are the safe-sex basics for staying alive in the Angry '90s. Read them and follow them.

1. Sucking dick is one of those Risk Management deals. HIV has been found in pre-cum, and people have contracted AIDS just from sucking dick. Know that. But also know that not everyone who sucks dick gets AIDS. You have to decide. If it came with, say, a 15 percent chance of infection, would you still do it? Don't take cum in you. Don't suck cock with bleeding gums or pizza burns on the roof of your mouth.

2. Butti-fucking should be done with a condom. Without one, the opening of your dick smears right up against tissues that transmit the virus. That's how straight men get AIDS from women. Taking a dick up your butt without a condom, even for a minute, goes under the heading of A Really Bad Idea. Your shit-chute's a sponge for viruses. In fact, your body actually wants to pull viruses into your bloodstream so it can learn more about them. HIV's a Rubik's Cube that your warm, fuzzy little body'll never learn to crack. So when fucking, make sure you're using a latex rubber (not an animal-product condom). Oil-based lubes such as Vaseline, Crisco, Wesson or hand lotion'll melt a regular rubber. Use a water-based lube. They now sell polyurethane condoms that can be used with oil, but they haven't yet been officially rated for blocking HIV.

3. If you're cumming inside someone with a rubber on, do a final safety check before you shoot. Make sure the hummer's on right and in one piece. Afterward, back out carefully while holding the rubber tight at the base of your dick shaft. Wash your dick and pubes before taking the condom off.

4. Eating butt is a lot like sucking cock. The risk is there, but is not absolute. Shit can contain the virus, in various strengths, depending on your partner's health. There again, you have to decide. Blood and tiny scrapes will be present—tasty, but perhaps dangerous.

5. Fiat with gloves on. Your hand can get scraped in ways you won't necessarily see or feel.

6. Cum has the highest concentration of HIV. So let him shoot on the furniture instead of in your eyes, across your buttocks or on your peeling hang nails.

7. Don't force the other guy to take care of you. Sorry, dude. It's your job.

8. People fib. Protect yourself anyway.

9. Getting shit-faced makes lots of things sound like real good ideas that maybe aren't. Keep sex and drugs in separate bedrooms (rock-n-roll, though, is always cool).

10. Whether you're HIV-positive or not, have you decided you're going to stay healthy? It's kind of easy to fall into the "we're all going to get sick eventually" shit-hole. Lemme tell you something: You get what you settle for. So take care of yourself out there.

NORTHWEST MEN

Lee's a sexy Washington fella. Don't let his warm and friendly looks fool you into complacency, though. He'll get you when you're not looking—and we guarantee you'll like it. He admits to being a nipple-man. And they're the sneakiest sort of person.

Lonnie's indigenous to the Pacific Northwest. Just look into those sexy eyes of his: You can tell he's a trusting people-person in the true Northwest style. He and his partner run the Seattle Eagle and they dig every minute of it. Lonnie's into Seattle rain. Oh. And he gets fucked up the butt.

Pink Highways: Tales of Queer Madness on the Open Road

By Michael Lane

Cover Price: $19.95

Published by Birch Lane Press, New York

Do you assume that every person you meet is gay? Or do you assume someone's straight? My lover and I were of two minds on this issue due to our diverse upbringings, and some would feel that making either assumption is wrong.

All degrees of predisposition can be found rolling through the mind of Michael Lane during his riotous, solo escapades in Pink Highways: Tales of Queer Madness on the Open Road.

A self-professed queer from Portland, Oregon, Lane fuses the hearts of Hunter S. Thompson and Ken Kesey with a heavy dose of his own gay innuendo. A reader immediately becomes a willing Malcom McDowell from "A Clockwork Orange," strapped in, eyes taped open, unable to look away from Lane's next move. Personally, envy poured from me as I followed his journey from coast-to-coast, with a brief flashback to sexual dramas in Northern Africa, wishing I were him, knowing that he came through alive to tell of it.

Lane, co-creator and publisher of America's most stylish and all-encompassing gay publication, Monk, sings the praises of the unknown frontliners and backstage hands in our community. He takes what, to some, would be no more than the basic human condition and, under his unique style of magnification, calls it for what it is: life — unique and unpredictable at every turn. Some stretching of the "imagination gland" does occur. But I wanted to believe that such characters really occupy the diners and on-ramps of our country, free and brave. Almost every man, woman, or conglomeration of the two is given a genuine heart, beating through the pressed pulp on which it is transcribed.

If you admit to yourself that you are as crazy and unpredictable as anyone else, then Lane's characters are you, thumbing across the great divide and bearing their souls to anyone going their way amid congested highways. It is you he speaks of, showing your true nature to your neighbor. It is you he shows pride in knowing, and who he brings to life in Pink Highways. He prepares people who can't always dive into life sexuality-first for what scratching an itch can really be.

I thank him for the ride. And once you read it, so will you.

DPN—Diseased Pariah News Magazine

PO Box 30564

Oakland, CA 94604

$10 for 4 issues/roughly a year.

"Why HIVers Are Sexier!"

"How to Die Without Really Trying!"

"Barbie's Malibu Dream Hospice!"

DPN is a magazine about having AIDS and it's funny.

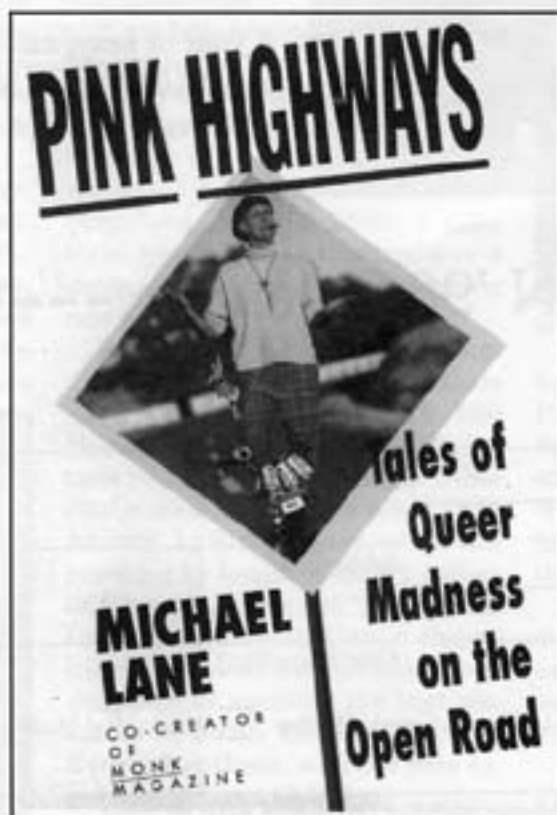

Deal with it.

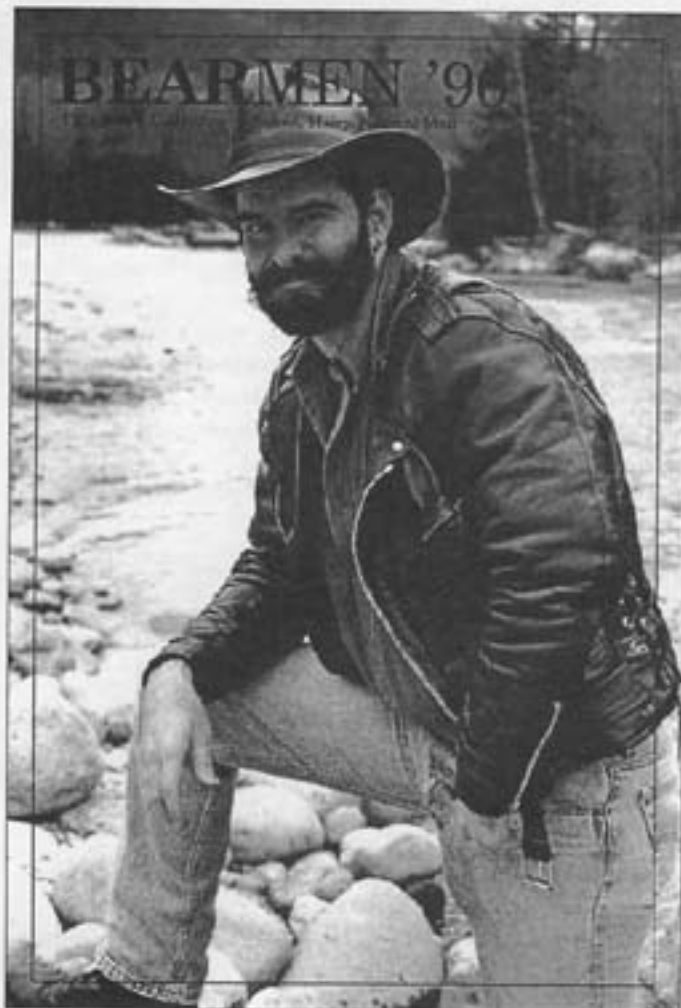

In their opening statement, they say it's "a forum for infected people to share their thoughts, feelings, art, writing and brownie recipes in an atmosphere free of teddy bears, magic rocks, and seronegative guilt. ... We don't care how you got HIV, as long as you're not a whining and hateful virgin about it."

When you've got something bringing you down, it's important to know you've got good company. And while I'd personally think twice about having twisted people like this over for dinner, they make great fodder for when you've either gotta laugh or break something.

They don't really publish on time, but you should be used to that with us. The magazine is real fun to read. And it serves a great function in demystifying all the crap that comes with getting cooties. Read it.

Don't bother asking Erik Stenerson for stories behind naming his band Her Fault. There aren't any. In tracing the origin of the Seattle-rooted act's unusual moniker, he leans back with a sly snicker and says, "It just came into my head one day. I've tried to make up things over the years to explain the name, but the truth is that it just sounded good to me."

Those words could just as easily describe the songs that make up Heritage, Her Fault's first full-length album on Bittersweet Records. Flanked by drummer Pat Connor and bassist Jim King, Stenerson plows through the set with a combination of sonic punk-force and pop purity that just plain sounds good when it hits the eardrum. "I just wanted to make a great, catchy record," he says, pointing toward the timeless recordings of the Replacements and Husker Du as sources of inspiration and influence. Listen closely, and you can almost hear the ghosts of both dearly departed bands looming about.

The underlying fuel of Heritage, which was recorded within the legendary walls of Egg Studio in Seattle (the birthplace of music by Mudhoney, Pearl Jam, etc.), is the wistful and introspective nature of Stenerson's lyrics. A self-described "lonely songwriter guy," he has captured the emotion of relationships and friendships with uncanny honesty and clarity. "I look at these songs as being about summers gone by," he says. "And they're about old friends who you don't talk to anymore, but kinda miss and remember with a sad smile."

Elsewhere around town: If you're hankering to hear more from the eternally fertile Seattle scene, yet you seek something beyond the obvious lucky few with major-label deals, investigate Unsigned Seattle (RLK Enterprises, 206-672-3798), a nifty little compilation that introduces a dozen of the city's most promising new acts.

Regular BEAR readers will recognize the inclusion of the infectious "Sugarbush" by Girl With 100 Heads, the all-queer quartet with a taste for fuzz-guitar-driven pop. Other standouts include the metallic "Turn Around" by Sister Mary, which was produced by longtime Heart guitarist Howard Leese; and "Man of Your Dreams" by Loving Cup, a charming male trio with a sound that is best-described as sporting the best elements of John Lennon and the Everly Brothers, with the pure aggression of Kurt Cobain.

Beyond the realm of the Northwest: Openly gay country music warbler Doug Stevens will follow his 1994 debut, Out in the Country, later this season with When Love Is Right. This set is strong on memorable, original material that showcases Stevens' developing tenor voice, and the agile musicianship of his backing group, The Outband.

Perhaps the most gratifying aspect of When Love Is Right is the overtly queer perspective from which most of the songs are written. "Livin' a Lie" tells the tale of a lesbian banished from her small town, while "Pump & Go" outlines the joys of cruising. More serious are "On This Bed" and "Little Fish," both of which examine the aftermath of losing loved ones to AIDS. Call Stevens at 718-274-1455 to purchase a copy of this essential album by mail. And tell him that we said, "Howdy!"

If ya like your music on a more bluesy tip, look for Roll of the Dice, which marks the return of the Fabu- lous Thunderbirds. Available on Private Music, this set is stripped-down, balls-to-the-wall guitar fare, with Detroit-bred lead singer Kim Wilson cutting loose like he never has before. "I got the power goin' on this one," he says with a laugh.

Roll of the Dice works best when dabbling in pains of love-gone-wrong, as evident during the must-hear songs "Too Many Irons in the Fire" and "Memory From Hell." Cool stuff.

Private Music labelmate Willy Porter also delivers nicely textured blues tunes on his latest long-player, Dog-Eared Dream. The vibe here is decidedly spare and raw, as "Angry Words," "Cold Wind," and "Be Here Now" conjure up images of a lonely troubadour. This is music to lose yourself into. D

KELLY

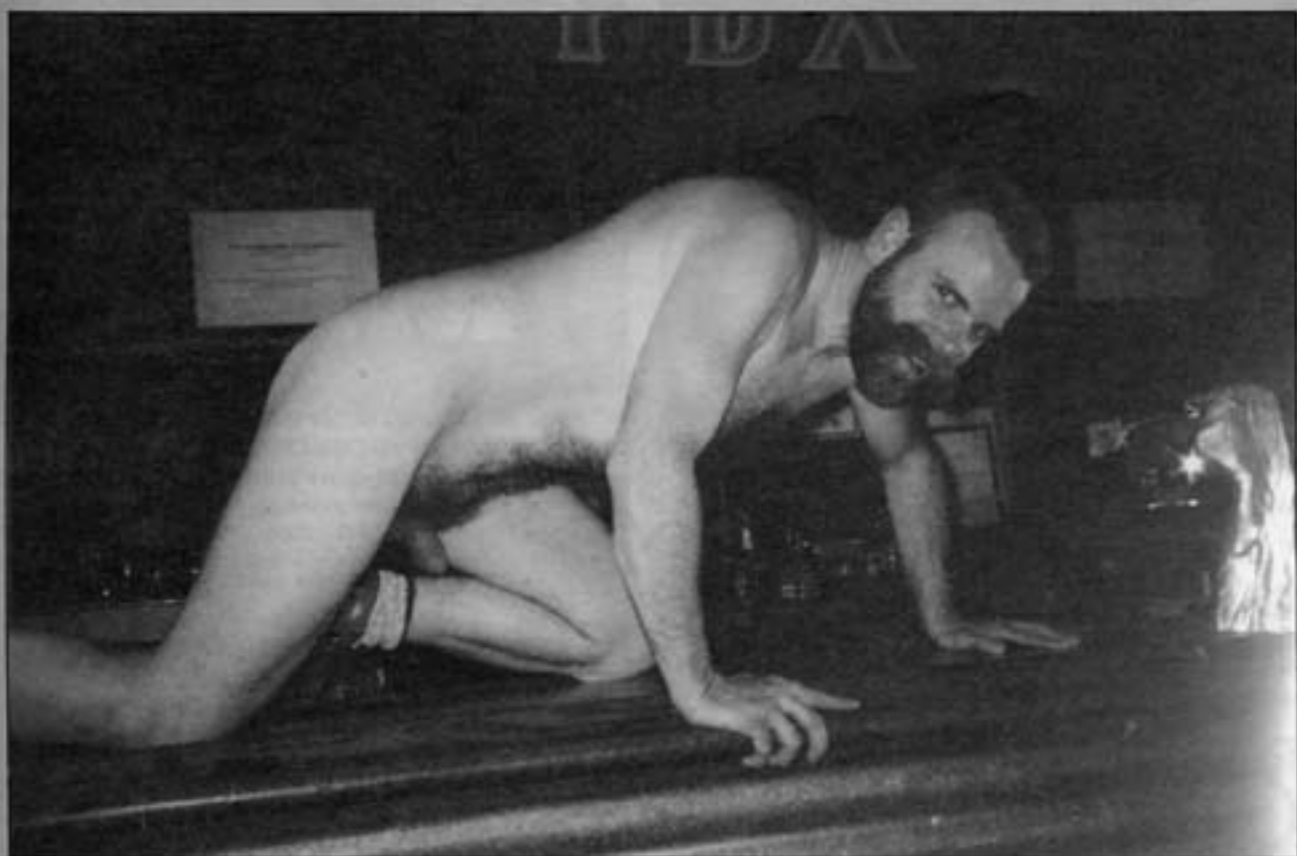

He grew up in Salem, Oregon. He's been in Portland for about a year and a half, and knows, for him, it's home. Says he loves the variety of people, activities, and close-by nature that makes Portland famous. Skiing and camping are his passions.

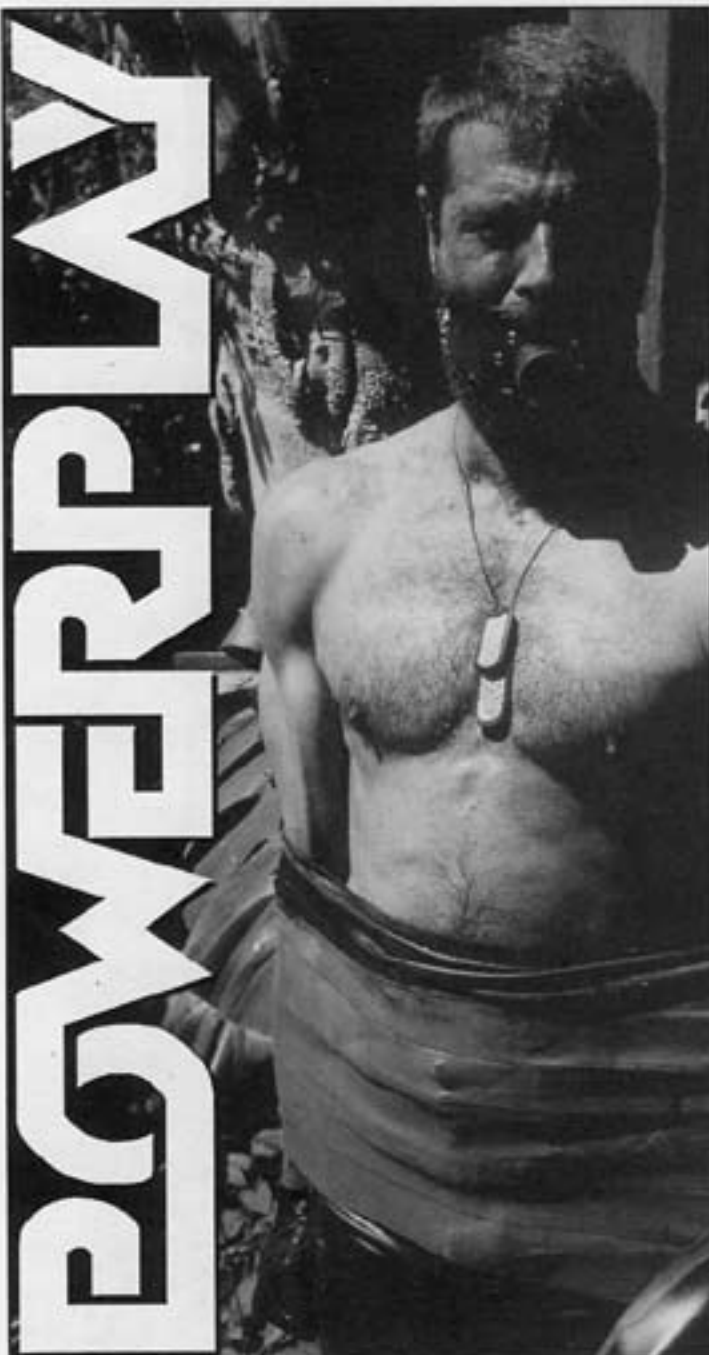

Like a lot of people, he started work in the corporate world, but now tends bar—and likes it a lot better. These days, you can find him slinging scotch at the Crow. Being behind the bar has brought him out of his shell and made him a true people person.

Kelly does it all, in and out of bed. Calls himself a dyed-in-the-wool cocksucker. And who are we to argue?

Hat's Off

By Luke

The clothes make the man. Ain't that what we've always been told? What a man wears says a lot about him, be it an uptight three-piece suit, oil rigger's duds, cowboy gear, jogging sweats or a BEAR baseball hat with polyester slacks and Polo shirt.

Don't laugh. I've seen that one.

We go for a man because of how he looks. For how we think he's going to make us feel. And damned if we don't start with the clothes he's wearing.

People spend fortunes getting all gussied up. People cast hatred for how others do—or don't—get all gussied up. Gotta get the gear, so the tobaccoists say. (And by the way, be sure to check out our BEAR clothing catalog on pages 79 and 80!)

So, You think I'm trying to write a clothes commercial here? Gimme a break—I don't give a shit what you wear. I'd prefer it if you didn't wear nothing at all. Besides, it's not often I can get a man wearing a cowboy hat to eat my butt and still keep that hat on straight. Something's gotta give, and the clothes are usually the first to go.

These days, you can go to where the men don't wear any clothes at all. It's dark. They fuck. But even then, some guys keep a bit of clothing on. Like to be naked in front of others—to just be—is too hard to face. I wonder if even the tattoos, piercings and perennial cockrings are there to make sure a fella doesn't feel too naked. Doesn't feel too much like everybody else: a normal human who wants to get a little lovin' up the butt.

Now, you've got your dick out here, so you don't need a lecture on existentialist philosophy. But as a man who's probably looking for a piece of action, it plays a part. Existentialists talk of a person being composed of layers, like an onion: the clothes, the skin, those slick little mucous membranes underneath the skin that feel and taste so good. Then you get to the insides. Where a fella really lives. Who he really is. And you can find it's a far cry from the Benetton and Levi Strauss that looked so good sitting on a barstool.

There is one accessory that'll get me totally horned out and sexed up: funky sweat on brown leather. That's right, brown. Black doesn't do it for me. I'm just not into the Nazi paradigm, the leather/SM regalia—probably because I think people should do what they want, and not what some Finnish guy made up way back when. Brown leather's sexier. It ages better. People really wore it, back in the old days. For me it invokes a real, honest-to-gawd, working man who sweats and grunts. And based on my five years making smut, I can say that most of us'll do damn near anything to capture a flash of that true, old-fashioned masculinity.

A guy doesn't have to wear brown leather to be masculine, though. You can usually tell which ones would wear it, if they had some. How tough we look on the outside can be manufactured. You can buy it at the store.

I can't get away from the best motto I've heard: "Always be more than you appear." It's an old German proverb. I try to live by it. I even manage to get laid from time to time, in spite of it.

Here's what I think the answer is: Decide who you want to be; decide who you want to attract. But—and here's the hard part—don't run to the store and charge your new image on a Visa card. Instead, just be what you want to be. Sweat a little, on your own. Get funky when no one's looking. It's called being true to yourself and not giving a hoot what others say.

Why should you be true to yourself?

You'll get laid a lot more, that's why.

When the hat's off and there's nothing but sweaty skin, what are you in it for?

If you really wanna buy something, get a piece of old brown leather and wear it on the inside where no one can see it. Be what you want without telling a soul. Make it yours. Make it real. And if your fella should happen to get a whiff of it, take it away from him and make the fucker beg. ☺

Things To Do

by Luke

29 September-01 October 1995, Denver, Colorado. We're screaming in under the wire with this one, but Denver's Front Range Bears are Octobearfesting. It gets kinda messy with all the food, beer and bodily fluids, but if you have time to get to Denver before the weekend's up, give 'em a try. They have a lot of parties and a big contest. Contact the Front Range Bears at PO Box 101433, Denver 80250. Or, just show up at the Triangle and look pitiful—someone'll buy you a beer.

6-9 October 1995, West Virginia. The Washington, DC-area group Chesapeake Bay Bears are heading for the hills and need you to go along and keep them company. It's going to happen during the fall colors, so it'll be pretty. Costs money, but you'll be staying at a guest house for this Columbus Day weekend package. It'll be a great way to meet new and exciting people, and to get away from whatever it is you need to get away from. Contact CBB, PO Box 34725, Washington, DC 20043. You can also call 703-913-6761, but it's just Mike's house, so you have to be nice and not call late.

20-22 October 1995, Orlando, Florida. It's the Whateverth Annual Bear Bust. Guys go to this one from all over; you can expect to meet all kinds of BEAR models at the incredible Full Moon Saloon. They have parties, food and contests; you'll have sex, chapped lips and a sore dick. Contact the Bears of Central Florida, PO Box 647, Orlando, 32802, or call 407-277-9515. Don't get a hotel room next to coverman Rob from BEAR 31 'cause he snores like hell.

5 November 1995, San Diego, California. Guys of the Bears SD (not South Dakota) group are going to raid the mall. At 1. Lend to their numbers and scare people. Contact them at 619-221-7309, and remember to bring your VISA card.

10-12 November 1995, St. Louis, Missouri. The Show Me Bears are having a event called the Hi Bear Nation. The agenda for the thing reads as follows: registration, party, party, vendor booths, party, games, party, party, food and party. Bring this list so you don't get confused during the festivities. Contact the SMBs at PO Box 8192, St. Louis, MO 63156; call 314-995-2690 or send an e to showmebear@aol.com.

17-19 November 1995, The Wilds of Florida. It's the third annual Bears in the Woods campout, done by the Bears of Southwest Florida. Picture over 60 hairy, hunky guys running around in the Florida jungle with no clothes on. The event is a good 'un; people get to have lots of sex and make lots of new friends. It's a rugged venue. You have to bring all your own camping gear and some food—only breakfasts and a weenie roast are provided. And bring some fuckin' bug spray, just remember to wash it off 'cause there's nothing worse than sucking a dick with OFF!™ on it. Contact Frank at his house, 813-775-5441. Costs $30 per person, ticks included. Or write BOSE, PO Box 7992, Naples, FL 33941.

9 December 1995, Des Moines, Iowa. In Iowa? Is it December? Go drink beer with like-minded men. They have a beer-thing in a bar every month or so. Put on by the Bear Paws of Iowa. Write them at PO Box 2774, Iowa City, IA 52244. Get the low down, get the hoe down.

HINDSIGHTS

It All Comes Out In The End

by TW George

The 1995 Mr. Valley Leather Bear Contest was a blast. It was a cool night in the Central Valley as the Wreck Room, Sacramento's premier leather/fetish establishment, was pushed to its limits with a crowd of hot and hairy men. Several hundred guys ogled each other and the eight men onstage who would be Mr. Valley Leather Bear 1995. The event was sponsored by the boys of The Valley Bears. Sacramento's a small town with a small event, but you wouldn't realize it for the fun and frolic had by the men in attendance that Saturday night, yours truly included.

Hailing from as far away as Southern California, the four judges were a handsome lot: Sherman Cobb of Bears LA; Mr. International Bear 1995, Will Pettite; Sacramento's own Michael Myhand; and the editor of Sacramento's soon to be premiered gay news magazine, Outward, Michael Gorman. In fact, the judges would have made great additions to the contestant lineup.

For two hours, the contestants put forth their best in what felt like an impromptu setting, entertained along the way with the sweet melodies and cracking wit of Sacramento's Helene Holiday performing queer favorites like "Donuts Make My Brown Eyes Blue" while hurling confections into the receptive crowd. Also working feverishly to make the show accessible to everyone was Ed McClure, a gifted interpreter to the hearing-impaired.

Once the smoke had cleared, only three were left standing in all their fur and glory. Jim came in second runner-up, Brian was first runner-up, but it was Ray Welch who, along with getting the audience's woof-meter award, took the sash from Duane Rutledge and became Mr. Valley Leather Bear 1995.

Every summer in Sacramento now holds a large surprise for unsuspecting ranchers who think it'll be just another Saturday night at the Wreck Room. After the excitement broke, and breathing was once again heard in the contestant room, the fun really began as the after-hours party got underway, hosted by the bar every weekend through the summer. Sacramento is the jewel of the Valley, known for its men, for its rivers, for the heat we never get in San Francisco, and for the Wreck Room and The Valley Bears. Kudos and kisses to my furry brothers there...I hope to rub beards again with you next year, if not sooner.

— Leif Wauters

it's all because we take to the streets in every major city. Shown in the photo below, during the Los Angeles pride march, are Will, BEAR 35 coverman and Mr. International Bear 1995, with our intrepid publisher, Bear-Dog Hoffman. They look pretty good, don't you think? You'll see all of Will's sex organs in a few months. Bear-Dog, however, tends to keep his in check.

The Chesapeake Bay Bears had a major bash in Baltimore on the weekend of July 7-9, raising over $1000 for local charities. They had a contest, and you're surprised to hear that, aren't you? Four winners emerged: Ali Lopez, the artist; Kip Landry; Robert Lemon; and the irrepressible David Bress. The crowd was entertained at the BWI Eagle, and it was reportedly one of best nights the bar ever had. San Francisco's Lurch emceed the whole thing, and you can hear good dirt on him in this issue's Shits & Giggles.

Up in Anchorage, in the middle of June, The Last Frontier Men's Club held their second Black and Blue Ball. Around 150 guys showed up, which is about half the population of the whole state. Mark Trick was given the title of Mr. Bear Alaska for the year. He'll come to the big San Francisco bash in February 1996, and you can ask him if he lives up to his name when you see him then.
