LETTERS TO BEAR

Loggin' on

Thanks for another cock-dripping, butthole-twitching issue! I have been an avid reader of BEAR for the last few years and it just keeps getting better. The only problem I have with BEAR is that it doesn't come often enough (and nor do I!). When are you going to step-up production and get a new mag out bimonthly or monthly even? (Daily wouldn't be soon enough for me!)

All right, all right, so you might not want to bring BEAR out more frequently, but I do have a suggestion that would keep a lot of us happy for weeks after wearing the ink off of our current issue: How about an Internet site? There are a lot of guys out there that are using personal computers to keep in touch with the world and each other; everyone from suits to truckers are logging on. I frequently surf the Net and have found numerous locations that offer information about various bear clubs around the country and the world. Although I have asked around and searched for it myself, I can't find a BEAR magazine home page! I know at least one of you at BEAR has an e-mail address, but there is no mention about how to contact BEAR electronically. Whaddya think?

PA, Ohio

Actually, quite a few of the guys in the shop are on the superhighway of the present, but we're gentlemen and don't give out our personal numbers.

But, you're on to something here; our web site is in the works. And you betcha we'll be blowin' our horn when it's ready. And then you won't know whether you have carpal tunnel or whacker's wrist.

The Wittke Wire

Hey, we get letters down here too, y'know. Yes, it's that time again: our practically annual dip into the Wittke Wire mailbag. Because as much fun as it is spouting our opinions about hot men in the media, it's even more fun to get your feedback about our opinions. So let's go to the letter pile, shall we?

A Mr. R.F. from Fort Lee, N.J., writes:

Boy, you sure do write about yourself a lot for a guy who's supposedly covering the media. I know more about your personal life than my closest friend's. That is, if you're telling the truth. I mean, who is this "boyfriend" you keep mentioning named Arby, and whatever happened to that "impossibly gorgeous research assistant/intern Casey E. (no relation to Shelia)"? Are these characters real or do you make all of this stuff up?

Mr. F., I can tell you this about that. O.K., here goes: Real live people come and go in my life and, yes, they are "characters," as you call them. Names are often changed for the illusion of privacy. But generally, if they've made it into my column, they're really in my life. Arby, the incredibly gifted massage therapist is my Josh Waxner, if you know what I'm saying. If they've vanished in my real life (Casey E., where are you?), they're probably making porno videos somewhere. As for the idea that I make this stuff up, I'd like to assure you and all readers of this column that every letter except yours is real.

And speaking of Casey E., you may recall that he was our chief research assistant for our column about hunky cartoon characters, and what an avalanche of mail that one brought forth! Not since our early column about professional wrestlers have we heard so much from so many who are even more maniacal than we are about such things.

Por ejemplo, M.E.S. from Dallas writes:

Hot Damn! Thank you, Sir, for the latest Whittle Wire concerning cartoons (BEAR 32). Alas, I am not alone! And thank you especially for the mention of Race Bannon and Dr. Benton Quest of Johnny Quest. And what about the subtext between Dr. Quest and Race? And, for the most part, where were the women? Didn't the men seem awfully content to be in each other's company? Talk about homoerotic undertones! Sorry, Chris, you can keep Alec Baldwin! Dr. Benton Quest and Race Bannon will always be number one in my fantasy life!

I'm glad you enjoy the Whittle Wire, dearest M.E.S., and O.K., I'll keep Alec Baldwin. I promise I'll feed him and water him every day. Next letter. A Mr. D. L. from Seattle writes:

And on the subject of Mr. Wittke's column, I'm with him on the cartoon bears. Hagar the Horrible may be unkempt and uncouth, but there's a childlike and gentle side of him also. Frankly, I identify with him!

And they say there are no role models for gay men. Next. The admirably obsessive D.R. from Midland Park, N.J., writes:

Hurray! I'm not the only one who gets off on cartoon characters. Since spanking is my big scene, naturally ass is what I crave. "That bearded janitor" on The Simpsons is called Willy. He is always angry as though he is constantly constipated or just spanked. The red beard and hair make him seem even fiercer.

From here, D.R. lists each of the many Simpsons episodes in which Willy's buttocks have been exposed. Then he mentions a fantasy episode he's dreamed up in which Willy is Bart

Snatch It Up!

A few weeks ago, my husband and I picked up your magazine not knowing it was a gay mag. (OK, so I wasn't paying attention... all I focused on was the wonderfully hairy man on the cover of BEAR 33.)

Only when I opened it in the car did I realize what kind of publication it was and what a publication! As a woman who gets hot over gay erotica, not only do I get to look at great-looking men, but I get to read great smut. Smooth, hairless men have never appealed to me, and finding your magazine has been great. As long as you show those great-looking guys, this woman will be drooling along with the rest of the men.

DM, Texas

And I was stumped over what to get my sister for her birthday.

In Black & White

I would like to compliment your staff on your fabulous magazine. Recently I purchased BEAR for the first time and was amazed to find a magazine that has real men and not a bunch of made-up models. I've really become bored with a lot of the other magazines, and BEAR is a welcome change. And please don't change format, I love the black-and-white photos.

I also want to mention that your coverman, Lee (BEAR 34), is one of the hottest men I've ever laid eyes on. Please bring him back as a centerfold. I would love to see much more of Lee.

Real men is what we're all about—guys you can actually see walking around. Like when our accountant first saw our photos of Lee and said, "Omygod, that guy has a delivery route in my neighborhood!"

Hemo or Pola?

Recently I had the chance to visit your great town of San Francisco, and I must say what an awesome time I had! My first stop was the BEAR office where this absolute hunk of a bear was kind enough to take a 'roid of me for your mag. He also gave me directions to the Lone Star. The folks at the bar are very friendly and open to newcomers. They told me which areas are cool and which to stay away from. I got to meet Mr. San Francisco Bear '95 and I was there for the contest to elect Mr. SF Bear '96. I saw how hard it was to pick the winner; there are a lot of hairy good-looking bears in your city, and I'm glad I had the chance to visit.

And to the bartender at My Place, thanks for showing me the Castro.

RS, Maryland

Friendly and open to newcomers! Ain't innocence grand? Sounds like you set the town on fire, fella. I spent the better part of the day hunting down your 'roid (and you wonder why we're late sometimes), but the guys downstairs in the BEAR store musta kept it for themselves. Snap another of yourself and send it off. I wanna see what I missed the first time.

By Chris Wittke

Simpson's live-in babysitter. He continues:

Willy would come equipped with a tawse, and Bart would get a beating on his heinie every night!

Later on, D.R. professes his love for Popeye and Bluto (including their occasional spanking scenes) and concludes:

If you are into ass and spanking, you know how much I love these cartoons. Now I must content myself with the hairy hunks on Ren & Stimpy who usually show a good deal of crack.

We don't know what a "tawse" is, D. R., but we'd like to find out. Unless only bad boys try to find out such things. In which case we are a very bad boy and deserve to have our big, Bluto-like butt spread across your lap and spanked until it glows a rosy red. I guess we know what a "tease" is.

The cartoon column even made singer/songwriter Grant King's Open Secrets newsletter in which King refers to having his CD Let Love Out reviewed by Larry Flick in BEAR 32 as "a longtime dream come true! And in the same issue as Chris Wittke's article on 'Top 10 Butch Cartoon Men,' including my first childhood fixation Bluto from Popeye!" King was nice enough to send along a copy of the disc, and I'm happy to report it's really great. I woulda lied if I didn't like it, but luckily I don't have to. Impeccable production, catchy hooks, smart lyrics and photos of Grant's shaved head and hairy forearms. Perhaps he's noticed how obsessed I am with balding furry guys, and the fact that he has a real purdy voice don't hurt none neither.

Not everyone writes to us about cartoons. Actually, not everyone writes. An anonymous bear-watcher in New York City (C.J., is that you?) tore a great article out of the now-defunct sports section in the July 25, 1995, Village Voice. In it, Joe Clark wrote a piece called "Lycanthrophobia: Since Male Jocks Are Such Fine Specimens of Manhood, Why Are So Many of Them as Hairless as Cub Scouts?" Exactly. Although I think the correct term would be more like ursinethrophobia, Clark is right on the money when he documents that "body hair on male athletes, once the aesthetic standard, is now considered a gross-out. Today's jock ideal is smooth, slick and follically correct." You should look up Clark's article and read it for yourself. And take heart in the fact that it's not true for all jocks.

For instance, a Mr. K.P. from somewhere in the Boston area ambled up to me at a New England Bears meeting and handed me something long and hard and cylindrical. You guessed it! It was one of those cardboard poster mailing tubes like the kind Jan accidentally switched on the amusement park episode of The Brady Bunch. Inside was a lovingly reproduced color photocopy of a poster and interview with superstar surfer Ken Bradshaw. My mouth watered Pavlovianly as I gazed upon this man's beauty. Picture, if you can, Henry Rollins without tattoos, without the body shaving, and without the Mansonesque affect. Add in somewhere between 50 percent and 75 percent more handsomeness and that's what we have here. Gorgeous beard, handsome face, furry chest and belly. Thank you K.P. and all of the others who've sent your opinions and ideas to the Wire (including the many we couldn't get to in this column). You're all even more twisted than we are! That's why we love you.

Burn Your Manual

I really enjoy your magazine except that it seems to be written for bears exclusively as well as about bears. You tend to ignore my point of view—that of the man who is not a bear, but likes them a lot. I'm a boy according to the manual—hairless, gym-toned, and no facial hair. OK, so I have tattoos.

I'm scared that our community is headed toward friendly fascism since it seems pretty strange for anybody to hunt out of their own pack. If you're not a bear, you can't go to many bear parties, and I find that disturbing when that's what I like. Instead I get herded off with the disco bunnies. I never thought of it as "us and them," but it seems to have happened.

Why huddle in your own corner? Bear Country should expand its borders! Instead it seems as if you're all in a trap already.

BC, Tennessee

Hmmm. I'd worry less about categories if I were you, buddy. It wasn't so long ago that the type of guys you're attracted to were excluded from the mainstream gay society themselves. My (limited) experience with the bear clubs in Baltimore and Philly is that the guys are more inclusive than exclusive. Next time your local bear club has a bar night, get your butt over there. Get to know some guys. If you're comfortable with yourself, then guys will be attracted to you. Not all of them, of course, but enough to keep your shorts lumpy.

Best of BEAR

I got your issue #34. You have indeed passed all previous standards in photographing Lee, Tom and Randy and placing them all in the one issue. The only way you could improve an issue would be to provide a "best of" issue, featuring not only the aforementioned men, but also put the likes of Jack Radcliffe and Jim Stockwell into the same issue. What a smorgasboard of talent and extremely pleasing to the eye.

Keep up the good work and let me know about a "best of" issue.

KK, Guildford, Australia

Hey, don't thank us, that's just the way they grow them in the Pacific Northwest! Issue 34 is one of our favorites too.

Lost guys write in, pestering us to put together an issue of their favorite BEAR models. You can all quitcher bellyachin' because Classic BEAR will be on the stands sometime in February, full of brand new shots of our most requested models, including everyone's favorite, Jack Radcliffe.

NOTE: This Australian letter-writer sent us some hot photos of himself to share with you all. But we can't print them because he didn't send in all the paperwork we pornographers need to cover our asses. This happens all the time! If you want us to print the photos you send in (naked or not), you need to follow the instructions under Get Your Dick Out, page 51. We can't make any exceptions. ☺

JASON

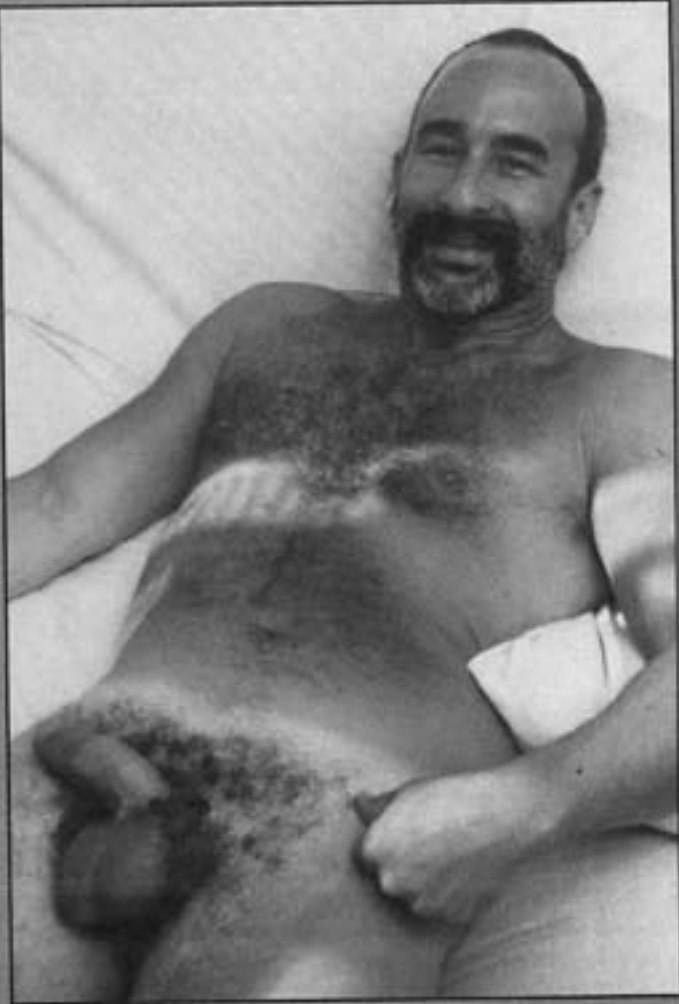

Right from our own backyard, we give you Jason. He's a 42-year-old computer programmer who's lived in town for 19 years.

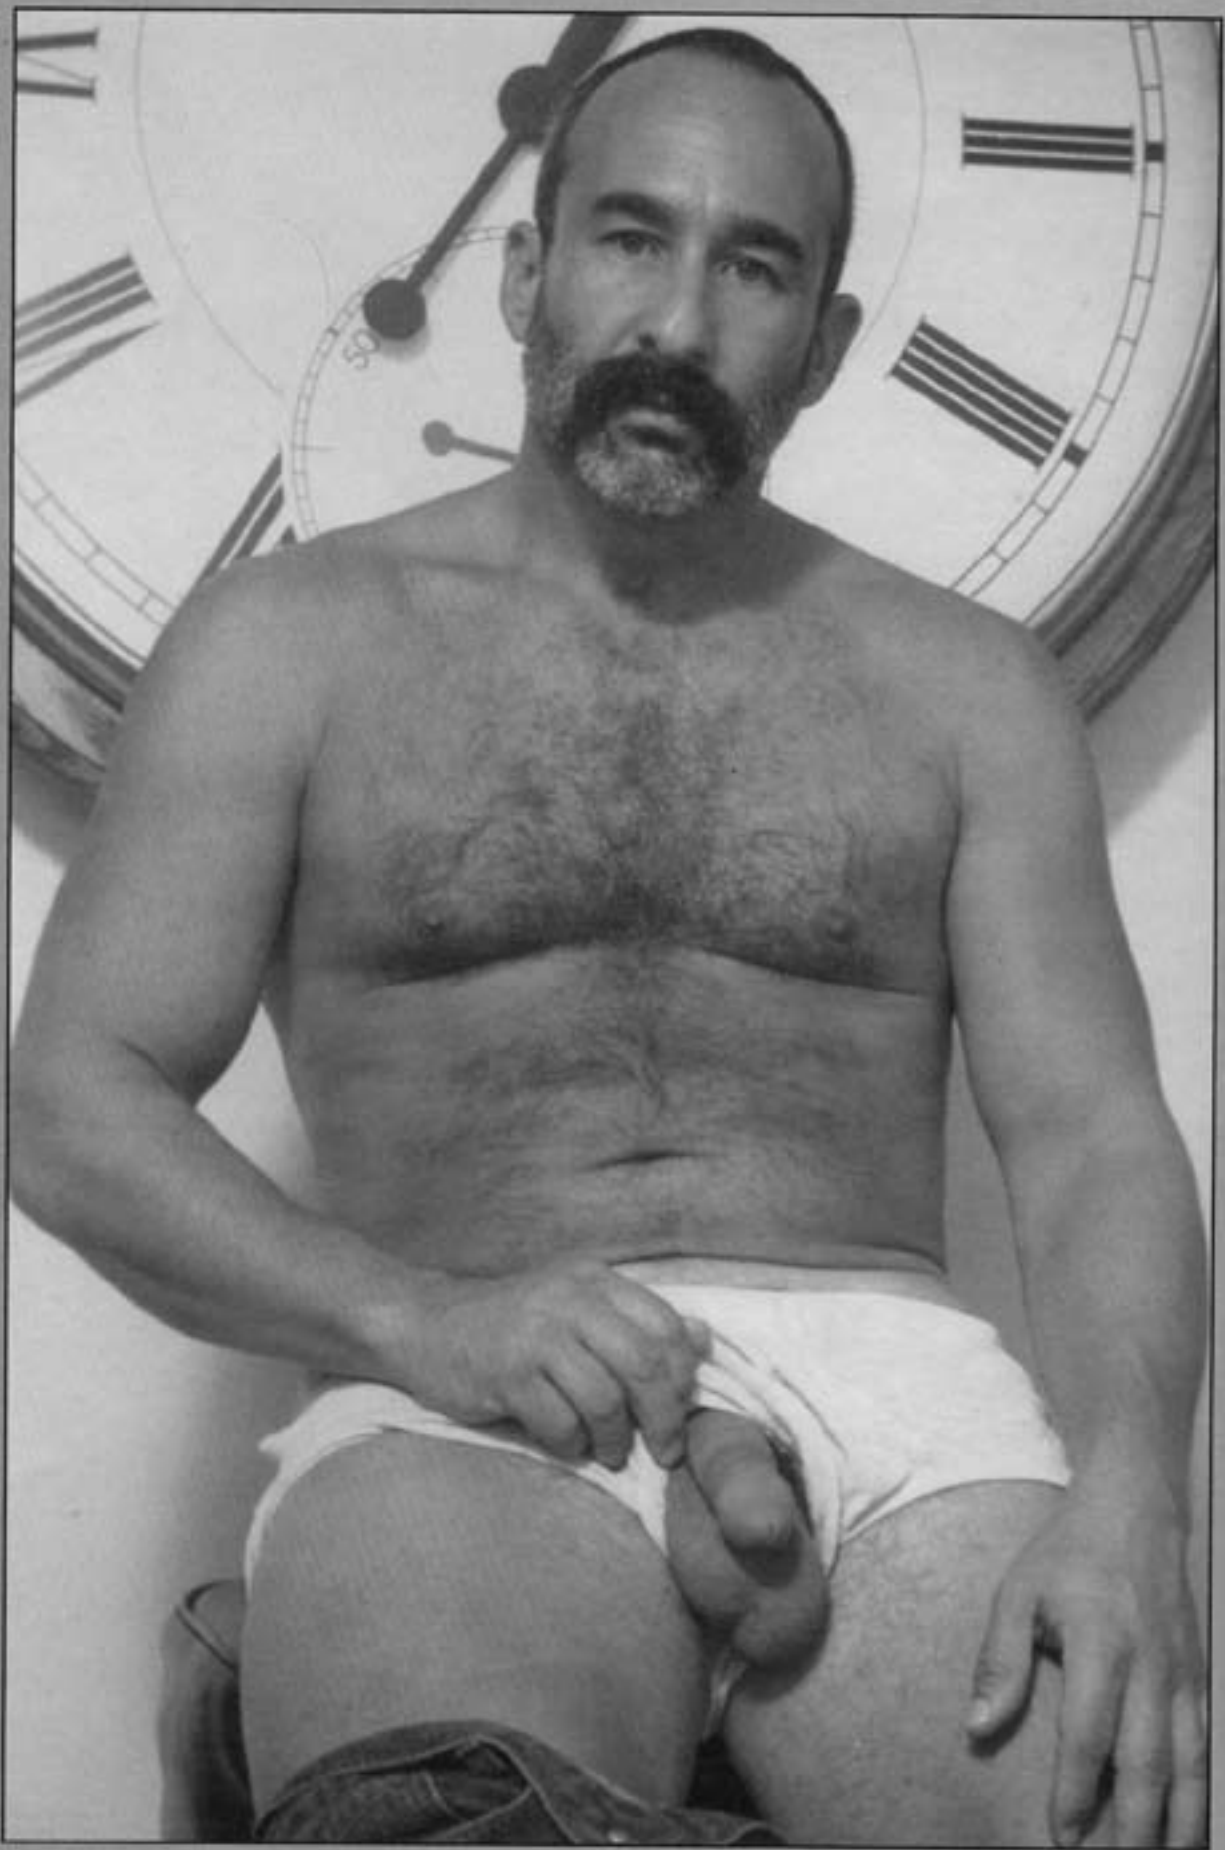

He's an active little fucker—goes to the gym four times a week, rides his bicycle to work (not a simple task in San Francisco), travels a lot, does the camping/whitewater rafting thing, and rides around town on his Kawasaki Vulcan 750. Says he's newly divorced and dating up a storm, too.

But he's got a deeper, and more soulful side. You can see it in his eyes. If you want to catch up with him, your best bet is the local coffee shop. When he's checking you out, he'll start with your eyes, then notice your smile, and finally sneak a peek at your butt. He admires intelligence and likes a guy who understands the value of foreplay.

Highly Recommended

Excerpt from Living Outdoors magazine: "Silver Lake, Wisconsin—the home of excellent fishing, hiking and boating. The scenery is exceptional, the populace more than friendly. Be sure to wander the streets of 'old' Silver Lake to get a true taste of the local color—and occasionally see a bear lumbering around searching for mischief. Highly recommended."—J. McPherson

I turned off the air conditioning and rolled down the window now that Bucky and I had left the speed of the highway behind us. I inhaled the rain-laden air. Very sweet, deceptively sweet, I thought, propping my arm up in the window to let the breeze buffet the dark hair on my forearm. Slowly, I guided the Winnebago around several street corners in town until I spotted an open space at the end of a cul-de-sac. I easily maneuvered Bucky's 20 feet of steel and fiberglass into place. Finally, I thought, time to rest.

However, I could tell by the ever-darkening sky that my first afternoon in Silver Lake, Wisconsin, was not going to be a quiet one. I had managed to outrun the storm for the last 60 miles, hoping its path and mine were not the same. No such luck. It had followed Bucky and me, like a lost puppy, down the interstate and county roads, mile after mile, just on our heels. Not that I disliked a strong, late summer thunderstorm. Not at all. But after driving 12 straight hours, all I really wanted was uninterrupted sleep.

Opening the door and stepping down onto the pavement, I gave my neck a quick, hard rub and arched my stiffening back, reaching upward with clenched fists to meet the lowering clouds. The hills to the southwest grumbled long, low and hard like an unfed stomach. Gullywasher, I thought. My nostrils flared as they filled with electrified air. Definitely gonna be a gullywasher.

My aching legs begged for a good massage or at least a brisk walk around the town square. But a warm splat of a raindrop struck my forehead, and I realized there would be no time for that. The wind had picked up considerably, and the sky darkened to a smoky gray-green color, triggering the streetlights. So, despite my little aches and pains, a quick walk around Bucky to batten down the hatches was the most I could afford.

Oh well, I thought, at least now the large, firm bulge in my jeans—the hard-on that had always been a by-product of a cross-country drive, ever since puberty—would be attended to sooner than expected.

As I checked all sides of the Winnebago, I noticed that, as tourist towns go, Silver Lake was pretty typical. The tree-lined cul-de-sac I had pulled Bucky into was at the end of the town's central square and divided the "new" Silver Lake from the older logging town it had once been. I laughed softly as I watched several cafe owners fighting the increasing gusts of wind, frantically gathering up tables and chairs that had been set out on the sidewalks. I made a mental note to use this to my advantage later—small talk about their activity as the storm approached would be a good ice-breaker for an out-of-towner with intimidating looks.

Introductions had always been the hardest part of my research. No matter how gentle my greeting, people only saw one thing: 6-foot-2-inches of dark-haired, bearded monolith extending a massive hand. They would see the deeply set eyes, the short hair, the thick eyebrows, and they'd flinch every so slightly. Man, woman or child, they all stood before me and searched their memories for any word of a prison breakout. So I had learned early on to find some topic of small talk that would put everyone at ease. The storm would be good for that. But for now, it didn't matter. The bulge in my jeans was crying out for attention and the surrounding hills growled again, this time louder and sharper, as if in agreement with my crotch.

I rubbed my hard-on, patting it gently in reassurance. Everything was in its place; time to go inside and ride out the storm. I pulled on the door in Bucky's side, forcing it open against another sudden gust of wind. A glowing fork of light stabbed into the hills, and I winced just slightly waiting for the thunder. Instead, a loud metal crash jolted me from behind. I turned around just as a painful "Fuck!" rode past on the wind.

Through an opening in the hedge and trees, I could see down a narrow alleyway between the buildings of old Silver Lake. About three buildings in, I saw what I was sure was an apparition. Standing beside a half-overturned trash dumpster was a perfect specimen of Northern Wisconsin bear. He was shaking his hand in pain and then he spun around and doubled over, tucking his hand away in his stomach, to ease the hurt. Instantly, I noticed his well-rounded ass, hugged by a pair of gray exercise shorts that were repeatedly pulled tight as he bobbed up and down to absorb the pain.

After a moment, he stood upright again and I took in this man from behind. Hovering around 6 feet tall, his body was a solid mass, head to toe, with a soft give in the middle. Short dark hair crawled down the back of his neck into a sweat-stained T-shirt. His back was broad and, even standing upright, his ass kept its fullness. I saw dark, hairy thighs and calves.

Again, whiteness covered everything for a split second, and the hills answered angrily and more quickly this time. Silver Lake was about to be thrashed by Mother Nature, but the tingling in my balls wouldn't let me crawl back into Bucky and ride it out.

“He pulled me toward him, our beards blending together, black and brown as the skies opened, and heavy raindrops began pelting us like rocks.”

My strides were long and purposeful as I headed down the alley. “You OK, buddy?” I called out over the rushing wind.

He turned around, surprised to see me heading his way. His painful grimace faded as he shook his head that he was fine.

Then I was standing there with him, looking too eagerly at his thick, brown beard and downward to a “Play in Silver Lake” T-shirt being strained in all the right places, a thick tuft of brown hair reaching up from his neckline. To stop myself from ripping his clothes off instantly, I moved over to the metal dumpster and pushed it upright again.

“Thanks, man,” he said, a quiver in still in his voice. “Goddamn wind. You get one storm warning on the radio and everyone scatters like mice.”

I forced the dumpster lid down, a much harder task than I expected in the alley turned wind tunnel. “I’m surprised this thing got the best of a big, beefy guy like yourself,” I said.

He had wrapped his hand in his pulled-up shirttail, revealing a softly rounded belly thickly covered with deep brown fur. Wisps of the fur spilled over the elastic top of his exercise shorts, and the bulge in my jeans twitched with delight. He smelled of printer’s ink, rich with chemicals, and the musty smell of new paper. I noticed the ink smudges on his shorts and the broad sweat-stains spreading from his armpits, and knew that he loved to work hard.

“The name’s Mac,” I said, extending my large paw.

“Dewey,” he said, shaking it with his good hand, matching my grip and holding it a little longer than was necessary. “And don’t shit me about the dumpster. It’s like trying to hold onto a 50-pound kite in a hurricane. Even you had to use a little more effort than expected just now.”

He smiled. It was simple, direct, but there was something just underneath it all. His eyes, it seemed, tried to take in everything at once, wanting to dart here and there but—knowing it wasn’t polite—instead locked onto mine. Again, for what seemed a little longer than necessary.

“Let me see the other hand.”

Dewey removed his hand from his shirttail and held it out for me. I touched it gently, causing him to flinch. I ran my fingers over the palm; rough, firm, moist with sweat and calluses on the fingertips. I turned his hand over. Soft, dark hair ran up the back of it and blossomed on his meaty forearm. Wave after wave of fur rolled across his forearm, dotted with small beads of sweat and specs of paper shavings looking like flotsam, until the waves broke at the elbow and then disappeared under the sleeve of his T-shirt.

I saw, from the corner of my vision, his eyes shift downward. My mind tingled as I realized he had shifted from looking at his hand in mine, to looking at the still-prevalent bulge in my jeans. The long handshake, the lingering eye contact. Had I been on the road entirely too long today? My hard dick surged and pressed against the denim for freedom as I contemplated my possible good fortune.

Slowly, my gaze dropped as well—certain I was crazy, but hoping like hell that I wasn’t. The sky flashed white and the hills roared as I saw his cotton shorts being pushed to the limit. I looked up and met him eye to eye. A knowing smile pushed Dewey’s beard upward around the corners of his mouth. His smile, his eyes, they were both warm, inviting and sizzling with mischief. He was one of the few who didn’t need to check his memory for word of a prison breakout.

I smiled back and lowered his injured hand to my crotch, placing it firmly on my bulge and holding it there tightly. The moan that escaped Dewey was that magical combination of pain and pleasure.

Dewey reached up with his good hand and grabbed a fistful of my shirt and chest hair. He pulled me toward him, our beards blending together, black and brown as the skies opened, and heavy raindrops began pelting us like rocks. His beard was damp and smelled of hard-earned sweat. His tongue, thick and warm, slowly circled the inside of my mouth. We pressed against each other as a steady pounding of rain soaked our clothing. Rivulets of water ran down Dewey’s face, clinging in his beard, and I broke the seal of our lips just long enough to lap a few drops off the thick fur.

"Want to go inside?" I asked.

With another killer smile he said, "I ain't no mouse," and he once again plunged his tongue down my throat.

I pushed my hand against his crotch, warm and wet and hard. I squeezed the base of his shaft and slowly guided him back against the limestone building. The wind mixed grit from the alley with sheets of water, lashing us and coating the limestone with a smooth film. With one swift motion, I plunged both hands under Dewey's shirt and lifted it off of him. I stood back, watching the rain pound his dark chest, admiring the thick fur and perfect chestnut swirl it created around his navel. His hand eagerly rubbed in the warm rainwater, turning his pelt a shade deeper, a shade more masculine.

A single, perfect drop clung to his left nipple and, with a low growl, I encased it firmly in my mouth. The smell of hard work rose from his armpit and permeated his fur enveloping me as I tugged on his nipple. Dewey groaned and held my head tightly against his chest. He began to writhe against the limestone as I reached into his shorts and stroked his hard cock.

Fumbling with good hand and bad, Dewey unbuttoned my jeans and broke his rhythm just long enough to shove them down to my knees. Curtains of rain instantly soaked my bare ass as Dewey began working the falling water onto my bobbing cock. I rolled my head back, closed my eyes and let the rain slap me in the face again and again. I could sense Dewey moving, but I couldn't open my eyes. Then the warmth of his tongue and throat enveloped my dick. The wet caress of his tongue on my shaft and the sharp rain on my ass caused a growl to rise within me, from my balls, building, thickening, until it escaped my lips to meet the downpour. Behind closed eyes, I saw flashes of light, felt the sharp twinge of electricity followed immediately by a monstrous roar. Dewey clamped down harder and forced me deeper into his throat, obeying the thunder gods.

I braced myself against the trash dumpster, fighting the rushing wind and Dewey's steady lunges against my rod. His pursuit was relentless. He growled and moaned as he lapped up precum and rainwater. His beefy hand pulled on my ballsac, pinching it, tweaking it, stretching it, as it attempted to tense up. Not yet, his hand was saying, and I agreed completely. The brush of his beard against my thighs heightened everything and coaxed a low, raspy, "Good bear" from my mouth.

His tongue circled my red, swollen cockhead, probing the piss-hole, dancing around it, flicking in and out of it and then pausing to slowly lap all the way up the length of my shaft. He nuzzled his full beard against the underside of my rod, cupped my balls in his hand and gripped them firmly. He took my cock into his throat again, warmth pressing it from all sides, forcing me deeper than it seemed possible. I squeezed my eyes shut, rain running down my face like tears, the smell of ozone filling my nostrils, as my ballsac tightened, the momentum in the battle between his hand and my nuts shifting. Just as it seemed I could hold my load no longer, Dewey released me and bit down on the inside of my thigh, holding a mouthful of muscle tightly between his teeth, gnawing me, lulling me, talking me down from my height with a few sharp, well-placed nibbles.

"Not yet, my friend," he said. "The storm's just getting good."

Dizzy and soaking wet, I pulled Dewey to his feet and pushed him back against the limestone wall. My drenched shirt was discarded as were his clinging shorts. Everything around us had disappeared in a blurry rush of water. I wrapped my arms around him, pressing our hairy chests together, bellies rubbing, and tongues greeting each other like long-lost lovers. His firm dick pressed against my stomach, and I shifted my weight back and forth to stroke it with my wet fur. His hardness surged and pushed against me. Rivers ran down every valley between us, feeding into where his stiff cock was being worked by my stomach.

With a growl, he reached down and began slowly stroking my cock, pulling it into him, pushing it against his low-hanging ballsac. I forced him backward hard against the wall, pinning his cock in my stomach and my dick in his balls. A rush of air escaped between our lips as Dewey hit the wall, followed by another low moan. He pulled harder on my shaft, tightening his grip, guiding me beyond his ballsac and into warmth between his legs. He held me there, stroking and pulling on me.

"Are you ready?" I mumbled into his mouth. I was instantly answered by a long pull on my tongue.

By now, the lightning and thunder were streaking and crashing across the green-black sky in a nearly continuous pyrotechnic blaze. An electric sizzle and roar enveloped everything leaving only Dewey and me and pouring rain. I reached between Dewey's legs, lingering over the dark, wet hair, then found his asshole hot and ready. My finger played with the pucker, stretching it and then slipping in just a bit. Dewey gave instantly, lowering himself slightly against my probing hand. I massaged the hole with my finger, going deeper, adding a second. His clenching asscheeks squeezed my hand, and the fur that covered them sent a pulse through my body. Enough of this fooling around.

I tightened my clench around his chest and raised him up, leveraging him against the rain-slicked wall, until my cock was beneath him, wedged between his matted thighs. Dewey braced himself against the wall and then, slowly, brought his legs up and wrapped them around me like a vice. Little by little, he lowered himself onto my cock. The roar that escaped him was swallowed up instantly in waves of thunder.

With one shove, I had Dewey pinned against the limestone wall. Thrust after thrust I plunged my shaft deep into him, his face buried in my chest, fingernails digging into my back as the limestone must have been digging into his.

The wet warmth of our bodies surging against each other, and the solid feeling of his shaft pinned between us, drove me deeper into him, searching for farthest recesses of heat.

A sharp pain glanced off my shoulder, then another off my lower back. A trio of spikes bit my legs, ass and neck. Confusion swirled in my mind for an instant until I registered the sound of hail falling on the surrounding rooftops. A steady clatter began rising as marble-sized ice bounced off metal and glass and rock in all directions. I thrust my cock deep into Dewey and held it there, locking eyes with him as several more stinging pellets ricocheted off my body.

"Stop now and I'll kill you," he said with a smile.

"Good bear," I said.

With a quick heave, I bolstered my position under Dewey, grabbing two handfuls of furry ass-muscle. I

"He growled and roared, striking my beard and face, coating both of our chests and stomachs... smearing the stickiness over our bodies."

slammed into him and drew out again, slowly, letting him feel every hard inch. The searing sensation of him wrapped around my cock was matched only by the sting of the hail. I plunged deep into him again and was surrounded by heat and stung by a swarm of frozen rocks falling from 15,000 feet. Everywhere, at random, the stones bit into me. My ear, my back, my thigh, my ass. Several stones ricocheted off the limestone, landing between us. As I drove into Dewey again and again, these trapped hailstones began to melt in our warmth, sending rivulets of icy, pure water to blend with the sweat.

Eyes closed, intent on feeling only the biting pain and pounding heat of Dewey's asshole, a hollow drumming of metal and glass filled my ears. Dewey's moans echoed in my chest, and I slid into him, and into him, and into him, working up a little more speed as the tingling sensation returned to my ballsac.

My hands clamped down harder on his asscheeks. I felt Dewey reach between us and begin furiously stroking his own cock. I pressed us together more tightly, desperately trying to slow his rhythm to match my own, not yet ready to be finished with this lashing.

A crack of light and explosion forced my eyes open. Dewey's face was a contortion of painful desire as several hailstones bounced off his furry chest. That was all it took. I felt a massive wave of electric pulse overtake my nutsac as it pulled up tight. My cock swelled to its limits inside Dewey and then burst its juice. Hot cum filled him, explosion after explosion as the skies roared the apocalypse. Dewey tensed, his muscular legs trying to break me in two as he rolled his head back against the limestone wall. His fist gripped his rod tightly and, with one last deliberate stroke, he roared, overwhelming the thunder, and spewed wave after wave of hot cum between us. He growled and roared, striking my beard and face, coating both of our chests and stomachs. I pulled him up close, keeping my rhythm, wringing every last shock wave out of my cock and smearing the stickiness over our bodies.

Water ran down my face, blurring my vision again, but I could clearly see a huge smile spreading over Dewey's face, dimples pushing his beard higher than it seemed possible to go. He laid his head back against the limestone and laughed softly, contentedly. As my breathing returned to normal, I looked at the mess we'd created. Another hailstone struck my beard and landed between us. I shuddered with delight at the mixture of cum and rainwater and melting ice.

Several minutes later, after racing back to the shelter of Bucky's fiberglass shell, I smiled at the sight of Dewey's already swelling hand as I tossed him another dry towel. "You're really gonna have one hell of a bruise tomorrow," I said.

Dewey smiled. "So will you, several in fact," he said, motioning to the reflection of my backside in the mirror. It was dotted with red hail-marks.

"It's the price I pay for being neighborly," I laughed. "At least I won't have to explain the scratches you've got on your back," I smiled, "or admit to being bested by a dumpster."

"I never have problems with that dumpster. But when I saw you bent over, checking out your RV, well, that ass in those jeans would cause anyone to lose their concentration."

I playfully slapped my bare ass. "You like this ass, do you?"

"I do," Dewey said, a broad grin once again pushing the corners of his beard upward.

"Well," I said over the rain pelting Bucky's roof, "looks like it's gonna be a while before this thing blows over. Might as well make ourselves comfortable."

Dewey dropped his towel to the floor. "I don't know what brought you to our fine little town, but remind me to thank them."

"That would be my editor. I'm doing a story on the top-10 best-kept secret vacation spots."

"Are we gonna make your list?"

"You already have," I smiled, pulling him close to me. "Just behind Broken Arrow, Colorado. But that's another story."

"Hell," Dewey's voice dropped, "by the time I'm done with you, we're gonna be right at the top."

Cover Your Ass

Legal Perspectives
by Jeff Kilpatrick

Antioch is one of America's best small colleges. Located in Yellow Springs, Ohio, it offers an excellent educational opportunity. The faculty are academically very accomplished, and the student body is bright and dedicated. Antioch also has a code of conduct which covers sexual relations between members of the Antioch community. The basic precept of the code is that consent must be asked at every stage of the encounter. "May I touch you? May I kiss you? May I remove your shirt?" are deemed necessary and proper according to the code. The people who started the code saw it as a way of overcoming the male defense of, "She teased me; she provoked me by what she did or said." Some guys started an all-guy group in reaction to this. Dubbed "The Boneyard," they drank beer, watched football, discussed guy stuff and mightily antagonized the proposers of the code simply by doing this. The fact that they mostly disliked the code helped too.

This concerns our community, because whether we like it or not, we are at the cutting edge of sex play in most of this country simply because of what we do and with whom we choose to do it. The Antioch Code is something we need to take note of. Sexual assault charges of male-on-male are being taken much more seriously than before in the United States. What would happen to a defendant if some sweet, innocent little bottom started answering questions based on the Antioch Code as, "No, no, no." I assure you, not one of my clients has ever said that he enjoyed the prison experience.

Now let's examine this from the perspective of tops and bottoms. Most of us indulge in sex and, when we do, we will be one or the other, so let's go for it. (I know, what about daddies and boys? Daddies and boys have a certain special set of issues that I plan to address in a later column, so hold on. As for you slaves, you have no business reading any of this unless your Master said you could. I'm also omitting killer bottoms; they are well-known for using their tops unmercifully.) O.K., you're a top and both you and your bottom are responsible, adult males. With the Antioch Code in the background, Fundamentalist neighbors nearby and one of Lou Sheldon's finest on the bench, where do you go from here? Here's where you cover your ass.

Consent takes two forms: explicit and implied. If I ask you, "May I work you tit?" and you say, "Yes," that is explicit consent. If I look at your tit, you follow my gaze, I rub my fingers together and you nod approvingly, that is implied consent. Unless your bottom is really into verbal activity, constantly asking for explicit consent can become a bore. However, the absolute rule for your own protection is always ask consent, especially if you are playing for the first time with someone you don't know very well. I prefer implied consent myself. If I become aware of some tension in my partner or a loss of eye contact, I usually downshift the action, offering food or something to drink. This gives us both a chance to regroup and take it from there.

Now a word to bottoms: Exactly half of the chance of failure or success at this play action depends entirely on you. Rather than saying "No, no, no!" when you really mean "Yes, yes, yes!" why not abandon yourself utterly and say, "Yes, yes, yes," if you mean it? Bottoms guide the action; when a bottom says to his top, "Twist those tits! Make them red and angry!"

he is being responsible within the concept of the Antioch Code. Besides, tops need all the encouragement they can get, so encourage them. A bottom can even initiate action; if he sees something he likes, he can always say, "Oh, Sir! May I lick it, Sir? Please, Sir?" Again, as in the earlier examples, every requirement of the Antioch Code has been met.

I hope you can see by now that the Antioch Code can be of great use to us in our play sessions, but if adopted as a standard of review by a court, it also has the potential to work harm against us. The Antioch Code has been widely reported and discussed; my guess is that it will be the subject of several good law review articles. These articles are sometimes cited by judges in their opinions. The Antioch Code has the potential for far more influence than just the borders of Antioch College.

I know some of you will ask about "safe words." The effect of the Antioch Code may be to get us beyond the need for such words, emphasizing as it does stages in an encounter, and getting consent as a new stage is entered. However, I am reminded of an old acquaintance of mine who indulged in rape fantasies. His standard opening was, "Strip me! Beat me! Use me like the dog I am but if I say, 'I love you,' get out of my house." They always did. If a safe word works for you, by all means use it. The bottom line is, do whatever makes you comfortable and is safe, but be aware that the Antioch Code is out there, perking away. Ideally, the only thing that should come between you and your play partner after a long play session is a need for sleep.

I imagine there are a few of you who think that this is alarmist bullshit. So be it. As a lawyer, I try to keep my clients alert to any and every situation that may have potential consequences for them. I also understand that The Boneyard is still open and that they are accepting members. However, guys, I understand that they're all straight.

Till next time, all the best. @

Vox Clamavis
by Killer

Hello. It's me again. Well, it's the fifth time I've appeared of late in this fine space, and I suppose I could call this the fifth column, but that'd come off kinda creepy.

Luke had been after me for a while to come up with some kind of feature title. Hope nobody finds Latin too annoying. It means "a voice crying." There were others that we each came up with (Luke's favorite being "Ponders from Yonders"), but they all kind of deteriorated toward a particularly punchy end; the rest were either too full of themselves or too stupid even for me (and I enjoy a good cheesy joke). I don't think titles ultimately mean a lot, but they can provide a lens through which focus is made.

I been reacquainting myself with my CD collection and catching up on my reading. Went through Angels in America by Tony Kushner in a day and a half; it's unlikely I'll see a production here on the prairie. Read Jeffrey by Paul Rudnick because it's doubtful the movie will play in the state. Finished Frisk by Dennis Cooper, and what a hellish ride that was (definitely not for the squeamish, but a fucking phenomenal book). Am currently making my way through Deliverance by James Dickey (because I figured I needed something light) with an occasional dip into Coming Out of History by Neil Miller (which documents gay people from 1869 to the present) because I like knowing where my people came from. It doesn't necessarily give me a clue as to where I'm going, but it's important to me to know the stories.

I been thinking about growing my beard back; it's getting damn cold, and this winter is a particularly harsh one. I've noticed that, here, beards tend to be seasonal in origin instead of a quasi-political statement.

I have found that I seem to be turning into a sort of activist. In San Francisco, I never paid a helluva lot of attention to the rest of the country, because San Francisco is fairly isolated; it is, after all, on a peninsula which means it's surrounded on three sides by reality. I demonstrated when I believed strongly in an issue: When California governor Pete Wilson, in a distinctly cowardly and purely political act, vetoed AB101 (which would have guaranteed statewide equal employment rights for gay people), I trekked to Sacramento and protested. But I wasn't what you could call a professional.

For instance, the Names Project Quilt is coming to a town not far from me. It's coming to a college town, which, to me means it's probably gonna be a little more liberal than most of the rural towns around here. A preacher from that town, the Rev. Mark Beach, said of the Quilt, "I've always wondered why AIDS seems to be a disease that warrants this kind of attention and not other diseases, especially in light of the fact that AIDS is preventable for most people."

The man is clergy, and therefore in a position of great visibility. Interestingly, this bit of bigotry doesn't even make mention of biblical condemnation. I could easily rail on and on about what makes it bigoted, but I'm confident you boys can spot it, and besides, the Rev. Beach ain't gonna read this (but it is an appealing fantasy). Crusher and I both wrote letters to the editor of the local paper; mine went unprinted, but Crusher's made it in (diverting though it may be, it's pointless to dwell on irony). Crusher is a clergyman and thinks the reason his got published is because there's a "Reverend" in front of his name, and the paper was entertained by the aspect of one clergyman calling another on the carpet. He also says it's probably because I haven't developed a quality he calls "Midwestern nice."

One thing I've noticed about those who hate is that it seems like there's two ways bigotry works. I can take Jesse Helms' sort of bigotry a lot easier than Beach's. Helms says, more or less, that it's OK if folks call him a bigot or a homophobe; if that's what hating gay people means, that's OK with him. He has no problem with it. Beach's is much more insidious. Beach doesn't want to think about the human condition (a quality that puzzles me in a clergyman). He doesn't look for justification in the Bible (which is what the Helms-type of bigot would do), but rather in himself. Helms' bigotry says gay folks exist and are evil; Beach's says if he doesn't see it, it doesn't happen. His type of bigotry sees a call for justice or compassion as self-aggrandizement, and that's no way for anyone to create, let alone perceive, a hero.

I think it's a mistake to believe people with AIDS become heroes when they die. They don't. They become corpses.

I don't think of myself as an activist. But in this life, I can rest assured there will always be injustices to make me mad; so I pick one, figure how best to respond, hope I have chosen wisely and move on. I think everyone has that responsibility as a citizen of this country; you might walk a picket line, write a letter, call a senator or vote. I think there's a certain amount of fun to be had in fighting, too. Just as there is a time to sow and a time to reap, a time to be born and a time to die, there is a time to be serious and there is a time to cut loose and say, "Scuse me, but can I fuck your ass until you cry?" ☐

HOW ADS WORK

1. BEAR Voicemail. Credit card holders call 1-800-347-BEAR. To charge the call to your home phone, dial 1-900-HOT-BEAR. Record your own personal greeting, answer someone else's ad, or talk to whoever is jacking-off on the line. Mailboxes have 4 or 5 digits. To collect your voicemail messages: At the main menu, hit the star key. This is your message center area.

2. Constructing your ad. Talk about yourself and be real clear as to who you'd like to meet. Avoid negativity shit, like "no fats, feds or Lithuanians." It doesn't work, and we'll probably change it anyway.

3. Names. We can't put Occupant or Boxholder. Use your initials or a name your postal carrier knows.

4. Phone Numbers. We won't print 'em.

5. Cost and duration. Personal ads are free if you're a BEAR Buddy. Otherwise, they're 25¢/word per issue. Wanna change your ad? Send in $5. Wanna discontinue your ad? Write in and we'll pull it. You will have to pay to have a pulled ad put back in, though.

6. Deadline for BEAR 37 ads is February 20, 1996.

7. BEAR Postal Box Numbers. For U.S. subscribers, free to BEAR Buddies. Otherwise, add $5 to your ad. A word to the wise: Your own address will get you more responses.

8. Replying to a BEAR Postal Box Number. Seal your letter in an envelope. On this envelope, put the fella's box number in pencil where the stamp goes. Send this with $1 in a larger envelope to us.

9. We reserve the right to edit personals for editorial consistency and clarity. We also reserve right to refuse any ad.

10. Changing your ad. It's cool, but it'll cost you 5 bucks, and must be in writing.

11. Photo ads. We'll run a shot of your face or dick—but only once. Your photo must have a signed model release (see Get Your Dick Out, page 51) AND a photocopy of your picture ID. Don't bother sending us photos without this stuff. We can't legally print them. Each photo sent to BEAR must be signed with your name and address on the back.

Rimming	Licking and eating ass.
Scat	Shit, guys. Shit.
Toys	Dildos up your butt.

More on personals:

• If a guy gets in touch with you, write back. Even if it's just to say "no thanks," he deserves to know you got his message.

• BEAR ads aren't a marketing base. If you think your new hair-growth system is worth selling to the world, do it someplace else. Leave our advertisers alone.

• Prisons aren't a good place to send money, or pictures of your hairy ass. By all means, correspond and make friends. But know the potential for trouble to you as well as to the guy on the inside.

Todd

I've been starin' at these photos for more than a week, and I'm still gettin' boners. (What a job!) There sure is a lot of man here. And I'll be damned if I can find a spot that's not covered with hair. Except for the insides of his legs, where those big ol' thighs rub together.

Fortunately, Todd wasn't so interested in keeping his thighs together for you all. He showed us the full gym in his house, where he likes to combine his workouts with sex play. Says he likes guys who are overtly sexual and turned on to themselves. He refuses to limit himself sexually, but has been known to do some tricks with knots—and capture his scenes on tape.

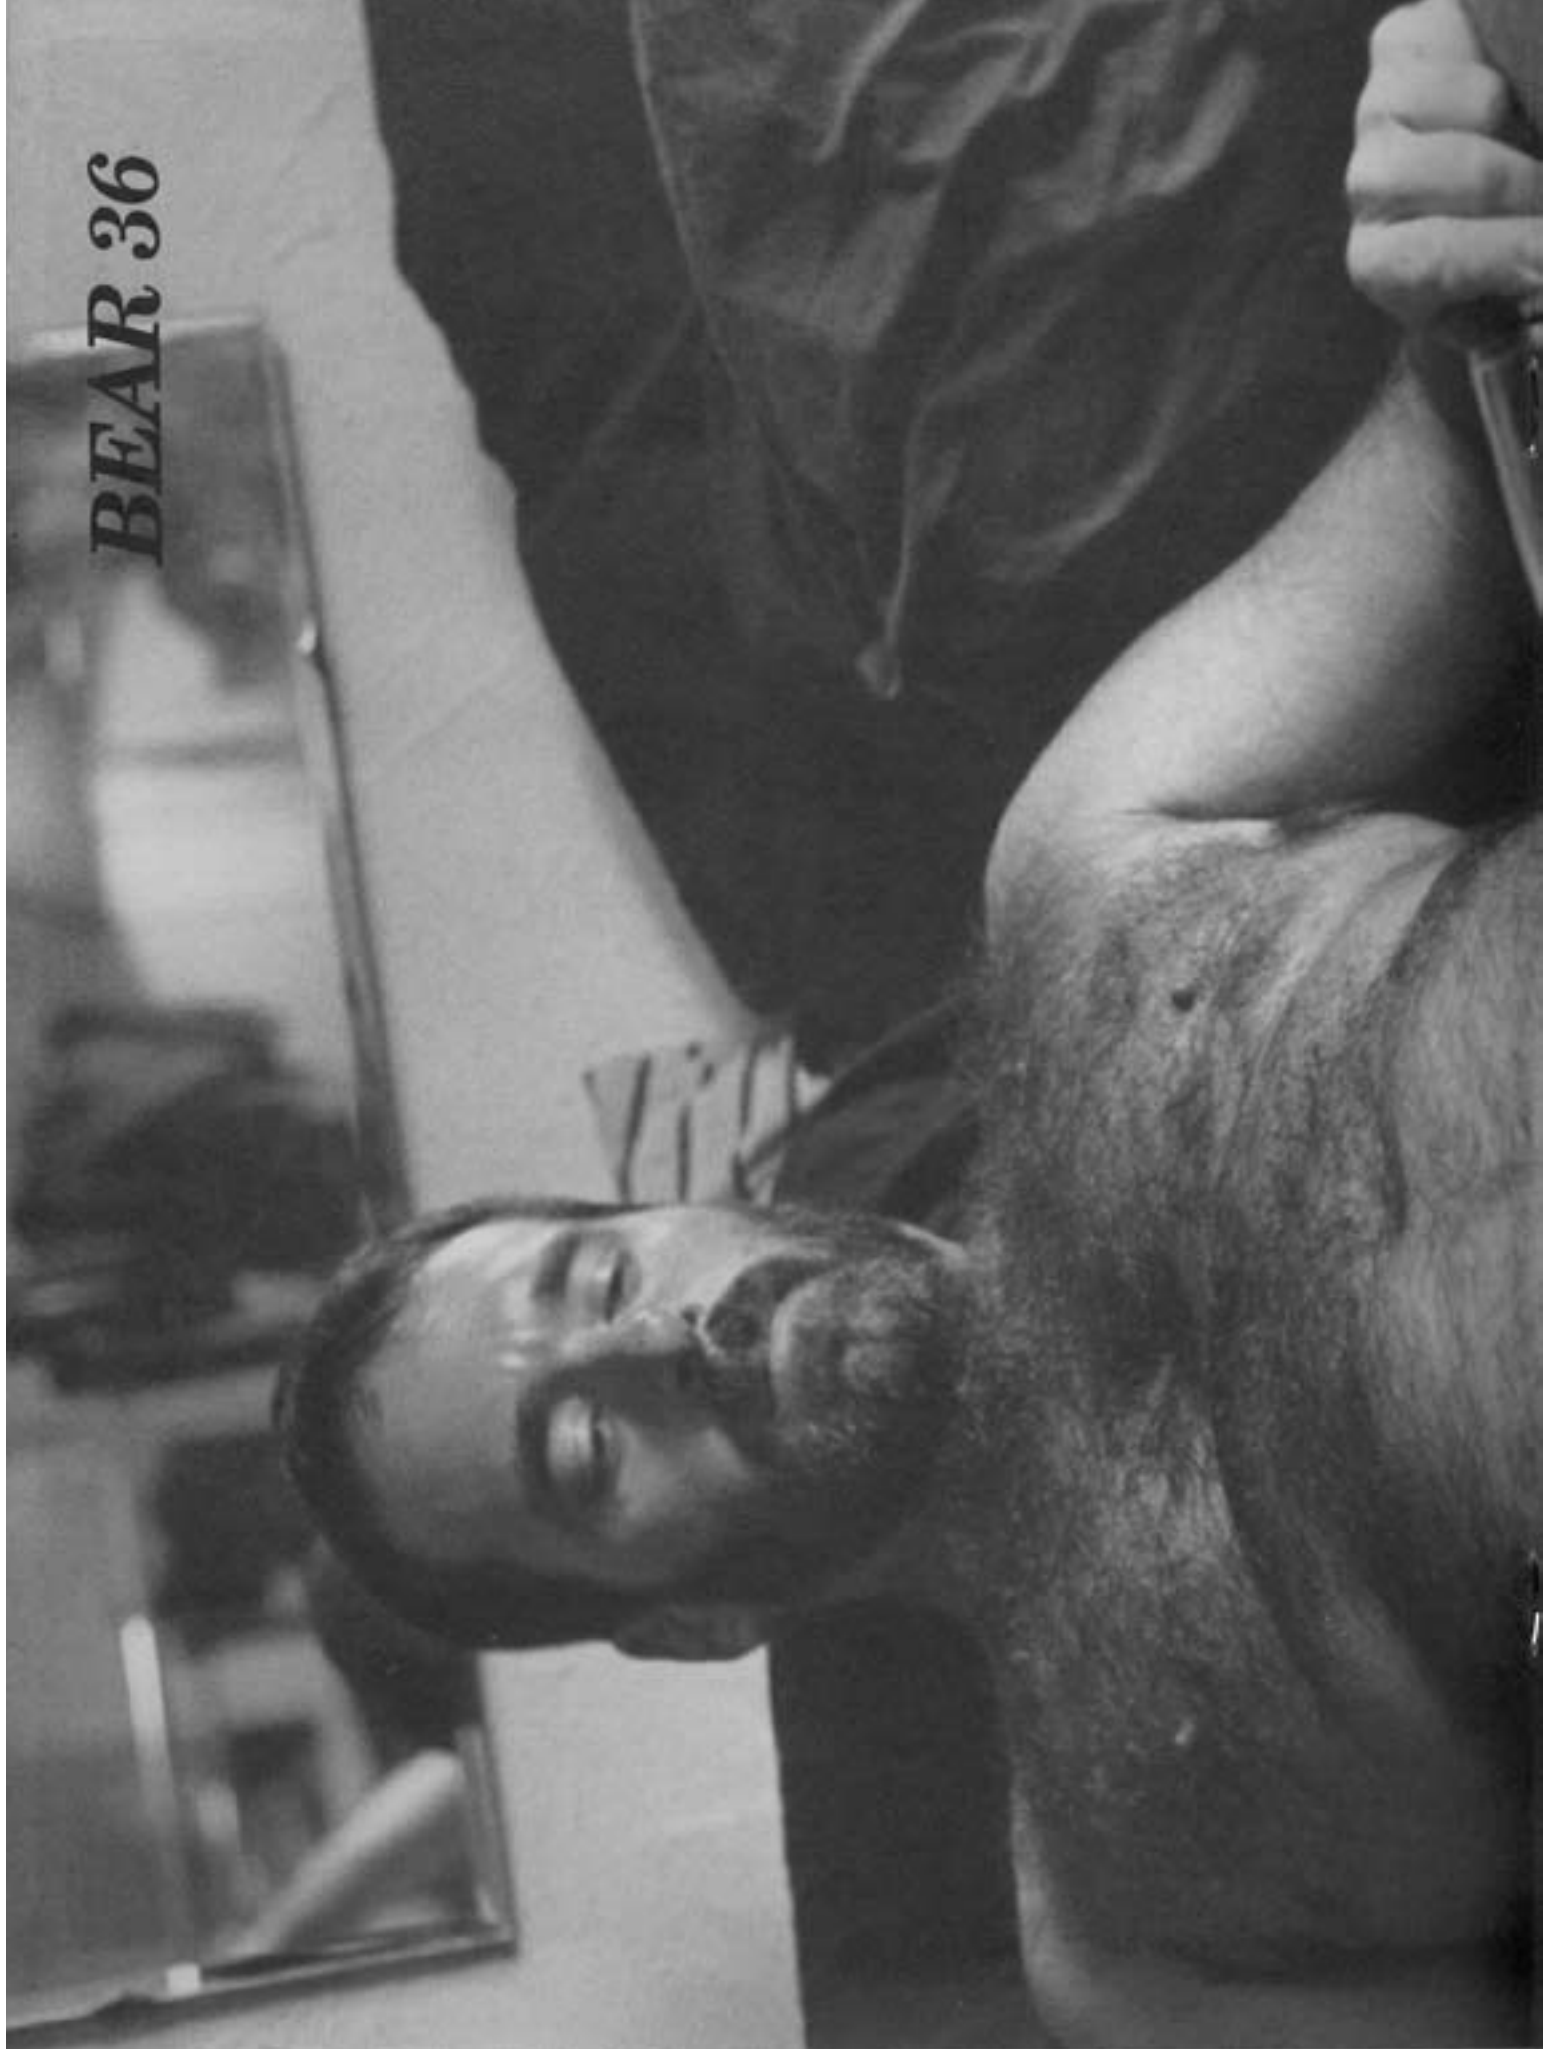

He makes his living in the architecture/design/construction business. Been doin' it for 20 years now. Claims his massage talents can help heal what's ailing you. And when he's done, maybe he'll let you play with his erector set.

Born again, Spirit-filled gay Christian couple seeks penpals and prayer partners. Let's tear down the stronghold of bigotry in the Church and spread the good news of Jesus in our community through witness and prayer. We are active in the Episcopal Church. Please write John and Peter, 4728 Spruce #411, Philadelphia, PA 19139. God Bless! (40) ☎ 2770

Mountain man, 41, 6'1", 180, fit, bl/beard, HIV-, masculine with a quick sense of humor. ISO bear buddies or preferably a life companion to help satiate my only addiction: the outdoors. I'll take a two-man tent and campfire over a smoky disco any day. I enjoy traveling, outdoor sports, beards and jeans, cuddling and CW to new age. You: a bear who's equally addicted, healthy, non-smoker, "together." Blue collars a plus. Age, race and sexual prowess not important, what's between your ears and in your heart is. We can just be friends or see where our outdoor adventures take us. Your pic gets mine. Write DSJ, RD 2 Box 185b, Spruce Peak Rd., Acme, PA 15610-9314. No voicemail. (45) ☎ 6786

Masc, aggressive, 27 years old, 5'5", 150 lbs., bearded bottom seeks hung, bearded, extremely hairy, non smoking top man who enjoys classical music, foreign languages, gourmet food, movies, travel, bicycling, and bridge to worship, eat bite and violently fuck my beautiful, insatiable ass and torture my nipples and balls. Get Your Dick Out

BEAR models come from the same place you did. They were in bed, whacking off, looking at this very mag. And suddenly, they started to get an idea.... Chances are, you've got your dick out right now. Nice to see the real you there, fella. If the idea of people looking at you naked makes your hole twitch, we want you. Send us pictures. You might become famous, and get all the sex you want.

The following information is necessary for all people photographed in BEAR.

Complete this form and send it with your photographs, along with a photocopy of your picture ID. Put your name, signature and phone number on the back of every gawd-damn picture you send us. We don't have time to match pricks as much as we want.

Voicemail Tips

Our BEAR Voicemail system is designed to give you immediate access to new friends, true love, or just a real good fuck. It works. Here are a few suggestions to speed your chances of success:

- Press buttons slowly and firmly.
- If you think you made the wrong choice, hit the star key to get back to the Main Menu.
- Messages stay in the system for two weeks.
- Use Option 3 to set up another mailbox or to leave your phone number on the bulletin board. Always use area codes to catch guys in your neighborhood.

If you have a BEAR ad...

When dialing in for the first time, you must already have your passcode from us. Once at the Voicemail Main Menu, immediately hit the star key to collect your mail. You do not need to set up a new voicemail box (Option 3). We've already done that for you.

Fairy Tales: Traditional Stories Retold for Gay Men

by Peter Cashorali

HarperSan Francisco, $18

Reviewed by Leif Wauters

Remember childhood, when fantasy was encouraged with myths, science fiction, and the traditional fairy tales of Mother Goose, The Brothers Grimm, Hans Christian Anderson, and others? I used to read tales of princes, damsels, and heroes thinking there must have been some truth in what I read. That thought has become truer this year with the release of a book by Peter Cashorali called Fairy Tales: Traditional Stories Retold for Gay Men.

Based on fables and teachings passed down over hundreds of years, seemingly every lesson encountered by gay men today is presented with a little gender-switching and a few contemporary twists. The maidens of the past are now fair boys drawn to floral arranging, attracting the disdain and pity of their traditionally hypermasculine fathers. Dashing men discover their true beauty after casting off a pall of ignorance laid on them by family and community, and they find love in the arms of another lad traveling the same road of spiritual growth.

As I traveled with a hairdresser and a bodybuilder on the quest for fame and wealth in "The Companions," or as I watched a shoe-wearing, talking dog play matchmaker between his destitute master and the aloof prince in "Penny Loafers," I found myself laughing at the outrageous similarities to the affected lives many within our community lead. These and other tales had all the uproarious dialogue of a gay stand-up comedy routine.

I matured with the "Ugly Duckling" as he discovered that the beauty and strength he had envied in the swan also shone from within him as he cared for a dying companion. I felt pride for "The Man Who Was Lovers with a Pigeon" when great wealth was bestowed upon him because the true love he and the pigeon shared—despite his initial shame in dating a bird—was stronger than love based on appearances and status. I was nearly brought to tears by the stories of growing pains recounted in brief, yet poignant, essays such as these.

It takes life experience not to brush these stories aside as mere attempts at fiction. Rooted in words of wisdom handed down to protect and teach the young about life, Fairy Tales wonderfully depicts the woes and oddities we slowly and fearfully become aware of in our small gay world.

Whenever I immersed myself in fairy tales as a child, it was a fantastic escape always culminating in the inevitable happy ending. Peter Cashorali has retained this same wonderful attribute in his Fairy Tales. Through careful literary reconstruction, he has taken the happy endings—traditionally saved for maidens and their heroes—and given them to gay men. Peter Cashorali does justice to the hearts of our founding fable writers. My only regret is that I didn't catch the morals in the original fables of my youth. I'm glad it's never too late to learn. B

FRANK

Frank wandered into the BEAR Store one day askin' what it takes to get in the magazine. He had a raw sexuality about him and the hint of something nasty lurking underneath the surface. Qualities we admire in a man. Said he was on his way back home to Hamburg, Germany, the next day, so we had to act quick. We had a photographer there that afternoon.

Frank got away before we could confirm our suspicions, but the way he opened up for the camera suggests he's a wild ride. Good chance we'll see Frank again, though; he's a flight attendant in Germany and makes his way to San Francisco pretty often.

TRUCKSTOP

by Wayne Daniels

It's 2 a.m., and sleep is the farthest thing from my mind. Traffic is almost non-existent as I make my way through Georgia on my way to Gainesville. I sure could use a cup of coffee. Well, to be completely honest, I could really use a hot trucker.

I drive on about another 30 minutes, and what do I see ahead but a large, orange sign flashing into the night for anyone who'll bother to look. It's a poorly tended sign alerting me of my proximity to MAXINE'S COFFEE & TRUCKSTOP.

The offramp is well-lit, and the parking lot is practically empty except for two rigs with trailers, a lone tractor with sleeper, a moving van, and a small delivery truck from what appears to be a local flower shop, parked right behind one of the two rigs. My crotch gets suspicious as I notice they happen to be parked at the farthest and darkest corner of the lot. I slide my convertible around the far side, where I'll be the least visible from the highway and the diner.

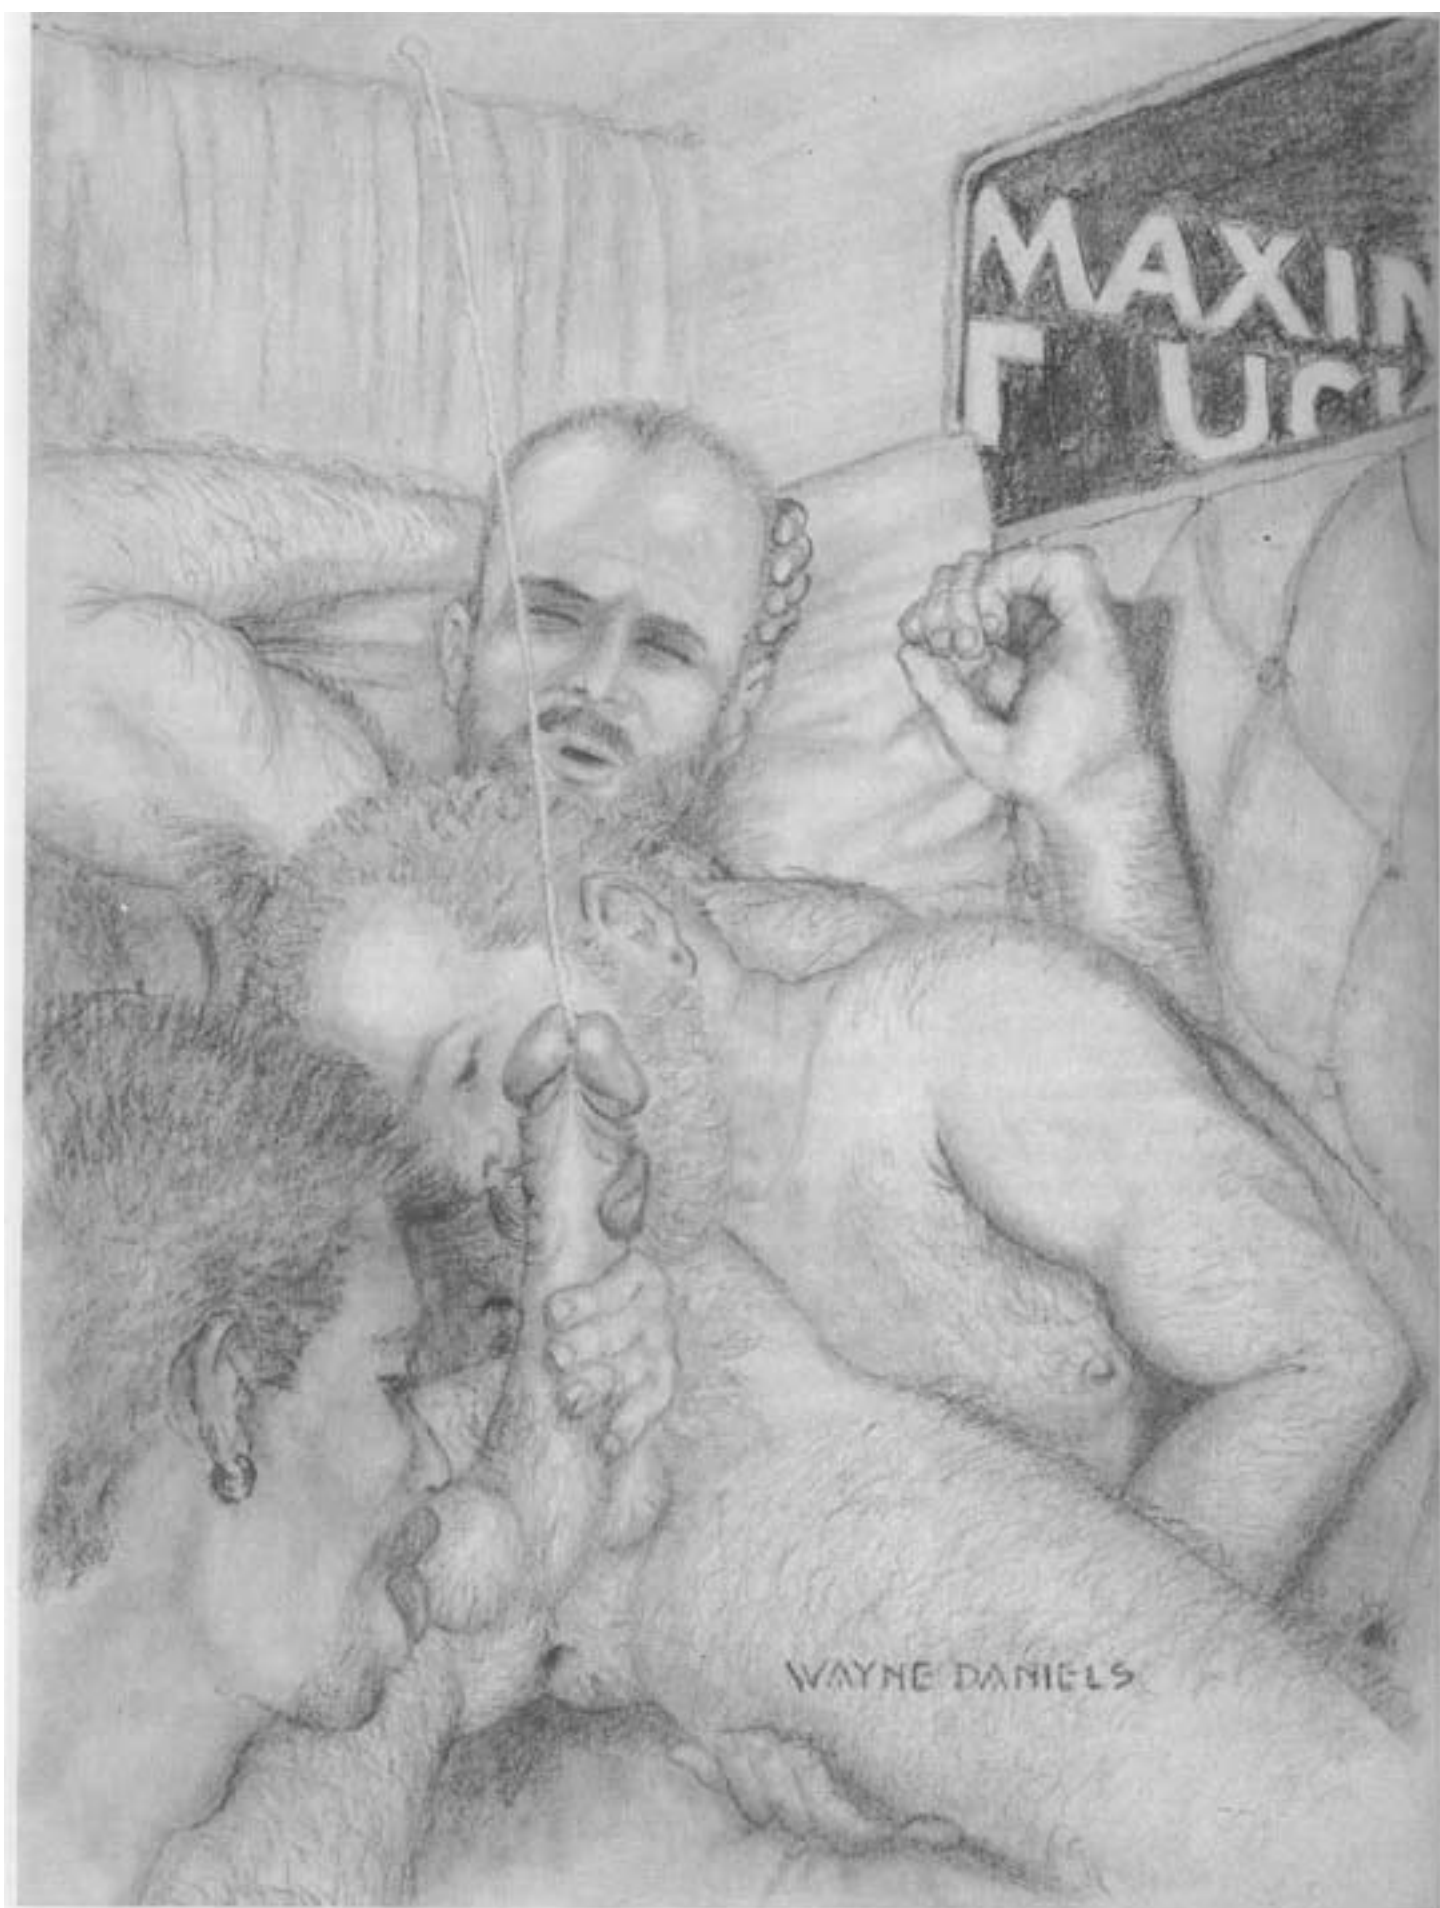

All seems to be quiet in the cab. I walk around the front to get a look-see through the windshield. I'm just in time to see the face of a youngster of about 21 peeking through the curtain behind the seats. He quickly disappears from view. I get a foot up and latch onto the grab bar, hauling myself up the side of the truck. The window's open so I quietly ask if someone needs some service. A squeaky "no" drifts out from behind the curtain. That ain't no trucker voice, so I decide to see for myself if he'd like to speak up, right to my face.

In seconds flat, I'm through the door with my head through the curtain. Spread invitingly before my eyes is a very hot trucker and a very, very annoyed youngster. The trucker looks my way and gives a wink, laying his head back on his hands. His sleeves are rolled up tight on his well-muscled, extremely hairy arms and his shirt is open revealing an equally hairy chest, hard button nipples, a slight beer gut and a deep, inviting belly button.

The kid had the trucker's belt and 501s open and was working on getting his cock out of the puckered hole of his boxers. That man was anything but hard. The poor kid obviously needed some help exciting this stud. I yanked off my tank top and went to work. I started off by whispering into the trucker's ear that all he had to do was lay back and leave the rest to us. He was about to enjoy the finest service job he'd ever had.

He smelled hot and sweaty, which really got me into what I had to do. His moustache was thick and soft and deep red. I slid my tongue into his hot, flaring nostrils, licked his moustache and thick soft lips, nibbled lightly on his stubbly, deeply clefted chin and worked my way down his salty, warm neck to his nipples. They felt like hot, rubber bullets between my teeth. With his arms raised above his head, it was easy to get into his hot, sweaty pits. They were salty and full of long silky hair. I was getting so dizzy from the taste and smell of this truck driving "With his arms raised above his head, it was easy to get into his hot, sweaty pits. I was getting dizzy from the taste and smell of this truck driving stallion."

"The brown, hairy hole was swollen and ready, opening and closing, pushing out at my eager friend, its owner groaning, begging to be eaten."

stallion before me that I almost forgot the kid at his crotch.

Working my way across his belly to his crotch, I slipped my tongue into his hot navel along the way. He just lay there sighing as I made my way south. The kid couldn't get the dude's pants down and was obviously frustrated from wanting that cock. I decided since he had been here first, I was going to let him have some fun. He was kinda cute himself, in a too-young-for-me kinda way, and the look in his eyes just made me have to kiss his hungry lips as I whispered instructions to him. I assured him that he was going to be real glad I'd come along. Together, we helped the trucker lift his hairy ass off the bunk and pulled his pants down to his ankles. The kid tugged off his heavy work shoes, then pulled the jeans and boxers off completely. There he was. The sleeping snake that we were soon to awaken. It was long and thick and lay across his left thigh, its large, bulbous head hidden beneath a cover of thick foreskin.

My little eager beaver attempted to dive on it. I caught him by the hair and told him to take it easy and slow. I hefted the huge, hairy ballsac in my hand and brought my young friend's face in close, telling him to smell first. He groaned as I smeared those balls around his nose. I let him lick them slowly and fed them to him one at a time. After they were both good and slick, I grabbed a mouthful of hairy scrotum myself and sucked the whole works into my mouth. Our trucker let out a groan of pleasure, grinding his crotch into my face.

By this time, the once sleeping cock was bone-hard and lying flat on his belly, covering his deep belly button. Lifting it from its resting place, I peeled back the foreskin revealing a gigantic swollen purple head with a gaping piss-hole as big around as a pencil. Milking it from the base, I brought up a large, clear gob of salty goo for the youngster to taste, allowing his tongue to touch the juice, not the cock.

Slowly, we both nipped lightly up and down the length of his shaft, pulling the skin down and taking turns chewing on it. The trucker was heaving himself up off the bunk, trying to slide the whole thing into someone's mouth. Anyone's mouth. I could tell he was already close, and we hadn't even stroked him.

I eased his legs up and back, spreading his round, furry ass before the delighted eyes of my young assistant. It was almost too much for me to take, but I held back. The brown, hairy hole was swollen and ready, opening and closing, pushing out at my eager friend, its owner groaning, begging to be eaten. We brought our noses together at the hot hole, sniffing the manly aroma. The kid was half crazy for that ass.

After a few minutes of just sniffing and nipping lightly at the swollen ring of puckered assmeat, I finally allowed the boy to swirl his tongue as deep into the man as possible. The moan that slid from the hairy stud's mouth told me our teasing had paid off. After a couple of minutes, I pulled the kid off, and dove down myself, slathering my tongue up and down the entire length of his furry, salty crack from his spine to his balls.

“Our hairy trucker bear was sighing contentedly, ready for hibernation as the boy and I quietly lowered ourselves from the cab to the moonlit pavement.”

This burly man had just about had all he could stand, so I decided it was time for his well-deserved ejaculation.

Moving the boy far enough out of the way to allow complete control of the situation, I told him to get ready for my instructions. Slowly, I peeled the skin back, revealing, once again, that angry head and yawning dickmouth.

Thick, clear puddles of precum lay on his belly, filling his navel where his cock had belched it as we dined on his hairy shithole. A huge, crystal drool of his salty sap pulsed out of the pisshole and joined the thick string already connecting his hairy belly with the distended, bulbous head of his cock. After all our ministrations to his manly crotch, his prick had not been licked or sucked.

I first took a huge mouthful of his thick, bristly bush, sucking the salty sap that had collected there from his oozing dick. Then with one deep lunge, I swallowed the entire 9-inch hose all the way to the balls. He gasped and shivered all over, grunting and whimpering incoherently as I ground my throat down on the head. The kid hungrily ate his balls and licked the shaft as I moved up to the head.

I knew I couldn't hold him back much longer, so I held that huge pecker straight up, pulled the skin back taut and brought my hungry sidekick in for the finish. I had him swirl his tongue slowly just under the head. Without even stroking his thick, pulsating cock, I could see our burly bear was about to erupt. A moan began to develop deep in his chest and grew louder by the moment until it became an animal howl. The head of his dick darkened to a deep purple and swelled to distended enormity as our young friend continued slowly to worry the tender folds of skin beneath it with his hot, slippery tongue. Suddenly, with great force, a tremendous, gooey rope of sperm jetted straight out of the screaming pisshole followed convulsively by four more spurts, each of them hitting the roof of the sleeper, then hanging in long, lazily swinging jizz ropes before falling back onto the burly man's chest. As the trucker whined softly, six more spurts of scalding sperm belched out and onto the furry chest below, followed by several more gurgles of hot slimy jizz that simply poured from the pisshole, over the plum-shaped head, down the shaft and into his thick pubic bush. As the man's thick organ pulsed slowly back to rest, my young friend and I licked every drop our tongues could reach, eating and sucking mouthfuls of sticky fur. Our hairy trucker bear was sighing contentedly, ready for hibernation as the boy and I quietly lowered ourselves from the cab to the moonlit pavement.

There, surrounding us, were four more truckers who had apparently heard the tortured cries of the bear we had just eaten. As they moved in, the kid and I looked at each other, licked our lips and dropped to our knees.

What the hell. At least this time I didn't have to show him what to do, and, best of all, I wouldn't have to share. I could be generous. One for him. Three for me. Sounded fair to me...

The Sounds That Animals Make

Music News
by Larry Flick

Life as a music journalist. You might think that such a gig would be fraught with all the glamour, champagne, and hunky men you can consume. Think again, buddies. On any given evening, you spend countless hours chasing down folks who often do not wish to be caught. Oh, and that big, burly bodyguard you've been eyeing all night long is more often than not eyeing some B-cup girlie while you salivate. Thank goodness for the husbears who keep the home fires burning when you finally do land a star or two. Here are some random notes and gossip from a recent evening on the town:

Sometime-Wilson Phillips songbird Chynna Phillips has barely recovered from her recent European honeymoon with mouth-watering actor William Baldwin, and she is on her way back there to promote her new EMI Records release, Naked and Sacred. Chynna chirps, as she nestles her head in hubby's oh-so-hairy chest.

In between signing autographs for kids backstage at a recent New York gig, rapper Coolio said the increased youth attention he has received as a result of his No. 1 smash "Gansta's Paradise" is a "good feeling, but scary enough to make me watch how I act and speak in public." He said it also drives him to write songs like his new Tommy Boy single, the safe-sex anthem "Too Hot." "I'm not trying to save the world," he says, "because I know I can't.

But if I can reach a few people, then I've done something right." Ironically, he added that the label initially found the song too serious. "They wanted something more fun to go with the Kool and the Gang 'Too Hot' hook, but this is how the music spoke to me, so that is how it stood." Good man, that Coolio.

En Vogue singer Terry Ellis, who is currently promoting her EastWest solo debut Southern Gal, held a firm smile as she was regaled backstage at the same with constant questions regarding the future of the million-selling group. "We are very much still together," she said, noting that the act will record again toward the end of the next year. "It was always part of the plan for each of us to do solo stuff, too. It's been tough, though, being the first one to do it. Going from being one of four to being alone in the studio was kind of scary."

Meanwhile, Latin hero Jon Secada

has barely taken a moment to recover from his three-month stint as Danny Zuko in the Broadway revival of Grease, an experience he describes as a memorable lesson in discipline. Despite a pile of offers, future acting roles will have to wait, though, since the singer plans to spend much of '96 cutting a new pop album for autumn release.

Finally, the oh-so-adorable Brandy says she is still pinching herself over her good fortune last year. "I never even thought I was going to be on the charts, much less have so many hits," she says, citing a year that included a world tour with Boyz II Men and the massive Top-10 hits "I Wanna Be Down," "Baby," and "Brokenhearted." The 16-year-old singer said one of her more daunting moments came when she was asked to record Michael Jackson's classic "Rock With You" for Quincy Jones current Q's Jook Joint opus. "It was kinda scary at first. But it turned out to be a lot of fun. Now I feel like it's one of my songs, too." Brandy enters the studio in March to begin her second album, which will likely include production by Babyface, among others.

Not a bad evening, eh? And that was only Tuesday. Tune in next time to see what happened on Saturday. We think that beefy bodyguard is looking our way after all. Hmmm. @

JOE

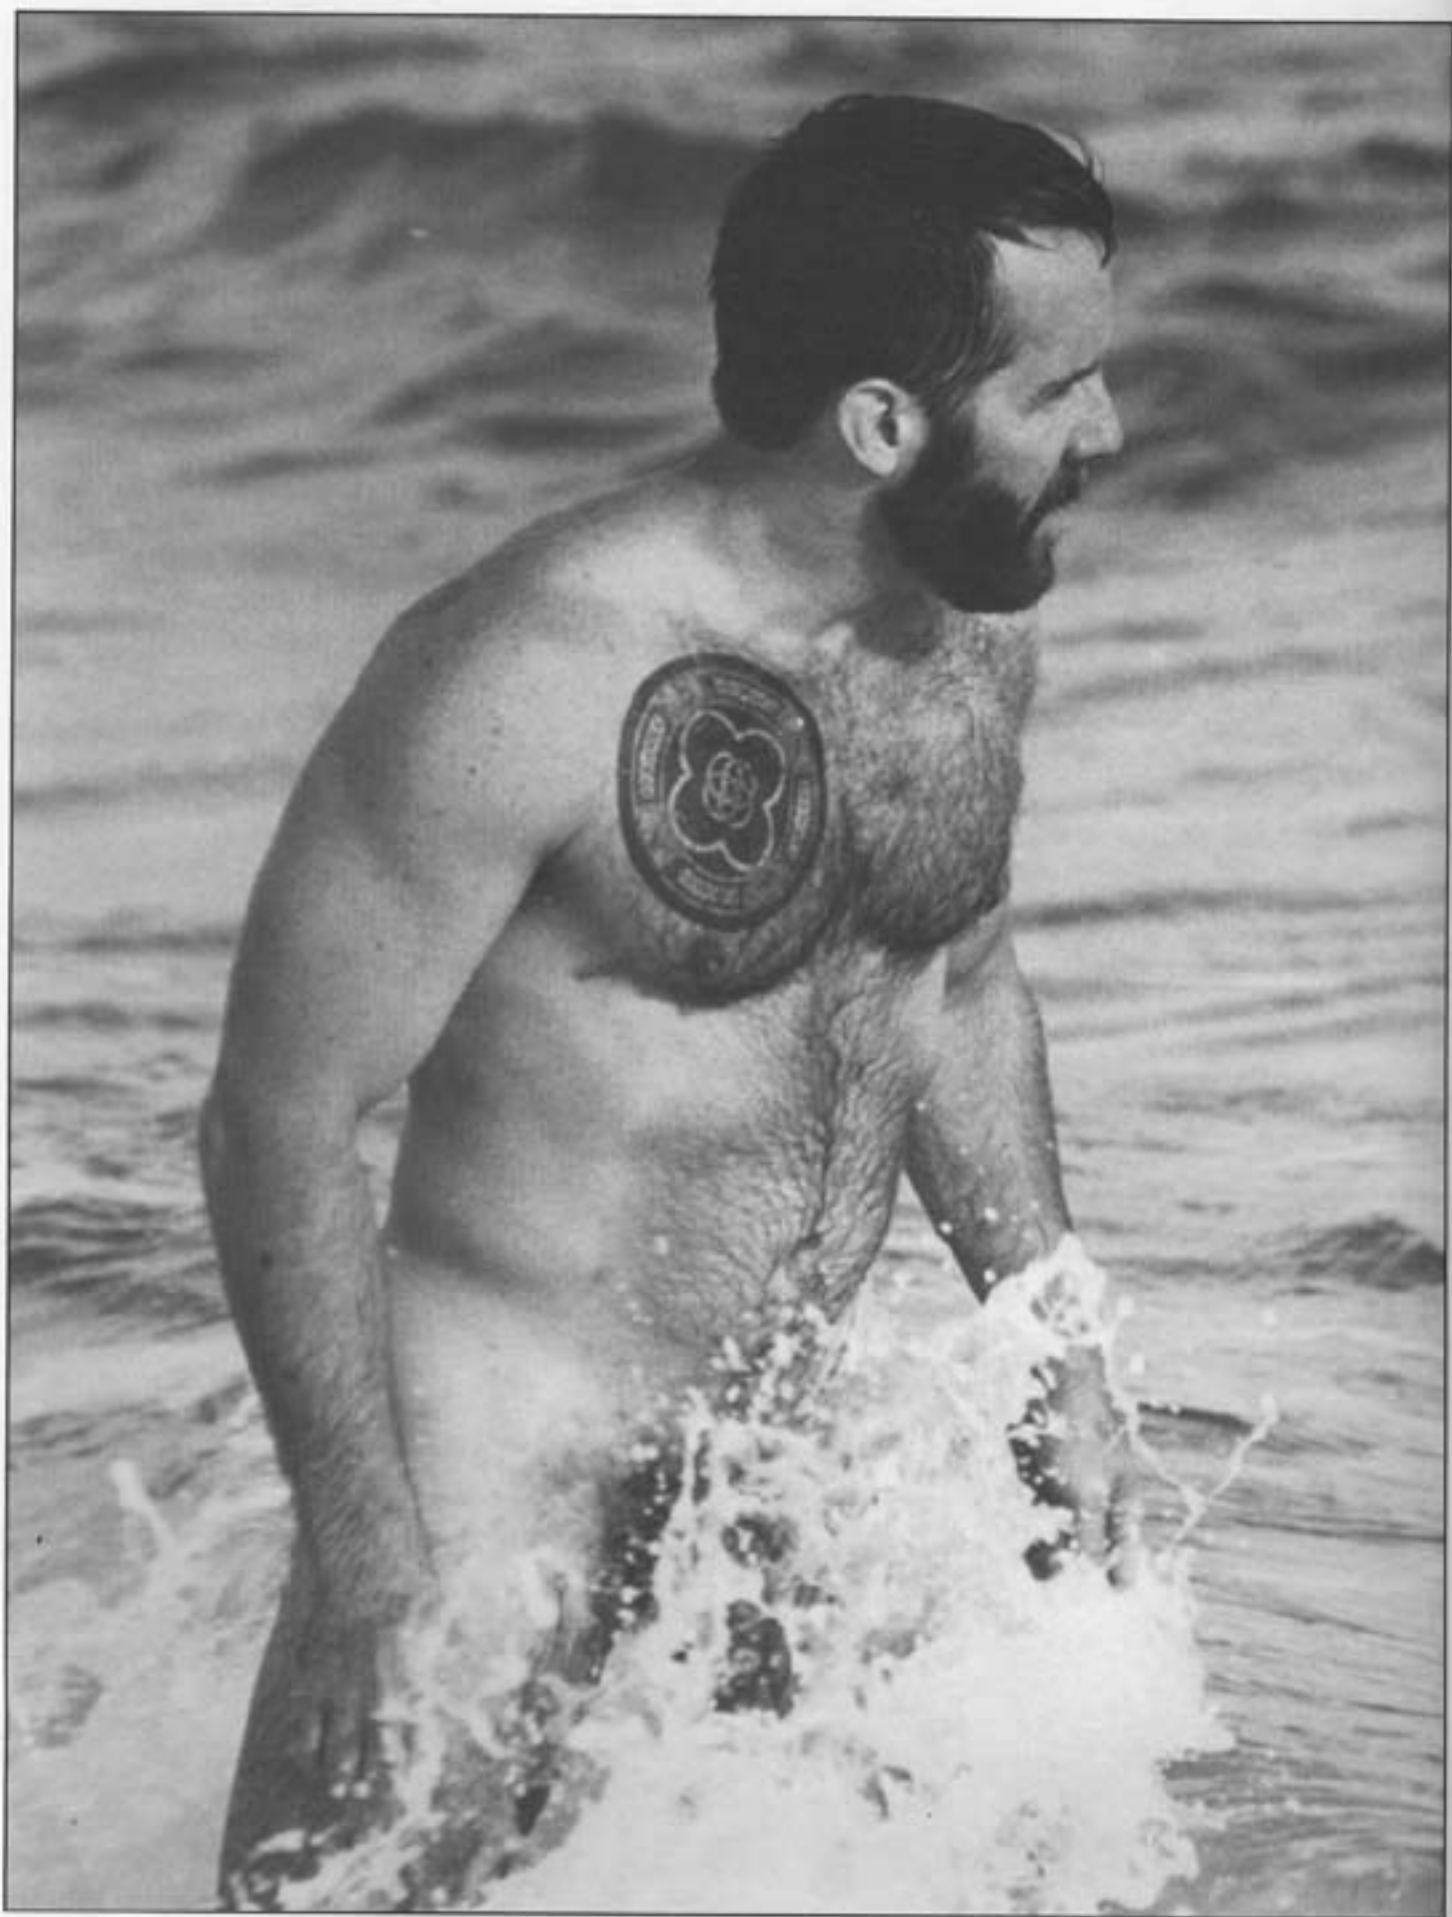

A little East Coast representation here, in the fireplug form of Joe Gallagher. Joe grew up in the Philly suburbs, but Manhattan has been his home for the past eight years. Computers are his thing. By day, he's an electronic publishing wizard; by night, he surfs the Net under the handle Bandboy—a reference to his armband tattoo.

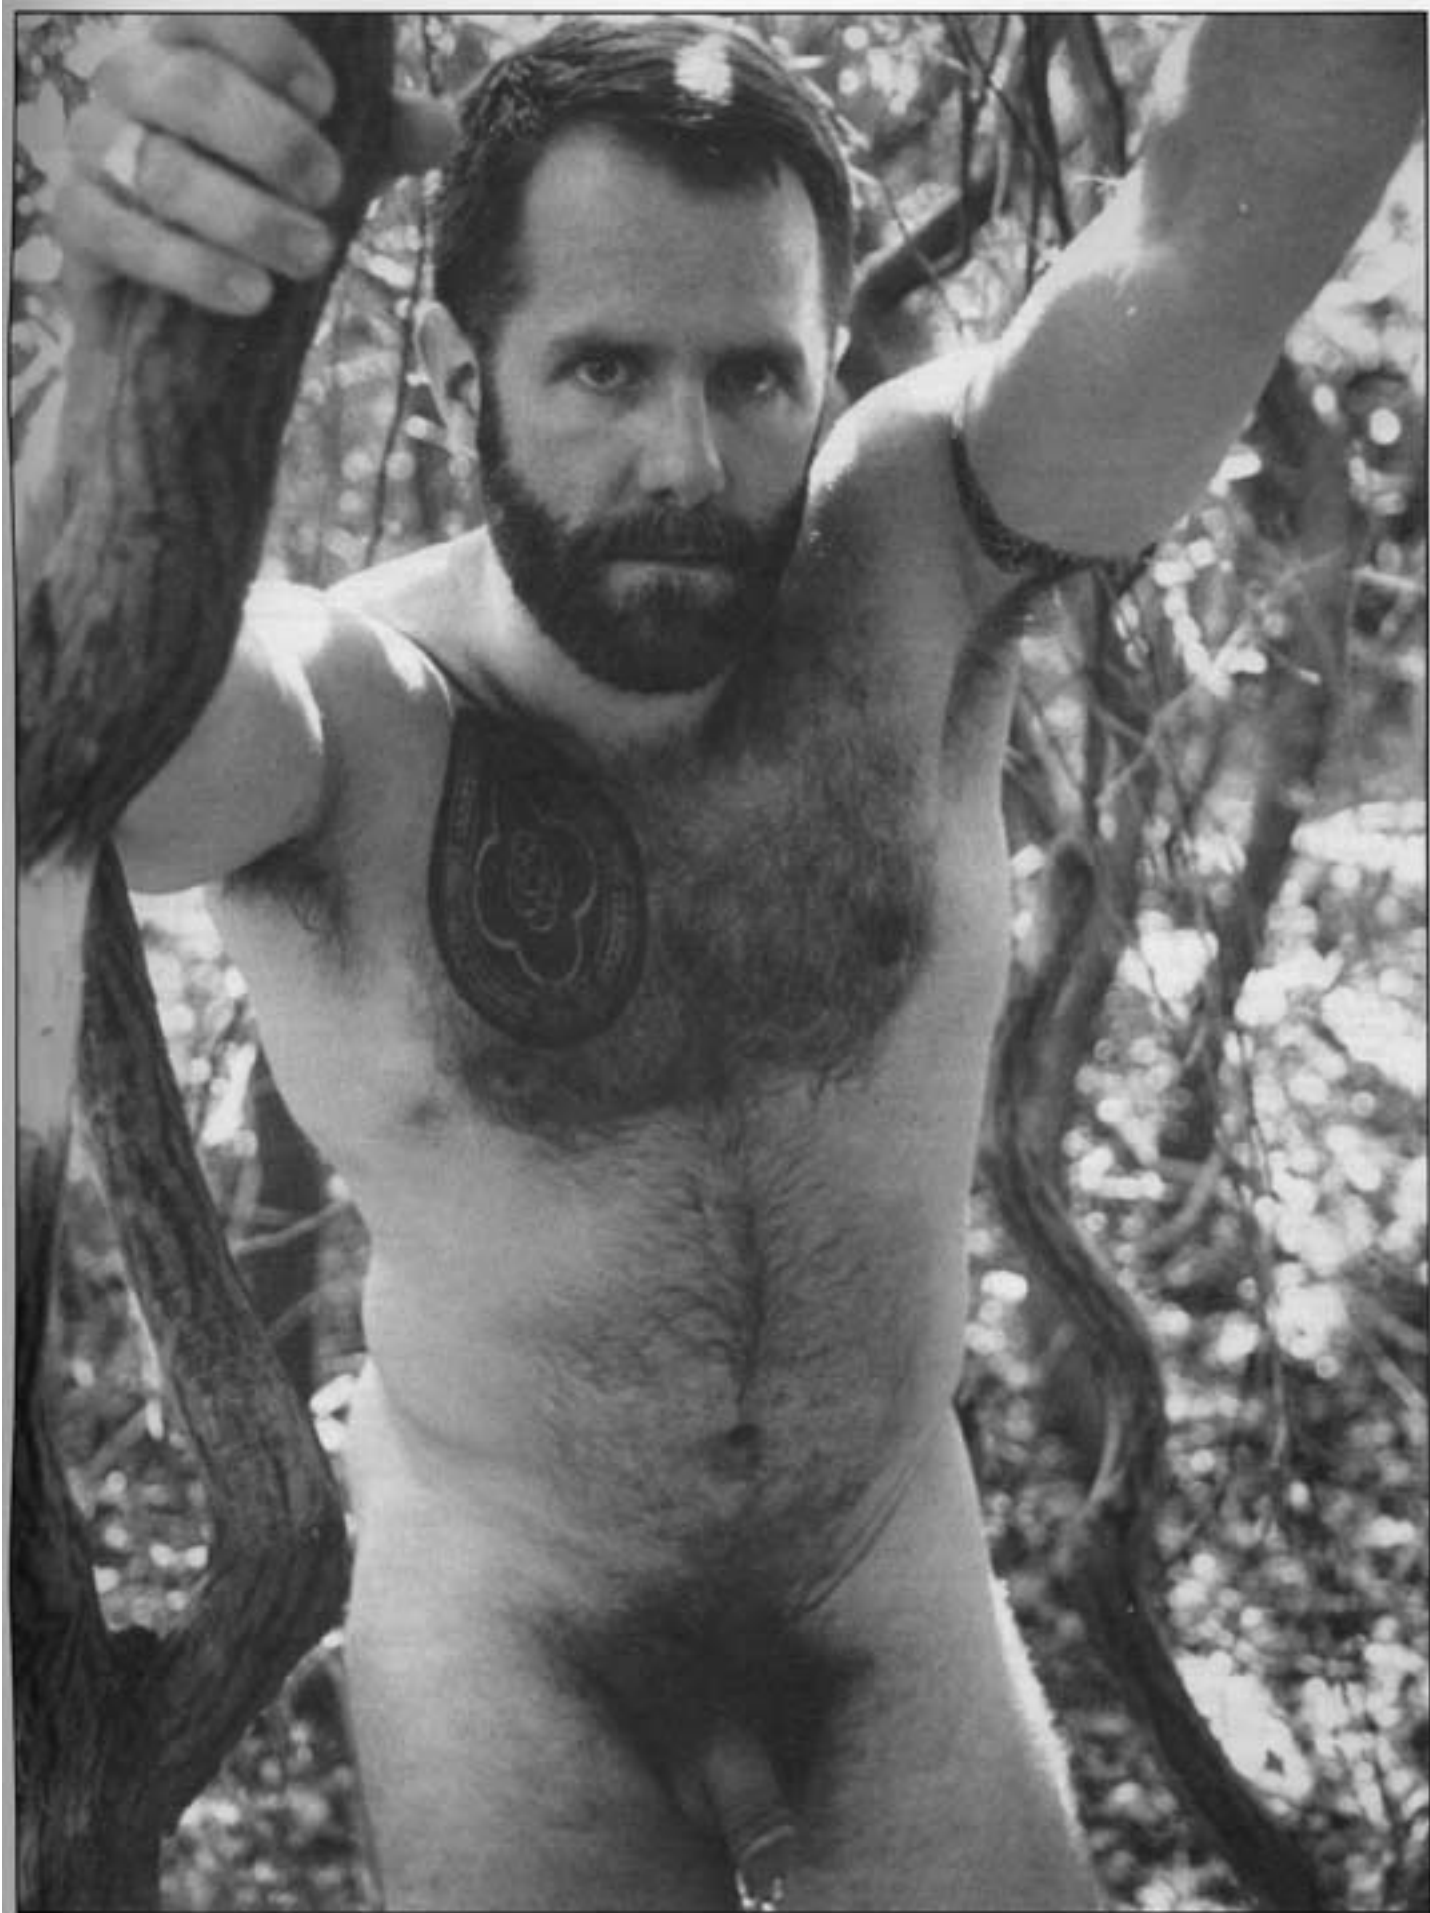

Joe likes guys with thick builds, facial hair and big dicks for wet, sweaty sex. Tats are also a big turn-on for him. He sports a Celtic shield on his chest which symbolizes magical protection. Seems that shield wasn't working the day he did this shoot on Fire Island, though. He had a run-in with an infectious tick and was sick for weeks. So if you run in to Joe at The Lure some night, make sure you let him know you appreciate his effort. This naked business can be dangerous.

Things To Do

by Rich Iremonger

February 15-19, 1996. San Francisco, California. International Bear Rendezvous. This is happening just about the time this issue hits the stands, and we've been told it's way overbooked. But it's the place to be rub hairy shoulders with bears from all over the world, so you might want to come to town anyway and show up at some of the peripheral bar events. The vendor displays at the Ramada are open to the public Saturday and Sunday. Your publishing staff will be out in full force snappin' pictures.

February 2 - March 2, 1996. Sydney, Australia. The 18th annual Gay & Lesbian Mardi Gras. It's a month-long celebration that pumps more money into the Australian economy than any other cultural event. So you're sure to be welcomed. This year, the Australian Gaymes are part of the festival as well. The big event is the parade and dance on March 2, billed as the world's largest gay and lesbian party. Who are we to argue?

March 28-31, 1996. Dallas, Texas. Texas Bear Round-Up. We still get letters about the models in our Texas issue. Go see what all the fuss is about. Contact the Dallas Bears, PO Box 190869, Dallas, TX 75219, or call 214-521-5342, ext. 88. E-mail: roundup@bear.net.

April 19-21, 1996. Seattle, Washington. Northwest Bears host Spring Thaw '96. You know those guys you've been drooling over from issue 34? This is where we found them last year. And we woulda printed more if we had space. Best experienced in the flesh. Write: Northwest Bears, 1202 E. Pike St. Suite 802, Seattle, WA 98122, or voicemail: 206-233-1003.

April 26-28, 1996. Washington D.C. Affiliated Big Men's Clubs East Coast Conference. We know you like your guys big 'cause we read your letters. So get yerself over to D.C. this spring and hang out with the big boys for a weekend of buffets and pool parties. And, now, on the count of three... everybody cannonball! Contact Girth & Mirth of Washington D.C., PO Box 4814, Falls Church, VA 22044, phone 703-440-9188.

May 23-27, 1996. Chicago, Illinois. Bear Pride '96 sponsored by the Great Lake Bears-Chicago. Every Memorial Day weekend hundreds of leathermen and bears descend on Chicago for Bear Pride and the International Mr. Leatherman contest. The testosterone leaves a slick on Lake Michigan for weeks. Write: Bear Pride, PO Box 578840, Chicago, IL 60657, or call 312-509-8172. E-mail: BP96@aol.com

June 14-17. Minnesota North Woods. Bear Camp 1996. Nels Peterson of the North Country Bears tells us they're having one hell of a big get-together in June and want to extend the invitation out to you all. Hang out in the Land of 10,000 Lakes for what sounds like a pretty cool weekend of outdoorsman camaraderie. Canoeing, hiking, bonfires, log cabins, prepared meals, Bear Olympics—the whole deal. We're talkin' the North Woods of Minnesota here, so when you're packing your protection, make sure to include Off! and calamine lotion. Contact North Country Bears (see page 74 of this issue).

Bear Bust 1995: The One and Only

by Leif Wauters
photos by Lynn Ludwig

It's hard not to notice that more and more bear groups around the country are jumping on the event bandwagon. Washington, D.C., St. Louis, Dallas and Seattle are but a few in a family of ursine hubs that want to offer their hospitality to their brothers in fur. But before any of them, back when BEAR was just a toddler, the Full Moon Saloon in Orlando, Florida, hosted the first event of its kind: the Bear Bust. This October brought the sixth year for the largest bear gathering in the world, and the Bears of Central Florida put it together as well as ever.

According to the Bear Bust committee, around 700 husky studs from across the United States and Canada signed up for the event, but sadly there wasn't enough chow provided, so the last 200 got the discount package. Oh well, between the bounty of sexy men and the home cookin' of the Black Eyed Pea down the road, I doubt anyone went hungry.

There were new additions to the festivities this year. Swimwear was modeled poolside at the Howard Johnson for men that choose not to catch their fish midstream in the buff. There was also a game in each registration package where you had to connect one of 60 specific "crimes" with one of the members of the Bear of Central Florida, although I can't say I let it distract me from the men at hand. Then, of course, there was the contest.

Ah, yes. The "Pick of the Den" contest Saturday night—emceed by Lurch, the Bears of San Francisco's entertaining bear-fatale and president—lacked the gravity of the Mr. International Bear contest, making it three hours of stripping down and coming on. All said, the seven celebearty judges found David "Mega-Beef" Woerner and Bob Caisse worthy of second terms as Mr. Grizzly and Mr. Papa Bear, respectively; Bart Cline merited the title of Mr. Cub 1995. Perhaps they'll schlep their titles to San Francisco in February for a chance to represent the world. What do you say, boys?

The weekend started with the Bear Bust making the front page of Florida's gay rag, The Watermark, and ended with a banquet at Lee's Lakeside Restaurant which coincided with a spectacular fireworks display provided by the Walt Disney Co. The pyrotechnics were for Disney's employee picnic in the park below us, although we knew they were really bidding us a fond farewell. From the eye-openers at the hotel to the late-night poolside parties, the Bears of Central Florida and the Full Moon Saloon went to the limit to keep the last major bear event of 1995 the best. Let there be a bear event every month, but none will ever be the Bear Bust.
