LETTERS TO BEAR

Will Power

I normally don't write letters to magazines, but I had to let you know what a great job you did with BEAR #35. You picked an excellent man for the cover. What a fucking hot bear! I have been buying BEAR magazine for two years, and he ranks in the top three of hot bears. Where has this bear of a real man been, and why have you waited so long to show a man of his high standards? I'm thankful you put him in issue 35 and I do hope to see more of him!

Bear, Tennessee

We approached Will almost a year before he agreed to get naked for y'all. Give him a break, though—he had a pretty busy year as Mr. International Bear and all. He'll definitely show up again, in our BEARMen '97 calendar.

Wantin' Will

Just wanted to tell you guys that now that I'm a subscriber, I get itchy waiting for the mailman a couple of weeks before each new BEAR is due to show up. Sure wish you were monthly! I really enjoyed issues 36 and 37 (Dwayne especially), but I keep going back to issue 35 to look at Will.

I just look at the cover, and the fantasies start cumming. His muscular chest and masculine belly get me rock hard. I've always wanted to find a big, macho man like Will who's a pushover when it comes to sex. He looks so submissive and obedient on the cover, like

The Wittke Wire

Important "Wittke Wire" update: Chazz Palminteri has joined Alec Baldwin and Ed Harris in "The Wittke Wire" Pantheon of Hollywood Gods. I've become such a fan of this actor/writer/director's work that I went to see the remake of Diabolique last week and then to see Faithful the very next day. I even changed the spelling of my name to Chrizz as an homage. "Chrizz"—it's sort of a cross between Chris + Chazz + Jizz, an equation I'd love to be part of.

Prolific Palminteri has made tons of movies in just a few short years in Hollywood. His swarthy Italianate looks have assured him a bounty of gangster and other bad-guy roles, and the roles have grown progressively meatier as time has gone by, often because Palminteri has written the scripts himself.

Academy Award-nominated as best supporting actor for his enthralling 1994 performance as Cheech, the Shakespeare-loving (you guessed it) gangster in Woody Allen's Bullets Over Broadway, Palminteri is a butch tough-guy with permanent five o'clock shadow and gorgeous, succulent lips. You might be saying to yourself, "With a name like Palminteri, is Chazz a hairy sex-god or what?" Good question!

Depending on the film and the role, sometimes Chazz has a delectably furry chest and other times it's heartbreakingly trimmed. In William Friedkin's Jade, for instance, Palminteri sports one of those prickly-looking new growths of chest fur that tells us: Although this chest hair has been shaved, it is definitely growing back. Look for Jade on cable, or rent it cheap; it's nowhere near as bad as the reviewers led us to believe.

Palminteri's chest sports the same trimmed-down look in Diabolique, another movie that didn't fare too well with most critics but I found to be a lot of fun. Believe me, I never thought I'd see myself typing these words: Sharon Stone is funny and believable as a seductive school teacher. Palminteri made my crotch tingle as a no-good cad of a headmaster at a boy's school I wish I had attended. Diabolique is another movie worth renting when it's released on video.

Paul Mazursky's latest film is Faithful, a talky comedy written by and starring Palminteri, and co-starring Cher, of all people. The literate script, based on a play Palminteri wrote, features him as a hit man, Cher as his prey, and Ryan O'Neal as her no-goodnik husband. This one is worth seeing because it was either filmed before Palminteri cropped the chest for Jade and Diabolique or a long time afterward. The fur is there, man, long and luxurious and jet-black on the chest and belly with some distinguished flecks of silver on the sternum. Although Cher has a hard time acting from behind tons of apparent cosmetic surgery, I found myself envious of her in the scene where she gives Palminteri a blowjob.

If you're more interested in great performances than the Palminteri fur factor (and I guess there's a possibility that someone reading this might fall into that category), look for the previously mentioned Bullets Over Broadway; there are no shirtless scenes, but Palminteri is sexy as hell nonetheless. Also, check out A Bronx Tale from 1993, which was Robert DeNiro's directorial debut of another film based on a Palminteri play. It features the playwright in the pivotal role of Sonny, and he's very hot in it.

he's just daring me to top him. There he is on the inside centerfold waiting for me on his knees with a boyish pout and manly physique. He finally surrenders and offers me his asshole in the final pages. In my fantasy I have him pinned and plowed for hours!

R.P., New Jersey

Inspiring fantasies is what we aim to do. I just love it when you guys share your nasty thoughts with us.

Chasin' Jason

I just received BEAR 36 which is without a doubt the best issue yet. Todd and Joe are two of the hottest men on your side of the water, and the prospect of Bubba Bear to come is something else. But the cherry on the cake is Jason. Tell him he's a marked man and the next time I'm in San Francisco, I'm gonna hunt that bear down.

Enough of the backslapping—my problem is that your stuff isn't all getting through! I've not had issue 35 at all. I ordered four back issues which didn't arrive (BEAR 17, 18, Powerplay 4, 5). Any chance they weren't sent, or do you think it's the post? Maybe customs is a problem.

The enclosed photo is me in San Francisco. We've got some A-1 bear stock here in the U.K., but to me the origin of the species and the prize specimens are in your neck of the woods. I'll just have to make my way over again and grab myself one. Keep Jason preoccupied until I get there. (I'm not sure how, but you'll think of something!)

D.W.T., England

I hate hearing that you guys are having problems with your overseas orders, but we want to know about it just the same. Yeah, we coulda screwed up your order, but all our (urgh!) paperwork indicates it was sent. So we shipped your back issues again, along with a letter sent separately. If you get the letter and not the package then it is the post or customs.

*England and Canada are two of the toughest places to get tasteful publications such as ours through customs, and some of the nasty shit we publish in Powerplay really pushes the limits. Just to let the customs folks know how we feel about these things, I enclosed Gershon Legman's quote, used in this year's BEAR calendar, in your package-o-smut. It reads: "Murder is a crime. Describing murder is not. Sex is not a crime. Describing sex is." Kinda puts it all in perspective.*

On a lighter note, I passed on your letter and (very handsome) photo to Jason last time he was in the shop. You want me to keep him preoccupied until your next visit? That's kinda like the wolf guarding the hen house, but if you say so...

Hypnotized

I wanted to drop you a line and tell you how much I enjoy your magazine. Your style is conversational and personal. It's like a group of guys getting together

By Chrizz Wittke

Palmineri also had a featured role in the critically lauded The Usual Suspects, which is the film that brought my burgeoning crush to a full-blown boil. He is also in the gangster film, Mulholland Falls, which features an ensemble of other actors I didn't pay any attention to when I saw the preview. At some point in 1996, he'll make his debut as a film director with Dante and the Debutante (with yet another script he wrote).

I have yet to see Palmineri's work in The Perez Family because I couldn't overcome my antipathy toward the very idea of Marisa Tomei playing a Latina woman. Nor have I seen John Landis' 1992 movie Innocent Blood, in which Palmineri had a featured role. Given that Innocent Blood stars Anthony LaPaglia, another butch favorite, I will do my best to see it and report back to you soon.

When Robert Rodriguez's film From Dusk Till Dawn was released earlier this year, I couldn't imagine seeing it, let alone loving it. If you can get beyond all of the George-Clooney-from-E.R.-on-the-big-screen hype and the fact that Quentin Tarantino co-stars (I know this is asking a lot), it's well-worth seeing. It's a cross between the most violent road-movie you can imagine and the goriest zombiefest of your worst nightmares.

As if that's not good enough, it also features celluloid sex-gods Harvey Keitel, Fred Williamson and John Saxon; all three of them were major masturbatory fantasies of my late adolescence. But the big surprise in From Dusk Till Dawn is the screen presence of makeup and special-effects artist Tom Savini. He plays a lowdown, scumbag biker named Sex Machine and he's butch as hell with a goatee that would tickle the peter in a most amusing way. I give the film two balls up.

Last issue, I promised you a report from my first forays into cyberspace, and here it is: The very first time I punched some words into the Yahoo search engine that locates topics on the World Wide Web, I typed, "hairy chested men." Imagine my surprise to find that dozens and dozens of listings popped up.

My first stop was a site called The Hairy Chest Page, and I recommend it highly to all cybersexplorers. Curated by a Mr. K.C., The Hairy Chest Page has everything a "Wittke Wire" fan could hope for: a featured hairy chest of the week, hairy chest and body photospreads and archives, a "fur on film" section that's even more meticulous and obsessive than "The Wittke Wire" (if you can imagine that), as well as a "furry porno boy" section and lots more. You can access The Hairy Chest Page at the following URL:

<http://www.creative.net/~hpc/>

Another worthwhile stop is the Skepsis site curated by a Mr. B.D., which has lots of resources and links and great big sections devoted to the whole bear phenom. You can get to the bear resources at the following URL:

<http://www.skepsis.com/gblo/bears/index.html>

Both of these sites have links that will jump you to lots of other bearish locations. That's when things really start to get fun. Who knows? There's always the possibility that you'll find photos of Chazz Palmineri that'll make you want to change your name too. ☺ to throw the bull. You really outdid yourself with issue 36. Coverman Todd made my knees go weak. And when I saw the rest of him I couldn't stop staring. Your man in the surf, Joe Gallagher, is excep-

EP, Namibia

Namibian Nuts

Hi Chaps! Thanks for BEAR 33! Here's another $29. Rush me a copy of the '96 BEAR calendar and a copy of your latest filthy rag. I trust you with my money, it's too much of a hassle to get a money order—these fuckers wanna know everything.

I like the ideas of the new guys! Aim high and let's see you moving to South Africa! There's a big market here. Cheers.

EP, Namibia

Our aim remains squarely below the belt, thank you. Send more pictures.

Holey Letdown, Buttman!

As a longtime subscriber to BEAR and fan of your BEAR videos, I'm sorry to tell you that, as far as this bear aficionado is concerned, your newest Classic BEAR video is a gigantic disappointment.

You've got to know that ass and butthole-worship is an integral part of our scene—and that's why we support your magazine and products, because we enjoy looking at and fantasizing about asses and buttholes. So, where are they in Classic BEAR? Are all your videos going to be mainstream suck and fuck from now on?

R.C., Massachusetts

"Our scene?" "We enjoy?" Let's back up a minute, fella. Do you mean to tell me you speak for the sexual tastes of every BEAR reader? You must know something I haven't been able to figure out yet. For every picture, story, video, etc. we produce, I get letters of both praise and damnation. What turns some guys on, turns other guys off. And that includes butt. Believe it or not, I get a lot of letters saying "gaping butthole" shots are degrading to the models! But I happen to love ass myself, so those nasty hole pictures aren't going away in BEAR.

For the most part, BEAR and our videos depict everyday guys showing off their own sexuality. If a model isn't into something, we don't do the shot. And that goes for our Classic BEAR video as well. We tried to let the actual sex unfold naturally. Of course there was direction for camera angles and basic scenarios, but the sex was pretty much left up to the guys. Sorry it didn't do it for you.

Classical Gas

I cannot say enough about your magazine. After picking up the latest issue and seeing the ad for Classic BEAR, my heart pounded at an all-time high! Well, it just so happens that friends of mine purchased the video, so I had the chance to view it. I think I must have broken some record for beatin' off! One fella in particular, Mike Snofield, just set my mind running rampant. Where on earth did he come from? Such an incredibly sexy man! Sure would like to find out more about him!

I don't know if you guys ever forward letters to your models, but I had to write and say how much I enjoyed this video and your magazine. Keep up the good work!

M.E., Missouri

Actually the record for beating off is held by the new hires here at the shop. (Hey, at least their ah, minds are on their work.) But we're glad you liked the video. It's been pretty damn successful.

Mike Snofield has been a buddy of BEAR's since he graced our cover way back in issue 15. He also appeared in Foreskin Quarterly 17 and has a solo video available through us (see page 80) as well. And he's not from Earth, he's from Utah.

You can reach the guys in our magazine by sealing your note in an envelope with the model's name on it and mailing it to us at the shop. We'll forward your note to the model, provided we have his current address. And send us a buck; our time's expensive.

Wants More Tony Bruno

When I bought your calendar last fall, I fell in love with your centerfold model, Tony Bruno. What a fuckable, suckable dick! What a handsome face. I didn't remember him from past issues of BEAR, so I hoped he would show up in an issue later this year. You did not disappoint me—there he was in Classic BEAR with a mention that he originally appeared in issue 13 (my collection starts at issue 19). I know you said it was hopelessly sold out, but is there any way to get my hands on a copy of BEAR 13? Also, I don't see his name on the Classic BEAR video. Is he in the video as well?

B.A., Louisiana

Wish we could send you a copy of BEAR 13, but those old issues are now collectors items. Bear-Dog keeps Brush Creek's few copies locked up in his office so us creative types can't soil them! But I sent you the name of a gay magazine dealer here in SF that may be able to help you out. (Back issues can be ordered through Brush Creek starting with issue 14.)

*Unfortunately, Tony wasn't available for the Classic BEAR video shoot. Our loss. That dick coulda fit in so many places so nicely! We also owe Tony and the rest of you an apology for omitting his name on the cover of the Classic BEAR magazine.*

Rendezvous with Mr. Cub

I would like to thank you and all of the folks at BCM for helping the Bears of SF make my first bear event something I will remember for the rest of my life. And I will really enjoy the one-year subscription to BEAR magazine. It's one of my favorite publications.

Once again, thanks for all the work you do in the bear community. It is through organizations such as yours that the bear movement continues growing. Keep up the great work!

Joe Parker, Mr. IBR Cub 1996

*We can't take much credit for the success of International Bear Rendezvous; that recognition belongs squarely with the Bears of San Francisco who host the event. But we're proud to sponsor what has shaped up to become the premier annual bear event. Glad you enjoyed your prizes, especially your subscription to BEAR. It's the least we can do for you guys—it takes real balls to get up onstage and show us your stuff.*

Push Me, Pull You

Enclosed is five dollars to update my personal ad. (My old one needed some fine tuning.) Dwayne and Marc (BEAR 37) were just fantastic! Why the hell are all the guys I like bottoms? Christ! Somebody ought to do a study.

C.B., Missouri

That's what we have double-dong dildos for.

Succinctly Said

I can't say enough about your magazine.

M.C.

Massachusetts

Subscriber Takes Offense

I'm very upset with you! I've been a subscriber since issue 10. I did not receive any notice that my subscription was about to end. Instead I get this notice that "You're Outta Here." I'm tempted to tell you to get outta here. I think this kind of treatment is uncalled for. If my partner and I did not like naked hairy men, you would be history. I will tell you however that if this kind of notice is repeated, I will not be renewing next time.

T.M., Wisconsin

It's been our policy, for quite a while now, to mail out a subscriber's last issue and follow it up with a notice that the subscription has ended. Unreasonable? Maybe it was the tone that bothered you, but if you've been reading since issue 10, then you should be used to our gruff style by now. Actually I like our approach rather than the one used by many other magazines—they start pestering you to renew six months ahead of time. With phone calls to boot! We are working on getting this notice out earlier, however, so you're not caught by surprise.

Big Sky Blues

As a new subscriber, I felt an obligation to write and say howdy from Big Sky Bear Country and of course to tell all of you what a hell of a job you're doing with the magazine.

Being younger and into bears is pretty tough, and it is all getting so confusing with all the bear terms in the personals and on the Internet. Otterbear? And even the exact definitions confuse me, like "cub." I consider myself a cub:

I'm 21 years old, stocky, hairy all over except for my chest (it's growing). But I see a 35-year-old, furry guy also advertising himself in the personals as a cub. I thought that term was for younger bears. I figure if anyone could help me with my identity crisis it's you guys. Who am I?

And, oh yeah, if this is Bear Country, where the hell are y'all?

T.S., Montana

Perhaps you're not aware, but Montana has a little PR problem these days. Somethin' to do with that crazed loner thing. We're all stayin' the hell out. As for your terminology perplexity, try this: Ignore them all. What the heck do we need more categories for? Terms like "otterbear" are ridiculous. You're a man. More specifically, a young man. Your description above works pretty well. I get the picture. So will everyone else.

I'm more worried about your chest. I asked the guys around the shop to come up with suggestions for putting hair on. We all agreed that sucking more dick would probably do the trick. You might also wanna try eating Rocky Mountain oysters and finishing all your vegetables.

Communist Plot

Sending you my best greetings from Slovakia where I spend two weeks holiday in the "High Takras" mountains, known for its native recreation and a population of wild bears. I found some sweets wrapped in a paper with a bear design and I couldn't resist sharing the rather surprising taste with you. Don't scream, you get used to the taste very quickly.

By the way, if you have readers in Slovakia (or the Czech Republic), it would be fun to correspond.

D.D., Belgium

Thanks for the candy. It tastes a little like paint thinner. Some of the guys here said that if you spit it out after 10 seconds it tastes pretty good.

I have your address here in my Rolodex (a stack of 3x5 cards held together by a rubber band) so if any readers want to send you a letter, they can send it to me, and I'll pass it on to you.

JUSTIN

Justin comes to us from Atlanta where he works as a software developer. But in his real life, he likes to get away from technology, and out into the Georgia pines. Gets into primitive living there—dressing in brown leather, and existing as a mountain man. When he showed up for his photo shoot, Justin brought along some of the clothes that get him in touch with his primal instincts, including animal skins and the Native American war shirt he's wearin' here.

Hard guy to pin down sexually. He's not into role-playing. Not caught up in defining who gives and who gets. Just rough, fun, man-to-man sex. Preferably with a full-bearded, furry, dark-haired guy. Yeah, you can almost picture that sweat-soaked hair hanging down over you, hot and sticky, after a good fuck session.

"Don't Be Lonesome Tonight! Call for PIX of Me & My Buddies!"

I'm With the Band

by Cord Odebolt

I hate the music they play in queer bars. I wish they'd play Metallica or Warrant or Helmet more.

I make up for it by going to a lot of shows. And seeing guys like James Hetfield on stage does something to me. I can't help it; long blond hair and a thick mustache on damn near any man makes me crazy.

They're coliseum shows, mostly. Depending on the band, I might even set up camp in a ticket line. I did that last time Biohazard was coming to town, and I wanted to go. I got to the box office at a little after midnight to assure myself a decent place in line. There were already about 20 people ahead of me. It was pretty cold, but my leather jacket and a thermos of coffee kept me warm.

A fleet of busses and trucks pulled in around 3 a.m. I figured it was the band for tonight's show, Cherry Pie. I'd heard some of their stuff, but it wasn't anything I'd want to hear live. Around 6 o'clock or so, the buses started unloading. Roadies, looking like they'd slept in their clothes, began wandering toward the coliseum. I took a slug off my thermos.

One of them began walking toward me. Oh man. Shoulder-length blond hair, beefy mustache surrounding his mouth with maybe four days' worth of beard filling in his face. He wore the standard roadie uniform of shorts and a tank top. He had rough, angular features and a nose that had been broken in all the right places. Fine hair covered his forearms and poked through the fabric of his tank-top. "Is that coffee?" he asked.

"Yeah."

"Can I have some?"

I held the thermos out to him. He took a long pull, leaving drops in his mustache. "Caterers fucked up. Been on the bus since Phoenix without coffee." He looked over his shoulder to the rest of the road crew. "Uh, I gotta go." As he took a few steps, he stopped, and said, "Here. This is for the coffee." He took off his tank top and handed it to me. "They give us all kinds of swag."

The hair on his chest narrowed on his belly to a band that dove into his shorts. As he turned and ran back to his buddies, I noticed a patch of hair at the small of his back, just above his butt. I could smell him on his shirt; he must have worn it for a couple days.

If we were in a bar, I'd say he was flirting. But I've known roadies and techies enough to know that they can get pretty punchy, and what might appear like a come-on is just a creative manifestation of fatigue. But he sure as hell aroused my interest.

During the next couple hours, I watched the roadies heft in flooring, road cases and the like. My coffee drinker tended to carry cables and boxes for a long while. A roach coach drove up around 7:30; roadies swarmed around it.

About 9 o'clock, he came back, ambling toward me, sweating like hell in the morning light. He carried a paper cup and a small bag.

"It's not much, but it's real food," he said. I opened the bag. Donuts and potato chips.

"Hey, Bulls!" one of them shouted.

"Balls?" I asked.

He smiled. "Bulls. Short for Bull's Eye." He held out his hand; we shook. "That's what they call me. I run the second follow spot." He took a drink from his cup. "Uh, I got you a laminate, too. It's for tonight's show. I'll have some beers in the tower if you want to come up before the show." He paused, searching for the words. "I just really needed that coffee, man. Thanks." He ran back to work. His scent hung in the air.

All Access Pass. There it was, next to the chips. Every teenage metalhead's dream. All I wanted to do right then was buy my tickets and get some sleep. Looked like I had a show to go to that night.

I woke up from my nap with a bone digging into the mattress, Bulls' shirt on the pillow next to me. I saw stains on the pits of the shirt and had to taste them. Salty and slightly bitter. My hard cock began to drool. I had him in my nose and I wanted him lapping up my dickspit. I wrapped his shirt around my cock and squeezed a few times, adding my own mark to his shirt.

I dressed quick, putting on his shirt, an old pair of jeans and engineer's boots. My car went faster than I intended on the way back to the coliseum.

When I arrived, there was a huge crowd milling about: suburban kids grooving on music their parents hate, bikers, scalpers, hippies, bootleg T-shirt salesmen, security, the occasional smell of pot, and me, with my laminate. I walked up to the gate, showed my pass. Security waved me through.

I hustled my way into the arena. There were three towers constructed of metal scaffolding situated in a rough triangle on the coliseum floor, each topped by a three-walled canvas tent. Second follow-spot, he had said. I stepped into the crowd, slowly making my way to the middle tower. There was a ladder going up into the tent. I could see someone inside. I flashed my laminate and the guard posted by the ladder let me climb up. I was thinking about Bulls at the top, my boots slipping occasionally on the rungs.

I poked my head through a flap at the top. There he was, covered with a fine layer of grime from working all day, still shirtless, his hair sticking to his neck in a few places, his chest hair coarse with dried sweat, a clear-com on his head. He smiled at me, teeth flashing through his mustache.

"Hey," he said, extending a hand to help me into the tent. "Glad you came." He cocked his head to indicate he was listening to someone on his clear-com. "And you can fuck me wide with Stonehenge if you got a problem with it, Hoover."

I couldn't tell exactly what or who he was responding to, but I had a suspicion it was some comment about me. Fuck, I had been wondering all along if this guy just wanted company or something else. I knew what I wanted. But his responses could go either way.

"Man, I didn't catch your name," he said, looking at me.

"Nash," I said.

"Like the car," he said. He held out his hand. "Good to meet you, Nash. You want a beer?" he asked, motioning to a small cooler.

I grabbed a bottle, popped off the cap. "You know," he said, staring at the stage, "it's real easy to meet women..." his voice trailed off.

"Yeah?"

He turned to me, paused, then said, "And, dude... if you're into it, um... I just figured you might be, 'cause you were alone in line this morning."

He wants it. My cock turned hard in my pants as I thought, "He wants it." I grabbed his beer off the floor, poured it in the crotch of my jeans and said, "Breakfast of champions."

He pressed his mouth against the outline of my cock immediately, working his lips around my bone, sucking the beer out of the material. I grabbed his hair, feeling oil and sweat as I worked his head around.

His cock stiffened in his shorts. Yeah, he wanted it. I kept his head pressed against my belly, his lips massaging my cock, his tongue working its outline. Every now and then I felt one of his mustache hairs poke through the worn denim, now wet with his spit as much as beer.

He got off his stool and spread his legs to kneel low. His cockhead poked out of his shorts and dragged on the floor as he leaned forward. I opened my fly and pulled out my bone. "Shit," he said. "Nice cock." The crowd started chanting below us.

"Just suck it, sweetmeat," I said. My cock disappeared deep into his throat, his tongue tickling the underside. Damn, but this man learned a lot on the road. I inched my boot to his cockhead, very carefully smearing his dickspit onto the toe.

He moaned, vibrating my cock in his mouth. He worked his tongue into my piss slit. Some saliva dripped into his mustache and down onto his chest hair. He reached up and put a few of his fingers in my mouth. I tasted grit and resin and soaked them wet with my spit. He pulled his fingers out and wiped them on his cock head. Then he squeezed out more clear fluid onto his fingers, which he put back in my mouth. Salt and silk against my tongue.

Suddenly, he cocked his head and pulled away from my bone. Responding to his clear-com, he said, "Hoover, do you kiss your plastic mama with that filthy goat-mouth of yours?" and turned around. He stood up, dropped his shorts, and knelt on his stool. His cock, maybe five inches long, was incredibly thick, and stood away from his sizable nuts. "Yeah, I'm more potatoes than meat," he said, unself-consciously. Hair poked out of the crack of his ass. He trained his eyes on the stage and said, "I've got cues coming up." The chanting of the crowd grew.

I started fingering his asscrack. He moved his butt against my fingers, letting me smear the hair all around. I put my hand in front of his face. He licked my fingers, sucking them deep like he had sucked my cock. I started rubbing his crack again, using one finger to stroke his hole. I reached for my beer and began teasing his hole with the bottle.

"You sick fuck," he said, teasing.

"Yeah?" I said. "Who's the fuck here?" rubbing the bottle mouth against his hole alongside my finger, "Me or this hungry butt?" He moaned. "You had more on your mind than coffee on that drive from Phoenix," I said. He ground his hips around my fingers and the bottle. I up-ended the bottle and let beer run through his butt hair, foaming in his crack and hole.

I bent my head down and began to lick it, drinking up the beer and sweat from his ass. A voice announced, "Ladies and gentlemen, extend a big Oakland welcome to—Cherry Pie!" and the crowd roared. Bulls swung the follow-spot and I moved with him, my tongue working around his hole, smoothing out the puckers, catching various hairs on my tongue and lips. I scratched his buttcheeks with my mustache. He moaned and thrust his ass against my face. I dragged my upper lip against his hole and drove my tongue for the backside of his heavy nuts. "Fuck," he said.

He tilted his head and said, "No, Hoover, just fuck." I kept my tongue broad and flat against his hole, leaving plenty of spit. I backed my head off, stood up and pressed my cockhead against his hole. I drooled down onto my bone.

"You been sitting on this fine ass too long, you need a reminder of what that hole is for," I said. He squirmed around, trying to drive my cock into his ass. I let more spit drip down into his asscrack. "Yeah, just ease on back. I got you right here."

"Bull's eye," he said, feeling my cockhead slip in. "Fuck you, Hoover, just fuck you," he said into the clear-com. Slowly I drilled deeper into his ass, watching his ass hair run over my meat. Bulls squirmed some more, taking my cock faster into his butt. He shifted again, adjusting the follow-spot.

I started a pumping motion in time with the music. I lost count fast. Our bodies were slick with sweat and beer, my cock slick with spit and butt juice. Bulls' hole opened easily. I watched the puckered flesh move against my cock, in and out, deep and hot. I imagined my cock driving against those magnificent nuts of his, forcing his dickspit out, pushing my cockhead around his rectum, first in circular motion, then regular pistoning, pushing right behind his cock.

I reached around to his bone, trying to slip my little finger in his piss slit, gripping the shaft and stroking hard and slow, milking him. I felt his balls pull up a little. I let go of his cock, and felt under his nuts. I pressed hard under his nuts with my fingers when I pulled my cock back and could feel my cock fill his ass when I pushed back in.

It made Bulls crazy. "Fuck," he said. I was attacking his prostate from both sides; his cock began to jerk. "Fuck is right, furry bastard," I said, planting my cockhead deep in his ass. I pumped harder, massaging behind his nuts as I did. Bulls moaned and bit his arm to keep from shouting. "Fuck you, Hoover," he said through his teeth. He swung the spot, following the musicians onstage.

I fucked deep and slow and determined, milking his nuts from underneath. I felt my own start to buzz, getting ready to shoot. Just a few more strokes I wanted on his sweet hole.

Bulls didn't make a sound when he shot, but I felt his load, hot and wet on my hand as it spattered out. I fucked hard into his hole, holding my jizz-covered hand to his mouth. He licked my fingers.

"Shit, buddy," I said. My nuts buzzed and let loose, my cock throbbing. I kept slamming into his sweet ass, almost lifting him off the stool. I kept plugging his hole, stopping only when I felt my cock stop throbbing. I pulled out, still hard and losing a few drops of jizz.

We were both panting, me looking at the floor, and Bulls watching the stage. "That's how I got my name," he said. "They know when I'm fucking up here." He swung the spot. "You gonna stick around?" he asked.

"Let me know when you want some more target practice," I said. ☐

Cover Your Ass

Legal Perspectives
by Jeff Kilpatrick

Assault, Battery and Spousal Abuse

My boy, Bruce, has reminded me that it is spring again and also that his tits are in need of twisting. While he looks forward to this, not everyone does, which brings us to our topic: assault and battery.

The tendency in American jurisprudence has been to couple the two charges; but they are, in fact, two separate and distinct offenses. Assault is the apparent intent and ability to effect an unwanted touching, stroking or blow. Battery is the actual act of doing the unwanted touching or striking. Because assault often precedes battery, the two are lumped together. For assault, I must have the apparent ability to effect a battery. You and I meet in a bar; I'm 5-feet-2-inches tall and 130 pounds, you're 6-feet-4-inches and 250 pounds. At the bar, I tell you that I'm going to walk all over your face and feed the remainders to the neighborhood cats. Is that an assault? No, because you were never in fear that I might make good on my threat.

Now let's change the scene a bit. Our vital statistics remain the same as before, but wisely or otherwise you have come home with me to my dungeon in my garage. I have chained you in place on my St. Andrew's cross with your ankles and wrists securely bound. I then offer to beat your back bloody with my studded belt. Assault? Absolutely, because I can clearly follow through on my threat, and you are legitimately afraid of me since you no longer can defend yourself. The first blow I strike is a battery, and thus assault and battery merge together upon your person.

There is an absolute defense to assault and battery, and that defense is consent. When the boy says, "Harder, Daddy," "Beat me!" or even, "Spank me harder, you pussy," (some boys have no respect—if we really wanted to be mean, we could ignore them) that is consent. If you have permission to swat, you cannot be guilty of assault and battery.

Why are we concerned with this? In an ideal world, every boy communicates masterfully well with his daddy, and daddies only play with boys whom they know. We all know that boys will tease and provoke and even go adventuring, checking out the daddies they encounter. Daddies, cover your asses! Be sure that you get consent from the boy as you go—and boys, be sure that you give it. No one needs the experience of a preppy tourist decked out in the best leather that money can buy whose response is, "Spanking? Ooooh, yuckko!" Bottom line: Find each other, encourage each other and always give consent.

Now I want to shift gears and address a related topic. I call this spousal abuse. Example: You are a boy and are living with a daddy. Your daddy beats you, often with no warning and for no apparent reason. Verbal abuse is heaped upon you, and you live in fear of getting daddy upset. Paradoxically, after daddy has beaten you, he then becomes most tender and responsive to your needs. You'd like to leave him, you know you should, but you can't! The reasons why you can't are many and varied, but they seem real and varied to you.

One of the greatest capacities that we humans have is to give joy, strength and love to one another. This can take many forms. Some find it by serving—as boys, slaves or bottoms. Others do it by commanding—as daddies, Masters, or tops. Both avenues are equally valid, and I would say that assumption of one or the other, from time to time, as preference dictates, is also valid.

Now to address the boy in an abusive relationship: Remember that, as a boy, you have the right to be curious and to ask questions non-stop. You also have the right to manipulate Daddy if you can (and he probably will let you, since most daddies I know are indulgent), and you must remember that any question you ask is worthy of a response, no matter how silly or inane the question might be. When you get spanked, as you sometimes will, your response should be a feeling of "Thanks! I needed that," coupled with a sense that you and daddy are now "righter and tighter" than you were before.

Since boys need permission, it is in my capacity as a daddy that I give you permission—rather, I demand that you get out of the abusive relationship you are in if you recognize yourself in the example I gave above. Statistics have demonstrated that batterers don't get better until they admit that they have a problem and seek help for it. The abuse is not your fault, and if you were not there, the batterer would only work his will upon some other victim. The bottom line: Get out! If you have to, leave your clothes behind, leave your car behind, leave your money behind but get out while your body and mind still have a chance to work together. Clothes, cars and money can always be replaced, but repairing damaged self-esteem is much more difficult. Remember, respect is earned, love is earned, and if Daddy hasn't earned yours, don't hesitate to leave him. It may seem strange at this point, but believe me, there are men out there who would be pleased as punch to have you be a part of their lives and, yes, they will respect you in the morning, too.

I heard a Chinese saying once that, "The hardest part of any journey is the first step." I know from my experience working with battered spouses that just getting out from the batterer's influence will be the hardest part. Believe me, it just gets better and better as you get further away from it. There are social service agencies ready to help. The Community United Against Violence is in San Francisco; almost every area has some similar resources. If you're stumped, write to me in care of BEAR, and I will try to locate an agency in your area for you. B

Buckshot

Has it been a year already? Yikes. OK, so it's been little over a year. Happy birthday of sorts. A lot of stuff has been bouncing across my brain, but nothing has really taken hold. If it's a little scattered, fuck me.

Thanks for all the mail. Whether you praise me or damn me, I don't care; it's just damn good to hear from y'all. I'm a lousy correspondent. Am working like hell to remedy that character flaw. Don't take it personal. You can e-mail me at bgbdwolf@ames.net; I figure that way, it'll be easier to sound off if you've a mind to. You're welcome.

As of this writing, there seems to be a resurgent interest in promoting safe sex. Maybe it's just from where I'm sitting. Still, I'd like to know when sex was ever safe.

I'd like to know who the hell Pat Buchanan—and other so-called populists—thinks is gonna work for $1.50 an hour should he build his wall to keep out illegals. Of course, when he says "illegals," what he really means is "Mexicans." Like it or no, Mexican illegals fill a vital economic niche in this country. Without their sub-minimum-wage labor, many major manufacturers would either fold or raise prices on consumer goods. I have no problem with the slogan "American jobs for Americans," but companies had better fucking realize what constitutes a living wage.

I don't think it'll be true democracy until we can vote "none of the above." I prefer voting for a candidate instead of against another.

If the Supreme Court backs out of ruling against Colorado's Amendment 2 (they heard the arguments in October last year), I think we ought to withhold our taxes. I mean, shit—if equal protection under the law don't mean just that, why the fuck bother?

I wanna know if I'm ever gonna be able to take it up the ass again. I'm very tense. I have so many issues about vulnerability.

A dead buddy of mine had this theory. I Love Lucy is a paradigm for American politics. Ricky and his show represent the government, and Lucy represents the voting public. Lucy always wants to be in Ricky's show. Ricky, the consummate paternalist, foils her every attempt (always for her own good), often by allowing her to be fooled as to the degree of her own involvement. In the end, they make amends—never on equal footing, but feeling much better about themselves.

Souvenir of a visit to a local gun show: the assault rifle display tended by an 8-year-old girl. Runner-up: the knives emblazoned "KKK."

Don't tell me I'm tired of negative campaigning, because I never tire of hearing which candidate's a pig-fucker. And what's the point of setting your hair on fire about negative campaigning and how it destroys voter confidence when barely a quarter of the population bothers to vote on a regular basis? Which is the bigger story really?

Finished Gravity's Rainbow by Thomas Pynchon. My brain hurts. But what a glorious, jubilant, ecstatic pain.

Eternal vigilance is not the price of liberty, it's the price of paranoia. The price of liberty is healthy curiosity and a touch of skepticism. I'm annoyed when some jackass decides it's OK to block the way of inquiry as a method of conflict-resolution.

Goddamn but Tommy Morrison pisses me off. His "I-hate-myself-and-it's-OK-if-you-hate-me-too" announcement of his HIV status was one of the most galling spectacles I have ever witnessed. He's a damn good fighter, but he wussed out on this one.

OK, Crusher's a preacher. I love him. Roland Bainton would find a good Lutheran in him. Ours is a mixed union; he respects my beliefs, and I respect his. Though things do get a little confusing around Lughnasagh, chiefly because he can never remember how to pronounce it.

I had supper with my buddy Mokelumne Mark not long ago. He saw my beard and said, "So what's with this beard look?" I asked, "Does growing a beard make me a bear?" He demurred, obviously sensing a roundhouse discussion headed his way. Don't sweat it too hard. This particular topic burns at the very core of my being, and I will return to it at the appropriate time. Just got a little more meditating to do.

Visited Chicago a few weeks back. Had an odd time; usually I find the men of Chicago real friendly and open, ready to make conversation. Didn't happen this time; when me and Crusher went out, guys kinda glared at us. Well, it was a Sunday. Maybe everyone was grumpy 'cause they didn't get laid.

Crusher was out tooling around in a friend's borrowed Cadillac. He was playing around on the CB when he overheard a coupla truckers checking out various guys on the highway. So he kept listening and, as he was driving along, he heard one of 'em say, "Looks like we got a pretty fine Marine in this blue Caddy." Crusher said, "Thanks, guys." The lead driver said, "Is that you?" Crusher said, "Yup." Lead said, "Pull alongside. I got something to show you." Crusher pulls alongside the truck and sees the trucker: shoulder-length light brown hair, beard, real handsome face. Trucker sees him, smiles real big, then lifts up his legs which are decked out in black fishnet stockings. God, I love the heartland.

Favorite bumper sticker seen in the Hooter's parking lot: "WISE MEN STILL SEEK HIM." Interesting venue. ☺

GUIDELINES and Pay Scales for Contributors

Publishers never publish their guidelines and pay scales. But, starting now, we do. Why? Because the more our readers become our contributors, the more our magazines will be what we want them to be—responses to and extensions of the readers and the gay communities we live in. Come, join the family.

Brush Creek Media publishes seven magazines, all of which buy free-lance material amounting to between 85 percent and 100 percent of the content for each issue. With a total of 34 regularly scheduled magazines, plus special publications and other projects, BCM buys first serial rights to more than 300 pieces of writing—fiction and nonfiction—in each calendar year; more than 200 illustrations, and over 100 free-lance photo shoots.

Brush Creek Media is committed to publishing entertaining, informative, imaginative, and high quality materials for its readers. We welcome contributors to submit their work for consideration for one of our publications.

KNOW YOUR AUDIENCE

Be familiar with our publications and the readers we are trying to reach. Read the title(s) that interest you before sending your work. Our publications can be purchased at most gay and lesbian, progressive, and adult bookstores. If you are still uncertain which publication your work would best fit into, let us decide.

OUR NEEDS FOR EACH ISSUE

BEAR is the bimonthly magazine that gave the Bear Movement its name. BEAR uses fiction, art and photography that fits under the heading "Naked, Hairy, Homo Smut." Editor Rich Iremonger uses erotic fiction, media reviews, features, event reports, columns, illustrative erotic art, and photo spreads. All illustrations and most non-fiction pieces are produced on assignment; most fiction is received unsolicited.

POWERPLAY, published quarterly, explores the extremes and intensities of gay male raunch and fetishes. Powerplay uses shorter pieces of writing and special categories of features and profiles. Editor Alec Wagner uses unsolicited and assigned accounts of first-person sexual encounters and erotic fiction, and assigns illustrations, photography/modeling.

INTERNATIONAL LEATHERMAN is the serious bimonthly leather/SM magazine for gay men. Editor Joseph W. Bean uses unsolicited fiction, assigned art, photography and non-fiction that explores, explains, or builds upon leathersex action. It is uncommon for IL to accept unassigned photography, but it can happen. Remember, the action is the important thing here.

FORESKIN QUARTERLY is the quarterly for fans of foreskin and anti-circumcision activists. FQ uses unsolicited fiction, art (often—but not always—assigned), and both professional and amateur photography. Editor LeRoy Dysart is always eager to find appropriate non-fiction features and photography that shows extreme developments and uses of the foreskin as well as adult-circumcision fantasies and true stories.

BUNKHOUSE, published bimonthly, is for men who are into the eroticism of the American cowboy and his gear. Bunkhouse uses unsolicited fiction, mostly assigned art, professional and amateur photography, and features on the erotic history of The West. Editor Peter Millar is always looking for materials that represent and explore the authentic fetish value of Western Americana, historic and modern.

HOMBRES LATINOS is the quarterly for gay Latinos and anyone whose fantasies include Latino men. Hombres Latinos uses unsolicited fiction about man-to-man sex acts involving—and often written by—Latinos. Some of the art and photography is unsolicited. Special needs include profiles and features on successful gay Latinos and Latino enterprises. Peter Millar is the editor of Hombres Latinos.

ROUNDUP, published bimonthly, is the magazine of the gay and lesbian Western lifestyle, including gay rodeos. A lifestyle magazine for gay men and women, Roundup uses fiction, nonfiction, interviews, columns, features, and photography. Almost all material in Roundup is produced on assignment. This is not a sex magazine for an erotic market, although a certain awareness of gay and lesbian sexuality may be required. Mike Benda is the editor of Roundup.

THE SUBMISSIONS PROCESS

A General Rule: Be sure that your name and some way of reaching you (phone, address, etc.) is on every piece of art, photography, or writing you submit.

Manuscripts: Submit unsolicited fiction in hard copy and note if it's available electronically or on PC diskette. Contact us prior to undertaking a non-fiction feature. Telephone queries are acceptable, but are more productive if we have clips on hand before you call.

Illustrations: While most of our illustrations are done on assignment, sending clips/samples can attract our attention. For assignments, we require the original art or a professional print made from a large-format photo negative.

Photography: Send samples of your work in the form of contact sheets, tears of published images, or snapshots of models available to you. Further arrangements will then be made.

Other Important Information: 1) If you want your manuscript returned to you, enclose a self-addressed, envelope with the appropriate postage. 2) We must be informed if the piece submitted has been previously published or has also been submitted to another publication for consideration. Simultaneous submissions without notification are unacceptable. 3) Turnaround time can be extensive (30 to 120 days). Please be patient. If rewrites or major alterations are needed, we may undertake them on your behalf or we may ask you to do them. Normal editing will be undertaken, as needed, without notification. 4) Payment is sent when the issue with your work goes to press; expect your check before the magazine is distributed. 5) Contributors receive a complimentary copy of the issue in which their work appears.

PAY RATES

Fiction and Illustrations: For the first piece of fiction or illustration we publish, you receive $100 for first serial rights. Your second sale to any BCM publication pays $125. The third and each subsequent sale pays $150.

Nonfiction and Features: Some very short nonfiction writing may be paid from $35 to $75, on a rising scale like the one described for fiction. If an interview or special research is required, additional pay may be warranted and should be negotiated in advance with the editor. It is possible to have expenses (other than items such as paper and supplies) reimbursed within agreed-upon guidelines.

Photography: The fees we pay to photographers and models are separate. A photographer who sells a shoot to a BCM publication will be paid $120 the first time, $145 the second time, and $165 the third time and thereafter, with actual, pre-approved expenses being reimbursed in addition to the fee for the shoot. Expense reimbursement will not exceed 75 percent of the photographer's fee.

Featured Artists: Featured artists can expect promotional copy and our cooperation, plus the reimbursement of any actual, pre-approved expenses, but no pay for permitting us to promote their artwork or career. Most featured artists come to our publications by invitation.

PLACING AN AD

Deadline for BEAR 39 ads is June 26. (Yeah, I know that doesn't leave you much time.) Deadline for BEAR 40 ads (which comes out in October) is August 21.

1. Text. Talk about yourself and be real clear as to whom you'd like to meet. Avoid negativity shit, like "no fats, ferns or Lithuanians." It doesn't work and we'll probably change it anyway.

2. Names. We can't run ads addressed to Occupant or Boxholder. Use your initials or a name your postal carrier knows.

3. Phone Numbers. We won't print 'em.

4. Photo Ads. We'll run a shot of your face or dick—but only once. Your photo must have a signed model release [see "Show Yourself In BEAR," page 51] AND a photocopy of your picture ID. Don't bother sending us photos without this stuff. We can't legally print 'em. Each photo sent to BEAR must be signed with your name and phone number on the back. Photos are not returnable.

5. BEAR Postal Box Numbers. If you wish, we'll assign a BEAR Postal Box Number to your ad, collect your responses and forward them to your address. A word to the wise: Your own address will get you more responses. For U.S. subscribers only. Free to BEAR Buddies, $5 to everyone else.

6. Voicemail Box Codes. We assign a voicemail box to every ad. Guys can leave phone messages in your box after reading your ad, and only you can retrieve them. Cost is $1.98 per minute for both parties. Full details are on page 29.

7. Common Courtesy. If a guy gets in touch with you, write back. Even if it's just to say "no thanks," he deserves to know you got his message.

8. Cost and Duration. Personal ads are free if you're a BEAR Buddy. Otherwise, they're 25¢ a word, per issue. Wanna discontinue your ad? Write in, and we'll pull it. You will have to pay to have a pulled ad put back in, though.

9. Ad Changes. It's cool, but it'll cost you 5 bucks, and must be in writing. Hint: You'll get more responses by rewriting your ad from time to time.

10. Edits. We reserve the right to edit personals for editorial consistency and clarity. We also reserve the right to refuse any ad.

The form for writing your ad and figuring the cost is on page 53.

2. BEAR Box Number. To respond to an ad with a BEAR Box number, seal your letter in an envelope. On this envelope, put the fella's box number in pencil where the stamp normally goes. Send this with $1 in a larger envelope to us.

3. BEAR ads aren't a marketing base. If you think your new hair-growth system is worth selling to the world, do it someplace else. Leave our personal ad customers alone.

4. Prisons. They aren't a good place to send money, or pictures of your hairy ass. By all means, correspond and make friends. But know the potential for trouble to you as well as they guy on the inside.

VOICEMAIL EXPLAINED

Credit card holders call 1-800-347-BEAR. To charge the call to your home phone, dial 1-900-HOT-BEAR. Cost for both lines is $1.98 a minute.

Our BEAR Voicemail system is designed to give you immediate access to new friends, true love, or just good fuck. It works. Record your own personal greeting, answer someone else's ad, pick up your messages, or talk to whoever is jacking off on the line.

If you have an ad in BEAR... When dialing in for the first time, you must already have your passcode from us. We will mail you this code before the issue of BEAR in which your ad first appears hits the stands. Write us here at the shop if you don't receive your code for some reason.

To collect your messages... Once at the Voicemail Main Menu, immediately hit the star key to get to the message center area and collect your mail. Mailboxes have four or five digits. You do not need to set up a new voicemail box (Option 3). It's been done for you already.

Suggestions and tips...

- Press buttons slowly and firmly.
- If you think you made a wrong choice, hit the star key to get back to the Main Menu.
- Messages stay in the system for two weeks.
- Use Option 3 to set up another mailbox or to leave your phone number on the bulletin board. Always use area codes to catch guys in your neck of the woods.

BUBBA BEAR

IN PARADISE

Hands down, the most colorful guy to come around the shop. A regular whirlwind of motion, ideas and communication. Yet, at the core—a serene spirituality. But that's not what landed Bubba Bear on the pages of this magazine. What got our dicks a-waggin' was the carpet of hair covering his body. His chest and arms, naturally developed from surfing. The swirls of hair around his asshole. And his eagerness to show it off.

He likes the challenge of a bigger man. And he'll likely be aggressive in his pursuit. But once he knows he has the man, he can be taken. Rough and dirty. "Merging with the physical part of man" is how he puts it.

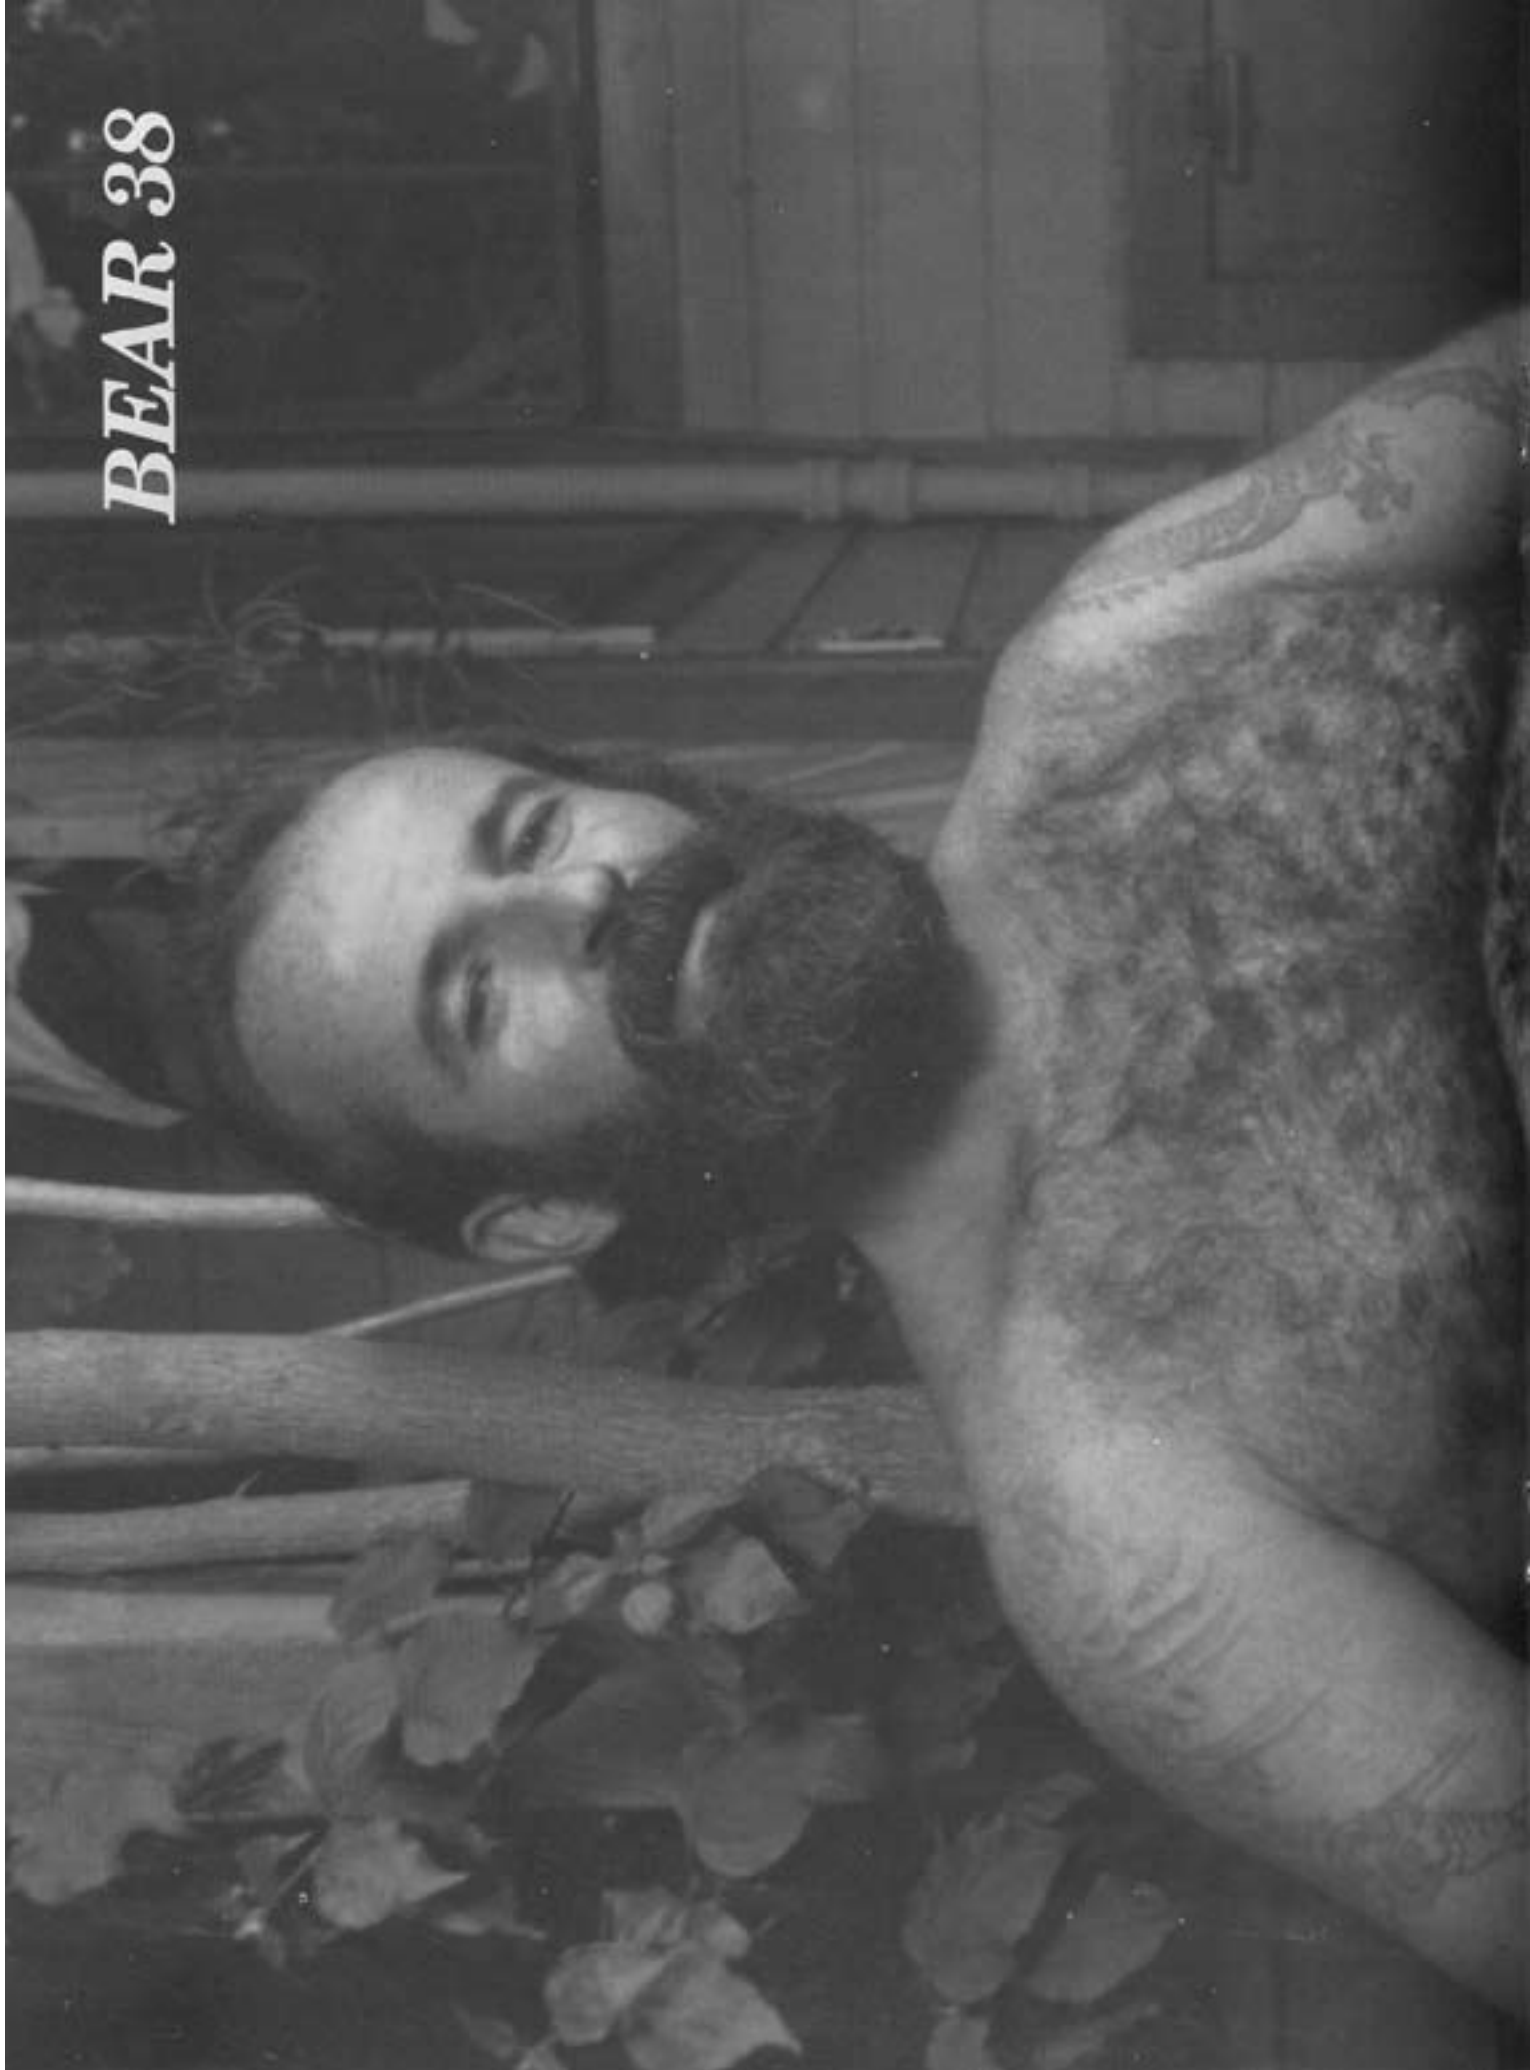

Bubba's a hard guy to keep up with. Just this year, he's lived in California, Australia, and now a small town in Hawaii. That's where the "Paradise" part of his name comes from. Gotta keep close to the Pacific, 'cause surfin' is essential to his being. He kept us current with his Aussie surf expeditions and bear happenings in letters he titled "Bubba Bear's Adventures Down Under." No less prolific Stateside, he now sends us postcards and photos chronicling his "Adventures in Paradise." Just getting to know Bubba Bear is its own adventure.

Yeah, but I bet Dad knows how to use it. Anyway, you're not supposed to bite it. You'd think they'd know this in a place named Johnson City. Bon appetite from Karl and Roy in New York.

I pass this place on the way home almost every day and never have the nerve to eat there. I mean, I've sucked down a few whiz dogs in my day but, for some reason, this doesn't sound as appetizing.

The Fantastic World of Bill Ward, Volume 3

Alternate Publishing, $7.95

Hairy guts and beards abound in leather bars, just as leather chaps and vests are average attire for most bear events. This holds true across the country and the world. From England hails an artist and animator famous for his portrayal of men embodying both bear and leather in the finest style and tradition. Bill Ward, a silver-haired bear in his own right, has produced the third in a series of dramatic story-books entitled The Fantastic World of Bill Ward, Volume 3.

Smaller than your average BEAR, this collection holds three amazing tales of masculine fantasy. The first is the continuation of "The Exchange." Bill Ward brings you into the underground slave trade in a gorgeously explicit style that, in my additional beauty of Tight-bodied and abuse by the beautifully oversized, uncut cocks that only Bill Ward can create. The story is dark, and if true, part of a much hotter past in our society. Every image brings the leather/SM lover in us to a dizzying climax, bringing our dreams into printed reality.

The second segment is for the mountain men and lonely cubs within us all as we follow a character made famous through Drummer magazine in the saga of "Drum and the Bear." Taking an innocent leak in the forest, Drum becomes the willing abductee of a man who is the epitome of a bear. Leading a cloistered, sex-filled life together, Drum finds contentment, never suspecting that his studly lover transforms himself into the fiercest of real bears when his precious cub is threatened by local thugs who would have their way with him. Stunningly drawn, the men and their huge cocks would be the envy of any living person, although you'll be touched by the plight of the "were-bear" and his love for his cub, Drum.

Also included in Volume 3 is the story of "Zeke," a naive, horse-hung country boy who goes to the big city to find his fame and fortune. In a hilarious turn of events, Zeke finds just that—not only from the innocent way he flaunts the massive meat he seems unaware of, but also from sheer luck.

These three tales, compiled with four unreleased images of Ward's new breed of men and a quick peek at his Zebra-men, fill The Fantastic World of Bill Ward: Volume 3 with the style and beauty you would expect from one of the world's premier erotic artists. Joined with stories that surge beyond what any video and even most written fiction could offer, this book is a must for any man who respects the art of animated erotica, leather and bear, alike.

T/T Technical Journal

Madman Industries, Inc.

Four-issue subscription, $10

Ever found yourself in a crowded bar, pressed up against a bulging chest, unable to control the urge to wrap your lips around a pair of tits that might otherwise poke someone's eyes out? Then you're my kind of guy. Now there is a quarterly 'zine from Madman Industries, Inc., dedicated to those very nips, the making of them, and those whose lot in life is to suckle them.

The T/T Technical Journal, born from years of dedicated experimentation and imagination, is twofold in its mission. Just as Foreskin Quarterly and Ball Club Quarterly support those anatomical fetishes, the Journal provides the necessary advice, instruction, and motivation to erect nipples worthy of any man's adoration and lust. And, as a resource for tit torture "aficionados," it also brings together men from around the world to share their experiences and fantasies, therefore furthering the education of this seemingly small field of study.

Moving into its forth installment, the T/T Technical Journal is finding it serves an ever-expanding niche, and will soon be joining forces with the Chest Men of America to become a formidable force in tit-expansion exploration. Loaded with photos, news and stories, this handy 'zine is sure to become a loving addition to any fetishist's library. After all, while it's not nice to fool Mother Nature, it is fun to play with her.

For more information, write to: Madman Industries, Inc., PO Box 148088, Chicago, IL 60614-8044; or call (708) 445-6540.

MICKEY SQUIRES

I'll bet a lot of you spent years getting off to images of porn star Mickey Squires, the insatiable bottom from old Colt videos. Well, Mickey stopped in the shop when he was in town to do some work on our Classic BEAR video and gave us a live sample of his talents. He was pretty turned on by the crowd that gathered. Seems he really enjoys the exhibitionist thing. Just shoved something deep into his butt and went to town.

Mickey says he approached BEAR because he knows that our readers appreciate the honest, masculine sexuality of a man in his 40s. No arguments here. And the Classic BEAR video gave him a chance to show it off with some big, burly, take-charge guys. 'Cause that's what really gets him off.

Of Mouse and Men

It's a scary enough world already out there. But we just gotta go and make it that much worse, don't we?

We could just sit at home and watch TV or take up a nice, safe hobby like sky-diving. But no. Sooner or later there comes a time when the heavens conspire again' us, and we can no longer find a dialectical path of reason for ourselves.

Sometimes, we just gotta get laid.

I know. You're more sensitive than that. You want to know what's on the inside of a man's heart first. Develop a strong, caring trust. A bond. And dick size doesn't matter, of course—we're more mature than that.

Or, maybe you're just the quiet type: You already got a fella, you're a homebody, and this magazine is hidden in your bottom drawer so your lover won't find it and, frankly, I'm gonna call your house and tell him if you don't send me money.

Whoever you are, I know you're grown up enough not to be insulted by what I'm talking about.

Sometimes you just gotta wrap yourself around a gritty, nasty, no-questions-asked, I-don't-give-a-shit-what-your-name-is, Christ-I-hope-I-never-see-you-again sex act. The kind that puts your heart rate through the roof and leaves your knees all wobbly. The kind that, next day, you head over to get a pan out of the bottom cupboard and your muscles are sore and you go, "Wait, I haven't been to the gym in awhile,"—then you remember.

And you feel ashamed.

Yeah, that's the kind I'm talking about.

If you're not too particular about what might get stuck to the bottom of your boots, you can "go to the wall." That's what I call the peepshows—the flashy, sagging bits of the Las Vegas strip in nearly every town in America. Just don't look at what's attached to that dick poking through the hole in the wall of your little cubicle-with-broken-video-monitor. And for God's sake, don't sit down on anything. Just make sure the mouth beckoning through the hole is bearded. Stick yer meat in and hope for the best. Hope he doesn't bite.

But that's unsanitary. The attendants scowl an awful lot and besides, you might be seen.

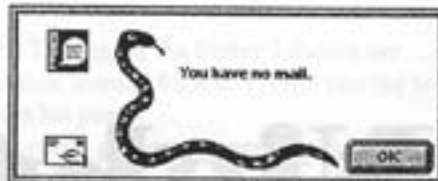

So now, we have the Shiny New Improved Internet. Being trashy just got technical—and a whole lot less messy. You wanna get laid now, you gotta learn that JAVA doesn't mean Jism And Verbal Abuse. That an URL won't make your dick all drippy and sore. That IRC is good, and ISDN is expensive. Now you can view the merchandise first; confirm your interest before sticking anything out that you might want to keep.

But it doesn't matter. We're all doomed anyway. Because at some point, you gotta go meet the guy.

Here you are, all horned out, got a raging hard-on all the way over to his apartment, wondering what you're still doing up at 11:30 on a Tuesday night. You pack your condoms and cockring and your best hopes and suddenly you're there and you've already hit the buzzer.

He opens his door. He looks like a real mean bug.

Remember, it's what's on the inside that counts. That's what you keep telling yourself as, against your better judgment, you go into his dwelling. You wonder just whose picture that was he showed you on-line, 'cause sure as shit isn't the creature that's inviting you to have a Diet Pepsi right now. Meanwhile, he hasn't cleaned the place since they came in to install the cable, and that was when it cost 8 bucks a month. You scramble for clues as to whether he's an ax murderer. You wonder if you're going to get yourself outta this without having him go postal on you. Maybe, if you just hold yer nose and do him, it'll feel good. It'll reset your clock, and you promise that tomorrow you'll take up jogging instead.

I tell ya, it's not easy being green.

Ya clicks your mouse, ya takes your chances.

I thought all this technology would make it easier to fuck. Got the voicemail, got the modem, got the great looks (shut up); yet making it all flow smoothly is elusive at best.

People don't actually lie. It's just that, if you have 35 years' worth of pictures taken of you, which one would you post to entice horny visitors? Does it involve lighting that can't be found in nature?

You probably already know about the inverse corollary of getting laid: The more you want it, the harder it is to get. It's like they can smell your raging hormones, even at 2400 baud. And they stay away.

"You have no mail." Why doesn't it just say: "Nobody likes you. Get real."

Well, the opposite happens, too. All your chatting and picture-swapping and hard work pay off, your in-box finally gets full of pert little promises and phone numbers—only then, you're not in the mood. You're a being of light that week, above the sins of the flesh. You wouldn't cross the street for anyone less than Dan Haggerty in a buckskin jockstrap bearing a wedding ring. So you can't keep up with the electronic invites that finally come in; your pals from the Internet get huffy. Once more, "You have no mail." And you're back at square one.

By which time you're horny again.

All this doesn't stop me. I'm an Internet geek, through and through. I check for e-mail more than I scratch my balls, and considering where my balls have been lately, this is a bad thing.

I know that, when the planets line up just right, it can work out like a house afire.

That's why I keep coming back for more.

We sort of sized each other up standing at the urinals.

He was about 40 to 50, and balding, but he had a beard, and it was just beginning to turn gray around the edges, as was what was left of his hair. He was what you would call thick; not fat, just a big man—a big bear of a man, if you get my drift.

I'm 48 and, although I'm approaching the hill and ready to go over it, I think I keep myself pretty good-looking. I'm not thin, I'll be the first to admit it. But I do work out, and I'm pretty thick and muscular. I weighed in at 205 the last time I checked, and that was good. My hair is pretty much gray, and I've managed to keep most of it, just thinnin' a little at the top. They say you don't lose your hair, you just grow through it, and that's what I'm aimin' to do. My beard is going gray, and the mustache shows a real yellowish stain from all the smokin'. I love to smoke. Doctors say you shouldn't, but I intend to do two things till the day I die: fuck and smoke. I enjoy one about as much as the other, but you can imagine which I do more often.

I carry my cigarettes and cigars everywhere I go, and smoke whichever is permitted. These days not much is. I drive a truck, so I smoke the cigars mostly when I drive. I'd finished work tonight and headed for the rest area here on the interstate, to see what sort of action I might find there. Lately there hasn't been much. The young guys don't pay me much mind. They seem to think older guys aren't much good. I've taught a few of them a thing or two. To my mind, older guys are more experienced, and they know a lot more. Occasionally you'll find a young stud who's lookin' for an education, and I'm pleased to share what I've learned. But lately that's been few and far between.

He had the stub of a cigar in his mouth. I was surprised that he could still smoke something that small, but I could tell it was still lit from the smoke he was puffing. It was also very black-looking, like one of the big Te Amo cigars I like as well.

I finished first, or at least I left the urinal first. I had been standing there for some time, but he didn't know that. I washed my hands while I admired his body in the mirror. He had his back to the mirror, and I could see that the hair on his head didn't stop; he had hair coming up over his collar and, from what I could tell, he was probably pretty hairy all over. He narrowed at the hips properly and, although he was stocky, his legs weren't the big ugly piano legs you sometimes see on lumberjack types. He was well-proportioned; if he'd had a big head of hair on him, he would've looked really nice.

He turned around and saw me lookin' at him in the mirror, so I went back to washing my hands. He came to the sink beside me, put out his stump of a cigar under the water then tossed the cigar butt into the trash. When I looked up at myself in the mirror, I saw he was giving me the eye, too. "This might be interesting," I thought to myself.

I dried my hands and left the men's room, glancing in the mirror to see if he was still lookin'—he was. Good. I stepped outside and sat on the bench beside the water fountain to see what would happen next. The lights were just comin' on, as it was gettin' on to about 7 o'clock in the evenin'. Nice, cool night comin' our way. There were only a few cars in the lot, and a big RV. There were some trucks in the back lot, but I could tell all the truckers were sleepin'. I'd been at the rest stop long enough to figure that out. My friend came out of the men's room and looked the area over. He saw that I was by the fountain and came over to have a drink.

"Pleasant evenin'," he said.

"Yep," I responded. "Glad to have summer behind us. Good to have a crisp fall day." He took a long drink. "Care for a smoke?" I said, offering him a cigar from my pocket humidot.

"Don't mind if I do," he said. "What've you got here?"

"Punch Churchills. Got some others in my car if you prefer somethin' else."

"I like Te Amo. I got some in my RV if you'd like to try one," he offered.

"I like them, too—smoked a big one just the other day, about 50 ring," I said.

"Right on. I got some, come on," he said then led the way to his RV. He unlocked the side door and went in. "Come on in. It's nothin' to be proud of, but it's mine." I followed him in. He was right, it was nothin' to be proud of. It smelled of cigar smoke, but it was mostly clean. The sheets on the bed could've stood a washin', but it was acceptable. He pulled a cigar box out of a cupboard and offered it to me. It was a big box of Te Amo all right, and there were only a few missin', so it must have been fresh. I picked one up, unwrapped it and smelled it. It was very fresh, glistening in the faint light, like it had been oiled. "Just picked these up yesterday," he said. He offered me a cigar cutter, but I was already using my own. He used it on his, and I lit up. I used my Zippo, which I keep in my holster on my key ring. I gave him a light, too, and he rolled the cigar to light it evenly. He was an experienced cigar smoker; I wondered what other things he was experienced at. "So where you headed?" he asked.

"I'm on my way to Pittsburgh," I lied. "I got some people to visit there. What about you?"

"I'm just out for a pleasant evenin—to see what's going on, what's happenin', if you get my drift."

"My name is Jerry," I said.

"Paul," he said, and we shook hands. No last names, it fit the pattern.

"Have a seat," Paul said, motioning to one of the bench seats at the table. He took a seat opposite. I took a big drag on the cigar, and Paul did too. We both sent large blue clouds up toward the ceiling.

"These really are fresh," I said. "I like 'em a lot."

"I really like them, too," Paul said, "but you can't smoke cigars like the old days."

"Damn shame, too, ain't it, Paul? I can remember when I was younger, seemed like every one smoked, and no one minded cigars or pipes. Those were the days."

"Yeah, now it seems I can only smoke cigars when I'm by myself or with a friend," Paul replied.

"Have many friends around here?" I asked, not sure how to continue the conversation.

"No, I don't have too many friends. The young guys don't seem to like older guys." Guys, he said? Hmm, maybe I should continue this line.

"I know what you mean," I said. "Older guys are more experienced, know more ways to do it—can have more fun, if you get my drift."

"Oh, I think I do," Paul replied, then winked at me through a cloud of cigar smoke. "You ever pick up any younger guys in that bathroom?" It was out in the open now.

"Yeah, but they're not much fun. Just a quickie and they're gone."

"Ain't it the truth? The longer the better, I always say... and I can say that," Paul said, leaning back so I could see the bulge working its way down his pants.

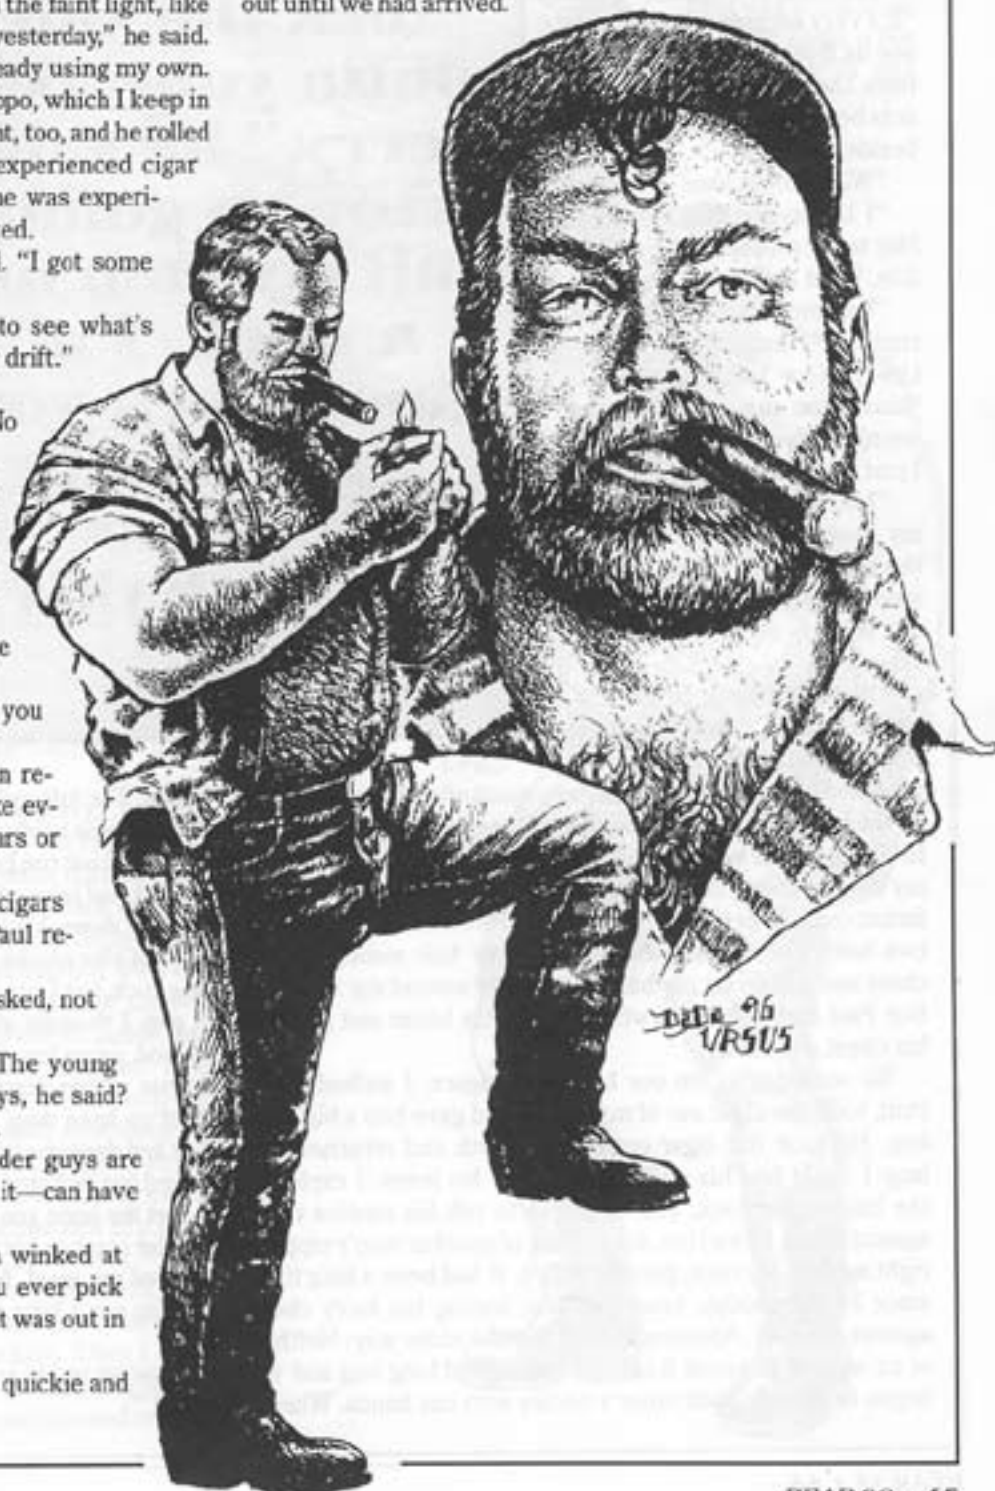

"Paul, maybe we could go somewhere in this RV somewhere more private?" I suggested.

"You know somewhere?" Paul asked, perking up.

"Yeah, I know a place. Let's go there."

"OK, you navigate, I'll drive," he said then sat behind the wheel as I moved to the passenger's seat.

"Take the first exit once you get back on the highway," I said. Paul stuck the big cigar in his mouth and didn't take it out until we had arrived.

I showed him where to get off the interstate, and the little country road that led to a high place where we could pull just off the road and still see the interstate far below. The lights of the cars outlined the route. The stars were beginning to come out. It was gonna be a beautiful night. "Want to get out and see it?" I offered. We stepped out and smoked for a while as we looked at the scenery.

"This is a nice place," Paul said through a blue cloud of cigar smoke. "Do you bring guys here often?"

"As often as I'm able," I said. "It's very secluded—no one can see us from the other side, and from the interstate we're just dots beside an RV." Paul came up beside me.

"What do you like?" he asked.

"I like everything. Usually I like to be on top, but I'm flexible. What about you?"

"I'm into water sports," Paul replied. "I usually don't carry the yellow hankie, though, 'cause you can get some real weirdoes if you do. I'm not crazy, I just know what I like."

"Me, too," I said as I took off my boots and put them inside the RV. Paul took his off, and we were barefoot.

"Where do we go?" Paul asked.

"We don't have to go anywhere," I said, "just around the other side of the RV. We're off the road, and no one comes up this way much after dark. If we stay on the backside of the RV no one will see us." I walked around to the back and began to undo my shirt buttons. I had one of my flannel shirts on, and Paul wore one just like it but a different color. When I got my shirt off, Paul had his off too, and two hairy chests were exposed. I have hair mainly on my chest and a little on my back, especially around my kidneys. But Paul had hair everywhere, up to his beard and all over his chest and back.

We were puffin' on our big, black cigars; I walked up to Paul, took the cigar out of my mouth and gave him a big bear hug. He took the cigar out of his mouth and returned the hug. I could feel his stiff dick through his jeans. I explored the hair on his back, and he began to rub his nipples right against mine. I love that, the feeling of another man's nipples right against my own, good and hard. It had been a long time since I held another bear like that, feeling his hairy chest against my own. Apparently Paul felt the same way: Neither of us wanted to break it off. We had a good long hug and we began to explore each other's bodies with our hands. When I brought my face up against his, our beards met, and we kissed. What a manly kiss, two beards rubbing together. We both tasted of cigars. It tasted great. We kissed for a long time; when our tongues got tired of each other's mouths, we used them to explore each other's beards and faces. Then Paul went after my nipples. I took a deep drag on my cigar then began to work on his belt. When I loosened the buckle, his jeans fell around his ankles. He had on a jockstrap—a man after my own heart. Paul straightened up, and I went after his nipples so he could release my belt. Soon my pants were around my ankles, and I kicked them away. Now we were just two bears in jockstraps, working each other over with our tongues.

Paul dropped to his knees and pulled my jockstrap down with his teeth; my dick slapped him in the face. He took it greedily in his mouth and nibbled the cockhead. Then he took it deep-throat, the whole eight inches. I took another deep drag as he went down on me, and he was givin' a great blowjob. After another drag, I pulled him up so I could go down on him. The head of his cock was so long that it peeked over the top of his jockstrap. He must've had 10 inches, and it was uncut. I took the foreskin in my teeth and forced the strap down with my chin to free that big cock from its elastic prison. The full cock sprang out, sticking straight out, ramrod stiff. He was ready. I rolled the foreskin back with my tongue and licked out the headcheese. He must've beat off in it, it was so thick and juicy with cheese. I lapped it up and began to work my way down his shaft. I felt him inhale and exhale a large cloud of blue smoke. I didn't know if I could deep-throat such a long cock, but I sure tried. I got most of it down before I began to gag. I thought about gettin' that big dick up my ass as I sucked, using long luxurious strokes with suction and lots of tongue action down the pisshole. He started shakin', so I must've been doin' it the way he liked. He pulled me off his dick and drew me up so we could kiss and hug some more. We kicked our jockstraps outta the way, too.

Let me hose you down," Paul said, and I stepped back. He put the cigar in his mouth, took his dick like a fire hose and sprayed me good, front and back.

"You got a lotta piss for a man just in the men's room," I said.

"I never waste my piss in a urinal," he said. "I save it for a friend."

"I'm gonna fuck the shit outta your ass, Jerry," he said. "You're gonna shit my cum for a week. I'm gonna fuck you till I knock your ass through this van."

I put the big cigar back in my mouth and bent over so he could spray my ass. He let me have it full, then began to use his dick like a tool as he pried at my asshole. I put my hands out to brace myself against the side of the RV and continued to puff on the cigar-dick in my mouth while Paul had his way with my ass. I wanted that big fuckpole up my ass, and it didn't take long for him to work it in. He used his piss as a lubricant on my ass, spraying me a little as he worked his way in. He'd push against me a little then give me a little more piss—he kept that up until he was good and inside me. With his hose planted up my ass, he gave me the rest of his piss load. It was warm and pleasant, filling my insides with warm liquid. Then he went deeper into my ass, using his piss to slide that huge dick all the way in. Once he was home, I could feel his balls resting against mine. He reached around and jerked my prick for a while, letting me get used to the big, wet dick up my ass.

"You ready for this fuck?" Paul asked, taking his cigar out of his mouth.

"I'm ready to get my ass fucked real good," I said, taking my cigar in my right hand. "I hope you're a good fucker, I like it hot and heavy." I moved my head a little lower, so he could bury that fuckpole up my ass as far as possible, and he did. I put the cigar back in my mouth and started suckin' on it again, sending out a big, blue cloud of smoke. Then he started fuckin' my ass. Once he started, he didn't stop. He just kept hammering it home up my ass. I tried my best to grip his dick tightly with my ass muscles when he hit bottom. He was a good fucker. He had me really excited. He held onto my hips and pounded my ass good, smokin' that big black cigar. It hurt like hell to have that big tool up my ass, and I was loving every inch of it. When he pounded me, piss sloshed around in my guts like waves of a sea inside my intestines. "Fuck my ass, Paul," I said. "Lemme have it. Put it to me good, I wanna remember this fuck for the rest of my life."

"I'm gonna fuck the shit outta your ass, Jerry," he said. "You're gonna shit my cum for a week. I'm gonna fuck you till I knock your ass through this van. I'm gonna cum up your ass, and you're gonna taste the cum. I'm gonna fuck your ass like you never been fucked before!" His big dick began to get real stiff up my ass, and I could feel it get red-hot with the load of cum headed my way, so I braced myself for the onslaught. He pounded my ass hard and spurted up inside me. "I'm cummin' up your ass, you fucker, here it cums!" Paul shouted, and he was true to his word. The cum seared my intestines as it spurted, and I could feel each shot deep inside. I took a deep drag on the cigar and held it tightly in my teeth as Paul pounded the cum out of his dick, milking every drop out of that big fuckpole of his. It was one hell of a fuck, and I could tell I was gonna have a hard act to follow.

When he was really empty, I squeezed my ass hard, forcing his limp cock to pop out. I turned around, took the cigar out of my mouth and gave him a big wet kiss. Then I went down on his limp meat, tasting his cum and my ass on his dick. After another big hug and kiss, he turned around to offer me his ass. I got eight inches cut, and I used what I had to best advantage. I pissed all over his legs and ass to get him good and wet. I'd been savin' it, too. I even pissed a little on my cigar butt, so I could taste the piss on my cigar when I was fuckin'. I sprayed his asshole good as I pressed my dick home in his hole. I sprayed a little piss up his ass once I popped in, then I sprayed my full piss-load up his tight ass. I was still carrying his full load of cum and piss which helped my dick stay stiff as a rod, though his tight ass was all I really needed. I began a s m o o t h fucking-motion, keepin' the cigar clenched in my teeth.

Paul was smokin' on both ends: a hot dick in one end, and a hot cigar in the other. I pulled his hips back to meet my dick on each stroke. It was a good, hot, wet fuck—one of the best I'd ever had.

"Paul, you got a tight ass, man... a real good fuck on the end of my dick," I said.

"You're a good fucker, Jerry, just keep it up. Fuck my ass as good as I fucked yours. Let me have it hard, I need a good, heavy piss-fuck!"

I piss-fucked his ass better'n anybody I ever fucked. It felt like I fucked that ass for an hour, and it was so sweet and wet and hot and tight. He was one terrific fuck, and I was gettin' close to shootin'. "Here it comes, Paul," I said. "Brace yourself!" Paul moved lower so I could fuck deeper. I whammed his ass the best way I knew how, pounding him hard and heavy.

"Fuck my ass, Jerry," he barked. "Hard, fuck me harder."

"I'm pounding you as hard as I can. Can't you taste my piss yet?"

"No, man," he grunted. "Give it to me now."

I pounded his ass as the cum shot up the length of my dick and up his wet hole. "Holy shit, what a fuck!" I yelled, and I tried my best to put his head through the wall of that RV. When I had milked all my cum into his ass, he squeezed my dick until it fell outta his ass. We hugged and kissed for a long time. "Paul, I gotta take a shit now," I said, "to get rid of the load you shot into me." I squatted and pushed a stream of piss and cum onto the dirt. Paul did the same, and a stream of hot cum and piss puddled under him. We cleaned ourselves up a little, fetched our clothes, and threw them into the RV. Then we finished our cigars while we stood around outside. When we were done, we each pissed on our cigars to put them out, tossed them away, then went inside.

"That was one hot fuck, Jerry," Paul said as he handed me a beer from the fridge. "You're a good fucker."

"I'm a good cocksucker, too," I said then went down on him to prove it. His meat was limp, but with a little tongue action, I had him standing at attention in no time. I love having sex with uncut men. I wish I hadn't been cut, but you have to play with the hand you're dealt. I make up for it by giving every uncut man I'm with the time of his life, if I can. After I had Paul good and hard, we docked. I rolled that foreskin of his clean over the head of my dick and beat both of us off together for a while. When I thought we were gettin' too close, I backed off. We went over the bed and got into a 69 with me on top.

Paul was a good cocksucker too, and it didn't take us long to pop our corks. There's nothing like the taste of a cigar-smokin' man who's had his dick up your ass. It tastes so good in your mouth, and the cum is nice and salty from bein' a smoker. We sucked each other dry, the cum spurtin' down our throats. Afterward we just cuddled, loving the feel of being against another man's hairy body. I really enjoyed the sensation of Paul's nipples rubbing against mine.

Paul and I aren't strangers anymore. We get together all the time up on our little hill. We call it Baldy's Mountain, 'cause Paul is mostly bald, and we both like mountin' each other so much. Seems we just can't get up there often enough, but when we do... well, you know.

DAVE

Dave comes to us from California by way of Virginia. Says he was riding horses there by the time he was 8, but switched to men by 18. He's pretty upfront when it comes to sex. Open to most experiences, but won't get caught up in the top/bottom thing. He likes spontaneity in his sex, rough play and wrestlin' around. Yeah you can plug him, but he'll just as quick flip you over and give you a righteous plow job himself. Suckin' dick is a favorite of his, and if you want to turn up the volume a little, play with his tits. Just lick on 'em a little or try some serious torture. You can tell they can take it.

It All Comes Out in the End

Bigger in Texas

The Dallas Bears hit one over the wall their first time at bat. The first-ever Texas Bear Round-Up, held the last weekend of March in Dallas, drew together 350 of the finest and furriest men that the Central U.S. has to offer and served 'em up with gracious hospitality.

The downtown Harvey Hotel could not have known that so many hairy, horny fellas deep in the heart of Texas would cum together under its roof. Oh well, at least the place is still standing... sort of.

Kicked off by beer busts—at the Hidden Door on Thursday and at the Hideaway on Friday—the proper festivities rolled around on Saturday with a vendor fair (like there never is one) and an even more popular Tex-Mex brunch right across the hall. By mid-afternoon, the T-shirts quit flying as the “on-line” social monopolized the pre-disco-rip hours.

The expanding ballroom turned “homosectional” Saturday evening to make room for The Mr. American Bear Contest, sponsored by American Bear magazine. The packed audience caught the fireworks of David Ellis and Bruce Easley, the masters (hmmm) of ceremonies and immortalized smut stars (see BEAR 29). All seriousness was avoided through the “cruise”-wear, “bear as you dare,” and Q & A segments of the program. Every contestant put a question into the bowl to be asked of another, but one, too terrifying to be spoken aloud, must now be made public: “The whiny GQ Empire had just attacked the Bear Galaxy stronghold, shaving our beards! Captain Galactic Bear, how will you thwart the evil Empire?” Right.

The 16 contestants were left dizzy, yet unscathed, with four guys coming away properly pedigreed. David Woerner won Grizzly, the ever-cute Jerold Parker took the Cub title, Bob Cates came away as Polar Bear, and the Jagermeister Man of Full Moon Saloon fame, Ed Blaisdell, tripped away as Mr. American Bear for 1996. Afterward, everyone headed to the Dallas

Eagle which gave a champagne toast to the winners. Congratulations to all the contestants—they had it goin' on!

By Sunday, when the men were... more familiar with one another, things got really comfortable. The Round-Up Saloon hosted a barbecue and country dance in the afternoon—and the party was still goin' strong that night at the Eagle's Farewell Beer Bust.

If their first event is any indication, the Dallas Bears' Texas Bear Round-Up is destined to take its place up there with San Francisco's International Bear Rendezvous, Chicago's Bear Pride and Orlando's Bear Bust as one of the not-to-be-missed annual bear-fests. Thanks to all the bars, the bears, and to the Harvey Hotel (although upping the elevator's weight limit for next year wouldn't hurt). They say everything is bigger in Texas, so here's to 1997's Round-Up (to be held the first weekend in April) being even bigger yet.

By the way, Miss Ellie, was the “Polar Bear from Saint Olaf” joke really worth it?

International Bear Rendezvous From a Different Angle

Four months after the fact, Bears of San Francisco's International Bear Rendezvous has faded to a happy memory and has been put into photo albums. Even your souvenir crabs have been sent packin'. And if you haven't called him by now, it's time to throw out those phone numbers you collected. Hey, what do I know? Maybe some of you snagged a keeper. Chances are, you'll still keep President's Day weekend open next year and make your way to this bear mecca. Rendezvous is quickly becoming for the bear community what International Mr.

Leather weekend is for the leather community—the one annual event not to miss.

If knowing that 650 attendees were drawn to the Ramada/Civic Center for this year's Rendezvous doesn't illustrate the largeness of this thing for you, then maybe the final tally of the charity funds raised by Bears of San Francisco, the event's host, will: $18,000, which is way up from last year's impressive total of $10,000. Who'd have thought we could do so much good while gettin' laid?

This year, Bears of San Francisco split the money evenly between one national and two local non-profit, direct-recipient organizations. On April 25, BEAR was invited back to the Ramada for a ceremony in which treasurer Ken Owens handed out the giant checks. Lurch, of course, emceed the festivities.

Betty Sullivan, representing the national board of Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays, accepted the first of three $6,000 awards presented that evening. Sullivan mentioned that PFLAG started out as a forum and support system for parents of lesbians and gays and has since increased its scope. In any gay pride parade, you can hear the crowd cheering for blocks as PFLAG marches down the street. "It's one of the great joys of marching in the gay pride parade," Sullivan said, adding that the bears "all look like my ex-husband."

Joseph Neisen accepted the next $6,000 award as executive director of Operation Concern and 18th Street Services in San Francisco, the largest provider of mental health and substance abuse services for gays and lesbians in San Francisco. And the final award went to the Stop AIDS project in San Francisco. Stop AIDS president Jon Huggett said his organization is focused entirely on stopping the spread of HIV among the gay community in SF.

Bears of San Francisco defines itself as a fraternal organization with charitable intent. By that measure, International Bear Rendezvous '96 was a stunning success, with plenty of fraternizing and plenty of charity. See you in San Francisco next February!

Big Fun on the Bayou

On April 20, the Second Annual Mr. Louisiana Bear contest was held in the upstairs bar of the Phoenix in New Orleans.

(Although I've never seen any lights on up there, so how could they judge?)

Guys from all over southeast Louisiana showed up to check out this year's contestants, some of whom appeared in our Cajun Issue, BEAR 24. Although there was a panel of seven judges, audience growls of approval counted in the scoring as well. (If I remember correctly, scoring has never been a problem at the Phoenix. Maybe those were moans, not growls.) The evening's big winner, Bobby Creekmore of the New Orleans Bears, walked away with $200 cash, a BEAR magazine subscription and Classic BEAR video, and the Mr. Louisiana Bear title. Hope to see you at Rendezvous, Bobby. ☺

Fuckin' Around

Below are the safe-sex basics for staying alive in the Angry '90s. Read them and follow them.

1. Sucking dick is one of those Risk Management deals. HIV has been found in pre-cum, and people have contracted AIDS just from sucking dick. Know that. But also know that not everyone who sucks dick gets AIDS. You have to decide. If it came with, say, a 15 percent chance of infection, would you still do it? Don't take cum in you. Don't suck cock with bleeding gums or pizza burns on the roof of your mouth.

2. Butt-fucking should be done with a condom. Without one, the opening of your dick smears right up against tissues that transmit the virus. That's how straight men get AIDS from women. Taking a dick up your butt without a condom, even for a minute, goes under the heading of A Really Bad Idea. Your shit-chute's a sponge for viruses. In fact, your body actually wants to pull viruses into your bloodstream so it can learn more about them. HIV's a Rubik's Cube that your warm, fuzzy little body'll never learn to crack. So when fucking, make sure you're using a latex rubber (not an animal-product condom). Oil-based lubes such as Vaseline, Crisco, Wesson or hand lotion'll melt a regular rubber. Use a water-based lube. They now sell polyurethane condoms that can be used with oil, but they haven't yet been officially rated for blocking HIV.

3. If you're cumming inside someone with a rubber on, do a final safety check before you shoot. Make sure the hummer's on right and in one piece. Afterward, back out carefully while holding the rubber tight at the base of your dick shaft. Wash your dick and pubes before taking the condom off.

4. Eating butt is a lot like sucking cock. The risk is there, but is not absolute. Shit can contain the virus, in various strengths, depending on your partner's health. There again, you have to decide. Blood and tiny scrapes will be present—tasty, but perhaps dangerous.

5. Fist with gloves on. Your hand can get scraped in ways you won't necessarily see or feel.

6. Cum has the highest concentration of HIV. So let him shoot on the furniture instead of in your eyes, across your buttocks or on your peeling hangnails.

7. Don't force the other guy to take care of you. Sorry, dude. It's your job.

8. People fib. Protect yourself anyway.

9. Getting shit-faced makes lots of things sound like real good ideas that maybe aren't. Keep sex and drugs in separate bedrooms (rock-n-roll, though, is always cool).

10. Whether you're HIV-positive or not, have you decided you're going to stay healthy? It's kind of easy to fall into the "we're all going to get sick eventually" shit-hole. Lemme tell you something: You get what you settle for. So take care of yourself out there.
