Write To Papa

Thank You, Sir. May I Have Another?

I just want to comment that your magazine is truly a disgrace to the publishing industry and enjoyably so. The non-traditional schedules that you people keep in publishing and filling subscriptions, it gives new hope to my belief that traditional predictability is not the best thing to come along. Consider that a couple of years back, I paid for a subscription for a year, only to have received maybe three issues. Well then near the end of the year I cancel the subscription, feeling disappointed. Then about six months later I start receiving your magazine for nine months or so. Are you toying with me? I realize that this letter and check will probably yield me nothing, but it's a gamble somewhat worth taking with your sick little magazine.

And then there are the "advertisers," a few of which I have sent for information and never received anything. The ultimate funding source, no doubt; I'm envious. So are you all a bunch a straights selling smut to those of us who are hard up, or do you just get sick of your work sometimes like the rest of us and spice it up by being obstinate? Either way, I'm impressed and will continue to allow my standards to be lowered simply by subscribing.

On a less serious note: Have I seen pictures that were airbrushed? My god, airbrushing? There is just no place in a fine and disgusting one-handed magazine like BEAR for airbrushing. If this is the case, I must say that when I think of BEAR, it's about real people. Airbrushing is like denial. I just don't find it amusing.

And it would be nice if the photos in BEAR could be colored rather than black-and-white. This is the '90s you know. Real people have color and variety. Is this some sort of metaphor, or are you too damn cheap to use color processing?

S.B.

*The metaphor is porn as ice cream. Color processing is like adding too many jimmies to the cone. (Don't even try to make sense of that, we certainly can't.) The color vs. black-and-white issue is one we wrestle with all the time. It has nothing to do with costs—Brisk Creek publishes five other magazines that include color pages. It has more to do with keeping BEAR from looking like all the other smut mags on the shelves. We want to keep it from getting slick. There's something about keeping this like a homespun newsletter that appeals to us. I'm not sure if color would necessarily change that, but we kinda like black-and-white photography.*

*We did try a little experiment this year with our 1998 BEAR Calendar—it's in full-color. It'll be interesting to hear the reaction from our readers and retailers. Let us know. Up until now the mail has been divided on the issue.*

I'll confess to the airbrushing (what a quaint phrase in these electronic publishing days!), but it's not like you think. We don't

The Wittke Wire

It was like driving past an auto accident: I didn't want to look at the article in the issue of Genre magazine with the now-hairy-chested Bob Paris gazing out from the cover, looking for all the world like Michael T. Weiss from Jeffrey and The Pretender. But I couldn't stop myself, and I can't believe I read the whole thing.

You remember Paris, don't you? How could you forget the openly gay professional bodybuilder appearing with Rod Jackson, his then-"husband" (their word), on all those talk shows and magazine covers, celebrating their perfect "marriage" (again, their word) just a few short years ago? In the Genre interview with Robert L. Pena, Paris shows a remarkable lack of self-awareness for a guy so self-obsessed. For example, discussing the Jackson-Paris breakup, Paris says: "After we split up, I was confused by the vehemence of the response. The ill will was so great."

The sad thing is, Paris seems to think that all that ill-will was generated because the Paris-Jackson bust-up "sent the wrong message to straight people about gay relationships." Well, that's probably not it, Bob. Most of us could care less what messages are sent to straight people about gay relationships or anything else. It's probably because we never bought the perfect marriage act that you and Rod trotted out for every camera or reporter with a notebook who crossed your paths. Most everybody knows how difficult real relationships are, and I for one, remember thinking that all your talk of marriage and husbands and weddings and cakes in no way guaranteed the success of yours. So nobody was surprised when your marriage, like more than half of the hetero marriages you held up as a model, busted like a piñata at a crowded fiesta.

That ain't even the worst of the interview. There's also the admission and rationalization of steroid abuse: "I was making legitimate choice for my sport, which was what I was doing for a living at the time." And then there's my personal very favorite section:

Genre: There's a new gay male aesthetic: Buff, muscular bodies are the ultimate. How have you helped inform that aesthetic?

Bob Paris: It was incidental and accidental. There was no conscious effort on my part to inform this aesthetic. I've heard that the photo books I did [with Herb Ritts and Tom Bianchi] forwarded that ethic, but it wasn't like, I want to show people how their bodies should look. The world would be an incredibly boring place if we all looked the same.

Excuse me as I guffaw my way to the toilet so as to throw up. I'm sure the part do it to make the models prettier, or dicks bigger. It's more about removing distracting objects in the backgrounds or shadows across faces. Or to hide penetration in a great photo which we couldn't otherwise print (most of our distributors won't carry magazines with obvious penetration).

Now... about dickin' with you on our publishing dates and subscription fulfillment. You give us more credit for depravity than we could ever hope to make good on. If we wanted to toy with you for real, we'd send you chick magazines instead of BEAR! What you're describing sounds like what happened three or four years ago (circa BEAR 29 and 30) just before Brush Creek Media was sold to current publisher Bear-Dog Hoffman. Publishing had become irregular, and we had many subscribers cancel. When the business changed hands, BEAR got back on track and we fulfilled outstanding subscriptions. A couple of confounding kinks in the delivery system still sneak up from time to time, but for the most part we've stuck to the bimonthly schedule.

And finally...if you or anyone, is having trouble with an advertiser, let us know! We don't want to be running bogus ads in our magazines.

Plays Well with Others

I can't say enough about this incredible magazine! As usual, BEAR 45 is another great collage of furry, dick-waggin', hairy ass-lickin' bears! Congrats on the connect with Canadian Male, I just happen to have that same issue with Claude and Paul, but that pic with his tongue sliding up that asscrack really sends me! It was given to me at Spring Thaw up here in Seattle.

I noticed something strange in your ad for (your new video) Leather Bears at Play—a non-bear! And I was wondering, can I play, too? What would it take to get Joe Thomas to squat down on my tongue while Mack pounded my little ass with that slab o' meat of his? Whatever it takes, I want it on vid! Here's a pic of me to show them what's in store. (It's a couple years old but I think they'll get the "point.") Please send about "no conscious effort" is true since, to make a conscious effort one must have a consciousness. But I love the way Paris treads the line between being a part of some nebulous "gay community" while simultaneously remaining above it. Paris "heard" that his photo books influenced community norms? Has he looked around? Has he ever been in—or seen a photo of—a crowd of circuit queens with their matching biceps and their identical shaved armpits and their glassy eyeballs and their cult-clone grins and their "No Pecs No Sex" T-shirts? "Informed the ethic," Bob? Man, you helped invent it, and then you took it to the bank. And just glancing through Genre and the rest of your typical mainstream gay rags does confirm the incredibly original theory that the world is indeed a boring place when everybody looks the same. It's your world, Bob Paris, and you're welcome to it. (Love the chest hair, though, you should keep it.)

Phew, I'm glad I got that off my hairy chest. Let's see, who else is there to talk about? I quickly mentioned the San Diego Padre's Ken Caminiti a couple issues ago, and I have since become completely obsessed with collecting photos of him. You really have to check him out, he's like a baseball-playing Clydesdale who throws his massive, fur-covered body around with the fervor of a professional wrestler. If you can dig up the May 7-13, 1997, issue of Baseball Weekly (with a full-color shot of Caminiti on the cover and a mouthwatering shirtless b&w photo inside), you'll see exactly what I mean. "Cammy," as his teammates call him, has become my number-two favorite major-league baseball player. He's right in line after my forever number-one, the Minnesota Twins' Paul Molitor, whose teammates call him "Molly." Through a series of wily Dedicated Fan maneuvers that stopped just this side of stalking, I happened to get within about 3 feet of Mr. Molitor as he strolled through a mall connected to a hotel that hosts visiting major-league baseball players in my town. He had on a short-sleeved, open-collared shirt that showed off the copious body hair that covers his arms and chest in a certain way that made me tingle. I didn't actually say anything to him, because I was so tongue-tied by his physical attractiveness. He was walking swiftly and talking to some guy I didn't recognize when I heard him say the following two words: "...passionate game" I have no idea what he was talking about, but I have decided to make these two words my new Philosophy of Life.

If you need to get something off of your chest, email Chris Wittke and tell him all about it: wittkewire@writeme.com.

it to them, or print it if you'd like. My dick in your black-and-white pages is a total fantasy of mine.

As you can see, I'm not a bear, which brings me to bitch at K.L., Colorado (BEAR 45, Write to Papa). Get over it... Don't try to fit in so hard! My own big furry bear, Randy, would love to show you what some bears would do to that furless ass of yours. F.R., Washington

He likes your bod, you like his. See, it's not that difficult. Thanks for letting others know that relationships like yours really do exist. Your photo raised a few eyebrows here—we wouldn't mind seeing you use your own slab o' meat sometime. It caught the attention of our video manager, Graylin Thornton, who told me to pass him the photo for his "for consideration" files. Can't promise anything about Joe or Mack (come on down to Orlando for Bear Bust—you're sure to meet Joe), but glad to have you on our pages.

The Canadian Male guys are great. Was up in Toronto this past August where I got to see the CM operation and hang out with the bear crowd at the Black Eagle and Toolbox. Had so much fun I didn't realize I hadn't met Claude and Paul until I got home.

Where in BEAR

Point of interest about your Bearman '97 calendar: Where are Mr. June and Mr. August from? Do these fine gentlemen appear on any pages of BEAR? Both of these men are too hot to handle; photos would be great.

I also wanted to find out if you got my re-up on my subscription. I'd hate to miss a single copy. If there are any problems, please contact me. Thanks for your help and for your magazine.

G.M., Vermont

Your subscription goes through BEAR 50, guy. All is well. As for the calendar guys, that's Ed from the Full Moon Saloon in Orlando, Florida, on the June page. Despite his being a former Mr. American Bear, he hasn't been on our pages, or anywhere else that I know of.

Ed is just one of many guys we've approached who doesn't want to get naked for our cameras. (Some are school teachers, psychiatrists, fathers of teenagers, etc.)

We try to snag them for calendar or product model shoots instead. Same goes for the men on page 77; they're all guys we wanted in BEAR, but they weren't interested in waggin' their dicks at the whole wide world. It's our way of sharing more good-lookin' guys with you.

The August shot is of Joe Gallagher, who appeared in BEAR 36. Joe is a former Mr. International Leather, has appeared in Brush Creek's International Leatherman magazine, and is one of the nicest guys you'll ever meet.

Poz Bears

This comment is a reaction to JP's letter to BEAR (issue 44) and your response to it.

While from a political standpoint I, as a gay man with AIDS, would expect to be included along with everyone else in your classified pages, I feel that a "Positive Bears" section would make it a lot easier for guys like me to find sex partners.

I'm not surprised so many positives lie about their HIV status when the possibility of sex occurs: Prospective partners can be fucking rude when you disclose your condition to them. So much for being honest! Because I prefer to mate with gay men who share my condition—and with negative men who are understanding—a PozBear section would remove one less hurdle to finding partners.

Some bars have "Positive" nights—cruising is actually fun again. All the men there are on a level playing field in regard to HIV.

You're right when you state that positives are everywhere in society and shouldn't be excluded. But in your zeal to be politically correct, you're making life a bit more difficult for positives and PWAs—some of whom are your loyal subscribers.

So get off your high horse and at least try a PozBears section for a few issues. Do us positive bears a kindness! We need affection just as much as—if not more than—the negative guys!

G.B., e-mail

My reply did reek of political correctness upon re-reading. My biggest objection to a PozBears personals section isn't the segregation part, but the logistical nightmare. Should we have an Arizona Positive section and an Arizona Negative section? What about the guys who don't disclose their status in their ad? Should our readers assume they're negative? (Woah... scary.)

Those issues aside, I still don't see the point. Guys who want others to know they're positive state their status in their ad. If you're looking for an HIV-positive partner, choose from those ads. Grouping them into a Poz Bear section wouldn't give you more choices, and the only hurdle it would remove is to cut down your browsing time. Hey, why not sections for non-bears or daddy bears or physically challenged bears while we're at it? They're loyal subscribers too. Sorry for being so flip, but this argument could work for any sub-group.

My "we're all in this together" stance also comes from living in San Francisco, where HIV issues are so much a part of daily life. The positive/negative label doesn't seem like much of a stigma here. From what I've seen, positives and negatives routinely mix sexually, romantically and socially. But I forget sometimes that I live among the queer vanguard, and that attitudes are very different in most other parts of the world. Thanks for the reality check.

Favorite Bears

I've been enjoying your magazine for years and decided to finally send you a long-overdue fan letter. The photos of the models are wonderful, of course. But I also appreciate your sense of humor and how the magazine never takes itself too seriously. Maybe "irreverent" is the right word. For what it's worth, my all-time favorite models are Tony Bruno (BEAR 13) and Jack Keller (BEAR 42). Are these guys in any of your videos? And while I'm quizzing you, have you ever tallied who rates as your readers' all-time favorite?

M.D., Virginia

Neither Tony nor Jack are in any of our videos. But not because we didn't beg! Readers usually mention (in boner-inducing detail) a favorite model of theirs when they write to us, and we pay attention to that. But we don't need a formal tally for the favorite BEAR model. Jack Radcliffe (BEAR 11) is the most popular by far. Others who come to mind are Buster (BEAR 35), Mack (BEAR 30) and Jack Keller.

The Bear Book

Readings in the History and Evolution of a Gay Male Subculture

Les Wright, PhD

Founder and Curator,
The Bear History Project, Boston

The Bear Book is a composite portrait of gay bears—usually big, hairy men who favor full-face beards and prefer to wear jeans and flannel shirts. This emergent social phenomenon and new sexual iconography is burgeoning across America, Western Europe, and other parts of the gay global village. The first-ever book on the gay bear phenomenon, the book offers readers a collection of first-person observations and historical and critical investigations by participant observers within and outside the bear community.

Jack Cummings

Jack Cummings made himself known to BEAR when he sent us a copy of his Third World Video release Sperminator and asked us to check it out. This guy rocks! Jack has some of the most unique masturbatory techniques we've ever seen (and, baby, we see a lot here!) and an obsession for showin' them off. His ejaculations are amazing. Loves to eat his own cum too.

We can't legally publish the more explicit photos of Jack in action, but the combination of the ones printed here and accompanying excerpts from his letters to BEAR will give you the picture. If you're intrigued by what you read here, you can order the Sperminator video for yourself (see page 8) or contact Jack through his e-mail address: sperminator2@hotmail.com.

I have forwarded a copy of the Sperminator video to you so you're able to see firsthand the exciting and unique acts of self-gratification I am keen to display openly for the camera, whether video or still. I am hoping that your magazine might like to publish a more daring spread of me, perhaps even ones of me burying different objects fully down inside my cock.

For your information, I am able to take an 11-inch stainless steel 3/8-inch rod easily down my shaft once I get the juices flowing from my primed hard-on. I think the display of such images in a progressive insertion would make quite a show. Feeding up to 40 similar-diameter steel ball bearings into my cockhead opening is another favorite antic I enjoy doing for an audience, then blasting the cum and steel from my tract. If such performances are suitable for your readers, I am happy to submit photos from my own portfolio, or oblige one of your photographers with a live demonstration to capture.

Too bad your mag can't show the explicit photos of my ejaculation. Cumming is so much of what I am into. Whether I shoot my load onto my face or let it fly across the room, I love seeing jizz spew in dramatic fashion. In my second Third World Video, I am forever eager to be seen eating my own cum with obvious gluttony. I even captured over 50 ejaculations in a jar, keeping it frozen, then took it to NY where I drank the entire slimy mass for the camera!

I have corresponded with many interesting men who are equally into their own cocks. In some cases I have even traveled to explore intensive j/o bouts with select viewers. I have developed quite a yearning to feel other cocks pouring their jizz over my loins as I perform. I often dream of doing a scene with perhaps 40 guys jacking off on me at once in a virtual cum bath. Perhaps this BEAR pictorial might yield such an opportunity someday.

Everything else I have desired has certainly come to pass.

Well, I hope these images entice you to enjoy your own juices! I wish you could watch me lap up mine. But then, the Sperminator video shows dozens of cumshots. Let me entertain you through video for now. Who knows where things might lead?

Jack

Cover Your Ass

*Legal Perspectives
by Jeff Kilpatrick*

SCAM!

Have you returned home from work, looked at the mail and seen a letter asking you to "invest" in gold coins? Or have you gotten a letter telling of choice vacation real estate, and being awarded a trip of two days and a night to inspect the property? Maybe Publisher's Clearing House has sent a prize offer, advising that you and two others have made the cut, so please respond promptly. A lot of us place these "opportunities" in the circular file. If that's you, then sip another cup of java, and I'll see you next issue. I need to talk to the rest of you.

My basic rule on scams: Anything that requires a parting of more than $20 of your money or more than half an hour of your time is a potential scam. If you want to take a chance with Publisher's Clearing House, be my guest. At best the prize patrol, balloons and notoriety that winning brings may impinge on your life; at worst you might have some reading material in your house that you actually want to read. Ditto for those light bulbs you buy over the phone, or the charity solicitors who call. However, cover your ass here and specify clearly how much you're giving. A phone solicitor for a nationally known charity committed to historic preservation convinced a client of mine to agree to make a $25 donation. When the forms arrived in the mail, she was listed as having committed to a $125 donation. The easy remedy here is to tell any phone solicitor you're very happy to read any printed material they send and that you never make any donations based on a phone appeal. This pleasant approach is amazingly effective. It ends phone calls at the dinner hour, and half the time they have no literature to send. Another dodge I've found that works well is when I pick up the phone and a strange voice says, "I'm calling from the American Terminal Disease Charity. Is this Mr. Kilpatrick?" I respond, "I'm sorry, he's out. May I take a message?" This pleasant approach also works. Most of the time I never hear from them again.

OK, that's the little stuff. Let's talk about the guys who are really after your money, say in the $1,000 to $100,000 range. A scammer is always going to pitch the proposition in terms of an "investment" that makes money at some point. However, the time to buy is always "now" because prices will never be this low again. The pitch with gold coins is double-edged. First, they'll tell you the coins are art forms from years gone by and fewer of them are available with each passing year. Second, dire financial times are upon us and gold is a unique hedge against financial troubles. Both are true statements, but in circumstances so extreme that most folks will never encounter. Many gold coins such as the French Louis d'Or have some value as coins, but their chief value is their gold content. Condition is everything. A badly scratched gold coin is worth its gold content and little more. Remember also, the coin valuer's maxim: "If it's my coin, it's very very fine—but if it's your coin, it's only very fine."

The disaster scenario is usually pitched at older people who have a collective, if not actual, memory of The Depression. This tactic works from a combination of vague fears: evil empires, Martians, dictators and the failure of every safety net that our government has erected in the past 60 years. It's possible, but not probable. Do you get a feeling for the scammer yet? It's a two-edged pitch to both your greed and fear. I can do little to protect you from your greed, but as to your fear, wait a bit, talk to your friends and trusted advisers, and then see if you feel so fearful. Anytime a stranger tells you, "You must act now, or else..." you usually should wait. At the very least, cover your ass and get a second opinion.

Has anyone ever offered you a "choice piece of prime vacation land at a price you won't believe—but act now, only a few ranchettes remain"? My rule on vacation land is this: It should be easily accessible. I'd want to inspect any land before I bought it, if only to cover my ass. In the '60s Florida real estate boom, some land was sold that spent most of the year under water. An inspection trip was certainly warranted there. I also remember seeing "ranchettes" offered in Colorado; the site was breathtakingly beautiful, but a plane was needed to get to the site. Honor that little voice inside you that says, "If this stuff is such a bargain, why aren't they buying it themselves or selling it to their buddies? Why me, an outsider unknown to them?". This little voice is your best defense against a scammer who comes on like your best friend and financial advisor, even though you've only been acquainted for 48-hours.

I also encourage you to visit the county courthouse to see if there are any liens, mortgages or other obligations on the property. "Free and clear" is the best way to buy property, and I'd suggest that you hire a lawyer in the state where the property is located to make sure that your interests are safeguarded. Remember, a rascal will guarantee anything, and he may even do so in writing, but you'll never collect very much from a bankrupt rascal. If a deal "is so good that you can't walk away from it," that's probably exactly what you should do. If you must act immediately, don't. Take care and cover your ass.

Dublin City Centre wasn't just mad, it was bedlam! Christmas comes but once a year... thank heaven. The streets overflowing with last-minute shoppers, out-of-towners, and emigrants home for the holidays.

The crowd of us poured out of Bewley's Coffee House onto Grafton Street and were overwhelmed by a tidal wave of noise and activity. Shop windows aglow with all their Christmas finery. "Mammy!" cried some protesting child, "Ma!" as she was dragged by the hand through the crowds. A gentle, lacy snowfall filtered down from the heavens and, saying our farewells, I turned up my coat collar against the chill wind and braced myself to forge a path homeward.

Pressing through the crowd, between drunken laughter and rabid chatter, I stopped suddenly. A voice caught my ear, bass baritone and sweet as a nut, singing "Silent Night." Wafting over me like perfume... like musk... a fragrance ripe with the promise of a wonderful life. My chin lifted from my collar, while straining to see... a beard, and sparkling eyes.

There, spotlighted under an amber street lamp, stood the archetypal Father Christmas. Six-feet-plus. A hooded coat circled at the waist by a thick leather belt. Red britches tucked into calf-length, black leather boots. Close-cropped, snowy white hair grew low on his forehead. A thick beard grew high on his rosy cheeks, topped by a big walrus mustache, curled at the ends. Singing for some charity. Drawn as to a siren's song, I edged toward him, my shoes crunching and sliding on the carpet of snow.

Filled with the spirit of the season and influenced not a little by his magnetic presence, I handed over a fiver. I addressed him: "Father Christmas?"

A meaty paw plucked the note from my fingers. He said, "Thank you kindly, son," with a voice as dark and rich as Christmas pudding.

I felt my knees buckle at the play of his eyes, his hot breath billowing in my face.

He brushed against my heavy carrier bags and, without breaking our gaze, asked, "And what might you be wanting from Santa this Christmas time? No... let me guess..." His smile was as white as his hair. Perfect teeth with a cute little gap in front, up top. Dazzling white. "I believe I have just the thing. Have you been a good boy all year?"

My face flushed as I smiled bashfully. "Yeah, always good."

"Then I'll see what I can do," he chuckled.

I looked him up and down, thinking, "If only!"

He answered as if he'd read my thoughts: "If you've been good, I'm obligated to give you what you want. It's my job... to grant the desires of your heart." His eyes never left mine, never stopped smiling.

I gave him a quizzical look.

"Come fly with me," he replied with a wink. "Just put yer arm around me shoulder and hold tight."

Crazy! Yet without faltering, I hooked myself around him and was swept up in an icy gust. In the moment, I felt how a rolin might feel, held by the wind. Someone called out, "Yer shopping bags!" but I only heard this fading into the distance. Then hearing

santa's sackful

I was awakened by a rushing, like the spray of a waterfall. My face on his shoulder was dusted with snowflakes. His massive hands held me tightly. His bass voice murmured beside me, inside me. Whispering, singing, humming, laughing.

Suddenly, I was in a cave. His cave. Head back on fur pillows. Fur rugs under me, around me, over my naked body. My clothes in a heap alongside. No recollection of being stripped bare. A crackling fire in one corner and opposite, lit by the blaze, a mountain of presents. I rubbed my sleepy eyes and heard murmuring noises still. Then twinkling eyes...

Santa sank down on the edge of the makeshift bed, dumping a sack of goodies beside him. He smiled down upon me, and we remained silent for a moment. Finally he asked, "What's yer name, son?"

"Michael... Mick, Mick O'Connor."

"And yeh know who I am?"

"Yeah, you're the man that's on the front of Christmas cards, aren't yeh?"

He chuckled, "Father Christmas, son. But you... you can call me Daddy."

He turned and dipped into the big bag of presents. "Now, let's see... What do we have here?" The first gift he produced brought tears to my eyes. Tommy! My beloved teddy bear. I'd had him with me always. He'd even rode with me in my pram. That's how I'd lost him. Saturday shopping, somehow I'd lost him. Mammy bought me any number of replacements, but I was inconsolable. Now, after all these years, he was once again being clutched to my chest.

The appearance of the second present made my eyes water for completely different reasons. A giant double-ended dildo. Long and fat and heavily veined. Santa's fingers barely met as he held it around the circumference. The third gift, a giant tube of lube. "And this, just for starters, my boy," he said.

I must have winced, because he let out a roar of laughter whilst his eyes grew even more kindly. "Now don't yeh worry about a thing," he cooed, yanking off one big boot. "I'll loosen yeh up gently," he cupped the bulge in his pants. "First I'll give yeh what yeh really want, young fella." Off came the second boot.

With his red coat pulled apart, he looked like a big, burst sofa. Curly white hair smothered his skin, barrel chest, muscular arms and broad back. Big paws unbuckled the belt and pulled it through the hoops. Trousers dropped down over powerful thighs and a big, fuzzy, chunky butt. Lifting a knee to tug the trousers off, a clump of chalky hair peeked out from his spreading crack.

My cock was up and pulsing against the fur blanket. A delicious friction produced a tickling sensation deep within my sizzling, uncooked hole. I was mesmerized by his pendulous balls as they swung between his legs, by the rhythmic twitching of his stiffening cock. The strawberry head blushed crimson atop a colossal ivory column. Hoisted aloft, transparent globs of goo began to dribble from the puckered eye then run down the underside of his cosh. Glistening balls ballooned low in his pouch with thirst-quenching promise. Rising up from somewhere deep in my bowels, a groan escaped my lips. He stroked my forehead, "Shush... shush... it's OK. It'll be worth it! I swear."

Leaning forward, as if to kiss me, he brought the full, wet width of his tongue to lick my face from bottom to top. Breaking the tension, I giggled like a child. His whiskers rubbed against my own. My lips searched for, then sucked on, his mustache. The same big, wet tongue poked and probed its way into my mouth and stretched back almost to the tonsils. My fingers gripped and clung to the hair on his back. He ripped the fur rug off me and, flinging it to one side, brought his full weight down upon me. Parting my legs, he ground his hips against mine.

I hadn't believed in Father Christmas since I was maybe 5 or 6. All the magic had gone once Derek Byrne put me straight on the subject. He'd made me feel like the butt of some horrible joke. Twenty-odd years had come and gone since then, only to find out he'd lied to me. Santa Claus did exist. It was impossible to deny his existence as he pinned me on my back. I felt cheated! I felt like getting my own back!

"I can't fuck with yeh, Father Chr..." I whimpered, jerking back my head.

"Call me Daddy..."

"No! No, I can't!"

"Call me Uncle Chris then," he replied.

"No. No! Me Mammy told me not to talk to men like you!" I tried to wrestle him off. "Let me go... I don't want to!"

"Why, you little bastard. I'll break your fuckin' neck!" the gentle giant thundered into action, leaping up to pin my arms either side of my head with his knees. "I'll not take no for a fuckin' answer!" Santa drew his baton to my lips and waved it menacingly.

"Please, Uncle Chris, please don't make me do it!" I blubbered in an Oscar-winning performance, quickly followed up with a broad grin.

"You..." he smeared the oozing tip round and around my lips, "you little bastard!" He grinned and stuffed his roast beef down my gullet. "That should stop yeh fuckin' whining."

It did too. It acted as a comforter.

Hooking his fingers behind my head, he rocked gently backward and forward, backward and forward, slowly building up steam. I couldn't help but gag and gulp whilst pleading with my eyes, but to no avail. He was insistent in his need of relief. On and on, sliding in deep... deeper... "I'm fuckin' mad into yeh, Michael. Fuckin' mad into yeh," his words resonated against the granite walls, his clanging bollocks reverberating against my chin. "Take it easy, d'ye hear me? Relax!" Then abruptly he withdrew, slapping me playfully about the face with his Christmas log. A little annoyed, I raised my head to flick it with my tongue, but he gripped me gently by the ears and restrained me. "Wait!" he bid me. Wide-eyed, mocking me, "What's yer hurry?"

With finger and thumb, he nipped the base so that the glistening, bulbous head and rock-solid pole bloated to perfection. "Isn't it a beauty?" he teased, holding it just out of reach. "Beautiful, eh? Smell it!" He stuck it under my nose, and I inhaled to capacity, my head swimming. "Makes yer mouth water, doesn't it, yeh little hoor?" Again I strained my mouth toward it. "Wait!" he demanded once again, then his face cracked in a big grin. "Bet yeh can't wait till Santa comes?"

I nodded furiously. Admiring his own portentous erection, he spat on his free hand and lovingly caressed the succulent shaft, delighting in my adoration then benevolently restoring the full length down my aching throat. "Stuffing yer stocking—oh, fuck—I'm gonna cum down yer chimney!" Once again, he quickly re-established his rhythm: up to the tip, down to the base. "Let me fuckin' cram yer stocking full to bursting. Empty me big sac of goodies into yeh." His organ swelled to a crescendo, whilst I tooted like a maestro. "Yeah, suck it, yeh little cum bucket. Drag deep, drain it all out. That's a good wee fella." And then the groaning voice built quickly from a gentle rumble to a bellowing howl: "Suck it now, Michael. Suck it. Suck. I'm cummin', young Michael. Cummin'. Cummin' now. Get ready. Oh, get ready, wee Mick. Here it cums, my boy. Cummin' now! Oh... Oh... Oh...! Yeah! Yeeeahhss! Yeeeahhss! Fuckin' Yeeeahhss!"

A blast of thick, pungent sperm punched my tonsils, pummeled against the back of my open throat—then once more and once again. Spurt upon thick, luscious spurt. My lips held tight, squeezing every last drop from his pleasure-dome and gulping it down. His huge body quivered, wracked with pleasure. Moaning in rhythm with each fervent after-suck. Santa groaned aloud at each thrust of my tongue as it probed into his piss slit, lapping up the last precious honey-sweet drops.

His laughter caused a resounding echo. Pleased with himself, pleased with me. He rolled off my chest and lay down beside me. Cradling me in his arms, he began to sing: "Jingle bells, Rudolph smells, Prancer's a disgrace. Much more fun it is to ride on a horny fucker's face. Oh...."

He chuckled and clasped my knob in his hairy mitt, sliding the foreskin backward and forward purposefully. My toes curled and my thighs stiffened. He sure knew how to work my dopper. "Looks a wee bit sore—all red and swollen. Maybe I should return the favor?" And he was up and on his knees. First time his open mouth encased my cockhead, I quivered like jelly on a plate. His expert technique drove me to distraction and beyond. Depraved would be more accurate. My fingers found his still-moist cockhead then slithered a snail's trail around to his hairy hole. One digit teased the opening, drawing circles, feeling his tender ring pulse at my touch, then voluntarily open to give access.

One, then two fingers—then a third and a fourth digit—slipped in to the second knuckle with minimal effort. I swirled my hand around whilst he shuddered and shook. "Sit yerself down and get comfy," I insisted, maneuvering him back to hover squarely over my face whilst he sucked ever more wantonly. "Wouldn't yeh just love to take the weight off those big balls?"

Spreading his cheeks, I basked in the light of this holy vision. "Oh, my," I growled, "I'm goin' to lick half yer brain out!" then I dove in, bathing every crevice with spittle. His hair matted into dark wads and spikes, becoming plastered to his fleshy purple sphincter as I drove my tongue ever deeper. Pulling him open, two fingers either side, I hit the spot, and he went wild, grinding down with his firm, fleshy mounds, smothering me with his quivering thighs. Roughly, I heaved his buttocks up to within an inch of my face and spat into the gaping hole. Again I spat, and again, until saliva drenched his hole. Then, reaching for the double dildo, I punctured the seat of his passion.

In the instant he cried out, "Oh, fuck! No! I didn't mean any harm, for fuck's sake; that gift was only a joke..."

"Yeh fuckin' did mean it, pal!" I replied with a smirk, and plunged it in even harder. "And now yer gonna get what yeh deserve!"

In and out, in and out, I rammed with no finesse, stretching him to bursting point whilst he pounded the ground with his fists. Throat off my cock now, he chewed the fur blanket and howled.

"Take it, yeh old fucker," I snarled. "Yeh love it, don'tcha? Yeah, yeh fuckin' love it!" Working the dildo ever deeper into him, I fingered my own hole with lube. With four fingers and a thumb up there stretching wide, I swiveled onto three of all fours. Aiming the second bulbous end, I hit bull's-eye the first time with just one backward thrust. Inching my rear-end over the thick rubber truncheon, my buttocks touched base with his buttocks, and in an instant we were whirling our rumps like two fucking dervishes; bucking and slamming and crunching our tail ends together.

No mercy—I yanked it out of him. My turn to leap up and around to mount his solid rump. I jabbed my cock full-length inside, skewering him like a stuffed pig. Reaching forward, I grabbed a handful of hair and yanked his head back so I could ride home. His soggy arse slurped as I punched in and out on a cushioned glide. Next thing, a shiver ran through me and my hips were jerking all on their own. My body began to glow like warm honey was swirling through my bloodstream, and with it a sense of expectation... something wonderful was about to happen. And happen it did. A handful more of those sharp stabs from my pork sword, and then I let out a yelp, shooting my full-fat milky wad to drown his gut-wrenching squeal. I closed my eyes, but inside my lids lightning flashed and fireworks spun into a night sky. Grunting and snaf-fling like a hog, he lunged backward, his ring pulsing tight. "Keep going! Keep going!" he gasped, urging me on with each rhythmic slam of his buttocks. It felt like I'd emptied everything out of me, from my toes to my nose, up and out and into his desperate, gobbling hole, basting his guts with my blistering juices.

I collapsed on top of him, spent. Chris dissolved beneath me, spreading out like a rug. "Jaysus, yeh little bollix," he murmured. "Yeh sure know how to show your gratitude. That's nice!"

"Nice?" I replied. "Nice? It was better than fuckin' nice—it was great! The best you'll ever fuckin' get and that's for bleedin' sure!"

He heaved a satisfied sigh and smacked his lips, whilst still impaled on my dribbling spike. As I withdrew, still stiff as a poker, his ring hugged onto me tightly, reluctant to let me go until, with a sloppy plop, I slipped out.

"Sorry, I didn't mean to hurt yeh," I said sheepishly. Still, I couldn't resist forcing him to lick my prick clean.

"Got what yeh wanted for Christmas though, didn't yeh?" he chuckled and chewed.

"I got me hole right enough," I replied before crashing back exhausted into a heap of fur pillows. "Thanks, Daddy..."

He was pleased as punch: "Yeh called me Daddy!"

Suddenly, I'm back on Grafton Street. Bags, people all around me. Flat on my back in the snow. I'd slipped, banged my head. Woke up dazed and confused. Looking up into laughing eyes and rosy cheeks. Chris lifted me to my feet and helped brush me down.

He leaned toward my ear, whispering, "Where do yeh live?"

"Ranelagh."

"It's not so far. I've got me van. Come, I'll go with yeh." The street lamp behind his head formed a golden halo. "Let's get yeh home safely, tuck yeh up in bed..."

I nodded, beginning to understand.

"Come go with me," he whispered again. "Just put yer arm around me shoulder and hold tight." Without titling, I obeyed and felt like a robin might feel, being held by the wind.

Presently, I'm in bed. My bed. Head back on feather pillows. Firm mattress beneath me. Duvet around me, cuddling my naked body. My clothes in a heap alongside. The delicious recollection of being stripped bare. A crackling fire in one corner—and above me, silhouetted by the blaze, a mountain of a man. No fantasy figure, this—but flesh and blood. My own Santa, a rugby coach from County Kildare. Up in the big city to fund-raise for his local team. I'd already made one donation, and I planned on plenty more before the night was through. I rubbed my sleepy eyes and heard murmuring noises still. Then twinkling eyes and shimmering phallus.

"I'm fuckin' mad into yeh... fuckin' mad into yeh," he whispered hoarsely and, with a final flick of the wrist, the daddy of all Father Christmases emptied his teeming sackful into my open mouth.

GREAT MAGAZINES FROM BRUSH CREEK MEDIA

Chris & Greg

Chris did videos for Colt, Fox and Palm Drive before working with us on our upcoming Powerhouse Bears video. He's the one fucking and eating butt on this page. "I've done a lot of porn," he says, "I just wanted to do this for the guys that I like." Chris goes for daddy bear types—older, a little heavier, salt-and-pepper beards. His partner Greg isn't as explicit. "I don't have one type of man," he tells us. "I'd rather have people find out through experience!"

Originally Greg wasn't scheduled to be in Powerhouse Bears, but we liked the way they looked together and they liked our idea. Chris is definitely the wilder one. Loves ass play: eating butt, fisting, toys and fucking. Dances lead and follows. "Greg is more vanilla, but I'm teaching him," says Chris. These days they split their time between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Hat's Off

Life Lessons
by Luke

Are You Going?

Even saying it sounds faggy, campy. Oh them. Than Franthithko.

At first I didn't want to be here, in this Baghdad by the Bay. I was forced in by those airline people, and I wasn't really ready for this little island of misfit toys. I swore I'd never even go to the Castro neighborhood. It was months before I did, and that was with an escort.

You already know all that shit about the Summer of Love, gay liberation; for decades people headed to San Francisco and New York so they could be free and live their lives the way they wanted, so everyone'd hold hands and croon, "I'd Like To Teach The World To Sing." Even since before the big wars, people have come out to California to find gold, good prostitutes or naked communes. You can't head much farther west than the San Francisco peninsula, so this city's it. It's a destination.

Not everyone here found their dreams, but most stayed anyway. And, if you're lucky, they don't smell too bad on the bus.

When you see the odd towers and the odd bridges poking out from coastal fog, San Francisco looks like a city somebody dreamed up. Seen a little closer in, it's not quite so pristine. Graffiti, over 6,000 homeless people and failures of the pooper-scooper law abound. But no matter where you are in the city, just look up. Victorian gargoyles, neoclassic cornices and gay rainbow flags smile back down at you and remind you of past glories, of the bigger picture.

Lemme tell you, San Franciscans are no picnic. Much of the laid-back California style never makes it past the metal detectors at the gates to the city. People always assume you're a weirdo until they get evidence otherwise. Average-looking people here will suddenly start yelping and jerking in line at McDonald's—my favorite was a man flagellating himself with a copy of the Walters On Wheels catalog while chanting, "I'm gonna put a bullet in Bill Clinton's head!" That's when you just mutter, "O-Kaaaaay."

San Francisco and New York used to be the grande dames of sin and gay life. Let's face it: The last 18 years have been real busy for the people of San Francisco. Thousands of men who moved onto this windy peninsula and who brought their posters and milk crates to use as bookshelves for their records and copies of Anal Pleasure & Health—well, they left. Not as flesh and bone, but as dust. A friend from Boston who hadn't visited San Francisco since 1981 came out, ready for action. He returned a few hours later, stunned. "It's gone. All of it's just... gone."

It's not so bad as that. Sure, the losses have been heavy. But in the past 18 years or so, gay life has decentralized. You can get laid in Dayton, Ohio, now, if you know which magazine to pick up or which switchboard to call. We don't need to seek refuge in big, alternative cities anymore.

That doesn't mean San Francisco's no good. Hell no. It's often the highest-rated tourist destination in the country, right behind Disneyland.

So how to be a tourist here when you're a fag and you want to get laid?

It's like any city. Those of us who live and work here get by on largely different footing than those who visit.

Don't wear full leather at 2:30 on a Tuesday afternoon in Safeway. It's just not happening.

Yes, you can suck dick in strange places, if you're careful. But the police will not join in and follow up the action with a doobie. You've been reading too much Tales of the City.

San Franciscans are used to temporary people. Temporary residents, tourists, shortened life-spans make people here cautious. If you're excited and friendly and open, you won't be reviled for it, but they'll want to know if you're from Florida.

You know what they call two men who hold hands walking the streets of San Francisco? Tourists.

When riding the bus you have to step over the small person with groceries in the aisle seat so you can sit on the inside seat. Stick your butt in their face if you can—better yet, try to step on their toes. They will not slide over to give you the seat. The driver will not give you directions. And when the doors open, for God's sake, push. Full countermeasures are called for when trying to exit the underground metro cars.

Every goddamn one of you who refers to cable cars as "trolleys" will be beaten. And unless you're the baddest grungy Hell's Angel biker, don't call it Frisko.

Whoopi Goldberg and Robin Williams live here. I see them all the time. (Not really, but it felt so choice to type it on my little computer.) Armistead Maupin, the Tales of the City guy, hangs out at my cafe in the Castro. But then again, so did Andrew Cunanan, so you can't take these things too seriously.

A friend of mine who's lived in the Castro since 1968 is a great one for stories. He's like the oldest confederate widow or something. The day I got my HIV diagnosis, he produced a piece of newspaper from a drawer. It was the San Francisco Chronicle article from July 1981, talking about the appearance of a strange illness in gay men. The very first mention. I held it in my hands. It was old and had that orange color that old newspaper gets.

I asked my friend if he knew Harvey Milk (our first gay elected city official who was shot in city hall along with the mayor in 1978). So anyway, I asked him if he ever knew Harvey Milk, and he said, "Well, sweet as could be, he had a humongous dick. But he was into really rough sex...."

They call that TMI: Too Much Information. But it's history.

And goddamn; it's still alive.

Gay and Lesbian Online: Revised and Expanded

by Jeff Dawson

$16.95

Peachpit Press
Berkeley, CA

After shopping around, talking with friends and downright procrastinating, you've finally bought a computer. It's state of the art, has up-to-the-minute software and comes complete with the fastest modem on the market. You got some free Internet software at the post office (from the stack of discarded discs other folks tossed out of their mailboxes), and now you're ready to go places online. You go shopping, check the news and search for this-n-that, but where is the virtual gay world hiding?

Jeff Dawson's Gay & Lesbian Online: Revised and Expanded is the cyber-atlas that can take you to popular attractions as well as off-the-beaten-path sights throughout the Internet. Divided into interest-specific chapters with brief synopses of Web sights, histories of their existence and detailed addresses, this easy-to-follow and colorfully written guide is downright fun to use. No longer do you have to run searches for obscure gay, lesbian and transgender topics that come up empty. Dawson has compiled directions and hints that can take you anywhere your homo heart desires.

Dawson—who pens the "Cyberpoz" installments in Poz magazine, helping HIV-positive people make the most of Internet—says he wrote the original publication of Gay & Lesbian Online in 1996 out of necessity. He explains that he was "looking for something exactly like [Gay & Lesbian Online], and there was nothing there." With this book, he has filled the void.

Whether searching for sights geared toward gardening, astrology and Madonna, or leather, bears and sex, there are chapters in this book for you, with "http" addresses to get you there as fast as you can type them. The section about monster gay Web sights that can take you seemingly everywhere with the click of a mouse were the most intriguing to me—but then the mystery of not knowing where you'll end up online is the whole fun of it anyway. Imagine going to one central sight that gathers everything it can get its "byte" on and voilà! The gay world is at your fingertips. This and other useful facts about virtual homosexuality fill Gay & Lesbian Online: Revised and Expanded. Pick up a copy at your local queer book shop or computer store, and the answer to the popular Microsoft question, "Where do you want to go today?" will be just a few keystrokes away.

YOUR BASIC BEAR AD

Deadline for BEAR 47 personal ads is October 27. Deadline for BEAR 48 ads (which comes out in February) is December 22. These dates are subject to change as our publishing schedule varies slightly sometimes.

1. Text. Talk about yourself and be real clear as to whom you'd like to meet. Avoid negativity shit, like "no fats, fems or Lithuanians." It doesn't work and we'll probably change it anyway.

2. Names. We can't run ads addressed to Occupant or Boxholder. Use your initials or a name your postal carrier knows.

3. Phone Numbers. We won't print 'em.

4. Photo Ads. We'll run a shot of your face or dick—but only once. Your photo must have a signed model release (see "Show Yourself In BEAR" page 47) AND a photocopy of your picture ID. Don't bother sending us photos without this stuff. We can't legally print 'em. Each photo sent to BEAR must be signed with your name and phone number on the back. Photos are not returnable.

5. BEAR Postal Box Numbers. If you wish, we'll assign a BEAR Postal Box Number to your ad, collect your responses and forward them to your address. A word to the wise: Your own address will get you more responses. For U.S. subscribers only. Free to BEAR Buddies, $5 to everyone else.

6. Voicemail Box Codes. We assign a voicemail box to every ad. Guys can leave phone messages in your box after reading your ad, and only you can retrieve them. Cost is $1.98 per minute for both parties. Full details are on page 45.

7. Common Courtesy. If a guy gets in touch with you, write back. Even if it's just to say "no thanks," he deserves to know you got his message.

8. Cost and Duration. Personal ads are free if you're a BEAR Buddy. Otherwise, they're 25¢ a word, per issue. BEAR Buddy ads are discontinued when the subscription runs out. You'll have to submit a new ad when you renew your BEAR Buddy subscription. Wanna discontinue your ad? Write in, and we'll pull it. You'll have to pay to have a pulled ad put back in, though.

1. Voicemail box number. To respond to a voicemail box number, see details under "Voicemail Explained" on page 45. If the ad says "No voicemail," it's a good bet the fella won't be checkin' his phone messages. Respond via written letter, or e-mail if it's listed.

Wylie

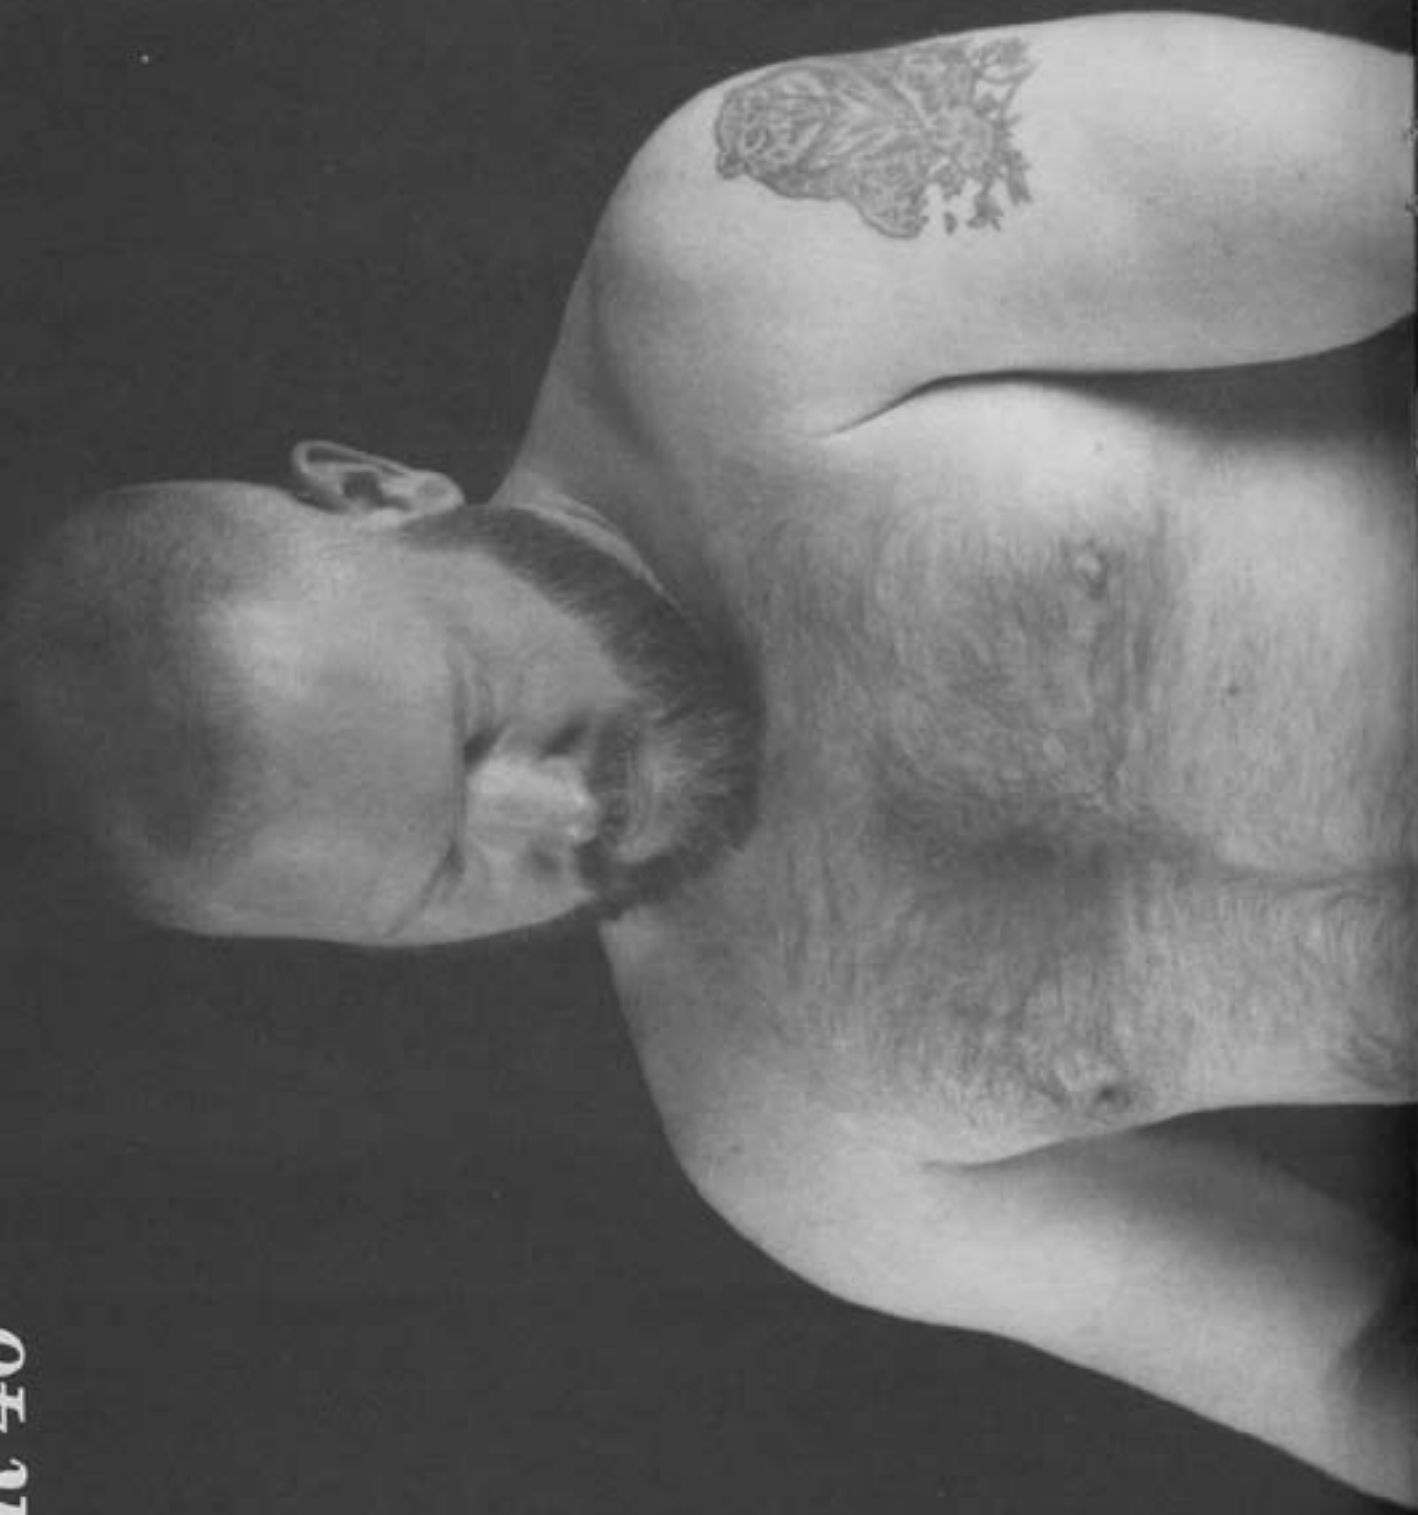

Wylie is a 28-year-old West Texas native—born near Big Bend, grew up in the oil fields. Watched a lot of cowboys, oil workers and football. "That's where the real cowboys are," he vouches. "Sex was hard to find. Sometimes in rest stops and bathrooms. Sometimes we'd go out to the oil fields and fuck near the pump jacks. You can see for miles out there."

He's a sports minded guy. Watching football is his favorite, but he plays softball all year 'round. Wylie likes 'em big, heavyset, bearded and older. Gray hair is a big turn-on for him. Says he's pretty shy, but kinda kinky. "You never know what toys are in my play trunk. Motor oil is a good start."

KENTUCKY

Northern KY smooth polar bear, age 54, seeks hairy bear to bring me out of hibernation. I'm 5'10", 195 lbs. full trim beard, full crop of brown short parted military style hair. Nothing big but have a nice head between my legs and a handsome one on top of my shoulders. Plumbing works well but the washers get weak from long j/o sessions and a sticky love-mess develops. Seek hairy, masculine bear who enjoys rubbing beards together, tits chewed and sucked on, pits sniffed and licked and a nice stomach to lie my head on and fall asleep. My interests include hiking, power walking (everyday), working out, dance music (I might be 54 but very young at heart). Especially like Pet Shop, Erasure, D.J.s, Forley & Keiaki, etc. Other interests include railroads and transit rail systems both model and prototype, and collecting dance music vinyl. Enjoy healthy food. Like what your reading? Then write and perhaps we can get lost in each other's paws and fantasies. Northern KY Bear, PO Box 15068, Covington, KY 41015-0068. (55) 21525

VOICEMAIL EXPLAINED

Credit card holders call

1-800-347-BEAR

To charge the call to your home phone, dial

1-900-HOT-BEAR

Cost for both lines is $1.98 a minute.

Our BEAR Voicemail system is designed to give you immediate access to new friends, true love, or just good fuck. It works. Record your own personal greeting, answer someone else's ad, pick up your messages, or talk to whoever is jacking off on the line.

1. If you have an ad in BEAR...

When dialing in for the first time, you must already have your passcode from us. We will mail you this code before the issue of BEAR in which your ad first appears hits the stands. Write us here at the shop if you don't receive your code for some reason.

2. To record an outgoing message to correspond to your ad in BEAR or to collect your messages...

Once at the Voicemail Main Menu, immediately hit the star key. The system will tell you that you are picking up your mail and ask you to enter your four-digit mailbox number. Don't let this confuse you. Most of our mailbox numbers are five digits in length and, yeah, the recording's all fucked up. Go ahead and check for your mail. The system will then give you four options. Choose option #3 to record an outgoing announcement to match your ad. This way, guys will be able to hear the voice that's attached to your hot ad. Messages will stay in the system for two weeks.

Remember, if you are advertising in BEAR you automatically have a Bear Voicemail Box. However, our 900 system allows you to set up additional boxes if you want. This can be done by choosing command #3 from the main menu, which is different from option #3 that appears at the message retrieval area.

3. Still have questions about BEAR Voicemail?

Pick up the phone, dial 1-800-234-3877 and ask to speak with our answer guy, Mike Eades.

Hibearnation '97

November 6-9, St. Louis, Show Me Bears

Show Me Bears hosts one of the premier Midwest bear events each November. BEAR attended Hibearnation two years ago, and we'll vouch for a down-to-earth, friendly crowd of men. Things will once again be anchored at the Holiday Inn Downtown Riverfront (with a great view of the Gateway Arch). Call the hotel directly for reservations at 1-800-925-1395. Some of the weekend festivities include a vendor's market, on-line party, after-hours bear garden, the annual "Family Feud" game, and a big pancake feed on the final morning of the gathering.

unBEARable II

November 15, Bexar County Bears, San Antonio, TX

The second-year anniversary for these Texas bears begins with a buffet dinner, then continues at their home bar, ReBar (826 San Pedro at West Laurel) with the Mr. Bexar County Bear 1998 Contest, charity raffles, champagne, great munchies, and cocktail parties hosted by other Texas clubs. Contact Rick at bcobearssa@aol.com or voice mail (210) 697-2175.

Santa Saturday

November 29, Bucks Motorcycle Club, New Hope, PA

This is a great one-day charity event attended by the Philly/New Jersey/New York leather and bear crowds. Big crowds, lots of leather, flannel, cigars and sweat. Hundreds of guys you've never seen at the Bike Stop.

South Bay Bear Hunt

December 6, 1997 South Bay Bears, Campbell, CA

Silicon Valley is Cyber-Bear Central and South Bay Bears is one of the fastest-growing bear clubs in the country. This is the day they hand out the Mr. and Ms. Ursa Major and Minor titles—their biggest fund-raising event of the year. Happens at the Gaslight Theater in Campbell, California. Things start off with hors d'oeuvres and cocktails at 5 p.m., contest at 6 p.m. Tickets are $12 beforehand, $15 at the door. Other weekend activities (all in San Jose): a bear night at Mac's on Friday night, online party beer bust at Greg's, and Sunday brunch at Hamburger Mary's.

La Fiesta de Los Osos

January 16-18, Bears of Old Pueblo, Tucson, AZ

Spend Martin Luther King Jr. weekend soaking up the 70-degree desert warmth, in the company of some Southwest bears. Attendance is limited for this event, so you'll have to register ahead of time. Last year's event included tours of the area, as well as bar nights and barbecues.

POETIC LICENSE

From the front, sliding my hand beneath your balls I slip it into the crack of your ass, rub my fingers back and forth over your asshole, listening to the quiet little sounds you make as I do it.

I rub my beard into your aromatic morning armpit, and then my tongue and then my open mouth licking and sucking and nibbling at the long straight hairs coated with sleep sweat.

You get yourself off—spraying seed across the fine fur of your belly. I stop moving my hand but hold it there, still, one finger poised at the point of entry. I bring my tongue down to lap your semen like a cat and rub my face into your belly—nose twitching with pleasure.

For Later by M.J. Arcangelini

But when I bring my mouth clumsily up to yours for a kiss you push me away, laughing, saying, "Ooooo—you've got my cum in your beard." And I'm thinking, "Good, something for later."

Driving home the truck cab warms in the sunlight—your scent rises out of my beard, as I knew it would, and tickles my nose anew—I bring fingers to face, sniff—and here you are again—and here I am, halfway down the mountain, cock in hand, pulling off to the side of the road, jerking off with your scents filling my nose clinging to my body driving me breathless trembling stiffening to shoot semen and sighs and your scent trailing off into the mountain air.

Voice from the Wilderness
by Karl von Uhl

He's All Over The Map Again

OK, so there's been a fair amount of stuff going on in my overtaxed brain. What follows is something of a spew. Get yer towels ready. I'm writing this way behind deadline.

Having children or wanting to get married is no more parroting straight people than a man fucking a woman in the ass is parroting gay people. And that's all there is to it, so shut yer whining where applicable. Ya can't make the "biology is destiny" argument—which is what happens when you imply or outright say, "Straight folks are s'posed to breed"—at the same time yer making the "destiny is choice" argument—which is what happens when you say, "Queers with kids parrot straights"—cuz the two are at odds with each other. It don't matter why straights is straight and queers is queer; all of us deserve the same respect. Binary systems of thought are bullshit.

Speaking of binary systems, finally read Thomas Pynchon's latest, Mason and Dixon. Damn fine book; my brain feels rewired.

Alta the malamute grows by leaps and bounds. She's 9 months and 70 pounds of canine fury as of this writing. She continues to redefine the breed standard for stubbornness, and if anyone sez "just like her dad" I'll scrog his ears off.

Fun with the bishop continues. Bishop

Hougen told Steve (that's Crusher for both of you regular readers) he'd press charges. "What kind of church presses charges?" you ask. One that abnegates the gospel: the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. Now, I wouldn't mind so much if they based their policy on theological reasoning, but they don't. Since they don't, and they aren't interested in a scriptural basis for what they do, what are they gonna do with Martin Luther, who pretty much started the Lutheran church cuz he thought the Catholics didn't have sound theological reasoning?

In the meantime, we got some publicity: a little blurbette in The Advocate (after a run-around more convoluted and conspiratorial than anything on The X-Files), and two decent stories in two local papers, one on the front page. The local gay press and gay politicians have been curiously silent; maybe it's a poorly integrated ego structure thang.

Been writing like a fiend; even attended a novel-writing workshop at the University of Iowa. Don't be impressed; all they wanted was money. Studied with Paul Lisicky, a man whose writing I respect.

It was, well, an experience. At times it felt like the world's most expensive reading group for writers—did I really pay tuition and car rental just so I could hear some aging soccer mom from East Cheeses, Wisconsin, tell me my novel isn't a novel cuz I "use words some readers won't know"? Near as I can tell, words are part of the reading experience; asking a writer to have a psychic link to all his readers just so he can be intimate with their working vocabularies is stupid. A writer writes; a reader reads.

Still, I got a lot out of it. Lisicky had some good insight into what I'm trying to do with my fiction; he even rethought his opinions as the workshop progressed—not many instructors are willing to do that.

Been a lotta talk about bareback. Steve came up with the following, and he said it was OK if I spewed 'em out here.

Point One: No sex with another person is safe.

Sex is a drive toward vulnerability with another. No act of vulnerability is without physical or emotional risks, but the drive to engage in such encounters is the strongest of our survival instincts. Human beings need interpersonal encounters, the loss of which is the loss of full humanity. Sexual encounters are the deepest and most powerful of all interpersonal encounters.

Point Two: Sex is not a disease.

We live in a society that has always viewed gay men as diseased. Now we have HIV/AIDS identified in the collective imagination as synonymous with gay sex. It may be possible to acquire an HIV infection through certain sexual practices—although I am less sure of this than I used to be—but the act and the infection are not the same in any moral, ethical, philosophical, scientific or factual sense. To forget this is to lose full humanity.

Point Three: Sex is not a commodity.

Sex is an expression of self, frequently in interaction with another. Any act, substance or attitude that isolates sexual partners from each other, treats self or other as an object, or renounces vulnerability leads to the loss of full humanity. Sex always conveys self, like it or not.

Point Four: Sex is risky.

If you don't know the risks or are incapable of making informed choices for yourself, you have no business having sex. To do otherwise is stupid. If you take advantage of someone's ignorance or take from them their ability to make informed choices, you are scum.

Point Five: Sometimes sex is worth death.

For some, interpersonal relationships are so deep that they will not tolerate perpetual barriers in either the physical or emotional sense. Informed decisions to engage in sexual activity that puts partners at risk for HIV infection are possible and even ethical if mutually concluded and informed. The vulnerability of sex always includes a possibility of death—it always has and always will. On the one hand, the vulnerability of sex is not despair, depression, grief, loneliness or suicidal tendency. On the other hand, those with HIV/AIDS do not lose their humanity and so are fully capable of and entitled to worthy and authentic sexual relations.

"Fuckin' hot! Too fuckin' hot! Fuck InterPlanet Rehab! Fuck this whole fuckin' excuse for a planet! Fuck islands! Fuck oceans! Fuck stars! Fuck, fuck, fuck! If there is anyone else here, fuck you too!"

He howled into the stiff sea breeze blowing up the craggy, volcanic cliffs of this unnamed island in the midst of this unnamed ocean on a little-explored planet chosen as a prison world by InterPlanetary Rehabilitation Industries Corp.

"InterPlanet Rehab (for short) specialized in 'incorrigibles' who were placed on planets owned by InterPlanet Corp. and guarded by a.i. (artificial intelligence) satellites to prevent jail breaks. The satellites were there more to prevent planet breaks from space rather than from the surface, since convicts were dropped in from space via shuttle without the least bit of 24th century technology. Completely naked! To live by wits and ingenuity alone. It is inconceivable that anyone could survive reduced to such bare necessities."

—from 24th Century InterPlanetary Law: Case Histories by Benova 2p ANDROTEp sgt.

2395z-34559a (also known as JAHME ANDROTEp) stood on a tall precipice staring up and down the coast. The salt spray of the crashing combers fell on his rapidly burning freckled skin, drying, whitening his brilliant red pelt. His parched, cracked lips were surrounded by a large drooping mustache braided to the tips; his beard was short and ran, without thinning, or a break, down his neck into this chest, which was well muscled from years of prison labor on IMOTEp 4. It ran from his shoulders down to his fingertips and down his back to his heels wrapping his legs in nearly impenetrable (except to the sun's rays) fur. All converged in a dense mat on his belly and crotch nearly obscuring his hefty balls, but not his large, veiny uncut cock (which was rapidly turning a shade pinker than usual).

"Fuck," he said to himself, "I'm burning up! That valley down there looks kinda lush. Maybe there's a creek there." He cursed to himself as he made his way down the sharp volcanic rocks, which cut into his uncallused feet. He roared down to the surf, roared louder as the salt water stung his wounds. He spied some bits of flotsam on the beach that would make temporary foot gear until something better could be had. In a moment, his feet still smarting, he was trudging along the beach in banana-leaf-and-seaweed shoes. Is that an inlet? Yes, a river! He broke into a run. Yes, a creek mouth spilling beautiful fucking water into the sea! He plowed into the stream, which was only knee-deep, displacing most of it. He sat up laughing, shaking his head like a large dog, long red hair throwing diamonds into the air. He drank great draughts while the cool water soothed his burning skin and washed away the salt, returning it to the sea.

Soon, JAHME was splashing up the sandy and shallow stream bed, no barrier to his powerful legs, seeking fruit trees. Traveling over several small waterfalls he came to a dam, above which the stream broadened to fill a shallow valley. Across the small lake sat a village, smoke rising from the huts. There was a sound behind him. He turned with his hands out, prepared for anything. A young man emerged from the foliage. He was much shorter than JAHME but wiry, with dark skin and hair. He wore a breechcloth from which a thin trail of black hair ran up his belly to explode on his chest and curl around his nipples, dark and pierced. The sentry carried a spear with a long sharp metal blade with casual ease, which, JAHME had no doubt, could take off his head with almost as casual ease. He also noticed the sentry was well armed in the breechcloth department, but what really riveted his attention was the sticky fruit the sentry was eating. Before either could say anything JAHME's stomach let out a ferocious growl. The sentry started, then laughed, surprisingly deep for such a little man. "Come," he said, and turned down the path. JAHME thought: "Fuckin' stupid to turn his back to me," but he realized he was too weak from hunger and pain. He envied the sentry's thin woven sandals.

In a moment they reached the village. "New arrival!" cried the sentry. The inhabitants emerged to see the latest inmate. JAHME was surprised to see that they were all men, in fact very bearish men. In a cloud of steam, two men emerged from a low, rounded structure in the center of the village, so low that they appeared to emerge from the earth itself. The element of psychological surprise was deliberate, JAHME was sure. They knew he was coming and arranged his greeting. The first man was a smallish blond with long blond hair that fell to his knees and a long, flowing beard that fell to his waist, obscuring his compact, muscular frame but not his arms and legs, and of course his short, fat uncut cock. He held open the door for the other man. First there appeared two very large hands that grasped the door-frame. Then emerged a head with long shiny black hair, pulled back, framing a nearly non-existent face lost amid the shiny black waves of a full black beard. Beneath bushy black eyebrows were two blue gems that pierced JAHME to his soul. Then came his shoulders, broad, so broad they almost didn't clear the door. Then came his arms, long, bronzed and beefy with more shiny black hair. Then slowly the torso emerged, long, long torso, a wall of shiny black fur that never seemed to end. Finally it ended in a dense mat of black as night pubic hair against which nestled the largest cock JAHME ANDROTEP had ever seen on a man! It was bronzed like the rest of him but against the solid blackness of his crotch it seemed white. It was thick and veiny with a tight foreskin just revealing an apple-sized glans. JAHME barely noticed the legs, only that they were as large as the rest, so amazed was he at the sight of that tremendous phallus. The laughter of the other men reached his ears, he shut his mouth and flushed redder yet in embarrassment. But the laughter was good humored; they too were stunned at first sight. JAHME was rarely intimidated by other men, but this was one of these occasions. He towered fully two heads over JAHME, who was easily the tallest of the others by five inches. When the man approached JAHME, it was like the mountain coming to Mohammed, like a force of nature approaching. The man stood smiling down at him. "I am Allynson, chief here," He said white teeth flashing through his beard. "Welcome to Bear Island!" JAHME fell on his knees. "Fuck," he said.

"You must be hungry," said the Chief, waving over two of his people. "Take him over to my hut and feed him and tend his wounds."

The two were twins, short and muscular, with light curly hair inching up their arms. They wore long tunics, their fuzzy arms and legs bare. Their hair was short and curly, the same length as their full, sandy beards. They made a chair out of their arms and carried JAHME over to Allynson's hut where they bathed him in a tub made out of a hollowed-out tree trunk big enough to float a whale. "This must be his," JAHME realized. He was fed at a table that could hold a feast, and did. JAHME ate as much as he could hold. As he did he noticed a chair, no—a throne, at the end of the table. Carved with bears, lions, tigers and horses. "It can only be His chair," he thought. By this time he was nodding off into his plate, the twins, both called Ursus, led him to a bed which nearly filled its room. The sheets were rumpled, recently slept in. As he climbed into the bed he smiled, "This can only be His bed." He fell asleep with the musky scent of Him in his nostrils.

JAHME woke with a piss hard-on. The Mountain sat on its heels next to the bed, His elbows resting on His knees, enormous cock resting on the hard packed floor. JAHME froze. "Fear not," said Allynson, "I will not harm you."

"I have never seen anyone like you," said JAHME, "and I have been on many worlds."

"That is because I am the only one like me. I am a genetic manipulation. My creator bred me out of the tissues of his dead beloved but added certain 'improvements' as you can see. He was hounded for creating me. When he died I went berserk, and they sent me here."

"Your creator wouldn't be named Frankenstein by chance?"

He laughed a laugh to rattle the glass, if there had been glass in the windows. "No."

JAHME threw back the covers to rise, his hard-on flopping. The Chief glanced down and grinned, "Seems you have a problem."

"Gotta piss," JAHME mumbled embarrassed again.

"Come here," said the Chief. It was a command, there was no mistaking it. JAHME approached the Sitting Mountain. He bent over and took JAHME's thick throbbing cock into His mouth. JAHME looked on in amazement as it disappeared into the thick beard, finding the hot, wet back of His throat."

"Give it to me," He said, around JAHME'S cock. JAHME flushed redder, suddenly piss-shy.

"Give," He commanded.

After a moment a hot golden stream flowed out of JAHME into the Chief. The chief drank all of it and spilled none. "Now," HE said, "you are a part of me." His massive hands, which were on JAHME's shoulders, gently but firmly pushed him to his knees. JAHME knew what was coming, there was no escaping it. He stood, towering half-way to the stars. His cock dangled above JAHME's head. He spread his legs wide so His cock lowered into JAHME's mouth. It was all he could do to take the head, the skin wrinkling around his mouth, the scent of smegma in his nose, the taste on his tongue. It came slowly at first, musk and salt, then faster than JAHME could swallow. It exploded out of his nose, out of his mouth, around the massive cockhead. The Chief pulled out with a pop, piss streaming into JAHME's open mouth, splashing onto his red pelt, matting it. JAHME lapped up as much as he could, he ran his fingers through his hair running in the smell of Him. When there was none, JAHME sat expectantly his hungry mouth open.

"Now I am a part of you," said the chief. JAHME stood dazedly, together they walked out into the cheers of the waiting tribe, who each had endured the Golden shower of the Great Bear. JAHME was now a member of Bear Island Tribe.

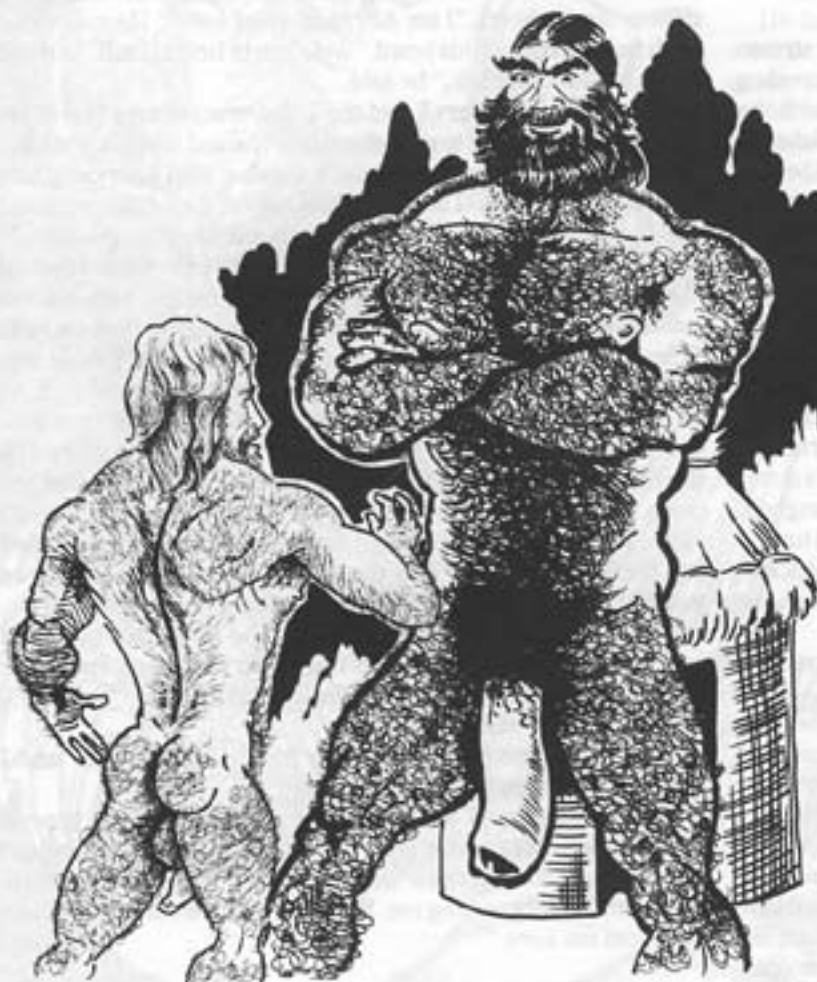

Later in the bed of the Great bear. He said; "I am just a man, for all my size no matter what the others say, call me, my name is Allynson. Remember that!"

"I will," said JAHME, and he did.

He felt like a child next to Allynson, lost in that enormous embrace, yet safe. He felt the stiffening rod of Him between them demand attention. JAHME reached down with both hands to work the heavy foreskin over the massive purpling head. The veins, thick around as his little finger, throbbed with blood. He wrapped his mouth around the head as far as it would go managing to get it into his mouth, but, no more. JAHME worked his tongue over and into the piss-hole tasting the salty precum while twisting and massaging His foreskin up and down his shaft. JAHME pulled back and attacked the huge hairy balls, hidden deep within the thick crotch hair. He worked the thick shaft lovingly, rapidly with his hands while he became intoxicated with the smell of His crotch. With effortless grace Allynson flipped JAHME upon to his chest deftly devouring his cock, working his huge tongue into JAHME's long foreskin. JAHME was now in ecstasy twisting, stroking his granite pole furiously, licking, sucking the apple-red, hard head while buried in a forest of incredible thick, black, musky fur!!

Their movements became jerky and rapid, JAHME's arms were a blur. Deep within JAHME could hear a rumble growing, it was joined by his. In a moment the rumble became a growl, then a full throated roar as both men came with ferocious abandon. JAHME's cherry-red cock blasted furiously deep in the Great Bear's throat, the vibrations of his roar throbbing through JAHME's guts, while Allynson exploded in JAHME's face. JAHME's open roaring mouth filled with white cream; his beard, his hair, his shoulders were liberally coated by cum, which dripped into his hair matting the red and black together. In a few minutes they were both stuck dried together in each others arms, snoring great bear snores, while the Bear Island Tribe danced and chanted long into the night celebrating the great Bear's pleasure.

The next morning the Bear tribe gathered to feast in honor of their new brother. They sat in broad circle in the dancing green which had been flattened by the night's wild activities. Consequently, the breakfast was a quiet one, not that there was much talking, as everyone was eating ravenously. JAHME sat next to Allynson, barely eating himself as he watched the Great Bear inhale several plates and jugs of wine in quick succession. Next to JAHME sat a small old man. He wasn't particularly hairy, just a small patch of curly gray fur high in the center of his chest. What made the old man fascinating, once JAHME was able to tear his eyes away from Allynson, was he was covered with tattoos of every conceivable kind. JAHME recognized several brilliant tattoos popular thirty or forty years ago of Dendarii design which were guaranteed to last the life of the wearer, fresh as new. There were several more recent, perhaps in the last few years, all fantastic. He was wiry and lean, with little loose flesh hanging over his waist or from his arms. In fact he appeared quite firm, his old hands sinewy, their grip sure and steady. JAHME was at a loss as to his age, he could have been 50 or he could have been 100, one of those ageless gems that one meets now and then. His gray hair was long and braided into many small braids, even his beard, with beads and bits of metal that caught the light. His body was lightly haired. The densest was the curly gray patch high in the center of his chest between an Indian chief on his right and a rampant stallion on his left pec. His back was straight and his tattooed thighs comfortably crossed, shielding his long, long, thin, uncut, tattooed dick. The old man turned and caught JAHME staring at his long foreskin, wondering at how it got that way.

"Good morning," said the old man.

"Good morning," said JAHME, "I'm JAHME."

"I know, I am Ernest, Ernest Willard. It is the custom of my people to weight it in infancy."

"Pardon?"

"My foreskin was the longest of my tribe when I was young, as it is now in this one!"

"Oh," said JAHME.

The old man laughed and laughed, revealing his toothless smile. The man next to him turned and asked what was going on. Ernest turned to him and introduced him to JAHME.

"JAHME", he said, "This is my life-brother, Leonard. We call him Lenny."

Again JAHME was startled, Lenny was hardly more than a boy, peach-fuzz! What was he doing here, he asked?

"I bombed the parliament of Rao III. Killed nearly all those bastards. Thermonuclear, primitive, but it did the job," replied Lenny calmly his blue eyes serene under his golden curls, mouth like Mona Lisa in its curve. Again Ernest laughed and laughed at JAHME's expression. He was forcibly reminded that this island, this world, was a prison and he was surrounded by thieves and murderers.

The Storyteller had risen and began a tale of the Great Bear and his travels across the Great Central Ocean and of the strange people he'd met. The Storyteller was a lanky young man, about 20, with short hair to his shoulders, lightly furred muscular body and very clear and melodious voice. He chanted the story in poetic meter, the assembled giving the choruses.

"Now in the Central Ocean is Bear Island."

"Beware there are BEARS!" they chorused.

"To the west of the Isle of Bears, Is the isle of Wimmin, Goddess Atoll."

"Beware, there are LIONESSES!"

"To the east of the Isle of BEARS, is the Isle of Woman-lovers, Edenna."

"Beware, there are Wildebeest!"

"To the south of The Isle of Bears, is the continent of Criminals, where evil men go."

"Beware, there are MONSTERS!"

"To the north of The Isle of Bears, are the Ten Thousand Islands, where no man lives!"

"Beware, there is Loneliness."

"All lands are known—"

"All lands are known—"

"Because of the Courage—"

"Because of the Courage—"

"Of the Great Bear."

"Of the GREAT BEAR!!!" they roared.

JAHME looked at Allynson, impressed. He said, "Did you really go to all those places?" He turned and looked at JAHME and said, "Another time for that story, come let me take you on a tour of the village."

Besides the Dancing Floor and the circle of huts was a bathing area near the dam where the stream fell over in a fall. JAHME had climbed it the day before alone. Today it swarmed with men bathing, horsing around in the warm sun. There were many plots of roots and grains grown around the shore of the lake interspersed with fruit trees, bending from their loads. Underneath a huge tree was the GYM. Here were weights made of stones rounded and pierced through with black polished poles, which were wrapped in rough twine for grips. There were vines and bars hanging here and there, even a huge balance scale for weighing. Here, sitting on a large fallen tree trunk, which was shaved flat on the upper side, was Ernest doing curls with a small dumbbell.

"Good morning again," he said.

"Good morning," said Allynson.

Lenny emerged from the foliage, startling JAHME. Without a word he went to Ernest and led him to a small platform elevated above the forest floor. Ernest sat on the edge of the platform, his feet dangling. Lenny was now on a level with Ernest's crotch. He reached up and began to stroke the long tattooed skin which twitched and swelled under his expert hands. Lenny bunched up the loose foreskin and stuck his tongue in as far as it would go. He began, slowly, to swallow the skin inch by inch, until it was all inside Lenny's throat. By now Ernest's cock was hard and throbbing, the tattoos in their full glory. JAHME had a glimpse of a diving man just before he disappeared into Lenny's mouth. Lenny swallowed, Ernest moaned, and Allynson and JAHME both stood at attention. JAHME glanced over at Allynson's cock. It was breathtakingly huge! The Great Bear moved to sit on a tree stump, motioning JAHME over. JAHME sat in the Great Bear's lap, His cock rising from between his legs, pressing into his own pulsing cock rising from between his legs, pressing into his own pulsing cock. The Great Bear grasped JAHME's tender dick in one of his paws. It disappeared in that warm grip, which began squeezing ever so gently. JAHME wrapped both hands around the monster shaft as they both watched Ernest and Lenny.

Lenny had pulled back, sucking air, he stroked and pulled the skin and shaft. Even full hard Ernest's cock only filled part of the long skin. Lenny was now stroking the old man's tits, tracing tattoos on his pecs while he reached for some thongs. These he attached to the end of Ernest's long foreskin. There was a hook at the other end to which he attached a weight. It dangled down below Ernest's feet. The skin reached below, well below, his knees, weight swinging in time with his pulsing cock. Lenny attacked Ernest's erect nipples, then stood up on the platform, his long cut cock slipping into Ernest's toothless mouth. Ernest sucked with skillful abandon, eliciting moans from Lenny while running his hands over Lenny's smooth young body, for he had only a wild patch of pubic hair and two blond patches around each tit. Lenny pushed him back and sat on his face, stuffing his balls into Ernest's mouth. He bent over and stroked his life brother's taunt cock causing the weight to swing even more.

Meanwhile, JAHME and Allynson were sloppy with precum, their skins slipping easily over their engorged heads. JAHME was sliding, twisting his skin with one hand pulling, stroking His balls with the other. Allynson was stroking JAHME with two fingers and His thumb (which was quite enough) and the other paw planted firmly in the middle of JAHME's red-haired chest, pushing him back into the black forest of His. Ernest began to make sounds muffled by Lenny's balls. Lenny made a few more knowledgeable passes with his hands, while Ernest pulled on Lenny's hard and ready meat. At the crucial moment Lenny pulled the thong, releasing the weight; Ernest's cock flew up, cum spraying from the end of his skin like a hose. Instantly, Lenny exploded over Ernest's spasming, tattooed torso. JAHME, his eyes on the flying cum erupting from Ernest's whip-like orgasm, erupted, himself, in Allynson's paw, cum splashing on his shaft. Seconds later, the Great Bear roared and great gobs of jism fell back onto JAHME's flaming dick, coating it and Allynson's paw with sticky, hot cum.

"And that," Ernest laughed toothlessly, "is how it got so long!"

"This is the Arena," said Allynson, "Here we settle disputes that inevitably spring up from time to time. Also we stage games with visitors from other islands."

JAHME looked into the clearing with interest. It was a natural amphitheater which had been given a sandy floor and seats carved into the volcanic cliffs. The stream which fed the lake fell into a channel between the seats, then into a well near the edge of the sand to reappear lower down below the arena.

"Do you often have fights?" asked JAHME, thinking of the riots he'd been caught in on IMOTep.

"No", said the Great Bear, "not often. There was a time before I came when killings were common. The A.I.s put a stop to that."

"How?"

"Apparently each convict is implanted with a device, in the skull, that delivers a shock whenever he tries to kill another human being. Not that it stopped the worst of the psychopaths. When I came I led the drive to chase them to the south, and set up the arena as an arbiter of dispute."

"No wonder the Islanders revere you, even calling themselves the Bear Tribe!"

"What did I tell you about what they call me?!" said Allynson, eyes flashing, suddenly stormy and threatening.

JAHME stood his ground, although inside he was scared shitless.

"I only assumed the obvious, Sir. If I am mistaken, pray correct me, Sir."

Allynson glowered at JAHME a little more, and then he laughed, his deep, deep rumble, "You are tough as I thought, my Prince! There was a Bear Tribe before I arrived. I was an answer to a prayer. Although my placement here was happy coincidence, just as I was the answer to my creator's prayers, you are to mine."

"You called me 'my prince'," said JAHME.

"JAHME is not that common a name. Usually those of royal line carry that name."

"It is common on many worlds—"

"But not on IMOTep-4. You have a Kariosian accent as well."

JAHME hesitated, but only for an instant, "I could lie and deny the truth, but to lie to you would be a mistake and betrayal of what I have been taught. Yes I am Prince JAHME Androte p II, heir and rightful ruler of IMOTep and the Megenellan Emirate. Satisfied?"

"No."

Allynson put His hands on JAHME's shoulders, they slipped down his arms, the small of his back, to grip his buns. He fell to one knee pulling JAHME close. JAHME wrapped his arms around

His body the fur on His back sliding through his fingers.

"This island is a major drop-off point for new inmates. We have devised tests to determine what to do with new arrivals. So far, you have responded well."

"Oh?" said JAHME.

"Yes, we are choosy about who joins the Bear Tribe. To the south we send those who are truly, evil you know, to the east we send those men that do not love men although some of those come back from time to time. To the west we send the women, who have their own methods of weeding out. Some of those women pass back through here on their way to the east."

"Are there some men here now, who do not love men?"

"I believe so. They come for sport or trade, sometimes curiosity."

"Curiosity?"

"To see me," said Allynson, blue eyes flashing.

JAHME thought he would drown in those icy blue eyes so close to his golden brown ones. He felt himself opening to this Man in a way he had never opened to any man, never let himself, before. And he was vulnerable. Allynson's eyes understood. They bent toward one another, their mouths opening, meeting JAHME's mouth filling with His tongue. Their hands roamed over tits and pecs, squeezing here and there, their chest, bellies, cocks touching, throbbing. JAHME opened his eyes and found Him still looking into his eyes. It was electric. He attacked the chief, trying to swallow Him, merge with Him. They fell to the sand, wrestling arms, legs intertwined, their fur full of sand. Their kissing spread from their mouths to eyes, ears, neck, rough beard prickling. Tits pulled, sucked, balls devoured. The chief's tongue found its way into JAHME's crack, His beard tickling his balls. JAHME gasped as the huge tongue forced it's way into his hole, followed by a thick hairy digit. His finger was as big as some dicks JAHME had known! Abruptly, He pulled out, JAHME gasped again. Allynson got up and walked over to the stream. There was a gourd on the low stone wall surrounding the well. Allynson picked it up and began to rinse off the sand. He gestured to JAHME, "Come JAHME, come, my Prince." The water was cold on JAHME's hot skin, still suffering from the previous days of sun. Finished, He went over to the bleachers and sat down with His great hairy thighs spread wide, His cock and balls dangling over the edge of the stone seat. JAHME knew what He wanted and quickly found himself on his knees worshipping His furry ball-sack, stroking His cock. JAH's fingers found the inside of His foreskin slippery with precum. JAHME stroked His head gently, slipping over the frenum, stretching the tight skin. What little softness there was from the cold water quickly vanished for both of them. JAHME stood up and pulled back his skin while bunching His forward. He slipped his throbbing glans into His foreskin, their slippery heads touching, sending electric tingles to their brains. JAHME began to fuck His cock, their swollen glans sliding over and under one another. They bent towards one another, their mouths, beards, tongues intertwining. JAHME pulled on His shaft in time with his thrusts causing his breath to come in gasped moans. It was getting hard to hold on, their pre-cum was mingling and oozing over JAHME's hands, which were sliding on their hard, hot shafts. JAHME felt His roar coming, he pulled back and went to his knees, without missing a stroke. The great Bear roared, His thighs stretched out on either side of JAHME's head, His massive, hairy cock and balls in his face. The scent of Him was strong in the sun the pulse of His orgasm like an avalanche in His hands. Again, JAHME got a face full, chestful of thick, hot cum. JAHME's own comparatively small wad landed on His hairy, callused feet. Gasping and sweating, He leaned back as JAHME ANDROTEP II, heir of and rightful ruler of IMOTEP 4 and the Magenellan Emirate, bear among men in his own right, leaned forward to lick off his own cum. JAHME looked up from His feet into blue fire, the Great Bear smiled and rumbled His pleasure, "My name is Allynson, remember that!" and JAHME said: "Yes, I will."

And he did.

Bear History Project Wants You!

Les Wright, curator of the Bear History Project, is a busy fella these days. Earlier this year he published The Bear Book (ad on page 8), a sociological and historical view of the gay bear subculture. Now Les is compiling material for two upcoming books, Bear Icons and The Bear Book II and he's putting out a call for submissions.

Bear Icons will be a large coffee table book of photos essays, supplemental background essays, drawings and artwork representing the full spectrum of physical types and values within the bear community. Documentary images with aesthetic appeal are especially desired. The Bear Book II is intended as a sequel to The Bear Book, and will continue to explore social history of bears, examine issues within bear communities and viewpoints from the outside. An increasing diversity of positions is most desirable. All serious proposals will be considered. The following topics are specifically sought: your bear club's history, sociological and cultural analyses of the bear club phenomenon, bears and the leather community, non-Caucasian bears and race issues, blue collar/white collar bears, and bear developments outside North America.

You can get a more detailed description of each project and where Les needs your help by visiting the Bear History Project website at <http://www.tiac.net/users/codybear/bear.htm> or writing BHP, PO Box 926, Fitchburg MA 01420-0926.

HIND-SIGHTS

It all comes out in the end.

Lazy Bear Weekend Russian River, Guerneville, California

The quaint Northern California town of Guerneville, frequented by gay vacationers from around the world, swelled beyond capacity the weekend of July 19 when Lazy Bear Weekend rolled into town. Over 1,000 hirsute homosexuals filled every room, cabin and tent within this gay-friendly community nestled amid wineries and redwoods on the Russian River. What drew the bears back to the woods? Nature? Sex? Escape? I'd say all of the above.

Started just one year ago by San Francisco promoter and bear-about-town Harry Lit, Lazy Bear Weekend is the only event of its size not affiliated with any clubs or sashes. The agenda was kept simple, fulfilling the promise of a relaxing, kick-back weekend in the sun. Many local businesses greeted the bears with open arms with signs reading "Welcome Bears" and "We Speak Bear!" Two resorts and three bars hosted beer busts and parties with wall-to-wall fur and frolic. By day the event was one big pool party. At night the full moon was shining on the Russian River, and I wished—along with everyone else having fun in the woods—that it would never end. It was a short 90-minute drive and a much-needed getaway for the normally urbanized San Francisco bear community. Yes, there are similar camping events held nationwide where bears return to their roots, but this event added the luxury of a resort town, the fantastic comedic performance of Danny Williams, and raised over $6,400 for local AIDS charities.

The San Francisco Bay Area is blessed not only with the biggest gay pride celebration in the country, the infamous Folsom Street Fair, and International Bear Rendezvous, but we can now add this weekend of rural debauchery to the list as well. The third annual Lazy Bear Weekend will be held the third weekend in July 1998. Hope you can join Harry, the woods, the fish and, of course, the bears. —Leif Wauters

Great Canadian Bear Hunt

Some hot-lookin' Torontonians have come into the Bear Store of late, telling tales of Toronto's sleazy backroom bars and numerous bathhouses. So, when I heard the Southern Ontario Bears and Bear Buddies Toronto were joining forces to host the Great Canadian Bear Hunt (July 31–August 3), I knew BEAR had to check it out. I wasn't disappointed.

The weekend started off with a packed and energetic opening night party hosted by the Black Eagle bar and BEAR magazine. While guys lined up to get their pictures taken for consideration in BEAR, others snatched up the BEAR magazines, videos, hats and T-shirts we were giving away. Just as things were calming down, I was dragged off to the Toolbox bar for the waning hour of "naked night." It was, um... friendly.

I laid low the next day. Took in the sights on Church Street, Toronto's commercial gay strip. Spent some time visiting with fellow smutmongers

Don MacLean and Shawn Syms of Canadian Male to see their operation and talk shop. I was saving my energy for Saturday's Teddy Bear Picnic. It was the highlight of the weekend: an outdoor pool party on a hot summer day with unlimited food and drink, cool tunes, and hundreds of shirtless, bearded queers horsing around playing pool games. And better yet—it's held at a gay bathhouse! Convenient, eh? The Mr. Bear Toronto contest on Sunday had the Black Eagle packed nuts to butts, with the contestants perched precariously on the tiniest of stages. The rest of the weekend was filled in with more partying and brunches at the Toolbox. Guys were wearing clothes this time, but pants-around-the-ankles seemed to be a popular fashion trend. I tried desperately to fill in any downtime with a nap. These boys party long and hard!

The Southern Ontario Bears and Bear Buddies Toronto have been holding this weekend for a few years now, but it's always been a local event. As the event has grown and more out-of-towners attend, there's talk of moving the contest to a larger space and perhaps having a host hotel.
