Fire That Collator

I just received issue 47 of BEAR. I'm usually very pleased with what I get, but my issue was screwed up. I'm missing pages 25-32 and 49-56. I don't know if they all turned out like that, or I was just one of the unlucky ones. I'd like to get the whole issue if you would send me another one.

C.M., Indiana

Only one batch of BEAR 47's were screwed up, so you were one of the unlucky ones. We sent out new copies to everyone who let us know they got shafted.

Thinking of You

Just got back from visiting South Africa. Lots of bears on the streets of Cape Town.

LETTERS TO BEAR

While checking out the Cape of Good Hope (southern tip of S.A.), I came across this Bear Basics store. So I thought I would send you a photo so you would know that we were thinking of BEAR even in geographic isolation. All the Best.

Doug (BEAR 30), British Columbia

Good to hear from you, Doug. We still have a soft spot in our hearts, and a hard spot in our pants, for your shoot in BEAR 30—especially the great butthole shot. We've used it to embellish our product pages from time to time!

New Toys for Good Boys

We thought that we would send a gift to you. We hope you like 'em. Just received our package of goodies from you henever I try to go out in public I am swamped by fans who read "The Wittke Wire." OK, that's not true at all. But one time, I told this guy I met at a bathhouse that I wrote the media column for BEAR magazine. He had an ursine creature tattooed on his shoulder, so I thought maybe he read the mag, and would be amazingly impressed that here I was, the Wittke Wire guy, in the flesh, and wrapped in a towel in his very own, privately-rented cubicle. Instead, he squinted into the middle distance as if he were mentally scanning the pages of BEAR, trying to remember if he had ever even noticed my column.

The Wittke Wire

"Oh right," he said flatly, "you're the chap who writes about Ed Harris, and Alec Baldwin. And Ed Harris and Alec Baldwin. Did I mention Ed Harris? Or Alec Baldwin?" Well! I know when I've been insulted. So, I immediately left his room—about 45 minutes later. But the guy got me thinking...have I had a tendency to rely on reporting upon gentlemen who have reached, shall we say, a certainage? Is there such a thing as Bears: The Next Generation??? If so, could I produce a video documentary about them and make a gazillion dollars? I used notes for such a project for this issue's column.

While it is generally true that men don't usually register on the Wittke Wire Radar until they've reached their fourth decade or so, there have been times in the past when I've mentioned fellows who were born at the tail end of the Baby Boom—and even some who might actually qualify as members of the much-maligned Generation X. So this time, let's look at the really young guys, and by that, I mean, men aged 35 and younger.

This past November, I attended the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force's 10th Annual Creating Change Conference in San Diego. The minute I walked into my hotel room, I turned on the television, which is what a media reporter does by his or her very nature. The image of my favorite side-o'-beef-coveredin-fur San Diego Padre, immediately appeared onscreen.

"Hi," he said directly to me (it seemed), "This is Ken Caminiti of the San Diego Padres. Join me, Friday night, at a benefit for Cammy's Kids..." (which is his charity). I really didn't hear much else "Cammy" said because I was so busy swooning and imagining a way to miss the conference I had expressly come to San Diego for, and wondering how I could scare up the large chunk of cash this sort of charity gathering generally requires, and what sort of Lucy Ricardo scheme I could concoct in order to get close to one of my favorite celebrities.

A cooler head prevailed, and I stayed at the conference but I've seriously considered moving to San Diego. I mean, is this the sort of thing they have on TV here all the time? all. We had ordered some videos, shirts, shorts, and back issues of mags. [They were] our Christmas presents to each other, along with the subscription renewal back in November.

Anyway, we just wanted to let you know everything is great and we're looking forward to many hours of pleasure and enjoyment with these new play things. We're out here in the Midwest and don't know where to send 35mm film for development. We hope you enjoy these as much as we enjoy BEAR!

D.P. and J.N., Indiana

Thanks guys. You really know the way to a pornographer's...um...heart! One of the great joys of working at the BEAR shop is receiving nasty pictures of our readers. Wish we could respond to everyone who treats us to a peek, but then we'd never get magazines out—but they are deeply appreciated. The pictures adorn the walls and bulletin boards around the office, go on display in the BEAR Store, or get made into our personal screen savers. Sometimes they wind up in BEAR, like yours did on page 3!

From the Other Side of the Pacific Rim

Thanks for the BCM 1998 catalogue enclosed in BEAR 46. Whomever chose the catalogue cover should be richly, deservedly, etc. rewarded. What a pic! The more you drool over it, the more you appreciate same. That trail of sweat on Greg's forehead, his closed eyes. What's behind those eyes? Could be lust, and certainly is oblivion to the whole world! And the way he is holding Chris' cock; it is a beautiful sight! (The head is identical to mine, by the way!!!)

Anyway, back to the real world. I slipped the catalogue cover into a frame and placed it on the wall of the room in which I keep the bed. At Christmas, a visiting buddy, when it came time to comb the hairs into some order, looked for quite a while at the aforesaid photo. He did not utter one word, but chewed on his mustache (my granddad used to do that, and I always thought he was doing some deep thinking. I kept quiet.) So it may come to pass that on the next visit from my "Christmas buddy," the delights of rimming will be introduced to our mutually heated satisfaction! P.M., Australia

If we've inspired some butt munchin' between you and your buddy, then we've been rewarded. Official credit for choosing that image goes to Richard Meyerson, who runs the BEAR Store and supervised the catalog production.

Advice Column Blues

Now, I want you guys to be brutally honest with me—well, maybe not that brutal. Am I really that unattractive?

By Chris Wittke

Speaking of baseball players, keep a lookout for Jeff Fassero, last season's starting pitcher for the Seattle Mariners, as well—nice fur crop poking up over his T-shirt. Both Caminiti and Fassero, by the way, are mere whippersnappers at 34, well below the Wire's average age of about 49.

Even younger is Josh Hamilton, an actor whose image I found myself riveted to while watching the 1997 art house sleeper, House of Yes, co-starring indie movie queen, Parker Posey. I was quite distracted by Hamilton's portrayal of Marty, as well as the glimpses of his furry chest. I made a mental note that this kid is going to be a real heartbreaker in 15 or 20 years. The dark-humored, wacky film is definitely worth a video rental.

Also appearing in a few Parker Posey films, has been the notable hirsute, Liev Schrieber. This versatile guy has been in such diverse movies as Party Girl, Daytrippers, Ransom, and Scream. A trained actor, with lots of impressive stage credits on his résumé, Schrieber is definitely one to watch.

The whole world's gone cuckoo for Ben Affleck and his breakthrough role in the amusing, Chasing Amy, which was written and directed by Gen-X Bear Supreme, Silent Bob himself, Kevin Smith (Clerks, Mall Rats). While I can see some of Affleck's charm, it was the actor who played his best friend, Banky, in Chasing Amy, who got my interest piqued. Perhaps it was Jason Lee's choice to wear a beard in the film that made me sit up and take notice, since so many younger actors these days follow the smooth-faced fashion like so many lemmings. Lee also played Brodie in Mall Rats, and will appear in Enemy of the State with Scott Caan (son of James), and Kissing a Fool, both scheduled for release in 1998. Look for them!

And who else is worthy of mention? I have no idea how old Colin Quinn of Saturday Night Live is, but I remember his exposed body fur when he used to be the announcer of MTV's Remote Control. The fact is, as he's gotten older, he's grown more handsome in that working-class Irish kinda way that very much plays into my ideal image of masculinity-but that's my problem. Actor/former talk show host, Jon Stewart, is something of a Gen-X icon, and his hairy forearms are an inspiration to us all. I'm also somewhat smitten with Joe Nipote, as I am so often smitten by actors whose surnames end in vowels. Nipote plays Frankie, the computer whiz, on Viper.

So there you have it, the furry chested and/or furry faced new guys of note. They, and others not yet discovered, will be the "Daddies of the Future," and I, for one, am looking forward to it.

You can reach Chris Wittke at wittkewire@writeme.com to tell him anything at all. Anything, @ The reason I am asking this candid question is that I've been running personal ads in over a half dozen different types of gay publications, with absolutely no luck at all. I've enclosed a copy of the ad that is currently running in BEAR (J.V.'s ad is #21427 under Northern California). As you can see, it is a very sincere and sweet ad; just a nice guy looking for friendships and maybe, someday, someone special to have a long-term relationship with.

So, anyway, every time I hear from a person who I feel I might be interested in getting to know me better, after I reply to them with a nice letter and photo, I never hear from them again. OK, I know I might not be what some would classify as God's gift to the gay world, or maybe it's that I don't have a job that rakes in a lot of money. I'm just an honest, blue-collar, working guy doing the best I can.

I guess what my true question to you is if looks and income are really all that one is truly measured by in this society. Is it true that my fellow gay brothers don't really want to take time and/or effort to get to know a very special person just because I don't qualify to be in a magazine layout? If this is true, then I'm screwed! Come on guys, can you please give me some helpful suggestions? It really gets cold and lonely out here in the not-so-pretty real world.

Oh boy, Getting hunky guys to drop their drawers hardly qualifies me as a relationship counselor. Wouldn't you rather talk about butthole?

J.V., California

Do looks count? You bet, Good looks attract people. It can get you in the door, but doesn? guarantee deep and lasting connections, which is what you say you're looking for. But good looks is a subjective quality. How many times have you cruised a hunky guy, then looked at his partner and thought, "What the hell is he doing with that guy?!" When it comes to relationships, I don't think physical attractiveness is the only thing guys are looking for in a man.

But if you're not reclin' 'em in with your looks, perhaps you can put yourself in social situations where guys can get to know you. Bars suck for that, but what about mah-jongg night at the gay community center, learning to dance at a country western queer bar, volunteering at the AIDS food bank, joining the campaign for a gay-friendly politician? In those situations, people can get to know your sense of humor or smooth dance style or shared political values—all attractive qualities that have nothing to do with looks.

Let's look at your ad for a moment. What about it will make guys think they'd enjoy spending time with you? I don't see any mention of hobbies, interests or life philosophies. You've skipped right to the while picket fence. It's fine to say you're looking for friendships and Mr. Right, but what's supposed to attract these guys to you in the first place? When you're responding to ads, do your introduction letters give the reader a sense of your personality, your values or how you enjoy spending time? If you omit those important details, but emphasize you're looking for a monogamous relationship, you might be scaring guys off.

I honestly don't believe that income is a determining factor in finding a partner. But there are certain monetary expectations on a 39 year-old man that have more to do with being in control of your financial situation rather than how much you've got. Are you living within your means? Are you saving for the future? Is your credit good? Can you afford to pick up a dinner tab once in a while? I wouldn't avoid a guy 'cause he drives around in an '85 Honda, but might stay away from a financial train wreck.

And there you have it. Thoughts from a pornographer on how to find a man! Good luck.

Fantasy Island

I love science-fiction/fantasy, but "Bear Island" was difficult to believe, and the all-caps names didn't do much for me, either. However, I did enjoy "ER. from Washington" (Write to Papa, BEAR 46). F.R., git yer cute little ass to Bear Central ASAP! Thank God you aren't a bear. I'm sure the BEAR-Powers-WhatAm can think of something for you to do in front of the camera, even if your fave models aren't available.

T.K., California

Sorry you didn't enjoy "Bear Island"especially since it was continued in BEAR 47. I liked it because it was so different from the flood of trucker/hitchhiker stories we usually receive-and the sex was really hot, and initiation rites are a big fantasy of mine, But even Kayo, who wrote and illustrated "Bear Island," agreed with you about the names in all-caps. It was changed for BEAR 47.

We contacted FR. in Washington when we were casting a new video not long ago. Seems F.R.'s lover didn't share his enthusiasm for the idea; however, that's a conversation you really should have with your boyfriend beforehand, don't ya think?

It would sell out for certain! How about a pictorial in International Leatherman mag to promote Leather Bears At Play? How about reissuing his debut issue? How about a signature photo set? How about lack Radcliffe nonstop? Also, can I send fan mail to Jack via your company, or does he have a fan club? If I send to your company, will he be sure to get it? Jack Radcliffe rules!

You've got all the videos that Jack has appeared in so far, but a new one, Palm Springs Vacation, is on its way this summer. We tried to include a color poster of Jack in our latest edition of Classic BEAR. but it didn't work out for production reasons. He does, however, appear in FQ 27. Claude and Paul Wow! BEAR 45 jumps off the hook! Claude and Paul are just two beautiful fur fuckers, especially the huskier one. That photo of him licking his buddy's bunghole is truly homolicious! The back shot really shows off the esthetics of his powerfully built shoulders, ass and thighs. Is it possible to get the color photos of the spread, or that issue of Canadian Male? I also do not presently have use of an online service, but when I tried phone information, they said there is no phone number (I could mail, but I am somewhat impatient).

R., California

The phone number for Canadian Male (listed under Pink Triangle Press) is 1-800-268-9872. The letters section of a recent Canadian Male was full of letters raving about Claude and Paul over a year after those photos first appeared! Color photos don't exist for that shoot. Photographer Tony Fong shot them in black and while!

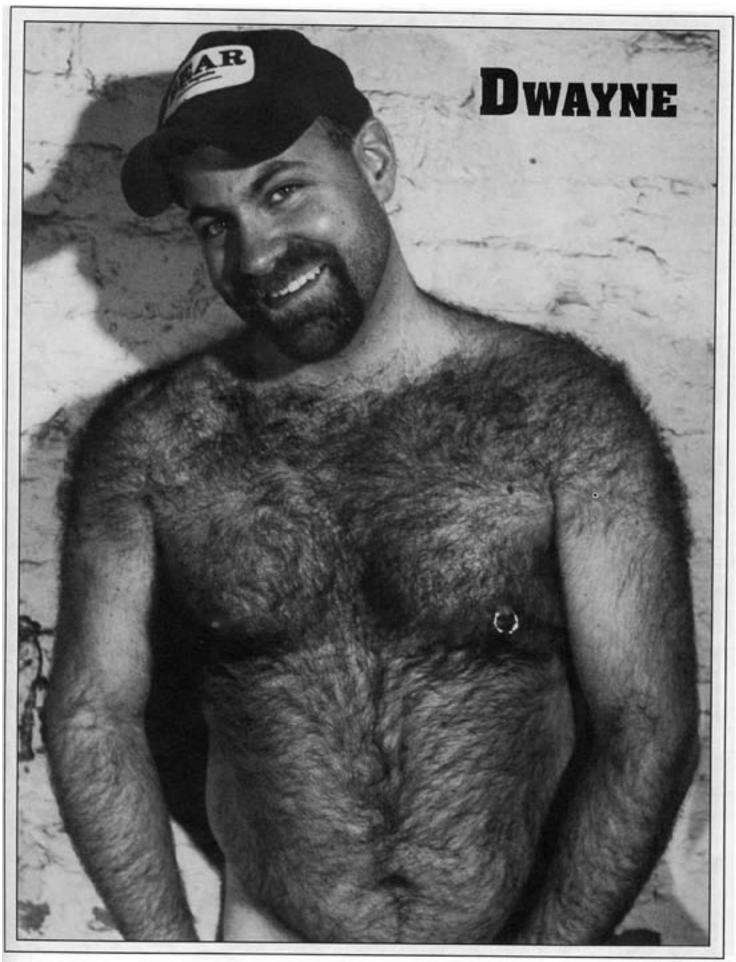

Matchmaking

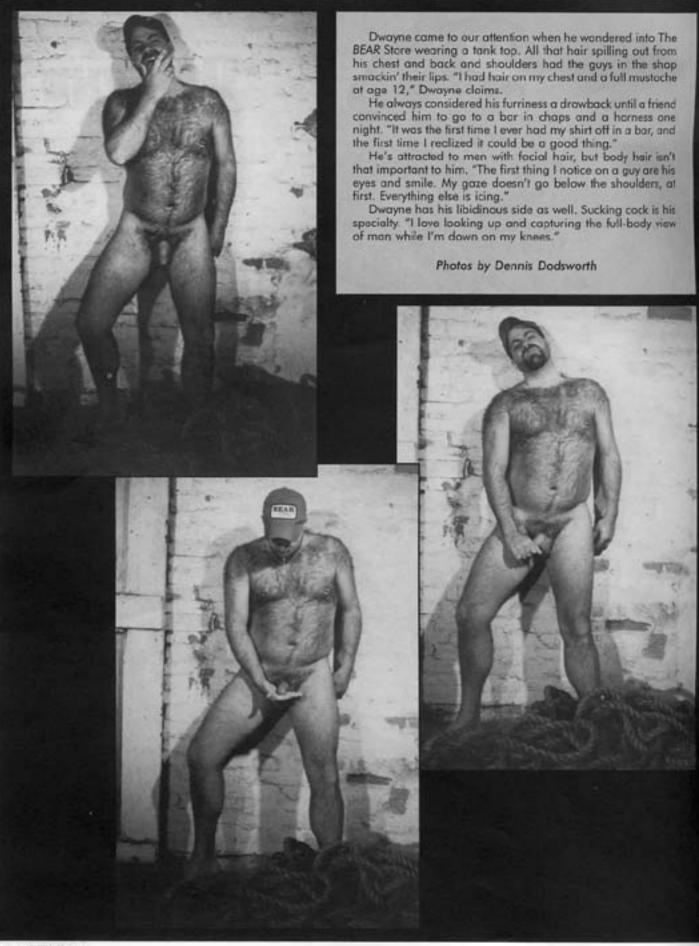

Enclosed in this mailing, you will find a package that I hope you will forward to Rick who appeared in BEAR 46, pages 66-69, photos by Mike Benda. I have never been one to put much stock in love at first sight, but this guy has sure done a number on me! How long is it possible for one guy to have a hard on? So far I feel like I've been trying for the record books. I looked through the personals and couldn't find his ad, if any. I am smitten and must have your help! Please forward [the] enclosed to him, and keep your hairy knuckles crossed!

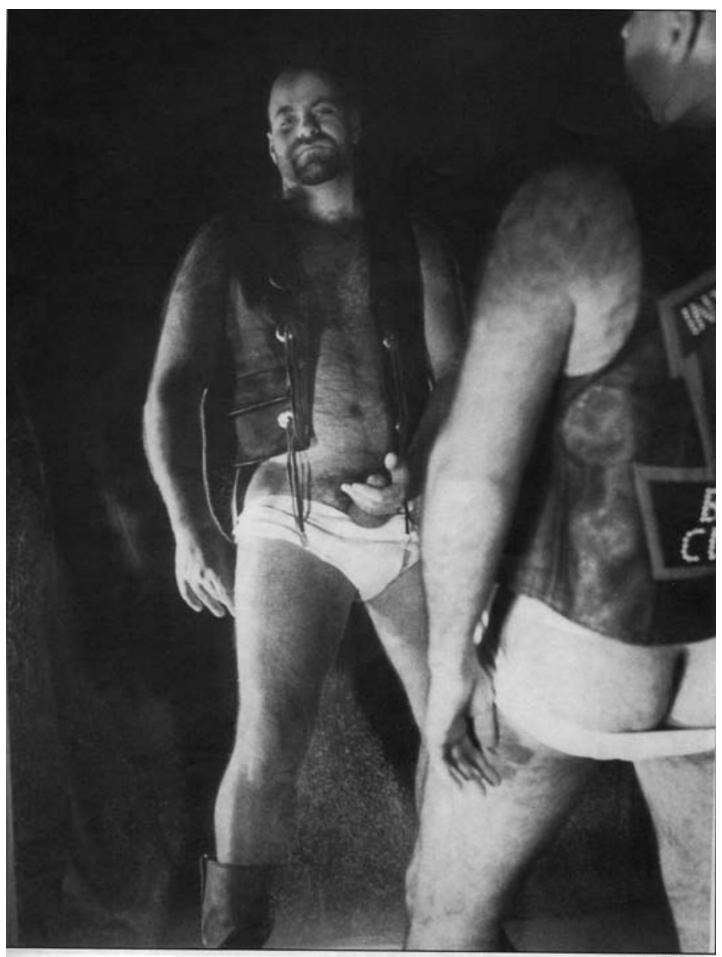

P.S. I just sent off my renewal for BEAR. I will always remain a loyal fan of fur, even if Rick is the bear for me! J.K., Arkansas

Insurance

Te've all had to deal with insurance at some time or the other. Our parents may have had policies on as, or you might remember one of those horrific, fly-by-night solicitations given to schoolchildren that offered to pay five thousand dollars if you lost an arm or leg. Most likely, your first dealing with insurance was when you bought your first car and your parents said, "Son, we're glad you got that car, but remember, it's your responsibility." How much auto insurance you purchased was probably mandated by your state's requirements, your parent's wishes, your common sense, and the depth of your wallet.

You got a little older, moved out of your parent's place and into a place, probably an apartment, of your own. Did you purchase renter's insurance? I hope you did. In most leases, the landlord limits his liability to the point of guaranteeing only that the apartment is fit for use as a dwelling place. Snow removal, and the liability for any failure to do so, rests squarely on the tenant. Further, what if the apartment has flimsy, outdated locks that nonetheless meet building code requirements? In the event of a break in, the tenant had better have renter's insurance. You might be able to collect from your landlord, if you told him the lock was defective, but I can guarantee you that any recovery will be agonizingly slow.

You got a job, one with some stability and you like it and plan to keep it awhile. What happens if you contract AIDS or are horribly mangled in an auto accident? Did you purchase disability insurance to guarantee your flow of income while you are unable to work? I hope you did. As a gay man, remember, the law treats your partner as a legal stranger to you—and many of you are estranged from your families. Lacking the social safety nets of loving, legally recognized spouse and birth family, Ibelieve that gay men have an even greater need for disability insurance than does the general population. Cover your ass.

Did you purchase life insurance? I hope so. Life insurance is a good way to create an instant estate, flush with cash, when you die. With most policies, in most jurisdictions, you can nominate anyone to be the beneficiary of your life insurance policy (if this is not so where you live, please write to me in care of BEAR). When a person dies, there are funeral expenses and creditors file claims against the estate. The partner is often emotionally devastated, and everyone wants to be paid at once. This influx of cash, at least, takes financial pressure off the bereaved partner.

There are two major types of life insurance. One is for a set number of years called term insurance. The other is standard life insurance, like the scenario that Idenicted above. The insurance is bought. and at some point, the insured dies, and a payout is made to the designated beneficiary. Term life is different in that you are insured up to a certain age or date, but not beyond. Both types have advantages and disadvantages, but I hope you would consider standard life insurance as opposed to term. Also, buy it as early in your working career as you can. Any actuary will tell you that the older people get, the harder it is to get insured.

Let's say you've done well in life, have a nice job, and have a nice home to show for it. Did you purchase homeowner's insurance? I hope you did. A good policy should cover damage to the home as well as damage to others. Even though you regularly have your home treated for termites, did the front porch collapse and take out the mailman? Did your neighbor's tree decide to come through your dining room window and join you for dinner? With a good policy, you're covered.

Most homeowners' policies allow you to cover the contents also, "Contents" usually means general household contents pertaining to everyday living. Things such as guns, stamp or coin collections, fine art, silver, and fine antiques usually require what is known as a "rider," and you pay a little more to ensure the coverage of these collections.

What if you have a loss? Contact your insurance agent immediately. Get estimates from contractors on what it would cost to repair the damage. I recommend three estimates. This has two purposes: it educates you as to the seriousness and expense of your present situation, and it prevents an insurance adjuster from pressuring you into accepting an unreasonable payment because of your ignorance about the extent of the damage. Cover your ass! Get those estimates!

Now, how about if your Purdy rifle is stolen from your gun collection? I hope you had an appraisal done by a certified appraiser. Two major associations in America are the American Society of Appraisers (ASA) and the International Society of Appraisers (ISA). You should have the appraisal updated every two or three years—insurance companies are usually delighted to pay 1978 values on a 1998 loss.

Your appraiser should charge a set fee. Appraisers that charge a percentage of the item appraised, are not trustworthy and should be avoided. Further, in addition to the appraisal, take photographs. We all admit that you had a hand-carved walnut double bed, but photos will help us determine if it was a fifteen hundred dollar bed. or a ten thousand dollar bed. Photos are also considered good proof as to the general condition of the item-was it usable or was it trash? The photo helps, Also, include a copy of the newspaper issued the day you took the photos. We know the photos might be taken after the date shown, but we also know that they could not have been taken before. If you go to your insurance adjuster with your claim properly documented as to item, value and condition, you should have minimal trouble obtaining a satisfactory settlement.

Good luck and may you never have a claim!

All the best, Jeff @

SNOVS to The STOCK STOCK

FICTION BY JAMES G. RICHARDSON

As I looked out at the serene view beyond the frost-tinted window panes, huge gray storm clouds dominated the horizon where a beautiful sunset would normally be.

Large, heavy snowflakes silently fell on the brush surrounding the cabin—you could barely distinguish the line of mountains in the distance. It was a beautiful winter day!

The smell of fresh baked bread and sweet potato pie in the oven filled the great room. The fire in the hearth roared wildly at times as the wicked winter wind swept across the top of the chimney, drawing the flames higher. As I turned to check on dinner, I could see that the large, black, cast-iron kettle of stew had finally come to a slow simmer, and at the edge of the roaring blaze, neatly lined on a spit, several rabbits were roasting to a beautiful golden brown. All was well and he was due home soon.

Time had passed so slowly that quiet winter afternoon while I tended to my chores. The sound of the wind-up clock was my only diversion. Its loud movement created a steady cadence with its "click, click, click," while I kneaded the bread and prepped the food for the evening meal. As the day grew darker, I lit several of the oil lamps around the room. The bright golden glow from the lamps blended with the multicolored flames from the fireplace, casting large, wild shadows that danced across the walls and flickered across the large bed. The numerous pillows, furs, and quilts were still a tangled mess from the last sweaty sexual romp of the morning—those memories are still rolling about in my head.

I was setting the table for supper when I heard a faint familiar sound coming closer to the cabin. It was the sound of snowshoes passing across a crisp crust of snow. It grew in intensity, then stopped. The door to the cabin swung open with a loud crash, and lumbering through the door, in a whirlwind of snowflakes, was Storm, in all of his glory! He had his snowshoes and bow in one hand, a large rabbit, and today's quarry of several fowl, in the other.

Storm definitely fit the stereotype of a French Canadian fur trapper, his deep blue eyes peering at me intensely from under his rabbit fur-lined hat, dark wavy hair circling his handsome, windburned face. He was draped with animal furs, and wore heavy wool pants, mukluks and a buckskin coat. His thick, well-manicured beard was crusted with snow, and he had several small icicles clinging to his dense dark mustache where it curled around his furry smile.

"Is supper ready?" he panted, his thick chest moving up and down in a heavy cadence. He sounded like he was out of breath and looked totally exhausted.

Storm shifted his burly six foot frame, looking for a place to rid himself of the items he was holding. Finally deciding to place them by the door, he turned and pulled me into his powerful embrace for a long kiss. My heart began to race, and the passion roared in my ears again as he pressed his furry yet cold lips to mine, and then pushed me back.

"Stay!" was all he said.

BEAR 48 . 17

He was breathing heavily as he slowly removed the thick layers of fur, and then his coat. The sheer mass of his husky frame, and the muscles he had packed onto it, soon became more defined as the layers of fur and clothing fell to the floor.

He started to remove his red and black flannel shirt, revealing the top of the red union suit lying underneath. I had watched quietly, waiting for it to finally start appearing, and then he turned away! My tongue was about as hard as my cock by now, and I was panting, silently begging to be able to see him uncover the bright-red cloth.

He stood there smiling a wicked grin over his shoulder at me as he continued to undo the buttons down the front of the shirt. I greaned. He smiled. Storm knew I had a red union suit fetish, and what he was doing was driving me fucking nuts! I wanted to watch as he slowly undid the buttons, revealing his muscular, bright-red cotton-covered, furry torso.

Finally, I heard the unmistakable sound of a zipper. Slowly turning toward me, standing with his hands on his hips, his pants pushed down to his knees, crotch pushed playfully forward, he said, "Come over here and take off my boots!"

I moved quickly to him, putting one of my hands on his massive shoulder as a point of balance. I slowly nuzzled my head in to kiss and lick him on the throat. The salty sweat, mixed in with the stubble of his unshaven neck coarsely greeting my tongue, made me tremble in ecstasy. I moved my hungry lips around to catch all the sweet flavor. Putting his hand on the back of my neck, Storm guided me down slowly toward his chest and crotch.

The red fabric was straining to cover the heavy slabs of hard muscle underneath, and dark fur was sticking out between the buttons and pouring over the top of his aeckline. I placed my other hand on his small beer belly. I rubbed the cloth across his furry stomach lightly as I worked my hot wet tongue down the front of the warm, salty, sweaty underwear.

I moved to rub my head into his crotch after I unfastened each button, working harder as I moved lower and lower. I finally managed to unveil a thick muscular chest covered in sweat-matted dark fur. When I stopped licking him, just above his bulging crotch, his body shook, and he let out a low, deep groan. He was really enjoying the tension. It made his hard cock jump and pulse with every heartbeat, creating a spot, wet with precum, that could no longer be ignored.

Storm rubbed his furry chest with his hands as he moved them underneath the red fabric. He then slowly pulled his thick cock out of the confines of the red material. The sharp contrast between his dark pubic patch and the red of his union suit outlined the pink and blue of his large hard dick, making Storm's throbbing cock seem even larger than it already was.

Storm grabbed a handful of my hair, slammed my open mouth onto the wet spot, and hissed, "Suck it dry!"

I sat on my haunches, and using my lips, I finally got the cloth into my mouth and sucked on it for all it was worth. Finally, satisfied at my efforts, he slammed my head between his legs.

"Boots!" he barked, his hard dick bouncing on the back of my head from the force of the command.

I started to unlace the tall, fur-covered mukluks as he finished removing his plaid shirt. The movement of his upper body, made the fur on his balls scratch my neck as they started a slow back and forth motion, making my concentration difficult. Finally the boots were undone, and the balance in the situation had turned to where Storm was leaning on me, each of his furry paws grabbing a shoulder for support as he stepped out of his boots.

Moving swiftly to catch his full scent as I removed each boot, I removed his socks and licked his smelly feet with all the saliva I could muster. Between grunting appreciation and the way his hard cock was bouncing around, I knew what I was doing was having the desired effect.

Storm grabbed me under my arms and pulled me to my feet, darting back and forth playfully.

"Go for it," Storm said, and I started the erotic ritual of slowly pulling the sweaty red cloth from his matted, furry body.

My tongue moved across his hard nipples, each nestled in a whorl of dark, matted für, rank with salty sweat. I pushed him away, catching his arms behind him in an impromptu sort of bondage, my hot tongue moving across my private play land, while Storm's hard cock oozed precum down my leg.

I was allowed to have my way with him for a minute or two, but he strained hard to get back in control of the situation. Soon I freed one arm from its red sheath, then the other. Holding Storm's arms high in the air, I slavered my tongue around in his pits until my face was fully impregnated with his salty taste and manscent. I turned him around, and began to lick his furry tight ass until all the fur there was matted down as well. I finished taking the union suit off of him by following the cloth down his legs with my tongue, massaging his wonderfully thick and furry thighs and calves with my mouth. Storm moved over to the dry sink and started to sponge his face and body. I moved closer to him and whispered, "Supper is ready when you are, Storm."

I turned my attention to how the shadows licked across his body as I had just done, and how wonderfully sexy this man was.

"I'll cat now!" was his response.

This was going to be a fine supper, I thought to myself as I moved to the hearth and started placing the meal on the table.

Storm was still damp from the sponge bath as he moved to take his place at the table, the candlelight making his wet, dark fur look even thicker than it was. As he moved his heavily muscled body through the room, the shadows he created showed a large man's body with an enormous cock swinging freely. He sat completely nucle at the head of the table, facing the fire, with his furry thighs wide open, cock dangling over the edge of the chair.

Finally he called me to the table, "Take your place!" I slowly moved closer to him, we kissed, and I took my place under the table, my head firmly placed between his massive furry thighs, my mouth sucking on his tasty cock. I started sucking slowly at first, moving down, I licked on his balls as he continued to eat.

For a short time, he even moved down in his chair far enough that I could shove my tongue deep in his tight, furry asshole, basically fucking his ass with my long, stiff tongue.

He was extremely hungry that night, and he took his time eating. My jaw was getting sore as he devoured two bowls of stew, a rabbit, a bottle of wine, and the rest of his meal.

I brought him close to climax twice, but Storm jerked my head away from his hard cock at the last moment! He had me by the hair, holding me back from his large cock as it pulsed hard in the firelight. He waited until the pressure of near orgasm subsided, and then I was allowed to resume my attentions. He was hard for the third time, ready to shoot, when he barked, "Wait for dessert!" his hard cock expanding deep into my throat as he made his order heard.

I hustled to get up to serve him his warm sweet potato pie. When I returned, he was standing by the fireplace holding a snifter of cognac, his long, semi-hard cock wagging between his massive furry thighs. Impatient as usual, I handed him the plate and went back to sucking his cock. Storm preferred to stand while having his dessert and a good cigar. My dessert, was him!

He would slowly eat his pie as he shoved his fat cock down my throat. He would stir his cognac with his dick, and forcefeed me the long, hard tube until I choked. All the while, he would smoke a fat cigar and direct me in how he wanted me to lick his body, his asshole, and his cock.

The smell, the taste, and the sights were all mixing inside of my head until I was about ready to shoot just from the sheer excitement.

"You may touch yourself now," Storm said, and I would start pounding furiously at my aching cock, while he would shoved his long cock to the deepest point I could take it.

Finally, he pulled his fat cock out of my mouth and began pounding his own cock, his hand sliding up and down the long, hard shaft, and then he screamed, "Agh!" and "Fuck! Agh! Agh! I'm coming, I'm coming!" staring at me with a look of deep lust in his blue eyes. "I'm coming, motherfucker!" and the flood of jizz would start. He squirt it out on my face, on my chest, in my hair, into my beard, and finally let his cock come to rest in my mouth, where I could suck the final drops out of the pulsing monster—the sweet taste of cum trailing down my throat—licking and slurping my way across every inch of his fat dick until he made me stop.

Storm collapsed onto the bed, reposing in a snarl of pillows, fur, and firelight, a sweat-covered muscular mountain of a man, his large cock making a huge shadow on the wall, slowly losing some of its size as the blood drained out of it. I moved to take advantage of the silent moment, placing my ear over the place where his pounding heart created a cadence from all of the adrenaline coursing through his body. I soon heard the telltale sign of snoring coming from his heaving chest. I rose, placed the covers over the sleeping giant of a man, and moved to the kitchen to have my dinner, and clean up after the meal.

I crawled into bed, trying to make as little movement as possible. Most of the time, I still managed to wake him up, and he would move to one side of the bed, fluff up a pillow, and beckon me to crawl in. I never felt as safe and secure as I did there in the dark, under the safety of his furry massive arm as he pulled me back tightly against his warm body and firm cock. I looked across the moonlit room, and saw the snowshoes propped against the wall. It truly had been a perfect evening at the cabin. •

Where No One Can Hear You Scream

I t's time for a little readership participation. Fuck this "sitting-on-yourass-and-letting-the-folks-at-BEAR-doall-the-work" shit. You're going to be involved. In fact, you already are involved, and you just don't know it yet, Today's topic is one that no human can avoid for very long. There is no escape. You, dear reader, have participated in the most horrific catastrophe the world has ever known—The Date From Hell.

Of course, you weren't the date from hell. You were on the date from hell, right? It's always the other guy who's weird, right? You're perfectly normal—right. The way I see it, there are several types of dates from hell, listed here alphabetically: Bunny Boilers; Call Waiters; Chemists; Porters; and WFW's (Way-Fucking-Wierd-For-Absolutely-No-Discernable-Reason-Whatsoever).

Bunny Boilers (lapinus cookeroonius) love you. They can't live without you. The classic Hollywood example is, of course, Glenn Close, who stands in the kitchen screaming, "I won't be ignored!" and who tries to cook a rabbit to impress her married boyfriend, only she forgot that murdering your intended's child's fluffy pet is usually construed, at least in our society, as being mildly eccentric. Yes, murder is always a subtle clue. Other red flags: he calls four times a day even before you first go out, and seems just a little too interested in you. If he's hanging on every word you say, it means he has nothing of his own to hang onto. Another sign? BB's preach tolerance and love, but if the waiter brings the wrong thing, watch your date's reaction. One normally doesn't go postal over cappuccino foam. Run, quickly. Change your phone number.

Call Waiters (cellularium hangapussius) look great. They've got the beeper, the cell phone, usually a nice car, and they love to make sure you don't get an inflated sense of Self. They've always got somebody on the other line, literally and figuratively. Oh, and the Daytimers "-they just love to pencil you in. They say they use ink, but you know better. If your date French kisses absolutely everyone you pass on the street, including women, and constantly takes phone calls, you've got a problem-"I'm sorry, I'll just be a second...go ahead. Oh, really? What did he say? They're going to break up, aren't they? Sorry, I'll just be a second." Face it. You are the second, and you always will be. A Call Waiter should only be kept on hand if he has a humongous dick and knows how to use it.

Chemists (snortus-fumeroleum) are usually soft and amiable. All your ideas and opinions will be met with a "Yeah, totally!" Any disagreement or strife will be met with a "Huh?" Bodybuilders are usually in this category, too-hormones, don'tcha know. These people love to sleep, so they're particularly good for the winter months. Their bedroom will have a slightly moldy smell, their refrigerator will be bereft of any food-type things. They're always late, or don't show up at all, but when cornered, they get all affable and sweet. Chemists will do almost anything you say-you just have to watch for the flipside: "I'm Satan now! Watch me burn!"

Porters (loveyus howellus) are loud and flamboyant. The stars of every scene. Never go anywhere without "baggage," they bring steamer trunks full of agony. The past boyfriend who lied and cheated! His car that got stolen! Porters usually have had several wildly divergent careers. such as airline executive, Pentecostal minister, and porn star. He probably got shipwrecked in Jakarta, and his father never understood him—all this information (and more) spills forth on the first date. Fascinating stories, flaccid dicks.

WFW (not translatable) is essentially an umbrella category for the purposes of analogy. Makes for much easier target practice. Way-Fucking-Wierd-For-Absolutely-No-Discernable-Reason-Whatsoever's can run the gamut of the aforementioned characteristics, but these ones add spice to any date. Some personal examples I've encountered? Well, let's see. There was the guy in the Haight who, while I was riding his rump, kept plopping off my dick, running into the next room to snort poppers, only to return and start fucking again. He did this several times, like I was going to steal his poppers. A friend of mine also wound up having the exact same experience with this guy.

Let's see...one guy hit and abused his cat on our first, and ironically, only date; one guy vowed up and down he wasn't in a relationship, but would only have sex with me in his car (and parked on these San Francisco hills, you really can see the face of God); a married one who was the hottest man I've ever tasted but who gave me his home phone number only to have his wife answer the phone. Such learning experiences on the road of life. How can we be so lucky? Just don't get me started on the guy who tried to suck my dick in a freight elevator; that's a whole 'nother column in and of itself.

Where do you come in with all this? You're gonna write down some of your own personal dates from hell and send 'em to me: The Luke File, BEAR Magazine, 2215-R Market St. #148, San Francisco, CA 94114. Your editor, Rich, won't mind having them pile up on his desk—I've seen that desk, and trust me, you won't even make a dent.

Editor Rich here: Okay, how 'bout some incentive? Send in your miserable date experiences (to Luke's attention) and we'll send you our latest edition of Classic BEAR magazine. Offer ends May 15, 1998. The winner of The Most Awful Date will be offered a date with Luke. He's serious about this, and he has all those free air miles to make it happen. Could there be a more ironic prize? • didn't mention that the garish details of dismembering rituals didn't force me to pause and rest my imagination once or twice. Other sections found me foaming cock droot and licking it off my fingers before turning the pages. It's a good book that works on many levels.

rainbow county and other stories

by Jack Fritscher LT Publications, Beverly Hills, California $14.95, available through Brush Creek Media

Jack Fritscher has built fame communicating in three forms. Actual man-to-man sex came first. Then came the journaling of his fantasies on film (through Palm Drive Video). But his most gourmet fashion has proven to be putting those fantasies on paper. His most recent literary offering, rainbow county and other stories -a collection of Fritscher's previously published erotica-is a look from beyond the outer limits of unbridled man lust. In rainbow county, poetic odes to dark desires throw left punches to the right jabs of the narrative stories themselves, delivering adrenaline forced jism for the reader to writhe in.

Fritscher is unlike any other chronicler of masculine perversion. His stories are not about adventuresome helium-heeled youngsters, nor do they portray, as one might expect, the action in San Francisco's leather playrooms.

They are about growth, limits, expansion of the mind...and the nuts. To go where no man has gone before (or dared to admit in writing) seems to be the mission of these stories-some of which were first published over twenty years ago.

The first tale. "The Shadow Soldiers," sets the tone of the entire collection: the breaking of the man. This story lunges blood-first from the grave of unknown soldiers, detailing their last possible flashes of love as they collapse into each other's arms. Whether breaking the mind, the body or the spirit of innocence, Fritscher's stories throw on the lights within his "heart of darkness," and bring the sacrificial limits of masculinity to slaughter.

To detail all the cock pounding, tit gripping, ass pumping and load gulping that fills rainbow county would understate its artfulness. If you can picture yourself reincarnated as your once-lover's sperm, successfully rushing to fertilize a female egg, and finally emerging as his son, then you will grasp some of the complexities in this engrossing digest. But not all the stories are as farreaching. And I'd be lying if I

Chicago Bearfest Uncensored Catalina Video

Catalina Video has released the second of its "Furry Features" line with Chicago Bearfest Unconsored. It's a look at what went on backstage at last year's Mr. Bear Pride contest in Chicago-in our fantasies, anyway! The guys from the Great Lakes Bears, who hosted the actual contest, are probably muttering, "We wish!" as they watch this video cast portray their stage crew getting it on with each other. While this backstage sexfest is merely a plotline invention, Chicago Bearfest is interspersed with actual footage of the Mr. Bear Pride contest to legitimize the premise. (My more cynical mind wonders if it wasn't included to legitimize Catalina in the eyes of the bear community.)

This cutting back and forth to the contest footage merely distracted from the sex, and the use of comedian Danny Williams' campyon-stage dialog as the soundtrack for most of the video was completely mood raining. When I'm trying to get off, I don't want to hear clever quips about Horence Henderson and Ricki Lake!

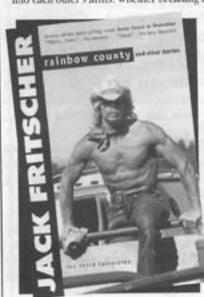

So I'll continue my review with the sound turned off.

The video opens as Mike Torbec tries to get his buddy, Nick Stevenson entered into the contest at the last moment. The effort fails, but the very hairy Sevenson shows Torbec his appreciation by sucking him off. The fortysh Torbeck has a nice, fuzzy, manly body and the very hairy Stevenson knows how to suck dick. After getting blasted in the face by a load of cum, Stevenson eats Torbeck's butt, who then turns cocksucker. This is the basic sex formula for the other four duo scenes that follow EEAR 41 coverman, Bill Adams, playing the stage manager, and an nonbearded Anthony Gallo, are up next. Even though the action is no different from the first scene, they go at it with more gusto. Adams looks like he's having a ball sucking Gallo's huge uncut dick, and munching on his ass. Russ Ward (the only gay who comes close to smooth-bodied in this video) and Vinnie Rocko (a hairy muscular Hispanic) then abandon their stage-lighting duties to frolic in the rathers. After they finish, Stevenson returns to distract the cameraman (the ultra-hairy Robert Paul). When the contest is over, Adams and Rocko return home to lighten their loads.

If you crave hairy guys in your video porn, Chicago Bearfest delivers. But it could have used some more variety in the sex action (bear sucks dick, eats ass, then more dick sucking). Even though the cocksucking was inspired, and there were lots of cumshots, it became monotonous. But then you can always turn up the sound and laugh at the soundtrack.

Man-to-Man Personals

YOUR BEAR PERSONAL AD... HERE'S HOW IT WORKS.

PLACING AN AD

Deadline for BEAR 49 personal ads is February 17. Deadline for BEAR 50 ads (which comes out the beginning of July) is April 24. These dates are subject to change as our publishing schedule varies slightly sometimes, Blame it on El Niño.

Text. Talk about yourself and be real clear as to whom you'd like to meet. Avoid negative shit, like "no fats, fems or Republicans." It doesn't work, and we'll probably change it any-

Names. We can't run ads addressed to Occupant or Boxholder. Use your initials or a name your postal carrier knows.

Phone Numbers. We won't print 'em. That's it. Period.

Photo Ads. We'll run a shot of your face or dick, but only once. Your photo must have a signed model release (see "Show Yourself In BEAR." page 47) AND a photocopy of your picture ID. Don't bother sending us photos without this stuff. We can't legally print 'em. Each photo sent to BEAR must be signed with your name and phone number on the back. Photos are not returnable.

BEAR Postal Box Numbers. If you wish, we'll assign a BEAR Postal Box Number to your ad, collect your responses and forward them to your address. A word to the wise: your own address will get you more responses. For U.S. subscribers only, Free to BEAR Buddies, $5 to everyone else.

Volce Mall Box Codes. We assign a voice mail box to every domestic ad. Guys can leave phone messages in your box after reading your ad, and only you can retrieve them. Cost is $1.98 per minute for both parties.

Common Courtesy. If a guy gets in touch with you, write back. Even if it's just to say "no thanks," he deserves to know you got his message.

Cost and Duration. Personal ads are free if you're a BEAR Buddy (an $85, two-year subscription). Otherwise, they're $.25 a word, per issue. BEAR Buddy ads are discontinued when the subscription runs out. You'll have to submit a new ad when you renew your subscription. Wanna discontinue your ad? Write in, and we'll pull it. You'll have to pay to have a pulled ad put back in, though.

Ad Changes. It's cool, but will cost you five bucks, and must be in writing. Hint: you'll get more responses by revising your ad from time to time.

Edits. We reserve the right to edit ads for editorial consistency and clarity. We also reserve the right to refuse any ad.

Submitting your ad. Compose your ad on a separate piece of paper, and for God's sake, write or print clearly so we can read the thing. Remember, no telephone numbers or "Boxholder/Occupant" addresses will be printed in ads! Photocopy this form, or copy it by hand,but we need all of this info!

RESPONDING TO AN AD

Voice mail box number. To respond to a voice mail box number, see details under "Voice Mail Explained." If the ad says "No voice mail," it's a good bet the felia won't be checkin' his phone messages. Respond via written letter, or e-mail if it's listed.

BEAR Box Number. To respond to an ad with a BEAR Box number, seal your letter in an envelope. On this envelope, put the fella's box number in pencil where the stamp normally goes. Send this with $1 in a larger envelope to us.

Common Courtosy. Respond to only the ads looking for your type, and don't be pullin' the old form letter routine. If you don't fit the specifications listed in the ad, don't come whining to us if you don't get a response.

Prisons. Not a great place to send money, or pictures of your hairy ass. By all means, correspond and make friends, But know the potential for trouble to you as well as the guy on the inside,

VOICE MAIL EXPLAINED

Our BEAR voice mail system is designed to give you access to new friends, true love, or just a good fuck. It works. Record your own personal greeting, answer someone else's ad or pick up your messages.

If you have an ad in BEAR:

When dialing in for the first time, you must already have your pass code from us. We will mail you this code before the issue of BEAR in which your ad first appears hits the stands. Write us here at the shop if you don't receive your code for some reason.

To record an outgoing message to correspond to your ad in BEAR, or to collect your messages:

Once at the voice mail main menu, immediately hit the "star" key. The system will tell you that you are picking up your mail and ask you to enter your four-digit mailbox number. Don't let this confuse you. Most of our mailbox numbers are five digits in length and, yeah, the recording's all fucked up. Go ahead and check for your mail. The system will then give you four options. Choose option #3 to record an outgoing announcement to match your ad. This way, guys will be able to hear the voice that's attached to your hot ad. Messages will stay in the system for two weeks.

Remember, if you are advertising in BEAR, you automatically have a BEAR voice mail box. However, our 900 system allows you to set up additional boxes if you want to. This can be done by choosing command #3 from the main menu, which is different from option #3 which appears at the message retrieval area.

Still have questions about BEAR Volcemail? Call 1-800-234-3877 and ask to speak with our answer guy, Mike Eades. He's usually here until 4:00 pm, Pacific Time.

Credit card holders call 1-800-347-BEAR

> To charge the call to your home phone, dial 1-900-HOT-BEAR

Cost for both lines is $1.98 a minute.

know you are out there samewhere. This attractive GBM, loving, intelligent, sensual, spiritual, jack of alltrades is waiting, 47, 616', 219 lbs, beard, mustoche, looking for a real mon-to-man relationship. My age, or alder, board and "stache are just what I love, I am a healthy, masculine kind of man, and looking for the same. I love to cook. I love wildlife, hame entertainmen, old romantic music, good home life, and someone classy, with pride and respect. Not into drugs or heavy drinking. I don't smoke. I don't like bars or clubs, but I do go sometimes, for I am a single man. I want a man who's got it all together, and who knows that you don't have to take your clothes all to have the best time of your life. Sex is not what keeps love alive, it's two hearts, beating as one-honesty, and leving yourself first before you can tell someone that you love them, from the heart. Now as I come to the end of this segment. I extend my hand across the miles to you in friendship and love. If you are healthy, and like the above, lets hear from you, my friend. White or Latino men, White photo please. Black men, how can I leave you out? Let me tell you this, if you are good-looking and come from a home and got it all together, let me hear from you, and the good Lord knows the rest. G.S., PO Box 22155, Ft. WAYS TO IMPROVE BEAR MAGAZINE

- Give away "Bear Juice" with every new subscription
- Require staff to show their "Full Monty" whenever a customer walks in the door
- 8. Change motto from "Masculinity Without the Trappings" to "Masculinity Free— Trappings Extra"
- Have Jack Radcliffe and Buster deliver every issue in person
- 6. Advertise 1-900-Me-Gotta-Have
- 5. Pop-up pages!
- 4. Hire Mary Albert as spokesman
- Require "free samples" for every personal ad
- Offer half off all Prince Albert piercings when you mention "Killer/Karl"
- I. Three words: scratch 'n' sniff

"From our home office in Ursine, California, the Top Ten things Brush Creek Media can do to improve BEAR magazine." Thanks to Polar Bear Gut (great handle!) for the marketing strategies. (By the way, Jack and Buster are busy, but Marv's agent seemed really excited to get our call!)

BEAR models come from the same place you did. They were in bed, whacking off, looking at this very mag. Suddenly, they started to get an idea.... chances are, you've got your dick out right now. If the idea of people looking at you naked makes your hole twitch, we want you. Send us pictures. You might become famous, and get all the sex you want.

The following information is necessary for all people whose photos appear anywhere in BEAR—naked or not!

Complete this form and send it with your photographs, along with a photocopy of your picture ID. Put your name, signature and phone number on the back of every gawd-damn picture you send us.

"Fur. It's not just for us fellas anymore"

We came across this ad inside a magazine that sorta "fell" across our laps. It's called Hair To Stay and... yup, it's for guys (& gals) who like their gals hairy. The times, they are a changin'...

I guess this is where you go when you want a quickie! Thanks to Arthur from Oklahoma City.

See page 70 for club contact information. Most club Web sites have full details of events.

Bear Hunt '98

Blackjack Bears March 27-29, Las Vegas, Nevada

Head on over to "Lost Wages" to join the Blackjack Bears for this weekend. There's no registration or host hotel to worry about. Friday night is a beer/soda bust at The Buffalo, Saturday night "Fly Openers" at the Las Vegas Eagle, and Sunday brunch at the Backstreet with a farewell beer bust at The Buffalo.

Texas Bear Round-Up III

Dallas Bears March 26-29, Dallas, Texas

Come on down to Texas' most visited city to participate in Texas Bear Round-Up III. BEAR will be there once again, as this is one of our favorite bear runs. TBRU features the Mr. American Bear Contest, vendors market, indoor pool party and beer bust, Bear-B-Q (check to make sure that none of your friends are missing), a bears online party, and a club night cocktail party. Most of these events will take place at the host hotel, Harvey Hotel Brookhollow. Mention TBRU, and your room rate will be $79 a night for up to four guests per room (room rate is subject to availability). Registration for this event is $75 and is limited to the first 400 guests. You can visit the Dallas Bears' web site at http://www.bear.net/db/roundup for information on registration and events.

Mr. Southern California Bear Contest Bears LA

April 3-5, Los Angeles, California

Some of you may remember that the first three Mr. Southern California Bears went on to win the Mr. International Bear title. That probably won't happen this year since the contest is being held after IBR. Oh well, you can still head to Southern California and participate in one of the hottest (literally) events around. Just think...sun, sea, sand in your crack, what more can a bear ask for? With a little luck, those Santa Ana winds will kick up and make everything really interesting—sorry, got distracted.

Bear Jam '98

Music City Bears April 17-19, Nashville, Tennessee

Friday night will begin with registration, a welcome party, and online party at the guest hotel. Tentatively, the itinerary consists of taking a tour of historic Second Asenue on Saturday, and visiting the Hard Rock Café, Planet Hollywood, the Wild Horse Saloon, and a whole lot more! Later that night, a private party will be held at the Nashville Eagle which will include food, drinks, prizes, and vendors market, eventually leading to the bear contest, Sunday morning. the Music City Bears will host you at a pancake breakfast at the Silver Stirrup. So, if you want to catch yourself a nice Southern bear, I suggest you get on the horn and register for this event. What are you waiting for?

Spring Thaw '98

Northwest Bears

April 17-19, Seattle, Washington

For those who can't make it to Bear Jam '98, you can go help celebrate the Northwest Bears' 5th Annual Spring Thaw weekend. If this year's weekend was anything like last year's, then you're guaranteed to have a memorable time. Kick-off begins with registration and the Meet & Greet Buffet on Friday. Saturday will begin with a continental breakfast and tours given by local bears serving as tour guides. The Spring Thaw Banquet, and the fantastic "Beard, Belly and Buns" contests are on Saturday night. Don't forget to participate in the breathtaking Puget Sound brunch cruise on Sunday aboard the Goodtime II. This year's host hotel is The Crowne Plaza. Accommodations run at $129 a night. Event registration is $89 before March 15. After that, expect to pay $99, but ya gotta register before April 10. For more information, or to order a registration packet, call Dan at (206) 242-5173 (or send e-mail to dbearsea@sprynet.com).

Bearfest '98

Highwaymen TNT

May 8-10, Washington, District of Columbia

BEAR will be shooting a new fack film during this event, so I'm sure you'll be able to catch some of your favorite BEAR models making the rounds—we'll be on the provil for some new talent, as well. Celebrating the Highwaymen's 20° anniversary, the full weekend package includes entry to the banquet, brunch, all cocktail parties, all after hours parties, and poolside BBQ. Your package also includes a run pin and the Bearfest '98 pin—all this for $79 before May 1 (add $10 for late registration). This year's host hotel will be the Washington Plaza Hotel. Room rates are $89 per night for single occupancy, and $99 per night for double/triple/quadruple occupancy. Room rates are only guaranteed until April 8, and you must ask for Block #6377. Call (800) 424-1140 for hotel reservations. For event registration, call (301) 839-3099, or visit their web page at http://www.dcpride.org/HighwaymenTNT.

Bear Pride '98

Great Lakes Bears

Memorial Day Weekend, May 21-25, Chicago, Illinois

This is one of the largest bear (no pun intended) events around! Attendance is expected to reach over 1,600 (that's people, not pounds) this year. Damn! Better make sure you bring a lot of condoms, Preparation H, and RID. In true bear style, everything will be on a grand scale, including a "Wet & Wild" party. This year's host hotel is the Chicago Marriott, with rooms going for $115 per night. Call (800) 228-9290 for reservations. Be sure to mention Bear Pride to get your discount. United Airlines is the official airline carrier for this event. For your discounted tickets, call (800) 521-4041 and use event code #519YL. Registration is $55 before May 1. After May 1, registration needs to be done at the host hotel, and will cost $75. Wet & Wild party is an additional $25. To register, call (773) 509-8172, or visit their web site at http://glbears.com/bp.

Planning an event that you want listed in BEAR? Give us the details, or better yet, send your club newsletter to: BEAR - Things to Do, 2215-R Market Street #148, San Francisco, CA 94114. Events must be received before March 13, 1998 for BEAR 49.

FICTION BY M. CHRISTIAN PHOTOS BY RVJ STUDIOS

N THE HOL

The Man With Many Names rode high—and hard—in the saddle.

Two days out from Loredo. Two days till Bad Water. The sky was so blue it hurt. No clouds. Damned little breeze. His horse kicked up sullen clouds of dust. The range was frozen in dry, still air. A few sagebrush. A few scattered dumps of stone: this was his home-just as a sod house was some felks', just as the high mountains were others, and wigwams were for certain Indians. He rode steadily through a hot, dry day, miles from nothing, perfectly at home.

Or shoulda been. Fact was, the tall, hard man in the serape, bruised old Stetson, silver spurs, and comfortable old saddle, wasn't all that much at home. Maybe it was the hot, beating sun, maybe the lingering bite of sagebrush, the blue hurting sky. Maybe because of that certain crop of stones, maybe that one bird's high, long song. Maybe that lone tree, leafless and baking in the hot sun.

Whatever the cause, the man sometimes called Diego, Dan, Jesús, Burt, Colt or many others, rode-high and very, very hard-in the saddle.

He wanted to play.

It didn't show up on any maps-not that there were that many maps of that particular stretch of dirt anyway-just a innetion between two ridges. It was a slightly raised V with its back up to the wind and a few more dead trees. A tumbleweed did just that, Still, Hole-in-the-Wall offered much to a tall, hard man in the saddle: more than dirt, the strong sky, tepid wind, cacti, and a horse.

The Man With Many Names tied his nameless horse to the hitching post and started towards the door. Hole-in-the-Wall was just a little more than its namesake-whitewashed adobe, a cracked and buckling rough shod roof. Two windows covered by limp and faded blankets. A cracked and empty trough. A pair of swinging doors.

Diego, Dan, Jesús, Burt, Colt...lit a dark cheroot with a single explosion of a sulfur match off his silver belt buckle before pushing through the doors, right hand on the butt of his sidearm, naturally,

He entered listening, since he knew he'd be blind against the awful ink inside. He walked in and listened for those noises: the skidding of a chair being roughly pushed back, the quick jingling of coins in a pocket as someone stood up, the metal snap of a hammer getting cocked-as well as the absence of noise: the sudden cession of talk that meant he was suddenly way, way too interesting.

One wall was a bar, and Pedro, Jesús (the only thing the two of them had in common), Che, Raul, or sometimes Bean was polishing a fogged glass with a dry towel, his massive body like a tanned redwood and his hands like a wooden Indian's. The rest of the place was three tables, four men: one old Mexican rocking back and forth in a slice of hard sunlight leaking through one of the blanket-covered windows; two at one of the tables, eyes sizing him up over fans of dirty cards for craziness, the law, or something to prove. They were like the dead trees and the dry, dusty air: common as the dumps of rock and the cacti. They were very much a part of The Man With many Name's home, the range.

"OK, LET'S SEE THEM," THE DEALER SAID, TWIRLING A TOOTHPICK IN HIS MOUTH. "LET'S SEE WHAT YOU GOT."

When they figured him for someone who wouldn't draw unless drawn on, they went back to their game. "Whisky," The Man said to the Bartender. Pedro, Jesús, Che, Raul, Bean coughed once, reached under the bar for the bottle, uncorked it with the two remaining teeth in his head, and poured a good hefty shot.

The Man downed it in one swallow. The fire of it was almost cool down his throat, against breathing in hot dust. Almost. It kicked somewhere below his ribs like a horse. He pushed the glass back calmly, "Another." After "another," was nothing but dull roarings in his belly, the Man turned back to the room. The old Mexican still rocked, the white beam of sunlight flashing across the colored blanket in his lap. One of the men, a tall sandy-haired range hand with great curls of mustache, threw down his cards in exhausted resolution, nod-ded to the dealer, picked up his guns (which had been hooked around the back of the chair) and left through the swinging doors, the sunlight of his passing showing on the dirty floor.

The Man walked over to the table and stood there just long enough to catch the Dealer's attention.

"You up for a game, Mister?" the Dealer said.

The Man With Many Names just nodded, once hard—and took up the empty seat.

"Man's a conversationalist," the Dealer said, "I like that."
He started to shuffle, fast but not too fast—the sign of either an excellent card player who knew enough not to be flashy, or just a good card player.

"The man who just left was a chatterer. Chatted up with the sun and down with its set. Frankly, Sir, I think I would prefer your company. A lot more can be said with silence."

The Man With Many Names nodded and indicated the cards.

"See, you don't have to say anything. I know just what you want." The Dealer flipped cards. "Game's stud. Five card."

The Man smiled and scooped up his cards, fanned them, looked them over, and took a dollar coin out of his pocket and flipped it onto the table.

"Even lets his money do most of the talking," said the Dealer, smiling even broader, flipping his own coins onto the table.

There was no clock in Hole-in-the-Wall. Too easy to break. Too expensive. And no one cared. At a certain time the old Mexican got up out of his rocking chair and started lighting lamps. Their game only paused while the old man hobbled over and lit the lantern on the wall next to their table.

The Dealer looked at the Man over his cards. Over his own cards, the Man did the same. Men have said that you can learn a lot about a person by the way he plays a game. The Man With Many Names looked at the Dealer and saw a medium man. Flaming hair. Irish parents—yet his skin was warned by a yellowish tan that spoke of many Summers on the range. He had a full, firm mouth that grinned broad (which was often) and surprisingly straight teeth. His eyes sparkled and danced in the faint sunlight, then in the lamplight. His shoulders were straight and broad, and rolled down to corded arms and hard hands.

Now, the Dealer, he looked as the Man just grinned his grin. "What's the stakes then this time?" he said.

The Man just nodded again, indicating the Dealer.

"High stakes, pardner. Very high stakes." The Dealer shuffled, keeping his eyes down and hooded. He shuffled for a surprisingly short time—and that grin again—before flipping cards at The Man.

The game was playful and in earnest. No one there was really watching, but if the old Mexican or the Bartender with Many Names had, they would have seen the players flip and raise, discard and fold with a kind of tense earnestness: the Man With Many Names attacking, bluffing with his craggy, carved face, staring at the Dealer with eyes possessing the chill of rifle barrels. He nodded for cards, flipped others down—all with gunslinger reflexes.

EASED HIS COCK
OUT A BIT, THEN
BACK IN A BIT:
INCHING WITH
BEFORE THE
DEALER KNEW IT,
HE WAS GETTING FUCKED
WITH THE FULL
MAN'S MUSCULAR
COCK.

Now the Dealer, he was dancing and darting this way and that, ducking out of the way of those sighting eyes, moving just a bit too fast for the Man's craggy perceptions.

Around ten—though there was no clock—they faced each other over the last hand. They both knew what was at stake, they both braced themselves, they both eyed the other over their cards.

"OK, let's see them," the Dealer said, kicking a bit back in his rickety chair and twirling a toothpick in his mouth. "Let's see what you got."

A straight.

The Man With Many Names nodded his nod that said many things. In this case it said, "Let's see yours, then."

Three aces and a king.

This time, it was the Man With Many Names who smiled wide and broad.

There was a full moon that night. The corral next to the Hole-in-the-Wall was ghost-lit with pale white light. The ponies swished their tails, pawed the ground, and ignored the two men who opened their gate, came inside and went to one corner.

In the glaring moonlight they moved through the corral, drawn by something—naturally—unspoken. The Dealer started to say something, but a hard look from the Man silenced him. To add something to the command, the Man took a dusty black (or blue, hard to tell in the silvery moonlight) handkerchief and carefully balled it up and slowly, forcefully, shoved it into his mouth with two fingers.

The Dealer looked up at him with eyes lost in the dim moonlight as the Man took him firmly by the shoulders and turned him towards a corner of the corral. The Man was an almost invisible heaviness behind the Dealer, who could feel him there, his knees against the backs of his thighs. A pair of range-chapped hands appeared from behind him and guided the Dealer's own less-rough fingers to the fence.

The Man breathed on the back of the Dealer's neck, and the Dealer smelled cheap whisky, dust and—something else: an animal beyond the wild things in the hill, beyond the ponies. The hands left his own and dropped to the Dealer's slight paunch, and grabbed him firm and hard, hugging him with hands used to fighting, shooting and riding. The Man squeezed him hard—and the Dealer responded with a deep thunderous groan, feeling himself start to get tight in his britches. It was like a fire was being built up behind him, its warmth spreading through him, igniting all of him—especially his cock.

The Man with Many Names played for a moment with the Dealer's simple iron belt-buckle before undoing it and pulling his dungarees quickly to his knees. The night was warm. The Dealer was hot; he didn't feel the breeze at all. He didn't smell anything at all except for the heavy smell of a rutting man. He didn't feel anything (including the rough wood of the fencing) except for the strong hands of the man reaching around him for his cock.

The Dealer was long and strong, and the Man found himself holding what could have been a man's wrist. The Man smiled even more and kissed the back of the Dealer's neck. The Dealer was also grinning as he slowly bent away from the Man to rest his burly forearms on the fence. The Dealer's pale moon was almost white in the other moon's light. His legs were strong, like the trunks of trees, and his ass was two globes of tight muscle, surprisingly soft to the Man's touch. He had a narrow band of hair, like a tail, that ran from the base of his spine to the apples of his balls. His asshole was a wedding ring of soft pink.

The Man With Many Names dropped his own pants with a jingling of buckle and spurs. His own long, thick cock was straining against him for the touch of a hand, lips—for something. Slowly, carefully, pulling back against his lust, but pushing forward nonetheless, the Man eased himself forward, to rest his uncut length on the seam of the Dealer's crack. Slowly, again, he worked himself back and forth along the hairy valley, never quite pulling back far enough to enter him on the next stroke.

To let the Dealer feel exactly what he was facing, the Man With Many Names put his hand calmly down on top of his cock, pressing down with his palm. Bent under him, the Dealer gave a shuddering moan at feeling exactly how long and hard and strong the Man's cock was. He found himself nodding encouragement.

But not yet. First the Man licked and sucked two of his fingers, getting them good and wet. Then he pulled a little more and eased his cock down to where his smooth head was jangling against the Dealers warm, hairy balls. Then he slowly started to circle the other man's asshole with his wet fingers—hypnotizing his asshole to open up for him.

It was distracting, but pleasing, when he felt the Dealer's hand circle around his cock and start to milk him with smooth, sure strokes. After just a little teasing, the Dealer's asshole swallowed his fingers, pulling them deep and warm inside. Not that anyone could have seen, save that big silver moon and those two ponies, but the Man smiled big and broad once more.

Again he pulled back, inching his cock from the Dealer's soft fingers till he was almost a pace away from him. In that white light of the full moon, the Dealer's ass was pale and hard, his puckered asshole like a pair of pursed lips. Running a hard hand down the crack of the Dealer's ass and touching his asshole with a strong finger, he carefully took two steps forward and put the head of his cock to those special lips.

Below him, head almost touching the fence, the Dealer mumbled something like, "A man's gotta do what a man's..." through the gag, ending in a low moan as the Man With Many Names carefully slipped his cock into his asshole.

The Dealer stiffened, his moan arching up a slight squeal as the Man inched his cock into him. Warm. Tight. The Man resisted the fucking instinct with everything he had. Rather, with the patience earned from long days on the range, he slowly eased his cock out a bit, then back in a bit: inching with inches till before the Dealer knew it, he was getting fucked with the full reach of the Man's muscular cock.

With each long stroke, the Dealer grunted, moaned and squealed with maybe pain but definitely pleasure, eventually blowing out the handkerchief with one explosive sigh. Caught up in it, he reached between his own legs and started to furiously pump his own cock, feeling the muscles in his ass start to milk the Man.

The ponies, rather than being spooked, moved closer till one of them, tall palomino, snorted warm horse breath on the back of the Man's neck.

They came, not soon after each other. First, the Dealer, jetting cum into the dirt and dust of the corral, feeling his knees start to give with release. The Man went next as the Dealer started to fall under him: his own silvery cum splattering on the back of the dealer's shirt.

They both sat down in the dirt and heaved and panted and smiled, smiled, smiled. After a point, the Man with Many Names looked down at the Dealer's pants, still wrapped around his knees. In the moonlight, the Ace was like a plate of fine china. "You could have won," he said, nodding to the card the Dealer then pocketed.

"I did," said the Dealer. @

Just Another Day

I t's me again. Hoo-boy, it's me again.

All kinds of stuff has been going on, not the least of which is a date set for Steve's disciplinary hearing—January 31-February 2, 1998.

But before we get to that, let me get everyone caught up. Steve Sabin, my partner, is a Lutheran pastor. In January 1997, Phil Hougen, his bishop, said to Steve, "I have heard you are gay and in a relationship. Is this true?" and, when Steve answered affirmatively, Hougen said, "Then I have to ask you to resign." Steve refused to resign; his congregation voted unanimously to support him.

We waited nearly a year for anything official to happen, and now here it is. As the fat man sez, what a long, strange trip it's been.

While waiting for official action, we took a little road trip to Milwaukee and Chicago; Milwaukee because Steve was invited to preach and I was invited to speak at Cross Lutheran, and Chicago because we needed to vacate for a few days. I'd never been to Wisconsin; it's a lovely state—we drove in at night, much to the lament of those who said it's a beautiful drive; we didn't mind because we got to see an aurora painting the sky.

Now, I know this is a helluva tangent, but there's one thing about Wisconsin that confounds me: the urinals. Virtually all the ones I got acquainted with were these supposedly waist-high-tofloor models, and while I'm not the world's tallest man, I got damn long legs and let me tell you one man's waist is another man's top of the damn urinal, Yeah, I know what you're thinking: why don't I just have my knees removed? Sheesh.

OK, enough of that. The people at Cross were very positive and enthusiastic; Steve had a ball preaching to them. The congregation is urban, with a broad mix of ethnicities and backgrounds—a change from near-homogenous Iowa—and very welcoming, certainly to us. It was really interesting and heartening to hear Lutherans, actual Lutherans, singing gospel like they meant it.

In the afternoon following the Sunday morning service at which Steve preached, we were to take part in a discussion about homosexuality and the church and clergy and the Lutheran program designed to welcome gay people (Reconciled in Christ). When we finished brunching, we returned to the church to find it surrounded by people holding signs that read "HOMOSEXU-ALITY IS WRONG," various Bible verses and the like. Naturally, I put my arm around Steve (in his clerics) as we walked up the steps to the church. Questions were shouted at us-"Are you saved?" "Do you know you're going to hell?" My favorite one was, "Do you have AIDS?" to which I replied, "No, I have dignity." At that, we walked into the building, though not before a woman snapped our picture. I ran into our hosts in the sacristy, pained expressions on their faces, as if apologizing for the demonstrators. I told them about my little exchange with them and they smiled.

We went downstairs and took our place at the table. There were about 25-30 people from the church who wanted to hear what we had to say. Shortly after we began, though, the room started to fill with all the folks who had until then remained outside. Various middling-aged fundamentalists dressed in Sunday pants and cowboy boots, carrying their worn Bibles and wearing a hang-dog expression that says, "I'm about to stare Satan in the face," dotted the crowd; one man had a video camera, which he used continuously. The moderator sent out index cards and instructed those present to write questions. While the crowd was writing, we panelists introduced ourselves—six pastors and me. I introduced myself, saying, "I am Karl von Uhl, and I am Pastor Steve Sabin's loving partner, much as he is my loving partner." Murmurs of "disgusting" floated from the peanut gallery.

The moderator, having collected the cards, read them and said, "Many of these questions are concerned with specific verses from scripture; there are too many for the time we have. I will rephrase the implied question and ask how do the panelists deal with the verses often used to condemn homosexuality."

To which Steve replied, "We take all of scripture very seriously. Scripture clearly condemns sexual violence and exploitation and predation. The story of Sodom and Gomorrah condemns rape. We condemn rape. Scripture does not condemn faithful and committed homosexual relationships. If we look for examples of same-sex interaction, we have scripture affirming the relationship between David and Jonathan, and Ruth and Naomi, and we affirm loving same-sex relationships." At which point the demonstrators huffed and puffed and stood themselves up and left.

By now some of you are probably wondering why the hell I'm writing about this. Like I said before, much of this column is based on my life experience. No one's holding a gun to your head telling you to read it. As for Steve's involvement-you can't argue with faith. Sure, we can expect the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) to be obnoxious, but no one seems to have picked up on the fact that this is beyond mere obnoxiousness-that along the way, the ELCA has ruthlessly stacked the deck in its favor, literally rewritten what is customarily due process, and that, plain and simple, is outright evil. You'd think a church'd have a vested interest in fairness. I mean, shit-I'm named in the charges against Steve. I'm named as an accessory. As of this writing, I can't fucking believe this story ain't on the AP wire.

HINDSIGHTS

It all comes out in the end, by Urso

La Fiesta de los Osos January 16-18 Tucson, Arizona • Photos by Urso

Who can resist escaping to the southern Arizona sun in the middle of January to commune with nature and 120 fellow furry creatures? For the second year, folks came from all over the United States, Canada, and Mexico to warm up in the Sonoran desert as the Bears of the Old Pueblo hosted La Fiesta de los Osos ("Festival of the Bears" in Spanish), during the Martin Luther King, Jr. Holiday weekend.

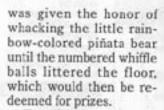

During the days, the group split off into smaller groups to erjoy southern Arizona's attractions. The smaller groups enjoyed trips to Tombstone and Bisbee or Nogales, Mexico; went to the Arizona Sonora Desert Museum; toured Biosphere 2 (the real one, not the Pauly Shore vehicle); explored Colossal Cave; visited the Arizona Historical Society Museum at Mission San Xavier del Bac; and hiked 4.2 miles through the saguaros of Sabino Canyon. Some of the exhibitionists among us were nearly caught by passing hikers as we mooned the other half of our party from across the canyon. Some of the less adventurous folks opted for the dim sum brunch, which got good marks even from the dim sum savvy San Francisco bears.

Friday evening, the bears regrouped at the host bar, the Venture-N, where the locals hosted a spaghetti and sloppy joe supper on the patio. Two main events of the weekend were Saturday night: the Fiesta Banquet at the host hotel, and the Fiesta Bear Contest at the host bar.

The Saturday evening banquet featured the comedy of Phoenix performer Nick Tarr (whose vertically-stretched face dominates the Arizona Lottery billboard just next to the host hotel). Performing as the Church Lady, no one was safe from his ridicule culminating with four attendees being chosen to perform something akin to The Spice Girls, Capping off the dinner was the popular Beat the Bruin piñata bust. One of the attendees showed off their stuff, answering some very bizarre impromptu questions, and performing randomly chosen "talents" for the audience. The talents included: impersonating three inanimate objects, singing Love Will Keep Us Together, performing a dramatic reading of U.S. states and capitals (which we found out is difficult if you can't remember any state capitals!) and flower arranging (choreographed to music, no less). No judges here—the winner was the contestant who collected the most money from the audience (funds went to the Southern Arizona AIDS Foundation). Paul Brown from San Francisco collected the most with Bob Rowe from Tucson nearly tying with him.

The Venture-N's patio was the site of the Mr. Fiesta Bear contest, certainly one of the most light-hearted bear contests ever witnessed. With Nick Tarr (as himself, this time) hosting and ad libbing, contestants

La Fiesta de los Osos '99 will be held January 15-17. They're planning to cap the event at 150 attendees to keep the event a more "down home" intimate affair compared to many of the other national events. I had a fuckin' blast this year, but I'm hoping not too many of y'all get the idea to go next year—if this review ends up crowding me out of the 150 slots next year, I'm gonna be really pissed!

BEAR

2215-R Market Street #148 San Francisco, CA 94114

Real Men. Real Sex. Real Hot.

Don't miss an issue! Subscribe Today!

BEARt The classic magazine of Naked Hairy Homo Smut that gave the Bear movement its name. Masculinity without the trappings—BEAR serves it up raw in each issue. Bimonthly.

BUNKHOUSE: Studs in spurs and Stetsons hittin' the hay hard. Bunkhouse peeks into the barns and down the backroads where hard-ridin' cowboys and ranchers do it all. Quarterly.

INTERNATIONAL LEATHERMAN: The hottest leather/SM/fetish magazine in existence. Leatherman brings you sizzling men and hot leathersex, plus vital news and information on the leather scene. No nonsense here! Bimonthly.

MACH: Begun in 1980 as "Drummer's big brother," Mach has now joined the Brush Creek family, where it is still Big Brother, and a mean sucker too. No profiles, no personals, no features; everything here is calculated to get you hard and get you off. Quarterly.

FORESKIN QUARTERLY: If you love that overhang covering his cock, then FQ is for you. Inside, you'll find erotic fiction, photos, news and personal ads—all of it by and about natural, uncut men and their admirers. In fact, if you like cock, you'll love FQ. Quarterly.

POWERPLAY: Powerplay explores the sexual underground every three months, giving you access to kinky, over-the-edge mansex—and fantasies beyond your wildest imagination. Powerplay puts you in the middle of the erotic scenes no one else will even dare to show you. Quarterly.

HOMBRES LATINOS: Celebrating sexy Latino men from all over the world through the best erotic fiction and sexiest art around. Packed with photos calientes, Hombres Latinos is the source for gay Latinos and the men who love them. Quarterly.

GBM: GBM is the serious, sexual magazine for gay African-American men and their fans. The lives (and bodies) of gay black men are exposed, explored and celebrated in photos, fiction and features every issue, Quarterly.

UNCUT GLORY Eight horny sex pigs-all hung with thick cocks and mouthfuls of chewy, dripping foreskin-get down and dirty after meeting at the infamous Folsom Street Fair. Shot at San Francisco's premiere sex club, Blow Buddies, Uncut Glory lets it all hang out with sexy superstars Trenton Comeaux and Anthony Gallo, just to name a couple. Lots of butt play, dick sucking, and foreskin worship with real men. Plus, "Uncut" means uncut-order Uncut Glory by mail and see additional scenes you won't find at your local video store!

LEATHER BUDDIES in the sequel to Uncut Glory, our foreskinned friends are joined by an insatiable pack of leathermen for a no-holds-barred fucking and sucking SM session. When hairy, newcomer-stud Frank Parker gives Chris Dano his first taste of real leathersex, the big brute Tourus and pig-bottom Brian-Mark join the fun. Order now and recieve our uncensored Leather Buddies, leaturing additional hardcore scenes. Not for the fainthearted!

DRDER Leather Buddies and Uncut Glary NOW for hardcore, XXX, uncensored action! Buy one video and get the second for half price!
