LETTERS TO BEAR

BEAR's Losing It

OK, guys, it's time to change the name of your magazine to Hirsute Pursuit, or Hairy Men or just Hairy. The name BEAR has become misleading. A bear is a massive, masculine, mature-looking beast. What the hell is happening over in the Bay Area? BEAR 33 is disheartening to the thousands of real lovers of testosterone-oozing, proportionally big, mature men that, until you arrived with your magazine, were not exposed, much less celebrated. I would think you'd want to stick with what made you so successful. It was not thin models like Jim Coleman, and it certainly wasn't skinny, 22-year-olds like Tom. I can find guys like Tom in hundreds of other gay magazines, the only difference being that his beard, balls, and ass would have been shaved.

Very few things would prompt me to sit down on a Saturday afternoon and write a letter to a magazine. But as I looked through BEAR 33 I sadly realized that I was not attracted to any of the models in it and was honestly a bit disgusted. I guess whoever is choosing the models now is not a real "bear-lover" because these men are not even close to what I think your past success has been.

If this issue is a precursor of future issues, please either change the name of your magazine, or cancel my subscription.

M.P., Florida

No, wait. Tell us how you really feel. Bottom line, you didn't like BEAR 33. You feel robbed of your bi-monthly jack-off material, and for that we're sorry. We owe you one.

The Wittke Wire

"Have you ever noticed your right triceps is significantly larger than your left one?" asks Arby, my boyfriend the massage therapist.

"Uh, no," I mutter as he works his way down my right arm to my hand.

"And your hands," he continues. "The right one has a much stronger grip and a lot more visible veins than your left hand. You might want to try beating off with your left hand on occasion just to avoid further atrophy."

"Contrary to popular belief," I reply, "there is one more thing I do with my right hand even more than beating off."

"And that would be?"

"Changing channels with the remote control," I say. And believe you me, it's true. Oh, I get in more than my share of self-love, if you know what I'm saying, but nothing tops the exhilaration of channel-surfing. Network shows, local channels, cable stations, commercials, movie channels, sports channels, country music channels, baseball games, football games, morning shows, daytime shows, late night shows, prime-time favorites; everywhere you look there's remarkable male pulchritude protruding from the picture tube.

If you click the channel changer the minute a handsome and hairy-chested man leaves the screen on one station, you're likely to land on another somewhere else.

This technique also works when the dreaded Bear-Watcher's Scheduling Conflict pits two shows with furry actors opposite each other in the same time slot.

Like on Sundays at the start of the fall '95 season. On NBC you've got Hope & Gloria featuring the incredibly gorgeous Enrico Colantoni playing Louis. You remember him, I told you about him last season: balding, chiseled face, furry chest. Naturally, CBS places Almost Perfect in the same time slot. Almost Perfect is fairly standard sitcom fare, less genuinely funny than Hope & Gloria, but starring the lantern-jawed man's man Kevin Kilner as Mike. The reddish-blondish-brownish haired Kilner has a luxurious chest pelt and arms covered with sun-bleached hair. How to catch the best of Colantoni and Kilner? Click, click, click. It's sorta like doing Double Dutch, only you remain stationary.

When you click like a pro, there's lots to see and do. For example, for the first time in years the new men in the cast of Saturday Night Live don't look like frat boys. I'm particularly smitten with the balding (there's that theme of mine again), ursine David Koechner. In the very first episode of the season, Koechner ripped open his shirt to reveal a not-particularly furry torso. But there was enough there to wet down with your tongue, if you know what I mean. There's also big-boned blonde Will Ferrell, whose topless debut revealed a mass of tight curly

You won't hear us saying the BEAR 33 models should never have been used in BEAR. But we aren't afraid to talk about how well the guys in BEAR 33 might have fit in with each other to make a comprehensive smut package. Number 33 will probably remain one of the slickest issues we've done, for lots of reasons unique to us as pornographers. So if you're worried that we're out of touch, just go pop a cold beer and relax. We're not going anywhere.

Body-weight is a big argument. People try to state exactly what a bear is, and they want us to do the same. We haven't yet, and be damned if we will. Who'd win from a discussion like that? An honest, do-whatcha-wanna-do masculinity; a comfort with having a dick and asshole—this is why we're on the map. It goes a little deeper than how much the models are supposed to weigh. BEAR started different than it is now. There were beards, but there was also grunge, skinniness, and real-life biker-types. It's been so many years ago now that some of the new guys that work here get real scared when TC, Lang, Bruce, Joe B. and all the old guys show up on their Harleys looking for beer in the office fridge.

You seem to be the kind of guy who gets off on a little extra beef, though. It's cool. You'll find it here, so stick around.

And With the Other Hand

Just received BEAR 33 and had to write even though my hands are still so sticky from all that spent cum. I WANT JIM COLEMAN! I am so lucky to be a native New Yorker since it gives me the hope of one day bumping into him on the street. He's fan-fucking-tastic from cover shot to the last photo in the spread. Boy, would I like to cuddle next to him some dark and rainy night. Hell, any night would do.

You did a great job on issue 33 with the other articles and photo spreads, but for me, Jim Coleman was the best. Many thanks again from these very sticky hands. I have been an avid reader for a number of years, and have never been disappointed. Jim was just cause to compliment your magazine. Quiet evenings at home just got better!

RL., New York

Hey, we like you. Thanks for writing. The only thing more we'd hope for is if you spunked a load on your letter. We need a little excitement around here....

Attaboy!

Give an "attaboy" to Killer for the terrific article he wrote in BEAR 33. Even though I'm not living in San Francisco, I can still relate to bullshit attitudes.

At a local club meeting, someone told me I was a reincarnated lesbian since I like wearing cut-off flannel shirts and drive a 4x4. Like Killer, I don't call grown men "Miss Thing,"

By Chris Wittke

chest hair. Last but not least is Darrel Hammond, who has a solid, regular-guy look. Best of all, these three seem kind of funny, which also distinguishes them from most of the recent male cast members.

Click. Look for the syndicated kid's show Action Man, a live action/cartoon hybrid that stars huge mesomorph Mark Griffin in the title superhero role. Griffin's muscles have muscles and his forearms have fur. He's also got lips that look like they'd be real satisfying, if you get my meaning.

Click. Chris Elliot's fairly disastrous movie Cabin Boy has begun its inevitable life on cable recently. It's well worth watching with the sound turned down, especially for Brion James in the role of Big Teddy. You bet he is.

Click. Two words that will give you an idea of the direction of ABC prime time lately: John Goodman. Oh yes, Roseanne's hubby Dan Conner has finally grown a beard and it only took eight seasons for it to happen. It's as great as we always knew it would be.

That network also has handsome-if-skinny mustachioed redneck Jeff Foxworthy in his own unfunny sitcom as well as Mark Harmon in the fairly not-good Charlie Grace. The white hairs that poke up over Harmon's T-shirts remind us that we're all getting older, and many of us are doing it rather attractively.

Ellen DeGeneris, the actress without a personal life, seems to occupy space in her self-titled sitcom as her supporting cast comes and goes through some sort of actors' revolving door. The latest addition is furry hard-body Jeremy Piven (from the unfunny movie P.C.U. and the guy with the perpetual hard-on in that particularly great episode of Chicago Hope last season) as Ellen's wacky cousin Spence. Also on that network is Stanley Tucci, the primo prime suspect on Steven Bochco's heavily hyped Murder One. I'm pretty sure, although not 100-percent positive, that Tucci had the distinction of giving Tom Hanks' character HIV by touching him on the shoulder in a gay porno theatre in Philadelphia. Either way, Tucci's a terrific character actor whose swarthy look, bald head (surprise!) and hirsute body make him a real looker.

Click. And what kind of report would this be if I failed to mention "Hurricane" Peter McNeeley, the boxer who had his lights punched out by convicted-rapist-who-did-his-time Mike Tyson? McNeeley is showing up on commercials for pizza, and his furry chest is nothing short of remarkable. He has so much hair on his chest it's almost as if his testosterone had nothing left to do but burst out of his pores. With so many images of men like him, it's no wonder my right triceps is bigger than my left.

and, like Killer, no one tells me how to act. If I want to kiss my man while riding in the truck, then fuck the world if they don't like it.

The improvements to BEAR are great, and service has really gotten better on mail orders. So has your printing schedule. Keep your hammer hanging high!

K.C., Virginia

Yeah, you give 'em hell, dude. Just don't pigeonhole the pigeonholers. Miss Thing ain't a bad thing, but neither's chewing tobacco and getting a blowjob in a beat up old Ford truck. It's a big world out there. Make sure you do some livin' in it.

Da Bears

I've got a part-time job working at the University of Wisconsin in Platteville, where the Chicago Bears football team holds their summer training camp. Each morning, I have the thrill of watching the players as they walk past my dorm window on their way to the practice field. My drool glands have been working overtime! There's nothing like starting the day watching hot men in athletic shorts, minus the jock straps, strut their wares.

Who knows? I may even start taking an interest in football!

B.J., Wisconsin

Hey there, take some fuckin' pictures!!!

You might breathe a sigh of relief that I know someone who knows someone who's in pro-football real deep. Guess what: There's some serious cocksuckers out there under all that padding. They have to keep it cool, like you'd expect, but they're there. Go get 'em, boy!

We Deliver for You

As a recent subscriber, I'm concerned about BEAR 33 having been mailed second-class. I subscribed because I expected first-class delivery, as the first two issues were.

I also had problems getting some back issues from you by UPS. The wrappings were beat up, torn, and the inner bubble wrap was breached. I know, you'll say, "You got 'em, what's your beef?" I'm just stating it as it happened.

I'm a senior, and reside in elderly housing. It's not always as private as one might think.

All this aside, BEAR 33 alone was worth the price of the subscription. I have devoured each issue so far, BEAR 23 through 30, and the five Powerplay Magazines. Just outrageous! I like what you guys do for me!

F.M., Massachusetts
Well, we don't want you to think you're getting cheated on. We'll do more than just say, "Eh...what's your beef?"

But know that we've completely stopped using first-class mail for our domestic subscriptions. We took out all reference to it on subscription forms quite awhile back.

Second-class mail gives the same security, speed and reliability as first-class mail in the US. At least, that's what the people at the post office are telling us; we didn't argue 'cause they're carrying guns these days. The only difference is, with second-class mail, we do all the sorting and stupid work on it first, and therefore get a cheaper rate. It took us months. Naomi, from the US Postal Service, had to stop by the shop here in high heels lots of times to make it right. She thought it was creepy.

To our surprise, some international subscriptions were sent second-class—a big no-no that pissed a lot of people off. Overseas shipments will go by airmail. Promise.

A problem happened in the shipping of BEAR 34 for which we owe you guys a big apology. In the old days, everyone here at the shop got down on the floor with a stack of labels and dirty magazines and that's how they got mailed to your house. A few years ago, we switched to a local mailing shop. But in the past few months, they've gotten real weird. They've kinda been fucking up lately, and fucked up on BEAR 34 real bad. So, we're out hunting for a new place to do the work. We want to make sure BEAR gets into its subscribers' hands while it's still warm from the press—before it goes to the bookstore shelves. It's one of our smutty little manifestos that will soon be a reality.

As for the UPS packages: We usually have real good luck with them. What with all the T-shirts and dirty movies we ship out of here, they have plenty of chances to screw up, and usually don't.

You do have your stuff right now. Good. Please keep in touch and let us know how and when things are getting to you, so we can make sure things are going all right.

Razing Heads

I'm interested in men with shaved heads. I already get your magazine every time. I've never seen a shaved head in any issue. If you have a back issue of such, please write and tell me what one it was. I will order it fast. Also if you can tell me of any magazine catering to bald, shaved-headed men, please let me know.

L.E., New York

Well, they're out there. We stay away from giving fashion reports here, but the shaved-head with army boots and beer-belly thing is way big in Europe right now. So maybe it's heading this way. They fuckin' sent us the music of Enigma, they might as well give us a little kink while they're at it. As for specific magazines, the leathery ones'll do that kind of stuff a lot. GRUF, Great Unshaven Faces here in San Francisco might work for you too.

Just make sure you keep reading us.

No Holes

Am returning this offer to renew my subscription so you won't waste any more postage. Your magazine was once great, but junk jewelry on cocks is not my idea of masculinity. Sorry these must be the only men who are willing to pose. Ugh.

R.S., New York

This is another of those boners of contention people get. Some fellas get real mad when they see pierced dicks and tits. We've been saying all along that we shoot 'em like we find 'em, and it's a real big fad out there right now.

But there ya go.

The past few issues have been a little heavy on the metal work. So if a guy shows up to a shoot and has a pierced dick, we'll tell him to take it out. It remains a style issue.

I only hate 'em 'cause they hurt my fillings.

From the Pulpit

You are ruled by your flesh instead of your spirit. God is angry, and his angel of death will arrive soon!

Anonymous, slipped through our mail slot one morning....

Hey. And also with you, dude.

For Visual Relief

Let me tell you something about myself and why I am a fan of your magazine. Last year, I purchased my first issue of BEAR for a friend of mine. It was the Texas issue. I decided to go through it myself before giving it up—and my friend never did get that magazine.

Finally I found a magazine I could relate to. The guys were so hot, so hairy, so real.... There was even this one guy in the personals that captured my attention. I chose to write him, and after almost a full year, things are going real nice between us. Part of the way I seduced him was with the adventurous photos I take. I decided to send one your way, too.

Keep up the good work keeping us up. Here is to all the men that keep our lives so interesting and our nights so warm.

Hey, we're a fan of yours, too. As a matter of fact, we liked your snapshot so much, we had to share. So for the rest of you guys, take a look down below. We like putting readers' dicks out in front of God and everybody.

MIKE

Not only is he cute, but he's smart, too. Mike was well on his way to a Ph.D. in physics, but dropped out to become a computer guru instead. He likes it. Before all that, he was in the US Army, and swears he managed to suck a lot of dick while he was there.

Born and raised a New Yorker, he's now living Midtown, and despite his good looks, he says he manages to stay out of trouble. He, too, won a little contest a ways back in the Big Apple, and will be headed out to San Francisco in February of '96 for more contest stuff. Keep an eye out for him.

INITIATED

by Jack Hendricks, Illustration by Dadé/URSUS

After miles of dirt roads and wild but repetitive scenery, the bonfire looked to provide a welcome distraction. This being the middle of North Carolina, I figured it to be locals, maybe a family get-together.

Road-weary and wet, I eased onto the gravel road that looked to head in the right direction, on the hope they wouldn't begrudge a stranger a quick meal and some conversation. It wasn't until I was pretty much on top of them that I realized my mistake—a biker gang, close to a couple of dozen members, all with road dust in their hair, dressed in leather, and of course, all hanging around their Harleys.

Now normally this wouldn't be a bad thing. I don't push around easy. I get along with most people. I have a bike—only problem is, it isn't a Harley. Wrong place. Wrong time. Wrong make and model. Just what I needed, being razed by another biker gang.

A smart man would have turned and hightailed it out of there. A smart man also would have taken care of that little carb problem he'd noticed a few hundred miles back. Not keeping the throttle in check, my engine died to an impressive silence, as 20 pairs of eyes all turned to stare at me.

"What's with the moped?"

The flush rose to my face as snickers and laughs immediately followed. Just as I was considering making a scene, one of the older ones, his wind-chiseled face cracking into what appeared to be a grin, said, "What can we do for you?"

"Just worn out," I grunted. "Was headed down south and thought I'd see what the fire was for."

"You hungry?"

"Actually, yeah."

I still got razed about the bike, but, all in all, they were pretty cool about it. One of the uglier ones even took my bike to the side to fix the carb problem for me. I figured it was in good hands, even if it was a rice burner.

After sharing their beer, food and company, I started thinking they had a pretty cool group here, not like some I'd seen. The thought stuck, and it wasn't long before I asked, "So what's it take to hitch up with your gang?"

"You mean besides a real bike?"

Wiseass. "Yes," I grated. "Besides a real bike."

Jake, who appeared to be the head honcho, and the one that had invited me in the first place, grinned at me and said, "You don't want to join up with us, son."

"How do you figure?"

"I doubt you'd be up for the initiation." Quite a few of them chuckled.

"I can take anything you can dish out...."

He laughed, but when he saw me fuming, said, "Relax, kid. I have no doubt that you could take me. There's just something you might need to know about us."

"Yeah? What's that?"

"We're faggots, man."

That explained a couple of the looks I'd been getting. "You still haven't answered my question," I said pointedly, and smiled as Jake's eyes widened just a tad.

He studied me a moment, trying to figure out if I was serious. I was. After a moment's pause, he said, "There's an initiation."

"Which is?"

"Us."

I stared around at the group. Twenty guys? Yeah, right. "Not all of you though, right?"

He chuckled wickedly.

I hadn't expected that. While I've enjoyed my share of cocks in the past, the idea of taking on 20—all at once—was kinda scary. On the other hand, being surrounded by that many gay men on a daily basis did have its appeal.

I took a heavy swig off my beer, cracked my neck and said, "OK. Who's first?"

They responded a little too eagerly. Before I had time to think twice about what I had just agreed to, they all had me surrounded and stripped of my clothes. "If you're going to back out," Jake said, "you'd better do it now."

"Like I said, I can take anything you can dish out."

He nodded, unzipped his jeans, and said, "Well then here's your chance to prove it."

I took one last look at all the guys surrounding me, figuring I'd either enjoy the hell out of this, or be running my ass off after about the fifth one. My decision already made, I sunk to my knees, parted my lips, and took his cock into my mouth.

Bikers are the only ones I know that can turn a blowjob into a spectator sport. They whooped and hollered as I chowed down on Jake's meat. He tasted of sweat and smelled of denim and leather, along with a muskiness that was hard to place. All in all, it wasn't an unpleasant combination, and while I started out hesitant, I was soon sucking away with more and more confidence.

Just when I was starting to feel like I could handle all this with no problem, Jake nodded to one of the other guys. A scraggly face grinned at me, pulled down his jeans and moved in behind me.

"Lube him up first, Brandt!"

"Oh yeah."

Oh yeah? My eyes widened as the thought of being dry-fucked by 20 guys caused my bowels to twist. Something was smeared across my puckered asshole; it could have been chain grease for all I knew. When I felt the head of a cock press up against it, I squirmed back against him, figuring the quicker I stretched out, the better off I'd be.

As soon as he had wiggled in to the hilt, he started pumping my ass with nice, smooth strokes. While I'm no virgin, I still had a bitch of a time trying to keep from clamping down on it, my body's response to a foreign object suddenly being rammed up it.

Being fucked in the ass while trying to suck a cock sounds a lot easier than it is. I gobbled Jake's cock as best I could, letting it jerk back and forth in time with the cock sliding in and out of my ass. As if that weren't enough, two more got on either side of me, cocks out and pointed straight at my head.

What'd they think I was? A fucking circus performer? I took one in each hand, jerking them off, sucking another, a fourth reaming me from behind. Balanced precariously on my knees, I kept tilting forward, and gripping the two cocks a little harder as much for balance as any particular desire to get them off.

Jake moaned in front of me, and I started sucking on his dickhead, trying to figure out what it would take to get him to cum. I was surrounded in meat, and loving it, slurping away, determined to take Jake's load in my mouth.

The guy to my right suddenly groaned, and I glanced over just in time to watch a glob of cum smack me in the cheek. The son of a bitch was cumming all over my face! I got a second load from the left, and as they sprayed me with jism, I got a thick spurt that splashed against the back of my throat.

Jake's sperm was hot and slick as it squirted across my tongue. I swallowed desperately, struggling to breathe. I've never been hit with so much cum at once before. My own cock throbbed painfully as Jake's cock was replaced by yet another, shoved into my mouth, past my tonsils, into my already jism-coated throat. I gagged, trying to back away, only to have the guy behind me push me right back onto it.

It was all too much. My balls tightened, half in fear, half in excitement. Warmth flooded my bowels, spreading to my stomach and cock. After being reamed so hard, the feel of a cock twitching and spurting inside my ass had me shuddering in orgasm, and my own load splattered the ground between my knees.

It took me a moment to recover, during which time a second biker took advantage of my ass. As his cock wormed its way up inside me, I looked up at the guy I was sucking off. It was Plugs, the biker that had been working on my motorcycle, his face smeared with grease. I suddenly realized what mine must look like, white droplets of cum covering damn near every inch of it.

He grinned as it dripped from my chin, his cock throbbing against my tongue. "What? You like that?" I asked sarcastically.

He nodded, and I laughed, letting him see my tongue running all over the head of his cock, daring him to cum and add to that which I had already taken. It didn't take him long to appease me, and I shoved his cock back in my mouth just in time for him to shoot his load directly down my throat.

By that time, I was already sore as hell with all the cocks, but it was easy to ignore all the ones still lined up to be conquered. I roughly pushed Plugs off of me, glaring around the camp. "Give me another cock!" I grated. Someone wheeled around to face me, his cock bouncing up and down. Glancing over my shoulder, I saw some big fat biker grunting like a pig as he fucked me. "You going to cum in my ass or what?"

His eyes widened in surprise, and I grinned as he strained against me, fucking even harder. I clamped down on his cock, and almost instantly a second load of sperm was spurting in my ass.

I started losing track of who came and who didn't. I had the feeling that some of them came back for seconds but I didn't care. There could have been 50 of them as far as I was concerned. I'd fuck and suck them all.

They seemed to really get a kick out of cumming on different parts of my body, especially my face. Some of them pulled out of my ass to squirt it up my back. Others wanted to cum all over my cock and balls, so I'd lean back after sucking them off and point it at my crotch, feeling the silky smooth jism splash all over my hard shaft.

So much cum. My face was covered in it. I had swallowed what felt like quarts of the stuff. It squirted out of my ass and from between my lips each time another cock took advantage of an open hole. I felt sticky. My ass throbbed. My jaws were so sore from sucking I thought they'd lock up on some poor guy's cock.

Jake came back over and watched as two more sprayed me in the face, and the last one lost what was left of his load in my ass. I leaned back, the cum drying all over my body making my skin tight. My own cock jolted out at an angle from my groin.

"Enough," Jake said, and with that command, it ended just as suddenly as it had begun. I stared around me, dazed. Bodies littered the ground, most with their peckers still hanging out of their pants. Some had fallen asleep where they lay, and it slowly dawned on me just how many times I'd gotten them all off. I licked my lips, and tasted the cum of 20 men, all the various flavors mingled into one.

Jake stared at me for a long time as I sat back on my haunches, and I half-hoped that seeing me this way would turn him on enough to have one last go at me. But while it was obvious he liked what he saw, he didn't try. Instead, he said, "Hey, Jackson?"

One of the leather-clad bikers looked up from where he was tending the fire. "What?"

"We've got a cock here that needs some attention." Turning back to me, Jake said, "You're in," then turned away and squatted down by the fire.

I grinned as Jackson went down on his knees in front of me, anticipating what it was going to be like, fucking his unshaven face. As he started licking the leftover cum from my cock, Jake said, "One last thing."

"What's that?"

"Lose the rice burner!"

Figured. But what the hell. I'd always wanted a Harley anyway. B

Cover Your Ass

Legal Perspectives
by Jeff Kilpatrick

This is a new legal column for you all. We had two different lawyers lining up wanting to do it, and couldn't decide who to pick. They're both competent professionals, and would be perfect for you.

So we're having a three-way.

Next time, in BEAR 36, it'll be The Other Guy's turn at bat.

You're about to take it up both ends, here, guy. We hope you like it.

You and your "partner" (in real estate-ese, your spouse, lover or significant other is always your "partner") have established a home and are now looking for a house to put it in. You've been lucky; the two of you have found one that you like. Now for the big question: How will you take title to your new house?

For unmarried partners (do you recognize us?), two choices are those of joint tenancy and tenancy in common. My partner, Bruce, and I would choose joint tenancy. Here's why: In joint tenancy, each joint tenant owns an indivisible half-interest in the property. If anything were to happen to Bruce, I would immediately acquire full and good title to the property, without having to go through the probate process. It would never be a part of his estate. From an estate planning standpoint, this is a major consideration.

A tenant in common may give, sell or lease away his half-interest in the property without the permission of the other tenant. This is the concept of divisibility, a chief feature of the term "tenants in common." Consider what happened to a couple who took their house as tenants in common.

One member of the couple became ill, and later died. To his horror, the survivor, who had assumed that he would have good title to the whole of the house, found out that the successors in interest, by the terms of the will, were members of the dead lover's family.

The family, of course, was delighted with their good fortune and forced a sale of the home. The outcome, never intended by the two men, is that the house is now owned by strangers and the survivor is living in a small apartment a mile and a half from his former home. Even more ironic is that the couple intended to take possession of the property as joint tenants when they bought it.

What happened? Their real estate agent, who was straight, second-guessed their situation, tried to be helpful and screwed them royally in the process. This agent failed to appreciate the special legal needs of lesbian and gay people and treated these two "partners" as business partners—with disastrous results for the survivor.

A real estate agent who uses the term "perfect for partners," a polite code for "gays would like this," may be attempting to "steer" you, a selling practice now deemed illegal under the fair housing laws. In Washington, DC, a young, bright Navy photographer, who was black, decided that she wanted to live in Capitol Hill, a racially diverse neighborhood. She was shown several apartments, all in black areas. A white friend was also shown several apartments by the same agency at the same time. Some of these apartments were in white areas, others were in mixed areas. Two were significantly cheaper than any shown to the Navy photographer, who, quite properly, filed charges against the real estate firm alleging that she'd been "steered" to black areas only.

The bottom line here is to have someone who is responsible to you—your lawyer, your buyer's broker (someone who works exclusively for the buyer)—review your documents as you prepare to purchase your house. That nice real estate agent who showed you all those houses is not working for you. He works for the seller and he wants his commission. His interests are not necessarily yours.

By now you're wondering, "How do we make sure we take possession of our house as joint tenants?" This one's easy. In the deed it should state, "To Joe Smith and John Doe, the joint tenants...." These are known as "words of purchase" and they tell anyone who may later review the deed just how, and under what conditions, the purchasers intended to take possession of their property. Courts will refer first to the deed and, if "words of purchase" are missing, then to other documents that the two of you may have, such as a memorandum of understanding or such. It is rare for a deed to lack "words of purchase," but I once reviewed such a deed and had the omission corrected.

Now suppose my partner, Bruce, decided that his destiny lay in chasing furry lumberjacks around Seattle. He wants out. He would then present what is known as a "petition for partition" to a court outlining why a sale is desirable. The courts are usually reasonable about this; if the petition is reasonably drafted and demonstrates a need, it will be granted.

When the petition is granted, it has the effect of converting the joint tenancy into one of tenants in common. Why? Because joint tenants are indivisible, but tenants in common are divisible. Tenants in common need no court order to be able to sell their interest, but joint tenants do.

I hope this choice is clear. I would recommend taking a property as joint tenants because it allows an easy transition in the event of the death of a partner, and it also keeps potentially grasping relatives at bay. You may be told that joint tenancy is for legally married couples only. Don't believe it! Stand your ground and think about Hawaii. Good luck and success to you.

Home Cookin'

Home-made kink
by TC

Give a little spring to the same ol' sling.

A man I had the pleasure of knowing for the brief time he lived in my neck of the woods told me about this one. And to tell the truth, I wasn't any too impressed at first, but thought "what the hell, try it." A buddy volunteered from a Shoshone reservation, and together me and him got it on. And were pleasantly surprised. Gave the sling experience a whole new melon trip.

This is especially nice for someone who might be a little tight-assed and can't relax. You know, the shy, "I have never..." types. You get way better motion when you're lying in this modified sling getting fucked. Not to mention what happens to the guy doing the fucking—nothing like a little momentum to get ya going.

• Materials: The cost is under about $13. All you need (provided you already have a sling) is four 5½" long springs, about 1" in diameter. Maybe bigger, depending on your girth.

• Assembly: Attach spring to end of each chain holding the sling and hook on to the ceiling hooks. That's it, dudes. Nothing to build, saw, hammer or screw—except the bro lying in the sling.

A word of caution: Don't use bungee cord or cheap springs. And make sure that the ends of your springs are good and secure. The last thing you want is to have one pop off and come screaming right for you.

Till next time. Don't forget, if anyone out there thinks they have a hot idea, pass it along. ⑤

My Truck Died

Vox Clamavis
by Killer

My truck died and now I'm searching for a suitable replacement. I bought it for $700 a little over two years ago, and have since then installed a new battery, clutch, starter (that was a special pain in the ass), and brakes. Rings are going now, and it won't even start without a jump. So, much of my time has been consumed with truck shopping. If anyone sees a '95 GMC Sonoma SLS Club Coupe 4x4 five-speed for sale, let me know where the hell it is, and you'll receive a blowjob and a six-pack for your efforts.

I been able to settle in a little bit, though, and I been doing some thinking about a number of past situations, three things in particular weighing most on my mind. One of the most galling occurred last June, in Washington, DC, when a number of gay elected officials were invited to the White House to meet with Vice President Al Gore. It was the first such invitation extended to openly gay elected officials. They were met with guards who wore rubber gloves. The gloves were explained by a guard, saying he had a cut on his hand. While no one stated outright that the guards were gloved to prevent HIV contagion, the guard's own response tends to lend credence to that idea. The officials, undeterred, went into the White House.

Now, why the fuck didn't they just turn their backs and leave? Those who call themselves my leaders didn't demand the same treatment accorded any other visiting dignitary. I think the best solution would have been sending a message to Gore concerning the lack of respect with which they were greeted and leaving.

I mean, shit! If someone invites me out and treats me with a lack of respect, I tell 'em to fuck off and I leave. I'm worth substantially more than that, and if my representatives don't think so, they aren't representative.

Barney Frank gives a good example of what I'm talking about. When House Majority Leader Dick Armey referred to Representative Frank as "Barney Fag," Armey said it was a slip of the tongue. Frank took it personally, saying, "I rule out that it was an innocent mispronunciation." Frank wasn't afraid to call it bigotry.

The bigoted Senator Jesse Helms continues to be a pain in the ass, notably in sitting on a bill to appropriate money for the Ryan White Act. He failed in his attempt to cut the funding, as I expected he would. The bill passed 97-3. Helms couldn't possibly have been ignorant of a vote that overwhelming. If he knows he'll fail, why does he do it? (Curiously, in the first seven weeks of the current Congress, he barely bothered to vote in the Senate, a record bested by fellow Republican Phil Gramm.) More than that, why do my elected officials allow him to do it? If Senator Barbara Boxer (and I voted for her), who campaigned mightily for the gay vote in California, can go after Bob Packwood, why does she refrain from taking Helms to task?

Anyone can invoke history or historic figures to further a particular cause or justify an action, but it don't often work. Witness the Christian Coalition conference last September in Washington, DC: Members likened themselves to abolitionists, comparing abortion to slavery, but neglected to mention that while the Bible was not used to justify abortion, it was used to justify slavery. It's a shoddy use of history.

The Christian Coalition is firmly attached to the Republican party (the Coalition calls itself non-partisan). I think it got there like this: Protestantism in this country (the Coalition is overwhelmingly Protestant fundamentalist) developed a strong Calvinist bent; that means wealth and prosperity were widely considered to be signs of God's favor, and destitution to be a sign of God's wrath. So if you're rich as fuck, God loves you; if you're homeless, God hates you. Since the pervasive fundamentalist belief is that you're responsible for accepting Jesus and therefore responsible for your own salvation, I think it follows that they're going to be attracted to the Republican tenet that you're responsible for all the shit that happens to you no matter what hand you've been dealt. Religious convictions become party politics. What pisses me off more than anything is that these people ignore (along with the tacit agreement of the quote liberal media) the steadfast condemnation the founders of this nation had for political parties. Justifying your actions by using an isolated piece of history is dishonest. Judgment of past events only fuels contemporary arguments. Understanding Nazi atrocities or the Bataan death march is not enhanced by debating whether Hiroshima and Nagasaki should have been bombed; shut up, be a good sport and quit gloating. In order to make sense of past events, all factors must be presented and considered. Even then, it's largely theoretical, but it's not dishonest.

A time will come when the studies have been duplicated numerous times, and it will be readily apparent to all but the remarkably stupid or bigoted that men-loving men and women-loving women is more concerned with biology than morality. Those who hate will change tactics, not arguments. Shouts of "Love the sinner, hate the sin" will continue.

I have a problem with that. Near as I can tell (and I speak as a recovering Catholic), Christianity is concerned not just with someone obeying God's will, but doing so with a particular intent. "Love the sinner, hate the sin" doesn't work because it is impossible in a Christian fashion to act lovingly toward someone and not have love in your heart. If you love someone, you don't care what kind of sinner he is. And hating sin don't ingratiate you to God.

Just why do I write about all this shit now? Well, I haven't found work yet, and formulating opinions is about the only entertainment I have out here. Keep those cards and letters coming. ☺

Man-To-Man Personals

A Drawing by Ian

HOW ADS WORK

1. BEAR Voicemail. Credit card callers 1-800-347-BEAR. To charge the call to your home phone, dial 1-900-HOT-BEAR. Record your own personal greeting, answer someone else's ad, or talk to whoever is jacking-off on the line. Mailboxes have 4 or 5 digits. To collect your voicemail messages: At the main menu, hit the star key. This your message center area.

2. Constructing your ad. Talk about yourself and be real clear as to who you'd like to meet. Avoid negativity shit, like "no fats, feds or Lithuanians." It doesn't work, and we'll probably change it anyway.

3. Names. We can't put Occupant or Boxholder. Use your initials or a name your postal carrier knows.

4. Cost and duration. Personal ads are free if you're a BEAR Buddy. Otherwise, they're 25¢/word/issue. Wanna change your ad? Send in $5. Wanna discontinue your ad? Write in and we'll pull it. You will have to pay to have a pulled ad put back in, though.

5. Deadline for BEAR 36 ads is 7 December, 1995.

6. BEAR Postal Box Numbers. For US subscribers, free to BEAR Buddies. Otherwise, add $5 to your ad. A word to the wise: Your own address will get you more responses.

7. Replying to a BEAR Postal Box Number. Seal your letter in an envelope. On this envelope, put the fella's box number in pencil where the stamp goes. Send this with $1 in a larger envelope to us.

8. We reserve the right to edit personals for editorial consistency and clarity. We reserve right to refuse any ad.

9. Changing your ad. It's cool, but'll cost you 5 bucks, and must be in writing.

10. Photo ads. We'll run a shot of your face or dick—but only once. Your photo must have a signed model release with a photocopy of your picture ID. Each photo sent to BEAR must be signed with your name and address on the back.

WILL

It was so fuckin' hot out when we took these shots—five minutes into it, all of us were covered with sweat. Even with no clothes on, Will got sweatiest of all. We kept telling him to think of you all out there. In some of these shots, you can see in his eyes that he's doing exactly that.

Will won a contest earlier this year, making him an officially, pedigreed, worthwhile dude. It's easy to spot. He's an easygoing guy who deals best with honest, down-to-earth guys; a good sense of humor's a must. And with that body of his, you can tell he takes living seriously. Works hard in a warehouse by day, sweats like a bull—he's also reported to be a damn good fuck.

When you look at these pix, keep the taste of his sweat in your mind. He worked hard that day. And he did it for you.

Voicemail Tips

Our BEARVoicemail system is designed to give you immediate access to new friends, true love, or just a real good fuck. It works. Here are a few suggestions to speed your chances of success:

- Press buttons slowly and firmly.
- If you think you made the wrong choice, hit the star key to get back to the Main Menu.
- Messages stay in the system for two weeks.
- Use Option 3 to set up another mailbox, or to leave your phone number on the Bulletin Board. Always use area codes to catch guys in your neighborhood.

If You Have a BEAR Ad

When dialing in for the first time, you must already have your passcode from us. Once at the Voicemail Main Menu, immediately hit the star key to collect your mail. You do not need to set up a new voicemail box (Option 3). We've already done that for you.

INTERNATIONAL

- BEAR ads aren't a marketing base. If you think your new hair-growth system is worth selling to the world, do it someplace else. Leave our advertisers alone.
- Prisons aren't a good place to send money, or pictures of your hairy ass. By all means, correspond and make friends. But know the potential for trouble to you as well as to the guy on the inside.

What's Going On Here?

Bug-hunky men are calling themselves bears on TV. (I know, you're thinking that's supposed to be "big hunky men." But because of a typo once here at the shop, the term has been renamed bug-hunky men, and we like it.) It's mostly happening in commercials. The bear needs Coast soap to wake up. The Papa, Mama and Baby Bears of the Burger King commercials are ravenously hungry.

They're all kind of clean-shaven and plain looking. Now, we ain't saying anyone has to have a beard. We don't dictate terms or style—you know that—but these commercials tell us that bug-hunkiness is making its way into mainstream media. Could it have to do with what we do here? Not a bad thought. But like all straight people, they need a little more practice at it first.

Remember H. Tuttle...

BEAR artist from days gone by?

We found this classically Tuttle piece in the Old Scary Files under my desk. We wanted to show it to you. If you're still around, Mr. T., get in touch. We'll pay you for this and a whole lot more.

Bob Hope Disses Furry Butler

The old entertainer has apparently spent too damn much time with shaved US Marines. It's gone to his head. According to an article sent to us by Leonard & Larry cartoonist Tim Barela, Bob and Dolores Hope hired a bearded guy to be a butler, and then canned him—because he has a beard. It's still in litigation down in LA, and you know how much they dig litigation. We'll keep you posted....

The Scent of a Dick

An observation from BEAR Columnist Killer, back in Iowa:

"One Dr. Alan Hirschfeld, of the Smell and Taste Treatment and Research Foundation of Chicago, reported on studies of 31 men at the American Psychosomatic Society meeting held in March in New Orleans. He was researching how fragrance can be useful as aphrodisiacs and, indeed, in treating impotence. Since poor blood flow is the most common physical cause of impotence, Dr. Hirschfeld tested the blood flow of men wearing masks scented with various odors. Every odor (cheese pizza, popcorn and roses) boosted blood flow. The odors that most assisted blood flow were a combination of pumpkin pie and lavender; doughnuts and black licorice; and doughnuts and pumpkin pie.

"Truly, the way to a man's hard is through his stomach." This is particularly cool considering that all this information (and more) is available on CD-ROM at a rural Iowa library. Get some pie and go fuckin' figure.

Recognize these guys?

They've been pretty damn busy this past year, showing off the goods. But we're the ones that get to show 'em naked for you. Masturbate—now.

As we go to press...

San Francisco city elections are tomorrow. If you don't already know, San Francisco city politics really suck. The incumbent mayor, Frank Jordan, in a desperate move to save his career, just allowed himself to be photographed naked in the shower with two radio DJs. It wasn't a pretty sight, and is the tip of the electoral iceberg. Remember, San Francisco is the Island of Misfit Toys.

Pictured above is our favorite candidate; she's a local cartoon going big time, Bruin Hilda, done by Phil Frank. Reviewing it as an advertising piece, we like it. It's the best of the campaign. Even though she's a girl, you should vote for her.

STEVEN

He headed out to San Francisco from New York City about six years ago, and he'll never go back. He's on a mission to get a bit nasty, and to get in some living along the way. So far, it's working just fine.

Steven's got an oceanside apartment here in the city, close to Golden Gate Park and the strange and famous windmills. If you know how to get in trouble in San Francisco, then you know exactly what that means. He likes being outdoors, and that's where he got naked for you here.

If you run into him out there, say hello.

The Russian is Cumming

by Tim Shannon

Hristo was a Russian bear.

Not the kind of bear you see paraded in the Moscow Circus. Hristo was all man; a big, powerful man almost, but not quite, imposing. In height he topped 6 feet by at least 2 inches, probably 3. I wouldn't hazard a guess at his weight; while he was well over 200 pounds, he was proportionately large — big arms, big chest, big gut he dressed with pride, without any attempt at disguise. In appearance, his age was mid-40s.

РУССКИЙ

The first time I met Hristo (the "H" is silent) was when he came to our Midwestern manufacturing company for product training. After the fall of Communism, our company began looking at market opportunities in the Eastern bloc countries. Hristo had a background in machining and his country's equivalent of a master's degree in chemical engineering. A native of Bulgaria, he was fluent in Russian, Ukrainian, Slavic, Greek and numerous Eastern European dialects. However, if he knew a word of English, he gave no sign. Despite this, he was the ideal representative for our products. Not that I had any say in the matter—I got involved in only the training aspect of his visit.

My job was to escort the big man and his interpreter, a mousy, nasal-voiced guy named Gordon, around our manufacturing facilities, explain the processes and cover applications for our product line in depth. I had three days.

Those days passed as a blur. Hristo had a quiet grace and a startling intelligence. Any xenophobic notions I had about Communist education were shattered. As much as I enjoyed playing teacher with him, I enjoyed watching him, feeling his massive presence even more.

If you are a believer in pheromones, those natural attractants we mammals secrete, then Hristo had an unforgettable musk. It didn't smell particularly of sweat or open air or animal tang, though those were unmistakable components. I can only compare it to my Uncle Doug's recliner. Uncle Doug—an athletic, bearded, Italian—had this beat up recliner I used to nap in. The worn leather smelled of his body and hair with the faintest trace of a warm spermy scent. I used to lay in that recliner and fantasize that I was curled up with Doug, his big, spent cock moist between my asscheeks.

"Coarse hair carpeted his forearms and padded the backs of his hands. Tufts of it covered even the backs of his fingers."

Hristo, Gordon and I had a casual dinner together one evening. Hristo was naked beneath a white polo shirt and slacks. The hair on his chest and belly bunched up under the shirt and spilled out the open collar at his neck. Coarse hair carpeted his forearms and padded the backs of his hands. Tufts of it covered even the backs of his fingers. His dark eyes offered a gentle, warm gaze.

It was frustrating not to be able to communicate with him directly. We exchanged basic life stories: Through Gordon, he talked about life under Communism, his education, his family and so on. I gave only the barest of details, constantly shifting in my seat to try and ease the throbbing of my erection.

In the end, three days are really just a matter of hours. When he left, Hristo gave me a leather wallet with the name of a Bulgarian technical university stamped into it. I couldn't stop staring at him and feeling an absurd sense of loss. I knew he felt my stare, but what he thought of it, I could only guess. Gordon left us briefly to make a phone call. Hristo held out a massive paw and I shook it. Suddenly, he pulled me to him, pressing me into the forest of his chest. With a deep, throaty voice he whispered, "Do zvidaniya, my friend. You are good man."

Two years later, Hristo was a member of my company's entourage to an international manufacturing exhibition in Germany. I was another. In the intervening months, he had learned a smattering of English. He had also grown a mustache and beard which, along with his thick mane, were tinged ever so slightly with silver. The effect was riveting.

Exhibitions are mostly work. Long hours setting up, standing to greet prospective customers, and attending long, boring meetings. Still, Hristo was there, and watching him, listening to him, smelling him, made the time pass quickly. Most evenings, our group dined together at a local restaurant where the food was heavy, the beer thick and malty, the schnapps genuine. Drinking and toasting were group obsessions. Hristo brought bottles of Russian and Bulgarian liqueurs and shared them over meals.

МЕДВЕДЬ

Hannover, where the exhibition was being staged, has a tremendous lack of hotel space. As a result, most families bring in extra income by renting out rooms to visiting exhibitors. My company's group was split among several of these. The house I stayed in had an attic suite for visitors. I was given my own refrigerator, bath, bedroom and front door key. This offered complete privacy, spoiled only by the second bedroom. Fortunately, my roommate, a rep from England, never made it to the show.

After a particularly long night of drinking and dining, someone suggested that Hristo, who was in a very festive mood, not take a cab out to his quarters but stay with me. I leapt at the idea. When the group left, Hristo and I stayed alone at the restaurant, practicing his few words of English and drinking beer. Finally, he got up and motioned that we should leave. My guest house was an easy walk from the restaurant. I seldom feel threatened at night in any city, but walking beside Hristo's bulk, smelling his scent mixed with cool night air, I felt damn near invincible.

Quietly, we crept up to the attic. I gave Hristo the nickel tour, pulled a bottle of beer from the refrigerator and offered it to him, pulling out another for myself. There was something... different, a quality in those dark eyes I hadn't noticed before. What was it? The alcohol? Being alone and barely able to communicate? No, not vulnerability. Hristo radiated strength. What then? We sat wordlessly at the table and drank our beer, alternately staring at one another.

Between the alcohol, being without a mate for months, and being alone with Hristo, I had a raging hard-on and knew I'd have to do something about it. I decided the wisest course was to excuse myself, head for my bed and jack-off before pass-to blow a wad of spit for lube. I heard big feet pad out of the john and head toward his room. Damn.

Then, the door to my room let in a tiny crack of dim light. The crack widened slowly. I held my breath and pretended to be asleep. (To this day I'll never know why I chose that as my first coy moment.) Hristo peered in through the crack. He whispered something in Bulgarian which included my name. Slowly, I opened my eyes. His face glowed in a rectangle of German moonlight, his body framed in shadow. My dick was standing straight up, creating a tent beneath the comforter. I sat up slightly and smiled. Hristo took his cue.

Softly, he ambled into the room. The room was shaded but not completely dark. He was naked. Thick fur parted only between his beard and his neckline. It covered his shoulders, back, arms, chest and stomach. The crease between his soft, rounded pees was a deep valley of chocolate hair which met the massive line of fur running down his belly and widening into dense curls at his groin. His uncut dick was semi-erect and two fat walnuts swung below it.

He climbed into bed with me and I was overwhelmed by his scent. At first he held me, stroked me, whispered words I couldn't understand against my neck and into my hair. One of his rough paws found my cock and squeezed it. With his thumb, he captured a drop of my precum and rubbed it into his lips. Then, he pulled back the foreskin on his fat dick and harvested a drop of his own ing out. I finished my beer, said good-night and set out to do just that.

At home, I always sleep naked. On the road, however, I like to at least wear a flannel shirt in case of emergency. I put on a red and gray flannel, left it unbuttoned, and threw myself onto the bed. I had just started stroking my dick with one hand and tit-playing one hairy nipple with the other when I heard Hristo in the bathroom. He let loose with what sounded like a Niagara of piss. The thought of that big, hairy man only a few feet away, cradling his thick meat while a fat stream of pale yellow shot out, brought my pecker to full attention. As his stream trickled off and finally stopped, I pounded my dick in my fist, stopping only briefly thick, clear man-lube. He offered it to me and I licked at it hungrily. We kissed, tongues dancing in one another's mouths. His hands were constantly on me, stroking, caressing, probing. I had latched on to his bloated cock and stroked it cautiously, with all the restraint I could muster.

I could wait no longer, and began my descent on his body. Beginning with wet kisses on his neck and throat, licking his Adam's apple, I moved toward the foot of the bed. On the way, I paused to sift through his chest hair until I found dark nipples to suck on, biting gently until they were small, hard pinpoints of flesh. With my tongue, I traced the line from his pecs, across the expanse of his belly and into his pubes. His scent hit me stronger then, and I felt more sex-drunk than ever before in my life.

His dick was hard, erect, throbbing with blood and gleaming with natural lube. I pulled back his thick foreskin until the fat, purple mushroom head popped out. Behind the flared glans I could smell traces of head cheese. I washed his dickhead with my tongue and then slowly, tortuously, swallowed the shaft. Perhaps this wasn't the biggest cock I had ever sucked, but it was one of the fattest. I filled my throat with his organ; held it there until I was literally breathing his pubes. Hristo moaned softly. I started to slide that big tool in and out of my mouth, guarding the sensitive head from my teeth with curled lips. In and out I took it, slowly, building a cadence. Hristo began thrusting up into my mouth, his moans becoming deep-chested animal grunts. I fondled his big nuts, sucking on them occasionally, but devoting most of my attention to his cock. My rhythm quickened and I felt his nuts drawing up in anticipation.

Just when I thought he'd gush in my mouth, there was a flurry of activity at the other end of the bed. Suddenly, his hands were doing something besides guiding my head onto his dick. Those hands appeared in front of my face, blocking my path to his loins and spreading something over his cock. Without warning, faster than I would have imagined possible for someone with his bulk, he pulled off my shirt, tossed me onto my belly, parted my legs, moved behind me and drew my waist up to him. I felt the warm probing of a fingertip between my hairy asscheeks until it found my puckered asshole. Then I felt the slick penetration of a single finger opening me, circling inside my butthole. It was joined by a second finger, probing, pushing, relaxing my sphincter. Both were withdrawn—I sucked in breath and waited for it—then, bam!

"Gobs of my cream hung in my belly hair, covering his furry fingers and puddling on the bedsheets."

His fat dick popped my muscle ring and he pumped his veinpole into me. I don't remember pain, only a sense of being opened, of being joined. He fucked me slowly at first, pulling me up to him. We were both sweaty, our body hair matted and slick. His deep voice urged me on in the universal language of lust. In and out he pumped, in and out. I could feel his hairy thighs push against mine, hear the wet slap of his balls hitting my ass.

He moaned, and I knew it wouldn't be long. Balancing on one hand, I reached for my cock, but had it slapped away by a rough, woolly paw which grabbed my dick instead and beat it in time to his pounding tempo. He had to lean forward to cradle my cock, and his hairy belly pressed into my back.

Hristo threw back his head and made a soundless scream as the fire caught in his balls and thick cream flooded his latex shield. As I felt him spasm inside me, my load shot out; thick gobs of my cream hung in my belly hair, covering his furry fingers and puddling on the bedsheets. Orgasm lit my brain like Roman candles and I sat up, leaning against my Russian man. He didn't immediately withdraw his jacketed cock, but let it slowly wither and slip out. We collapsed onto the bed, breathing hard and cuddling.

When morning light awakened me, my head was perched on his hirsute chest. I lay still for long minutes, feeling the rise and fall of his chest. He groaned softly and I began casually tracing circles around one of his nipples with my fingertip. He smiled, then opened his eyes and gazed at me.

I tapped lightly on his chest. "Medvyed," I said. It was the Russian word for "bear." I had learned it deliberately, in case I needed it. ☉

BUSTER

We couldn't pass this guy up. He happened to be clean-shaven when we got ahold of him, but if you keep him in a cabin for an extended weekend, you can watch the hair burst out all over. Still, you get the idea. Buster looks a little like a state trooper with a boner here. Which isn't a bad thing a-tall. His true profession is in house-contracting and design, but you can go ahead and let him frisk you. We won't tell.

Buster's originally from North Carolina. He did the Atlanta thing for a few years and now lives outside Phoenix. He loves to take his clothes off and walk through the Arizona desert, looking for places to camp and backpack. Goes days without seeing another person.

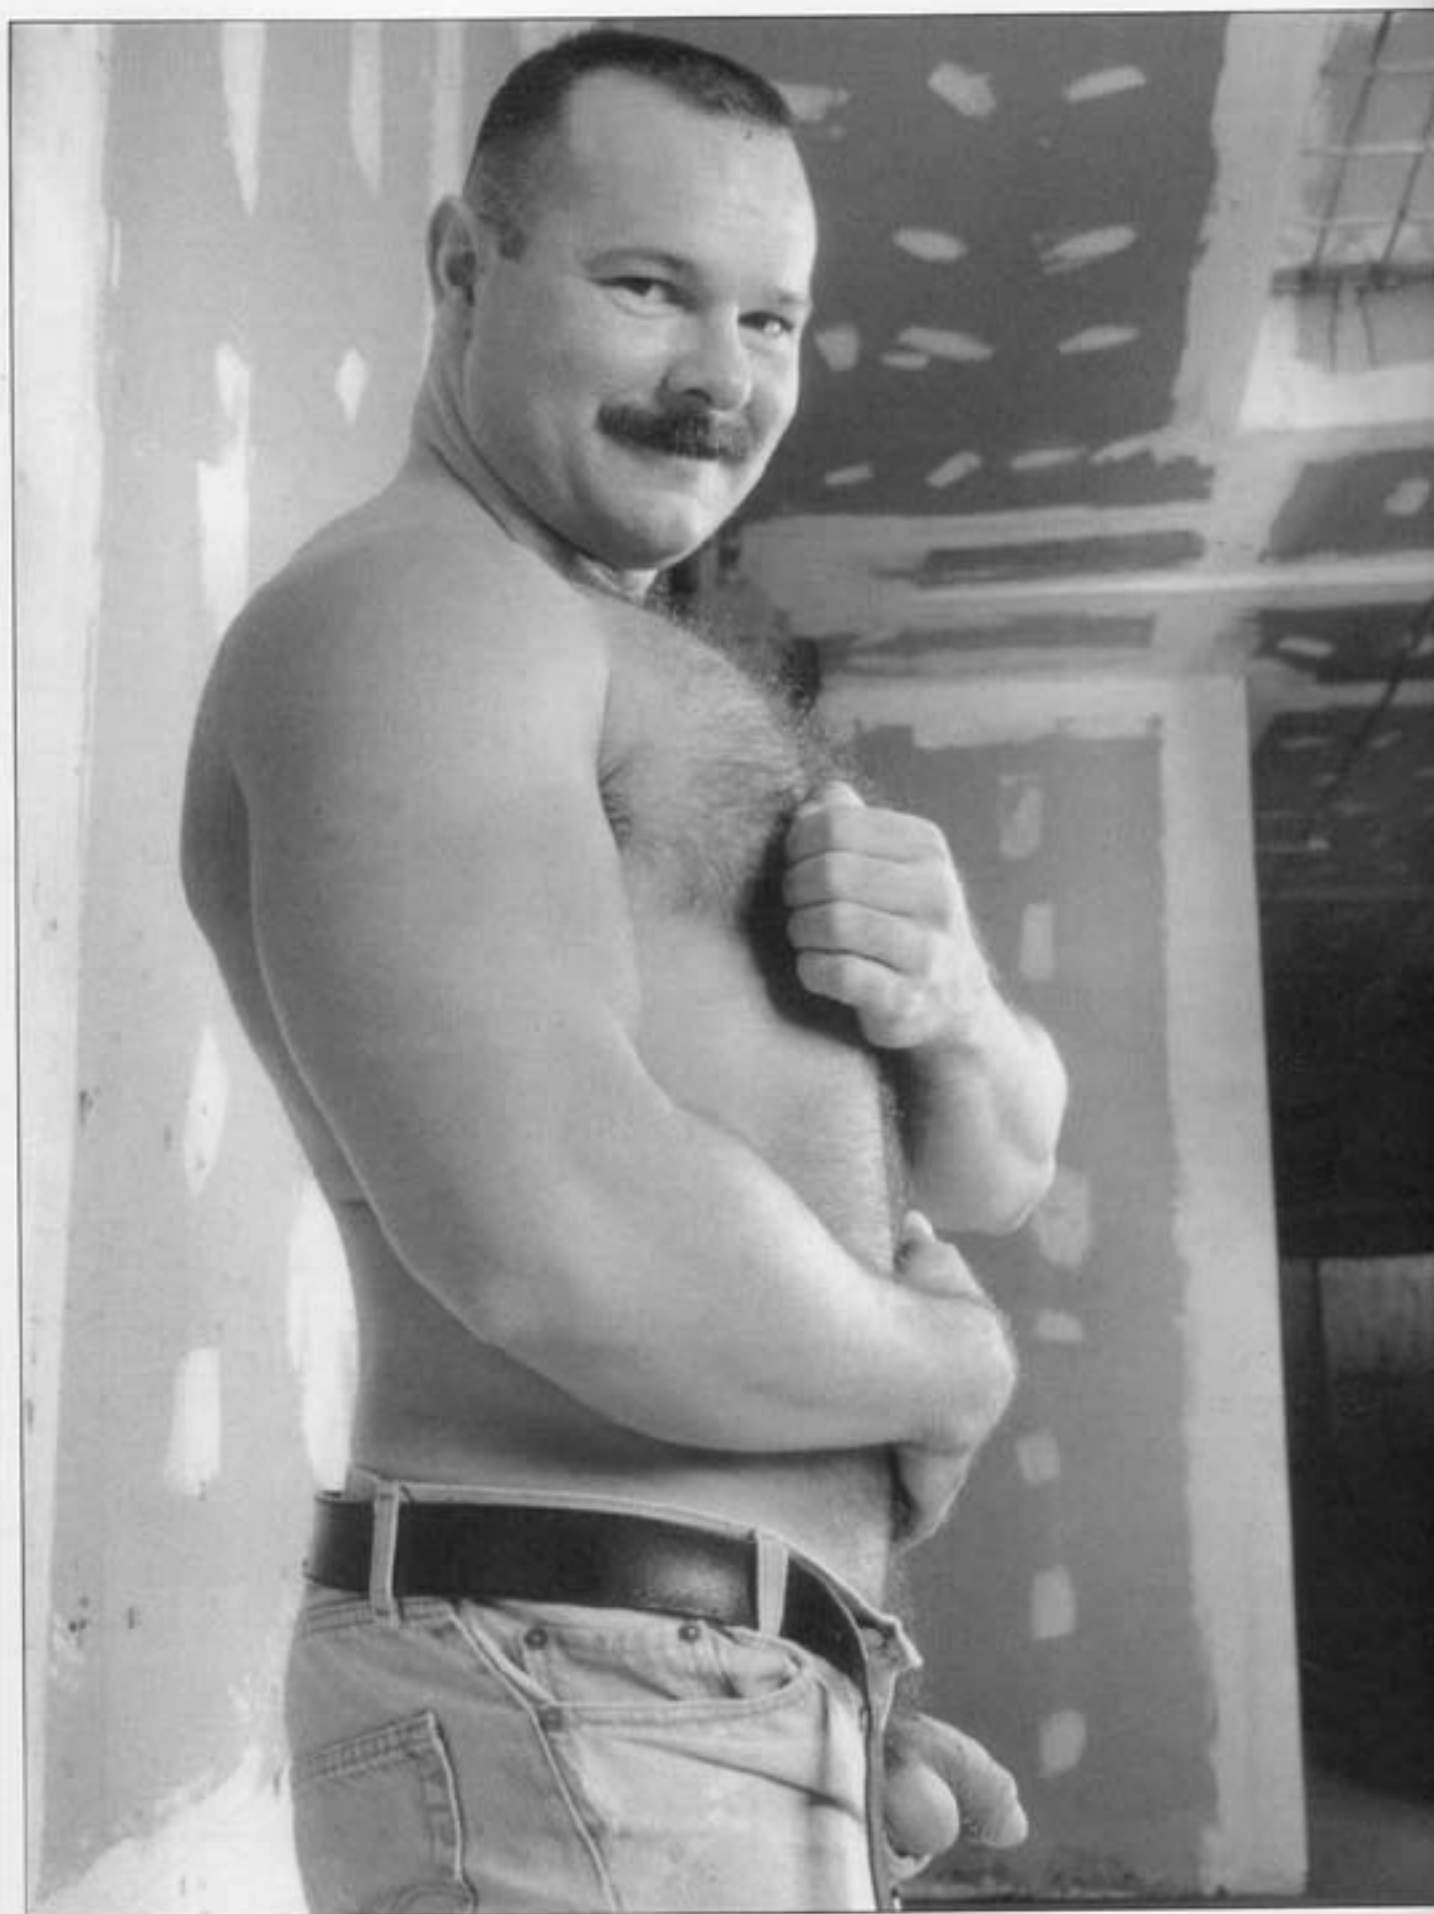

He's a kinky fuck. There's a lot of energy packed into that 5'10", 205-pound body of his. He knows the value of give-and-take, and has a sexual secret that you'll have to pin him down and tickle him to get him to admit.

Hat's Off

Deep Thoughts
by Luke

The lights are dark. A sultry CD's playing in the corner, probably Enigma or them Deep Forest guys. You sit with your fella, the one you just found, on the couch. No. Wait. The bed. Things are going even better than you'd planned. You're sitting on the bed. A shaggy, gorgeous face leans your way. He's gonna kiss you. That smell—the one of spit and beer and of just plain guy—wafts your way; you can almost taste it; you're ready and...

WHAM!

What you expect to be a sensuous, lingering, romantic moment turns instead into an assault of saliva significantly thicker and cooler than your own. In 0.8 seconds you've been to his tonsils and back. His uvula tastes fine. The secrets of his mouth and dentistry are revealed. No suspense, no surprises, and it's over—you've only got his dick to work on now.

As a species, humans may be forgetting how to kiss.

Now don't go thinking I'm grinding an ax against a bad kisser I know somewhere. No targets. I don't kiss and tell. And I hereby absolve all my exes—both of them—of any bad kissing.

I just think that we're forgetting the value of a good kiss and that it's a harbinger of the decline of Western civilization, that's all. Maybe some day, people are even going to forget how to get fucked. And if that happens, I'll totally drop out of life—maybe even lose my aspirations to become a priest.

We know we're already forgetting how to write things down by hand. We sit back and let the machines do it. Sex comes direct via satellite, and we don't lift a finger but to wipe up the cum. We know, too, that our lips still get plenty of exercise. We flap 'em a lot, slobbering out slings and arrows. Unwashed mouths blare words, insults.

Whatever happened to finesse with those lips? A tickle. An idea. Driving someone wild?

As far as actual kissing technique, it's up to you. Ya gotta be original. If you're kissing me, I'd like it if there were actually lips involved: A wet, wagging pylon of dripping tongue definitely has a place on my personal morphology—including the mouth as things progress. But for me, a kiss starts with the lips. If you think your intended's lips are skanky, then maybe you need to reconsider the whole thing anyway.

In almost any sizable city, you can suck a stranger's dick and never see his face. Ever done that? What's more, ever done that, gone home, and jerked off again while thinking about something else? It's OK. No one here would ever take that away from you, or say you're a bad person for doing it. We all need it once in awhile, and come home with dirt over the knees of our Levi's. The body-sex clock is reset and we feel pretty much OK again.

This column is about the other kind. When you get a chance to take your time, create a little magic and a little suspense. Do you still go at it like you're in a hurry? Like if you don't get things started soon you'll have to put another quarter in the slot?

There's a whole world of senses that we're trained to ignore. One thing I've learned is when you really want to make a point, back off and don't. You'll drive 'em wild.

I had a music professor who taught me something that really stuck with me. She sat at a huge concert grand piano in an empty studio and, poking with one finger, played the sounds of do re mi fa so la ti... She didn't play the last note, do. Never did. That was in 1983, and when I think about it I realize I'm still waiting for that goddamn note to happen. The expectation hung in the air of that echoing room and we found ourselves wanting to yell, "Oh, baby yeah! Finish me off!"

There's power in breaking the rules. Taking a wrong turn. Fucking with 'em a little. Next time you have a set of gums headed your way, do the unexpected: Take your time. Don't do something. That's right. Don't. Take the plunge—not. Be breathless. It's my favorite word. The tonsils and purple bumps at the bottom of your fella's tongue will still be there waiting for you. Only maybe he'll be a little breathless by the time you get there.

It's kind of a known thing that the most erotic pictures aren't necessarily those where a fat dick stretches a gaping asshole with grease and ooze. The erotic ones are where the person looking has to do some work on his own, in his mind. The possibilities of the unfinished. BEAR Magazine is erotic. We figure we whet the appetite, but that you have to do the rest of it yourself. It's part of the reason we're still in black-and-white. When we're replaced by a futuristic holodeck complete with moans and smells and slippery mucosa, do you think you'll ever need to leave the house again?

I love a good kiss. They're out there to be had, if you know where to get 'em. And I've been told I'm a good kisser. Not that it matters now—I'm totally aware I'll never get kissed again, after writing shit like this in front of God and everybody. Oh, well. It was fun while it lasted. ☺

08 December 1995. Paris, France. The big Belgians of Girth and Mirth Belgium are having a bath night, at the baths, in places of nudity. Large men and their admirers can get it on in steamy proximity. Contact G&M Belgium by calling their Brussels number, 32-071/56.05.80.

09 December 1995. Cologne, Germany. Bartmanner Koeln's big party, in Cologne/Koeln (same place, different spellings). From 9 p.m. till sometime in February. Food, contests, and hairy German men getting it on with beer and leather who say "Umpf!" a lot. You get the idea. Better swing through Central Europe at the designated time. Contact Bartmanner Koeln at Postfach 29 03 41, D-50525 Koeln GERMANY. You can fax 'em (because they're German and all German men are required by law to have a fax) at +49-221-546-2235. Techies among you may safely hide behind 100022.3462@compuserve.com.

12 December 1995. Seattle, Washington. Movie night at Spag's Tavern, on Pike Street. Sit around watching movies in the company of your friends and potential tricks. The popcorn might not be super-fresh, but oooohhh, the micro-brews are so fine.... Put on by Renegade Bears/Seattle. Write them at 9594 First Ave. NE #271, Seattle, WA 98115, or just go to Spag's and may the parking spirit be with you.

9-12 January 1996. San Francisco, California. You're gonna think we're weird, but the place to be is the big, global, Macworld Expo at the Moscone Convention Center. Here's the reason: Gorgeous fucking hung and horny bearded techno-dudes hang around cruising for pre-press output and a little lovin' on the side. Pick one up for your home system. But like always, what you see is not exactly what you get, no matter what the slimy sales-geeks say. Have fun. Contact MacWorld (MHA Events), 1-800-645-EXPO. Or if you're cool, <http://www.mha.com/macworldexpo>.

13 January 1996. Los Angeles, California. The Southern California Bear Contest at Mogul's in Hollywood. The coverman of the issue you hold in your hands right now started his fame there last year. Ain't no reason you can't do the same. Contact Bears LA, PO Box 4614, Valley Village CA 91617, or call 213-850-8958.

2-4 February 1996. Provincetown, Massachusetts. The hot and horny New England Bears are having their P-town Hibernation Run. Last year, it rained like a son of a bitch. This year will be better. They've put in a request with the planetary weather bureau to get some decent outside time. Worst case scenario: You're stuck indoors with a bunch of New Englanders who will try to nibble on your neck and do unnatural things with a substance called schnapps. Contact NEB, PO Box 873, Cambridge, MA 02140. Or call 617-762-7821.

16-19 February 1996. San Francisco, California. It's the International Bear Rendezvous 1996. Call 415-541-5000 now to reserve your place in sexual history. The coverman of this here issue can tell you all about it if you ask. It's a big party. You go, have sex, drink alcohol (unless you do neither of these things, which is fine). Then you go to the contest (unless you don't do those, either, which also is fine). We'll be there taking pictures, so cum drop yer drawers.

28-31 March 1996. Dallas, Texas. It's the Dallas Bear Run. Run just means you sit with food and growl. Is that so bad? Contact the Texas-area bear groups (page 74 in this here issue) and get the info you need.

Folsom Street Fair

Check it out: In the above photo, it's Danny (right) from BEAR 30, some guy named Mitch (left) who we're still working on to get naked for us in BEAR. On a waning-summer Sunday this September, they and roughly a quarter-million other hungry men and women (with a few somewhere in between) beat the streets of San Francisco in full fetish regalia—or lack thereof.

With a comforting police presence, 13 square blocks were home to vendors, non-profits, four stages of local entertainment, and an entire squadron of port-a-potties. Lines grew from bar doors that normally swing freely. Parties, planned and spontaneous, were found and made everywhere. Every store that could outfit this army in leather and latex was chock-full of broken English, Southern drawls, and traveler's checks.

The Folsom Street Fair is the fetish and fantasy Christmas. Make your bookings for 1996 now!

The New England Bear Contest

disconsolate fella could have come away unhappy. Portland: Also this past summer was the Cascade Bears of Portland's final bash, Prowl '95. They rented a hotel, had parties and—here's the great part—just moved their party over to a bathhouse so everyone could fuck. We like them.

Southern Decadence, September 1995

Damn! Look down below in the little picture box there. Those Louisiana boys can get pretty crazy in the sultry Southern sun. This is Southern Decadence. Happens every year. I think you get the picture....
